A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred with the Senate in the adoption of the following preamble and joint resolution, to-wit:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 1.

Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a Joint Committee consisting of ten members on the part of the House to be appointed by the Speaker of the House and ten members on the part of the Senate to be appointed by the President of the Senate to have charge of and make all necessary arrangements for the inauguration of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and other State officers-elect, on Monday, January 10, next, and that all necessary expense of the same be paid by vouchers signed by the Secretary of State when approved by said committee.

And I am further instructed to inform the Senate that the Speaker of the House of Representatives has appointed as such committee on the part of the House, Messrs. Brinkman, Tice, Watson, Holaday, Sawyer, Frisch, McCabe, Robert E. Wilson, Snell and Garesche.

Concurred in by the House January 5, 1921.

B. H. McCann, Clerk of the House.

A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has adopted the following preamble and joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 1.

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That the two Houses meet in joint session in the hall of the House of Representatives on Wednesday, the 5th day of January, A. D. 1921, at the hour of 1:25 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of canvassing the returns of the election for State officers, held on the 2d day of November, A. D. 1920, as required by the Constitution of this State.

Adopted by the House, January 5, 1921.

B. H. MCCANN, Clerk of the House.

On motion of Mr. Pervier, the Senate concurred with the House of Representatives in the adoption of the foregoing resolution.

At 1:25 o'clock p. m., the Senate, preceded by the President and the President pro tempore and the Secretary of the Senate, proceeded to the House of Representatives to meet in Joint Session, as provided by House Joint Resolution No. 1 adopted this day.

JOINT SESSION, 1:25 O'CLOCK P. M.

The hour having arrived, the time heretofore fixed by joint resolution adopted by the House of Representatives and the Senate, at which the returns of the election of State officers should be canvassed and published in the presence of the two Houses.

The Senate preceded by its President, President pro tempore and Secretary, appeared in the Hall of the House of Representatives, and by direction of the Speaker, took the seats assigned them.

The two Houses being convened in Joint Session, the President of the Senate announced that a quorum of the Senate was present.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives announced that a quorum of the House was present.

A majority of each House of the General Assembly being present, the Speaker of the House, pursuant to section four (4) of Article five (5) of the Constitution, proceeded to open the returns of the election held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, the same being the second day of November, A. D. 1920, for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of Public Accounts, State Treasurer and Attorney General, and to publish the same.

The returns having been duly opened and published in the presence of a majority of the members of each House of the General Assembly, the Speaker announced the result of the canvass of the votes cast at the election aforesaid, as follows:

FOR GOVERNOR.

Len Small received	1,243,148 votes

D. 1921, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

The committee heretofore appointed to wait upon the Governor appeared in the Hall of the House of Representatives accompanied by the Governor, who, after being presented to the Joint Session, personally delivered his biennial message to the General Assembly, as follows, to-wit:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

STATE OF ILLINOIS.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

Illinois is now well started upon its second century of Statehood. The transition from the old century to the new was signalized by the formulation, adoption and initiation of "The Civil Administrative Code." The administration of the government of Illinois during the past four years has revolved around this Code. As, therefore, under the requirements of the Constitution, I report to your honorable body, the condition of the State and make some recommendations which seem to me pertinent at this time, I am impelled to present both report and recommendations in the light of experience with the Code.

THE CIVIL ADMINISTRATIVE CODE.

This document, enacted by the General Assembly in 1917, constitutes a distinct contribution to political science. Illinois is the pioneer in the reconstruction of State governmental machinery. It has pointed the way for administrative reforms in other State governments. Many states have adopted, in part at least, the principles of the Code. Others are now making intensive studies of these principles and of the results achieved under them.

ADMINISTRATIVE CONDITIONS PRIOR TO 1917.

In view, therefore, of the nation-wide recognition of the Code it is appropriate to review, somewhat in detail, the principles embodied in its provisions and the policies vitalized into administration. Fully to understand the Code and its practical workings a brief reference must be made to administrative conditions which prevailed prior to 1917. In my inaugural message, commenting upon conditions as they then existed, I said:

"Administrative agencies have been multiplied in bewildering confusion. They have been created without reference to their ability economically and effectively to administer the laws. Separate boards govern the penitentiaries, the reformatories, and the educational institutions. Several boards and commissions have charge of matters affecting the agricultural interests. Administration of laws affecting labor is parceled out among numerous agencies, including several boards having jurisdiction of mining problems and several free employment agencies, each independent of the other. Our finance administration is chaotic, illogical and confused.

"The administration of the health laws is divided between boards and commissions, with no effective means of coordination. Our educational agencies are not harmonious.

"Over one hundred officers, boards, agencies, commissions, institutions, and departments are charged with the administration of our laws. No systematic organization exists, and no adequate control can be exercised. Diffusion rather than concentration and responsibility marks our system.

"One of the imperative needs of the State is the consolidation of its multiplied agencies into a few principal departments. The Governor is held responsible for the conduct of the State government. His executive functions should be discharged through a limited number of agencies over which he may exercise actual control. Under the present system of confusing perplexity, the Governor can not exercise the supervision and control which the people have a right to demand."

DIVISIONS OF CODE.

The enactment of "The Civil Administrative Code" followed. Its plan is simple, but comprehensive. It organized and consolidated the civil governmental agencies under the jurisdiction of the Governor, more than 125 in number, into nine departments, as follows:

The Department of Finance.
The Department of Agriculture.
The Department of Labor.
The Department of Mines and Minerals.
The Department of Public Works and Buildings.
The Department of Public Welfare.
The Department of Public Health.
The Department of Trade and Commerce.
The Department of Registration and Education.

Boards and commissions were eliminated, except quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative boards and advisory boards.

Quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative boards are allocated to departments as follows:

To the department of agriculture, the food standard commission;

To the department of labor, the industrial commission;

To the department of mines and minerals, the mining board, and the miners' examining board;

To the department of trade and commerce, the public utilities commission;

To the department of registration and education, the normal school board; and

To the department of finance, the tax commission (added in 1919).

Advisory boards are allocated to departments as follows:

To the department of agriculture, a board of agricultural advisors, and a board of State fair advisors;

To the department of labor, a board of State free employment office advisors, and boards of local free employment advisors;

To the department of public works and buildings, a board of art advisors, a board of water resource advisors, a board of highway advisors, and a board of parks and building advisors;

To the department of public welfare, a board of public welfare commissioners;

To the department of health, a board of public health advisors;

To the department of registration and education, a board of natural resources and conservation advisors, a board of State museum advisors, and an immigrants' commission (added in 1919).

The Code, as its name indicates, is purely an administrative measure. In its enactment it was not found necessary to disturb the substantive provisions of any law. Powers previously exercised by agencies which were abolished were simply transferred to the appropriate department.

PRINCIPLES OF THE CODE.

In its provisions are embodied the following fundamental principles of government and administration:

(1) The functions of administration, while made up of many details, are susceptible of classification into a limited number of departments.

(2) Simplicity of governmental organization is necessary to energetic, efficient, and economical administration. Such simplicity secures unity and responsibility in administration.

(3) Concentration of administrative agencies is necessary to achieve the prompt and proper functioning of executive duties and powers. Duties being centralized, responsibility can neither be evaded nor shirked.

(4) Executive functions should be discharged by a single, responsible head, vested with plenary powers of supervision and control, and accountable to the Governor alone, and not by a multiple body; for it is individuals who do things, and not boards or commissions.

(5) Quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative functions are properly discharged by boards.

(6) Energy, unity and harmony of administration within a department can be secured by vesting its responsible head with authority to prescribe by rule the duties of subordinate officers and to direct and coordinate its varied activities.

(7) Energy, unity and harmony of administration as a whole can be secured by vesting in the Governor—the supreme head of all departments—absolute and immediate control of all heads of departments.

(8) The department heads should constitute the cabinet of the Governor, through whom, at all times, the Executive may be in intimate and immediate contact with all administrative activities.

(9) In the discharge of public functions, there should be no sinecures. Full time work and full time pay are necessary for efficient public service.

(10) For the economic and efficient administration of finances, expenditures must be supervised, criticised and controlled.

(11) The revenues of the State can be administered and appropriations made with intelligence, only with full knowledge of facts which can be secured through budgetary machinery.

(12) All materials and supplies for public offices and institutions should be provided through one central purchasing agency.

ORGANIZATION WITHIN DEPARTMENTS.

Such are the outstanding basic principles embodied in the Code under which the State governmental machinery of Illinois was reorganized on July 1, 1917. Divisions within the departments were organized as follows:

In the department of finance:
Tax commission.
In the department of agriculture:
Division of game and fish.
Division of foods and dairies.
Division of plant industry.
Division of animal industry.
Division of apiary inspection.
Division of dairy extension.
Division of seed inspection.
Division of State Fair.
In the department of labor:
Division of free employment office—one for each city in which a free employment office is located.
Division of chief inspector of private employment agencies.
Division of factory inspection.
Division of industrial commission.
Division of general advisory board free employment offices.
In the department of mines and minerals:
Division of mine inspection.
Division of mine rescue.
Division of miners' examinations.
Division of economic investigation.
In the department of public works and buildings:
Division of waterways.
Division of highways.
Division of engineering.
Division of architecture.
Division of parks and monuments.
Division of purchases and supplies.
Division of printing.
In the department of public welfare:
Division of visitation and instruction of adult blind.
Division of visitation of children.
Division of pardons and paroles.
Division of welfare commissioners.
Division of charitable institutions.
Division of penal institutions.
Division of criminologists.
In the department of public health:
Division of communicable diseases.
Division of tuberculosis.
Division of diagnostic laboratory.
Division of biological and research laboratories.
Division of surveys and rural hygiene.
Division of public health and instruction.
Division of sanitation.
Division of vital statistics.
Division of lodging house inspection.
Division of social hygiene control.
Division of child hygiene and public health nursing.
In the department of trade and commerce:
Division of insurance.
Division of Chicago grain inspection.
Division of East St. Louis grain inspection.
Division of fire prevention.
Division of public utilities.
Division of standards.
Division of small loans.
In the department of registration and education:
Division of registration.
Division of State museum.
Division of natural history survey.

Division of State water survey.
Division of State geological survey.
Division of normal schools.
Division of immigrants' commission.

The work of the quasi-jduicial and quasi-legislative boards was assimilated to their respective departments. Under the Code each of such boards, in the discharge of its functions, is free from the control or supervision of the head of the department, but is subject to his control and supervision, as well as to that of the department of finance, insofar as its financial operations and expenditures are concerned. Several boards were so organized and have been so functioning.

The advisory boards were appointed shortly after the Code became effective. Their province is that of suggestion and advice and not of administration.

The form of governmental administration therefore was radically changed from the previously existing type of a highly disintegrated and decentralized organization. The transition occurred without confusion. The new order took the place of the old with the passing of a day, and without disturbing the ordinary processes of administration. The Code has been in successful operation for three and a half years. It has fully justified all the expectations of its friends. It can no longer be considered an experiment.

THE DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE.

Keystone of structure: One of the outstanding achievements accomplished under the Code is that of locating and correcting extravagance and incompetency. This was done through the department of finance.

This department is the keystone of the structure. It exercises two sets of powers: (1) It is charged with the general supervision of the finances of the State; and (2) it is required to prepare a budget.

Financial control: The department of finance was a new conception in our State government—and in that of government of any American state. Its function is to see that the government lives within its income, that unnecessary expenditures are checked, that unwise expenditures are prevented, and that policies of departments are controlled and coordinated. While other departments are imbued with the ambition to extend departmental activities, the department of finance occupies the position of sympathetic critic, proportioning expenditures so as to carry out all the administrative policies. By this means a wellbalanced administration, serving the needs of the whole State, is secured. Without it, expenditures are incapable of apportionment in accordance with the needs of the various branches of government.

Financial control occupies a large part in the activities of the department. The law charges it with the duty of examining and approving, or disapproving, of all bills, vouchers and claims against the other departments. This power compels other departments, not as a matter of law, but as a matter of administrative expediency, to consult the department of finance before any unusual expenditure is made and procure its advice. In order still further to promote coordination of expenditures as well as cooperation among departments, meetings of directors are held and financial as well as other policies are discussed. Investigations of the quantity and quality of materials and goods to be supplied, of the purpose and policy of expenditures, of the relative importance of the expenditures for various activities are made. The result of this procedure cannot be stated in dollars and cents. It does not appear upon any particular balance sheet. It is reflected in the general result, not only in unity and efficiency of administration, but in the tax levy, which, during times of mounting prices, has been reduced.

Standard accounts prescribed: Among other duties asigned to the department is that of prescribing and installing a uniform system of accounts. The task was no small one. The numerous disjointed and disconnected agencies of the government had diverse methods of accounting, both for receipts and for expenditures. Without precedent to guide, the department entered at once upon the pioneer work of constructing an accounting system for the State. Standard accounts were prescribed for all activities. These operating accounts, as modified and corrected by experience, are:

(1) Salaries and wages.
(2) Office expenses.
(3) Travel.
(4) Operation.
(5) Working capital.
(6) Repairs.
(7) Equipment.
(8) Permanent improvements.
(9) Land.
(10) Contingencies.
(11) Reserve.

Appropriation methods defective: The standard accounts when first prescribed were difficult of operation for the reason that appropriations had been made without plan or consistency. Early in the administration, the operation of the Code disclosed that the appropriation methods of the State were seriously defective. They prevented the execution of sound fiscal management and control. The faults in these methods may be summarized as follows:

(1) The purposes for which money was appropriated were described in minute detail, thus preventing any elasticity, and resulting in waste and extravagance.

(2) Appropriations were made without recognition of the fact that the ordinary expenditures of government fall within a very definite and reasonable number of logical classification items.

(3) Appropriation acts contained no consistent scheme for certification and approval before vouchers were transmitted to the auditor of public accounts for payment.

These defects, and others less glaring, caused confusion in administration as well as waste in expenditures. The construction of appropriation acts was not clear. The control of accounts and expenditures, contemplated by the Code, was not as efficient as it should be. The first two years of administration demonstrated the necessity for a finance code.

The State finance code: The reasons for the enactment of such a code were placed before the General Assembly in 1919. The value of a measure of this kind was recognized. A finance code was promptly enacted, its salient provisions being as follows:

(1) The fiscal year was changed so as to commence on the first day of July instead of on the first day of October, in order to harmonize the fiscal with the appropriation year;

(2) The funds in the treasury, general and special, were classified and described;

(3) The officers by whom vouchers are to be approved were designated with certainty;

(4) The objects and purposes for which appropriations are made were classified and standardized to conform with the standard operating accounts evolved by the department of finance;

(5) The conditions under which the several appropriations are made were prescribed and the time when appropriations shall lapse was definitely fixed.

In 1919, the General Assembly made its appropriations in conformity with the provisions of the new finance code. The results have been eminently successful. It has made possible a better working basis, a more intelligent consideration of financial problems, and has created a system of checks and reports which have tended to a clearer and more careful understanding of the needs of the State.

Lump sum appropriations: The finance code has revolutionized appropriation methods. It has made possible lump sum appropriations. Except for salaries and wages, appropriations for the various activities of the State were made in 1919 under the standardized items enumerated and defined in the finance code. A further advance may be noted in that appropriations for the charitable and penal institutions are combined, the appropriation for salaries and wages being in a lump sum. Furthermore, in order to finance the industries maintained at a number of the State institutions, a revolving appropriation, authorized by the State finance code, was made, as a result of which the State is able to ascertain the financial condition attending the prosecution of such industries.

Reserve fund appropriation: Experience has demonstrated that appropriations to departments and officers for contingent expenses have a tendency to encourage waste. A department was without effective control of the application of the moneys so appropriated. The subject was brought to the attention of the General Assembly in 1919, and, in response to the suggestions of the department of finance, departmental appropriations for contingent expenses were limited to small amounts, and in place thereof, a reserve fund of $500,000, to be used for contingencies, was placed at the disposal of the department of finance. The plan has worked well. The appropriation has been rigidly protected, only $247,888.75 having been expended therefrom up to December 20, 1920.

Transfer of funds: An experience of two years convinced the administration that efficiency and economy would be promoted if funds appropriated for a given purpose for one institution might be transferred and used for the same purpose in another institution of a similar character. After all, the charitable institutions, while operating of necessity in various parts of the State, constitute a single unit, and are administered for a single purpose. Appropriations might well be made to the department of public welfare simply for "operating expenses," for instance, for charitable institutions. The experience of this department was laid before the General Assembly in 1919, resulting in an appropriation authorizing the transfer of funds set aside for one institution to be used for similar purposes in other institutions. Under industrial conditions prevalent during the last biennium, it would have been impossible to have operated the various State institutions without the elasticity afforded by this method of utilizing appropriations, or without a special session of the General Assembly. It enabled the State to increase salaries in order that experienced persons tempted by larger salaries elsewhere might be retained. Moreover, it made possible the application of the savings of one institution to the necessities of another. Conversely where such elasticity was lacking and appropriations were specified with too great detail, the State suffered the loss of valuable workers who might have been retained by relatively small salary advances. So satisfactory has this principle or policy of appropriation worked that it might well be extended to the normal schools and to other State activities.

Trade discount: The department of finance has been alert in availing itself of the advantage of trade discounts. Over $130,000 has been saved in cash discounts alone.

Public buildings: Through the power of investigation and financial control, the department early in its work, had its attention directed to the public buildings of the State. In cooperation with the department of public works and buildings, a survey of the buildings and mechanical equipment belonging to the State was made with a view to ascertaining their repair and replacement requirements. Keeping in close and intimate contact with the physical property of the State, needed repairs were made promptly with the result that, on the whole, the public buildings are in a good state of preservation.

Previous to the enactment of the Code, appropriations for new buildings and for repairs on old buildings, were made on a haphazard basis. Favored institutions received much, while needy institutions were frequently overlooked. Money intended for repairs often was used for new quarters and new appliances. Power plants, especially, were neglected.

The survey just completed shows the exact condition of all the State's property—of each building, its size, kind of construction, condition of the floors and roofs, plumbing and heating plants, plastering and painting. Everything of importance in connection with each structure has been set forth in detail and furnished to the department for budget use.

Recommendations now made to your Honorable Body for repairs and improvements on the thirty million dollars worth of buildings owned by the State are based upon a careful and technical survey of the properties.

Budgetary control: The power to supervise the financial operations of the State suggested budgetary control. Hence, the law makes it the duty of the department of finance to prepare and submit a State budget.

The old way was for each official who expended public money to make an estimate of what he desired and to submit that direct without revision by anyone. He always asked for what he needed, and usually for more, and therefore the General Assembly, no matter how earnestly it tried to meet its duty, had to guess at the amount of appropriations.

Illinois General Assemblies, as a rule, have not been wasteful or extravagant. They have appropriated money for governmental operations as they have been advised of the needs of the State. But appropriations were not based upon knowledge of the facts or upon a comprehension of the relative needs of State activities. There was no means of acquiring an intelligent and exact knowledge either of conditions or of needs. All this is changed by the budget plan. Appropriations now are based upon knowledge of facts. In the exercise of financial control, the department daily acquired familiarity with the needs—the actual needs, not the supposed needs—of every agency. It compared the expenditure of one institution with those of another similiarly situated. It compared one activity with another. Cost accounts have been kept. A record and classification of revenue and expenditures has been maintained. Institutions have been visited and carefully inspected.

It will thus be seen that the budget in Illinois is prepared under the direction of that official who is responsible for the general supervision of the finances of the State. He is in constant contact with the administration of State affairs so far as finances are concerned. It is difficult to see how budgetary officers detach from general financial administration can acquire the information or have the prestige necessary for an intelligent budget. It is believed that the budgetary plan of Illinois is based upon the correct principle. Work on the budget now ready for submission to your Honorable Body has been in progress since July 1, 1919.

The results have been most gratifying. Weaknesses and extravagances have been revealed. Overhead expenses may be reduced to a minimum. Overlapping of duties and duplication of effort may be prevented. The relative needs of the various agencies are set forth in the light of experience.

The excellence of the first budget was attested by the fact that its recommendations were followed by the General Assembly in practically every instance. The second budget to be delivered by me to my successor in office, should be even more helpful because of the experience gained in the preparation of the first one.

Standardization of salaries: Early in my term of office the salary problem became pressing. Experience demonstrated that the method of fixing specific amounts for salaries for the performance of specific services was not conducive to sound administration. No latitude or elasticity was permitted. It was questionable whether a given employee legally could be assigned to duties other than those defined or implied in the clause making an appropriation for his salary. This defect in methods of salary appropriation, while important, was not the most serious. The defects which caused disorganization in personnel were the wide variance in amounts appropriated for the performance of duties of equal character and the lack of encouragement for competent and ambitious employees to advance in the public service. The system of detailed specific appropriations fettered the ambitious and efficient, and gave security to mediocrity and incompetence.

The principle of equal pay for equal services seems to be sound. But before this principle could be vitalized into appropriation acts or into administration, it became necessary to standardize and classify public employments according to duties and responsibilities. The department of finance entered upon this task. The problem was a tremendous one. It involved the consideration of a great mass of data. It was further complicated by the unusual situation presented by the World War. At the time of the convening of the last General Assembly sufficient data had not been procured, analyzed and classified upon which the department could with confidence make any specific recommendations for standardization and classification. The meager facts collected, together with tentative conclusions from such facts, were presented to the General Assembly in 1919, without, however, an insistence that legislation on the subject at that time be enacted.

The General Assembly, however, was impressed with the presentation then made and with the experience of lump sum appropriations heretofore made for salaries in the charitable institutions of the State, and accordingly extended the principle of such appropriations for salaries to the grants made to the University of Illinois, and to some other divisions of the State government.

As has previously been indicated, the results of appropriations of this character have been most gratifying. It has been pointed out that except for the lump sum appropriations made to the charitable and penal institutions, to the University of Illinois, and to other divisions, it would have been practically impossible, in the rapidly rising labor market, to have retained a sufficient number of employees to carry on the necessary work. The question of standardization of positions and salaries was regarded of such serious moment that provision was made by law for the appointment of a commission to work out some plan to provide equal pay for the same service and better opportunities for the faithful and intelligent employee. It is hoped that as a result of the labors of this commission, further progress may be made in the solution of this most perplexing problem.

State employment: The rule for classification, standardization, advancement and promotion in the State service must be prescribed by the General Asembly. Its administration must be committed to the executive department.

The operation of the law relative to employment in the State service, known as the civil service law, is now entrusted to a commission of three members. The functions of the execution of such a law are purely administrative. Its exercise demands prompt and vigorous action. Experience has shown that civil service laws may be administered with more energy and efficiency by a single head than by a commission. The principle of individual responsibility dominating the Code in other fields of administration raises the question whether it might not be made equally applicable to the conditions of State employment.

BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS.

Practical administration for four years has strongly confirmed my views as to the inutility of boards and commissions. Where duties are purely or largely ministerial, experience has shown that it is a man, not a body of men, who gets results. There are some who have assumed that large responsibility could be more safely vested in a body of men than in an individual. Experience has not justified this. Where the responsibility is upon the individual, he cannot shirk it. Where it is placed in a body of men, the individual can find shelter behind that body when called to account for the manner in which he has executed his power.

For the same reason there is a deadly inertia in a board or commission which is not so likely to be found in the individual. It is a true saying that "what is everybody's business is nobody's business." It is equally true that where several members of a board or commission have a given responsibility, no one of them feels that responsibility as keenly as though he bore it alone. Good and efficient public service makes it mandatory that responsibility be fixed definitely. Then only can a public official be held to a strict accountability. Responsibility can be definitely placed only if it be reposed in an individual.

EXECUTIVE COMMISSIONS UNDER THE CODE.

Executive commissions were retained in the Code only where they had quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative powers to discharge. In practice, however, administrative functions form a large part of the work of any board or commission.

If quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative boards are to be retained, a clear line of demarcation should be drawn on the one side of which the quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative powers of such board are placed and, on the other side, the executive functions. The true principle of administration is found in the amendment to the Code, made in 1919, creating the tax commission. In that amendment quasi-judicial and quasi-legislative powers only were committed to the tax commission, while all administrative duties pertaining to its work were devolved upon the head of the department of finance. There is here a separation of quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative powers from duties which are ministerial. The amendment of 1919 embodies the sound principle of government.

The time has come, however, to consider whether or not, in any case, even though there may be duties which are referred to as quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative, the principle of a board should be abandoned, and all the duties placed in an individual. All governmental experience is demonstrating that the diffusion of executive powers tends to weakness and inefficiency.

ADVISORY BOARDS.

It is true that there is wisdom in numbers, and it is likewise true that a man at the head of any great work likes the advice of other men. Acting upon the theory of cooperation on the part of citizens with public officials, the Code created advisory boards. The members receive no pay. Many of the most eminent people of the State are serving the public in this capacity. The result is, that the State has connection with the best thought and the best effort in the different lines of activity. As a matter of fact, members of advisory boards are frequently called into meeting, and their advice sought. They exert much influence upon the policies of departments. The creation of advisory boards, having no administrative powers, does not impinge upon the theory of individual responsibility for executive work.

SCIENTIFIC AND INVESTIGATORY DIVISIONS.

In the survey of State government made before the enactment of the Code, it was found that there were many scientific and investigatory agencies independent of any authority, and having circumscribed powers and duties. The General Asembly embodied in the Code a plan for their utilization. That plan, to borrow military language, is that of separation of the duties of the line from those of the staff, the line being the responsible, executive officials, and the staff being their scientific advisors. Hence the staff, consisting principally of scientific divisions, was asigned to the department of registration and education. In practice the theory of the Code has been demonstrated to be eminently sound. Scientific divisions during the last four years have been utilized by practically every department. For illustration, reference might be made to the close harmony and cooperation of these divisions with the department of agriculture in combatting insect pests, and in studying their habitat and methods of activity; with the department of public works and buildings through the topographical survey, in locating and estimating the extent and character of all available road building material of the State; with the Secretary of State in safeguarding the interests of the people in connection with "The Illinois Securities Law." Departments daily are calling upon the scientific bureaus for investigation, suggestion and advice. The scientific bureaus, being relieved of administrative responsibility, are rendering, and will continue to render, incalculable aid in administration.

COORDINATION AND COOPERATION.

The idea of coordination of work and cooperation between departments, embodied in the Code, has been frequently, if not daily applied. To recount all instances of such applications would involve a detailed review of the activities of the several departments.

CENTRALIZED PURCHASING AGENCY.

Before the enactment of the Code, each State activity was a law unto itself in the matter of purchasing materials and supplies. Millions of dollars were expended for those purposes, without any systematic policy. No reason was perceived why the State should not avail itself of the business methods employed by private institutions. Very wisely, therefore, the Code concentrated the purchasing power in a department.

The department of public works and buildings, through its division of purchases, during the last four years was subjected to as great, if not greater, strain than any other department.

Market conditions were chaotic. Scientific buying was out of the question. With no precedent to guide, the department was obliged to buy, no matter what the available supply or price.

Had the State not been able to function through a central purchasing agency during and immediately succeeding the war enormous sums would have been lost through unintelligent purchases. Without a central purchasing department, the State through its different agencies would have been competing against itself.

Three and half years' experience has demonstrated that centralized purchasing is a success. In favor of the provisions of the Code on this subject, it may be stated that:

(1) Centralized purchasing makes available to the State the services of experts in buying through coordination with the specialists of the several departments;

(2) Purchasing in large quantities instead of small secures uniformity of price and quality for the same article consumed in the different departments;

(3) It centralizes the point of contact between bidders and the State;

(4) It locates responsibility;

(5) It promotes the establishment of standards for various classes of supplies;

(6) The taking of cash discounts invites prompt deliveries, lower quotations, and reliable competition;

With the downward trend of prices for all commodities, a tremendous saving will result to the State by reason of the activities of the purchasing division.

LICENSING TRADES AND PROFESSIONS.

Prior to the enactment of the Code numerous trades, occupations and professions were licensed. Each had, for licensing and supervisory purposes, its separate board or commission. Each was independent of the other.

The Code made it the duty of the department of registration and education to exercise the functions previously performed by many boards and commissions. It was not deemed wise, however, to depart from the principle that each profession, trade or occupation should have its prospective members examined and their licenses revoked by the judgment of its own representative members. Hence, for purposes of licensure and revocation, committees of the respective professions, trades and occupations, designated from time to time by the department of registration and education, act. But all purely administrative and executive functions pertaining to the execution of the laws regulating professions, trades and occupations, are discharged by the department—an instance again of the separation of quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative functions and those purely ministerial.

THE CHARITABLE AND PENAL INSTITUTIONS.

A distinct advance was made in the conduct of the charitable institutions a few years ago when such institutions were placed under the jurisdiction of a single board of administration. A further distinct advance was made when these together with the correctional institutions, were placed in the department of public welfare, and their administration transferred to it. Experience has shown not only that the consolidation was wise but that the policy of committing administration to a department was conducive to better administration.

THE NORMAL SCHOOLS.

The earnest friends of the normal schools entertained considerable fear of the centralization of their administration into a single department. These fears have not been realized. Experience has demonstrated that the same policy by which the charitable and penal institutions were consolidated, is applicable with equal force to the normal schools. The same beneficial results have been attained through such consolidation. Unity for administrative purposes has been secured without interfering with the individuality of the several institutions.

THE WAR AND THE CODE.

In my last biennial message I said of the Code:

"It seems to me almost providential that it should have been enacted into law before war actually came. A large number of the State's most expert officials and employees were drawn upon by the government at Washington because of the exigencies of the war. The same difficulties arose in the conduct of public business, which vexed private business so much. There was necessarily much confusion. The cost of all supplies rose rapidly. Unless the more than hundred scattered agencies, which had existed theretofore, had been welded by the Civil Administrative Code into a compact and coordinate government, anything like efficient State government, during these difficult times, would have been impossible. Illinois, through the greater elasticity and efficiency of her new form of government, was able to meet every emergency of the war without an extraordinary session of her Legislature."

In that message, I did not emphasize as fully as I should the important part played by the organization provided by the Code. The elasticity and flexibility of the organization permitted the whole power of all governmental agencies to be thrown at once upon any critical problem as it arose. In time of war, not only quick decisions must be made, but quick action taken. Through the instrumentality afforded the government by the Code organization, such acts were posible.

RESPONSIBLE AND RESPONSIVE GOVERNMENT A FACT.

Responsible and responsive government has become an acomplished fact under "The Civil Administrative Code." The smallest activity of the State relates itself directly to the Governor's office under the system of organization by departments with individuals at their head. The great desideratum in government, that for every dollar expended the people should receive a dollar's worth of service, has been more nearly secured, it is believed, than ever before. Of course, under any scheme of government that may be evolved, the fuality of those who administer will determine whether good, efficient and economical administration is obtained or not. There is no form of government known to man which is self-executing. All that is claimed for the Administrative Code is that responsive and responsible government can be had under it if the officials so will.

FINANCIAL RESULTS OF THE CODE.

The enactment of the Code is justified by the financial results alone. The cost of everything increased tremendously during the last few years, and yet, notwithstanding that, the tax rate has been twice reduced. In 1917 it was fixed at 90 cents on the hundred dollars; in 1918, it was reduced to 75 cents. In 1919, the basis of taxation having been changed from one-third to one-half of the cash value, the tax rate was again reduced, to 40 cents on the hundred dollars, which was equivalent to 60 cents upon the former basis of taxation. In 1920, the rate was again fixed at 40 cents. The department of finance estimates that this rate, considering the other income of the State, will be ample to raise revenue to meet all expenses until July 1, 1922.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF STATE.

The financial condition of Illinois is excellent. Upon January 1, 1917, there was in the treasury in the general revenue fund, $307,660.74; against this there were outstanding warrants amounting to $307,131.92; therefore the available cash in the general revenue fund was $528.82; besides, there were many claims against the treasury for which warrants had not been issued. On January 1, 1918, or a year later, there was in the same fund (less outstanding warrants) $4,734,316.20; on January 1, 1919, there was (less outstanding warrants) $12,876,674.86; on January 1, 1920, there was (less outstanding warrants) $15,326,261.90, and on January 1, 1921, there was (less outstanding warrants) $15,132,658.03.

The question naturally arises whether there is need to carry so large a balance. The answer is that there remains six months of the fiscal year for which appropriations have already been made, which must be paid in large part from this fund. For, though the proceeds of the general property tax begin to be realized in April, such receipts are properly applicable only to the fiscal year beginning July 1 following.

ADDITIONAL SOURCES OF REVENUE.

Corporation franchise tax: At the last session of the General Assembly, provision was made for a franchise tax on corporations. This tax yields to the State approximately three million dollars annually instead of something like fifty thousand dollars formerly collected from these companies.

Insurance privilege tax. It had never been the policy of this State to levy a tax upon the gross premiums of insurance companies received from Illinois policy holders by non-resident insurance companies doing business in this State. It had always been urged by those companies that it was not sound public policy to levy such taxes and thereby discourage insurance. It was found, however, upon an examination of the practice of other states, that Illinois was almost the only state in the Union not levying such taxes, except where insurance companies formed an important industry in the state, such as New Jersey, and Connecticut and where therefore the state derived directly large revenues from the insurance business. It was thus seen that Illinois policy holders in such companies were contributing to the revenues of almost every state except their own. This was not deemed fair to Illinois. A law was therefore enacted in 1919 by which an annual privilege tax of 2 per cent was levied upon the gross amount of premiums received from Illinois policy holders in such companies. Under the system heretofore obtaining, there was collected from such companies during the calendar year 1918, $639,996.87. Under the present direct privilege tax during the year 1920, there was collected $2,327,289.02. This is no injustice to any one and only puts Illinois on a parity with other states.

IMPORTANCE OF TAXATION POLICIES.

There is no question but that the whole industrial structure of the future of our country is directly related to the question of taxation. In fact, when we talk about readjustment, I do not see how we can begin getting back to a normal basis—I do not see how we can handle intelligently a single one of the problems of readjustment—until we have dealt as effectively as we can with the subject of taxation. The problems of national taxation are more acute than those of State taxation. But State taxation problems are none the less important.

TAXATION PRINCIPLES RIGID.

The principles of the ad valorem tax are written rigidly into our Constitution. It is earnestly to be hoped that the Constitutional Convention may provide a scheme whereby the General Assembly will be given more latitude in the matter of providing revenues for the State.

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION ABOLISHED.

While the principles of taxation are rigidly prescribed by the Constitution, prohibiting the General Assembly from meeting taxation problems in the light of commercial and economic conditions, yet the Constitution does not prescribe the administrative agencies through which taxes may be assessed. In my last biennial message, I said:

"One of the imperative needs of the time is a general revision of our revenue laws, with radical changes in our taxing machinery. Taxation has become an intricate and complex science. A State Board of Equalization, however high its motives, finds itself ill equipped to deal with these questions. The more advanced states have already abandoned this method of taxation. With the best that they can do, the assessments they fix are merely guesses and inequality in taxation is the rule and not the exception.

"I believe that the State Board of Equalization should be abolished. Its functions should be devolved upon a central department with plenary powers of supervision and control which, with the assistance of men trained and expert on the subject of taxation and devoting their whole time to their duties, may secure a just and equitable assessment of property."

The recommendations were followed, the State Board of Equalization was abolished and its functions were devolved upon a tax commission, consisting of three members, assigned to the department of finance.

THE TAX COMMISSION.

The enactment of the law creating the tax commission was the first step in the consolidation and unification of our cumbersome tax machinery. In process of time local township assessors will be abolished, as were local township collectors, and in their places will be substituted an officer with larger territorial jurisdiction, preferably a county assessor, responsible to and under the supervision of the tax commission.

However, the first step was taken in the enactment of the tax commission law whereby the commission is made the advisor of local assessing authorities. The result will naturally ensue that, from time to time, local authorities will lean more heavily upon the central commission, and the transformation from a highly decentralized system to a moderately centralized one will be made gradually and naturally.

The Tax Commission assumed the powers of the old State Board of Equalization, with the additional power to order the reassessment of property. Like the old board, it has no assessment powers except as to the capital stock of certain corporations and a portion of the property of railroads. It equalizes the valuation of property as between counties or assessment districts.

In undertaking to fix the assessment of capital stock of corporations, the commission found that, of 1,232 corporations in Cook County assessed by the former Board of Equalization, only 726 paid any tax. There were 506 corporations assessed which were defunct. The investigation then begun has resulted in the compiling of an accurate list of live corporations, including both those under the jurisdiction of the commission and those whose capital stock should be assessed by local taxing authorities. The names of defunct corporations have been stricken from the list and, as a result, the percentage of taxes returned as uncollected has been materially reduced. For the first time in many years, the State is able to tax corporations upon an intelligent basis.

Names of mercantile and manufacturing corporations, coal mines, newspapers, and live stock companies, whose capital stock as well as tangible property must be assessed by local officials have been furnished by the commission to the supervisor of assessments and the county clerk in each county. In many instances the capital stock of these corporations was assessed in 1920 for the first time.

The full value of all the property in the State returned for tax purposes in 1919 showed an increase of $332,076,656 over the amount returned in 1918 under the board of equalization. Much of this increase was due to careful equalizing of assessments.

Through its investigators, the Tax Commission is securing statistics in the various counties showing the assessed value of real estate as compared with the actual sale value of the same property. This information is being used in the equalizing of assessments or for the purpose of ordering reassessments where deemed essential. The data will cover a period of five years beginning with 1917 so that the valuation may be estimated on an average valuation for that period.

When the State Tax Commission came into being, it found the grossest inequality of assessment in the different counties of the State. In some the cash value was as low as 30 per cent of the actual value and in others as high as 70 per cent. That meant that in some sections people were paying more than twice as much to the support of the State government in proportion to their wealth as those living in others. The commission began at once to correct these inequalities. Equality of taxation is the primary test of any system. People do not object to paying reasonable taxes for the support of their government, provided they are assured that their fellow-citizens are bearing a like just share of the burden.

In arriving at the value of railroad property for assessment purposes, the commission makes use of the valuations fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the reports on file with the Public Utilities Commission.

The commission also is rendering excellent service in instructing local taxing authorities. Conferences have been held with many of these since the commission was established and a uniform system of assessment is being worked out.

THE REVENUES AND THE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

The response of the State to the demand following the widespread quickened interest in education was prompt and generous. In order that the people who pay the taxes might themselves make local adjustments, the General Assembly enacted a law authorizing the school districts of the State to increase their rates of taxation for educational purposes one-third without submitting the question of such increase to popular vote, and authorizing an increase up to double the original rate, if approved by the people of the district. Furthermore, the proceeds of the State tax levy were so apportioned as between educational purposes and other State activities as to secure a notable advance.

In 1917 a little over 70 cents of each dollar of the State tax levy went into the revenue fund which is used for general State purposes, while a little over 28½ cents went into the educational fund. In 1919 only 35 cents from each dollar of the State tax levy was used for general State purposes, while 57½ cents went into the educational fund. In a comparison of the years mentioned, it is thus seen that of every dollar of the State taxes paid last year twice as much went into the various educational funds as in 1917, and only half as much was used for general State purposes. When it is recalled in addition that the 57½ cents of each dollar of the general taxes for 1920 devoted to educational purposes did not include appropriations for the normal schools, the vocational educational system, the education of the deaf, blind and delinquents, and the expense of the operation of the department of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the generosity of the State to education in recent years appears all the more evident.

SPECIAL TAX FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.

The law, popularly called "the mill tax" for the maintenance of the University of Illinois, was believed by the friends of the University at the time of its enactment a measure which would amply provide for its development and support. The growth of the University has been so rapid that this rate will no longer meet its needs. Either the rate should be increased sufficiently to maintain the University, or it should be abolished altogether and the University supported from the general revenues of the State. The University of Illinois has gone forward so rapidly that it has now become one of the foremost educational institutions of the world.

THE STATE AND THE ALIEN.

During the war America awoke to the fact that it had received millions of the foreign-born into the body politic without taking any steps to make these millions understand American institutions and without much effort to make them acquainted with the English language. That this was a menace to our future was at once realized by all intelligent observers. Under the stimulus of the war, steps were taken, by cooperation between employers and public officials, to correct this condition. Many of our teachers, at great sacrifice, contributed largely to this work. Through adult citizenship schools, conducted for the most part at night, rudiments in English were acquired and lessons in citizenship taught. While the last General Assembly enacted a compulsory continuation school law, whereby children under eighteen years of age, and not graduates of a high school, will ultimately be compelled to attend school during at least eight hours a week, yet immigrants may enter our industrial and political life without any preparation for the duties of citizenship.

The duty primarily rests upon the Federal government, chargeable with the subject of immigration, to follow up the immigrants, or at least to supervise their education and Americanization, and then to confer citizenship upon those only who have proven themselves worthy of it. This, however, the Federal government has neglected to do in any adequate way. It is a Federal function primarily because the Federal government, of course, is supreme over all questions of immigration. Besides, the State in itself cannot adequately protect itself, for the reason that a large proportion of the foreign immigrants is mobile—moving from one state to another.

Because the Federal government had made no adequate provision for the immigrant, the State, through the Immigrants' Commission, authorized by the last General Assembly, undertook to supply the need. This commission, assigned as an advisory body to the Department of Registration and Education, has been organized and has carried on several important investigations. Until the Federal government assumes the performance of the duties now discharged by the Immigrants' Commission, its work should be continued.

HIGHWAYS.

During the last few years, Illinois has entered upon an ambitious project for the construction and maintenance of highways. In the main it is contemplated that these highways shall be permanent, and shall be durable hard-surfaced roads. Three separate classes of highways are authorized to be constructed by the State, as follows:

(1) Highways constructed from the proceeds of the bond issue of sixty million dollars, authorized by vote of the people in 1918:

(2) State-aid roads, constructed in conjunction with the several counties of the State which meet the requirements of the law as to financial assistance; and

(3) Federal-aid roads, constructed jointly by the Federal and State authorities, and paid for equally by both authorities.

The above classification is made by law for administrative purposes only. As a matter of fact, Federal-aid roads have been constructed wholly upon highways included within the system of State bond highway. Many State-aid highways are also included within this system.

The work outlined in the act providing for a State bond issue for roads is comprehensive, contemplating the construction of highways crossing and recrossing the State, and of about forty-eight hundred miles in length.

Of the appropriation made in 1917 for State-aid roads, a balance remained unexpended in 1919, which was re-appropriated. It was thought by the department that it would be impossible advantageously to expend more than such amounts because of the extensive program already decided upon for the construction of roads provided for in the Bond Issue Act and in conjunction with the Federal government.

Federal aid of highways was agreed upon between the Federal and State authorities in 1917 for the following highways:

The National Old Trails Road, extending from the Indiana line near Terre Haute, Indiana, to East St. Louis;

The Lincoln Highway, from Chicago to Clinton, Iowa;

The Dixie Highway, from Chicago to Danville;

The Chicago-East St. Louis road, from Chicago, through Joliet, Ottawa, LaSalle, Peoria and Springfield to East St. Louis; and

The Chicago-Waukegan Road, from Chicago, through Waukegan to the Wisconsin State line.

Considering the adverse conditions under which the Department of Public Works and Buildings labored in 1919 and 1920, the showing made of completed roads of all classes is remarkable. Before contracts were let in 1919, a conference with material men was held. They were advised that whether or not road building was undertaken by the State would depend largely upon their willingness to cooperate by making reasonable prices. They met the department fairly. Contracts were let by the State department and by counties, under the supervision of the department, for a substantial mileage at an average price of $32,000 per mile. Work was begun at once and pressed vigorously.

Unexpected obstacles developed. The strike of railroad shopmen, the coal strike, and the switchmen's strike, together with the rulings of the Car Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission, deprived contractors of transportation facilities. For the reasons mentioned, the delivery of road building material was seriously curtailed in 1919. Even with this handicap, 189 miles of road were completed that year.

It was expected that more favorable conditions would prevail in 1920. Plans and specifications for an additional 1,000 miles of road were prepared. It became apparent that contracts for new construction would necessarily be made at increased cost. Bids for new construction in 1920 averaged $44,000 per mile. Road building conditions, instead of improving had constantly become worse, this being true particularly of transportation. It was evident that all that could be accomplished in the way of highway contsruction in 1920 would be the completion of roads already under contract. It was deemed, therefore, the part of wisdom to defer the letting of new contracts until those under way should approach completion, except for small sections on through highways already under contract.

Time has fully justified this course. The completion of the roads contracted for was pushed with full vigor. Material men were urged to provide supplies. Railroad executives were urged to furnish transportation facilities. Both material men and railroads cooperated. And yet, after making every possible effort towards the completion of the contracts for hard surfaced roads, the season of 1920 ended with 198 miles unfinished.

Illinois notwithstanding this built 341 miles in 1920 and built more miles of modern, high class roads in 1919 and 1920 than any other state, except possibly Pennsylvania.

With the roads already constructed and the one hundred and ninety-eight miles already under contract and which can be completed without the issue of any bonds, there will be more than 800 miles of the State Bond Issue System, or more than one-sixth of that system, constructed without resorting to the issue of bonds. Included in this construction will be two first-class hard roads across the State from east to west, one from Chicago north to the Wisconsin line, one south from Chicago to connect with the National Trail at Marshall, and one southwesterly and southerly from Chicago through Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, and Springfield, to East St. Louis.

The utility of good roads has passed beyond the realm of discussion. The problem is now one of construction. So popular have hard roads become that the people are severely critical of any unnecessary delays. In view of this fact, the completion of Federal-aid and State-bond-aid roads, together with State-aid roads, will be pushed with vigor.

ROAD PATROL.

Several hundred miles of modern roads have been completed, and many hundred miles more soon will be added. This means not only better and cheaper transportation for rural communities, but it also exposes them to injuries by the lawless. For, with the automobile and the modern road, the criminal may now commit his depredations in a rural community with greatly increased chance of escape. The time has come, therfore, when a rural police force is greatly needed in Illinois. There are additional reasons for such a force. The State system of good roads must be patrolled to see that the State law with reference to speed and with reference to the kind of truck that may be used under the law shall be enforced. This State force could also inspect such roads, reporting promptly any slight defect which by neglect might result in serious injury to the roads. It also could discover those who are using cars and trucks without license, and thus add greatly to the receipts of the State from this source. The Secretary of State estimates that a half million dollars annually might be recovered by such a patrol. Indeed it is not too much to expect that such a force might save directly to the State what it would cost to maintain it, to say nothing of the greater security afforded to the lives and property of our people. I, therefore, strongly urge the creation of such a force.

LOCAL ROAD ADMINISTRATION.

Our system of highway administration, like many other administrative agencies, is highly diffused and decentralized. Until a few years ago the township was the only unit. The tendency, however, during the last few years, has been towards centralized administration. The first step was taken in the creation of a highway commission. It acted simply as the adviser of the local authorities. Out of the experience of the highway commission came a revision of the Road and Bridge Act, and the system of State-aid roads. The institution of this system forcibly suggested wider local administration and hence a county highway engineer was provided for. Finally in 1917, the number of highway commissioners was reduced from three to one. All these laws have been steps in the right direction, but they do not go far enough. In these days of automobile transportation, the township has become relatively smaller than was a section of land when the law providing for township highway commissioners was enacted. For modern purposes, a road wholly within the township begins nowhere and leads nowhere. It is also true that such fragmentary roads as are built under authority of township commissioners are not kept in proper repair. The building of good roads necessitates their maintenance. Maintenance is practically only by such supervision as the county and the State authorities can give them. There is nothing to which the old adage "a stitch in time saves nine" applies more emphatically than to the repair of roads.

I, therefore, recommend that township commissioners be abolished and that their powers be transferred to a larger unit of administration. The county, not the township, is the natural unit for road construction and maintenance, and, if the constitution does not make it impracticable, it should be the unit for road administrative purposes.

THE ILLINOIS WATERWAY.

If unforseen contingencies do not arise, the Illinois waterway should be an accomplished fact within three years.

In 1908 the people voted in favor of a bond issue of $20,000,000 for the construction of a waterway from Lockport to Utica. In 1913 a waterway act was passed which, on account of the objections urged against it by Federal authorities, was found to be inadequate. Based upon experience under the act of 1913, a comprehensive waterway act was enacted in 1919. At the same time an act was passed providing for the issue of bonds of the State to the amount of $20,000,000, and another act was passed appropriating the proceeds of the sale of the bonds for the construction of the waterway.

Upon the passage of this act preliminary maps and plans were prepared. Formal application was made to the United States Chief of Engineers for approval, and to the Secretary of War for a permit for construction. Many conferences were had between the State officials and the officials of the Federal government. Data and minor details were from time to time furnished the Federal authorities, at their request. Conferences and negotiations delayed governmental action. On January 6, 1920, a permit for construction was issued by the Secretary of War. This permit contained conditions not satisfactory to the State. A further hearing was had, which resulted in changing and modifying the permit, this being done under date of March 6, 1920.

Preparation of detailed plans was commenced immediately and was pushed energetically. The first plans completed were for a lock and auxiliary channel at Marseilles. In November plans for the lock and foundation for the dam at Starved Rock were completed. Plans for a dam and lock at Dresden Island are nearly completed and the other plans are well under way.

Between Marseilles and Starved Rock most of the necessary land has been procured by agreement with the owners. Above Marseilles, although negotiations for the necessary land and dam sites have been carried on for a considerable length of time, no substantial progress has been made. It is now evident that it will be necessary for the State to acquire riprarian rights by condemnation.

A contract for the lock and auxiliary channel at Marseilles has been let at a price slightly above the engineer's estimate. The bids for the lock and the foundation for the dam at Starved Rock were excessively high. There were only two bidders, one bid being about $500,000 and the other about $2,000,000 over the engineer's estimate. Both bids were rejected.

In June, 1920, the district court of the United States entered a decree restricting the flow of water to be taken from Lake Michigan by the Sanitary District of Chicago to 4,167 cubic feet per second, as fixed in the original temporary permit issued to the Sanitary District by the Secretary of War. Even if this decree shall be affirmed, the result will not in any manner interfere with the navigation of the waterway.

A problem of increasing importance closely associated with waterway work is presented in the pollution of streams by sewage disposal of municipalities, as well as by the discharge of waste from industries. Many streams of the State, in addition to the Illinois river, which for years afforded opportunity for fish propagation and yielded food products worth large amounts annually are so polluted and defiled that all fish life has been killed. How to ameliorate this condition is a problem to which great attention is now being given by the Division of Waterways.

A PROFITABLE AGRICULTURE.

The recent radical decline in the prices of farm products—in many instances below the cost of production—emphasizes the need and importance of cooperation between agricultural interests, either in the form of farm bureaus, which at this time are voluntary organizations, or otherwise. While farm bureaus should be generously encouraged, yet they derive their great vitality from the fact that they are, in the main, supported by the farmers themselves, and thus are removed from any suspicion of ulterior interest of any party or faction. Through the efforts of these farm bureaus, the farmers are materially assisted in a better agriculture, in the purchase of supplies and in the marketing of their products.

It is generally recognized that something must be done to stabilize the price of farm commodities and to prevent such price from falling below the cost of production. Agriculture is still our great fundamental industry. Unless it flourishes nothing prospers. Let the price which the farmer receives for his output continue below the cost of production for any considerable length of time and the volume of farm produce will fall below the needs of the nation, and prices will become abnormally high. Therefore, the consumer is no less interested than the producer in a profitable agriculture.

FARM TENANTRY.

I directed the attention of the last General Assembly to the constantly increasing number of farms tilled by tenants. Such a condition is not wholesome for the country. There is no better measure of the real strength of our nation than the number of homes owned by their occupants. This is particularly true as applied to the farm. A commission to investigate and report upon this subject was authorized at the last session of the General Assembly. That commission was appointed. It has held many hearings in different parts of the State and has formulated a report which will be submitted to your Honorable Body for consideration.

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE.

To the Department of Labor has been committed the delicate task of administering the laws involving the relations between employer and employee. This task was rendered the more difficult on account of the abnormal conditions through which the country has just passed when their relations were strained to the utmost. Unwise administration would have been a menace to our industrial structure.

The policy was adopted, therefore, of keeping in close and intimate contact with both employer and employee and of urging that a spirit of fairness, justice and right should prevail in all controversies.

Employers and representatives of labor were brought into council with State officers. Illinois inaugurated the movement to "settle the strike before it begins." In a series of meetings both employers and workers were assured that each would have a "square deal"—but not at the expense of the other. The spirit of conciliation prevailing numerous conferences of this type permeated the State.

When the Administrative Code was enacted the old State Board of Arbitration was abolished and its duties were transferred to the Industrial Commission. That body was created to fix compensation to injured employees, under the compensation act. It was composed of five members, two of whom were required to be selected from the employer class and two from the employee class, with the chairman representing the public. It was thought that being already engaged in adjusting compensation between employer and employee, sitting constantly for that purpose, it would be in a better position to gain the confidence of parties to a strike than would a body constituted for the sole purpose of mediation and conciliation. Experience had demonstrated that, though composed of representatives of both employer and employee, they rarely, if ever, divided their judgments upon that line. Results secured have abundantly justified expectations.

The law permits "advisory intervention" only in case of strikes and then only upon the consent of the parties to allow the State mediator and conciliator to intervene. Two mediators were provided for and appointed to act under the general direction of the industrial commission. Seventy-four strikes involving 62,360 men have been settled to the satisfaction of both parties through such intervention. More strikes have been amicably avoided and adjusted through its efforts in the three and a half years since the powers of the old State Board of Arbitration were transferred to it than by the old board in the more than twenty-two years of its existence.

LIMITATION OF HOURS FOR WOMEN WORKERS.

In my inaugural address and in messages to the General Assembly since, I called your attention to the need for further limiting of the hours of labor for women. Under our laws, women are permitted to work ten hours a day. By your authority a commission was appointed by me in 1917 to investigate and report upon this subject. This commission, composed of men and women in every way competent, made a report, finding that eight hours work a day was all that women could safely do, and recommending legislation so limiting the hours of work. The hours of labor and the working conditions for women should be such as not to prevent them from becoming the mothers of strong, vigorous children if our future is to be secure. Again, I urge that legislation be enacted restricting the hours for women in this State.

CONSERVATION.

The great principle of conservation has had abundant illustration in administration during the last four years. It has found expression in measures for the protection of life, property and products. The several departments, either working with their own forces or in cooperation with other agencies organized for similar endeavor or particularly interested in a special field, have accomplished much.

Careful attention has been given to the repair and upkeep of the State parks and substantial improvements have been made in connection with the monuments and historic places. Among these may be mentioned the old State capitol at Vandalia, title to which was acquired under the provisions of a law enacted by the last General Assembly. A marked betterment has been made at Douglas Monument Park and a custodian has been placed in charge, so that it may hereafter be properly maintained. Fort Chartres has been partially restored. Starved Rock State Park, by reason of the care and attention given to it, is becoming each year more popular as a resort. Old Salem State Park has been taken over by the State and the erection of a museum at that point is well under way. The collections of the State Museum of Natural History have been enriched through the addition of several notable monumental groups, through well selected and exceptionally valuable exhibits relating to the World War, and through an unusual increment of miscellaneous material illustrative of Illinois natural history and archaeology.

Through the cooperation of the Department of Agriculture and of Registration and Education with interested citizens, energetic efforts have been made to check the ravages of insect pests and the destructive effects of plant growths such as the flag smut on wheat. Investigations have also been furthered seeking to find ways by which the streams of the State may be protected from pollution and their fish and vegetable life preserved. Steps have been taken looking to the protection of the existing forests of Illinois and toward the ultimate forestation of those areas in the State better adapted to tree planting than to any other form of production.

Important as such things are, when economic values are considered, of far greater concern are the measures which have been taken to safeguard human life. The Department of Mines and Minerals through rigid inspection has reduced the death rate from mine disasters in Illinois to an exceptionally low figure. The Department of Labor has sought constantly for those protective features connected with employment which make for better sanitation and increased longevity. The Department of Registration and Education has enforced the various practice acts relating to trades, occupations and professions, with vigor. It has toned up the practice in several professions through closer supervision of those holding licenses. It has established and put into effect the principle of a qualifying certificate as a prerequisite of admission into a professional school. It has carried on more rigid inspection of professional schools, all these measures cooperating to safeguard the interests of the people. The Department of Public Health has directed and stimulated the work of many health agencies, and through cooperation and coordination has avoided wasteful duplication of effort. In combatting communicable diseases, and particularly two epidemics of influenza, in establishing clinics for the diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis and for the physical reconstruction of crippled children, and in the encouragement of health work in local communities, the department through modern preventive medicine has worked steadily toward the decrease of morbidity and mortality in Illinois.

PUBLIC WELFARE.

The accomplishments of the Department of Public Welfare have practically worked a complete revolution in methods of administration of the dependent, delinquent and defective classes of our people. In my inaugural address I pointed out that the defectives of society were increasing in number in proportion to the entire population, and that if this increase were to continue indefinitely we should some day reach a point where the burden of caring for them would be too heavy to be borne. I urged, therefore, the necessity of discovering and applying preventive and curative methods. This has been the constant aim of the Department of Public Welfare. The outstanding evidence of progress in this direction is the great State hospital for education and research, now building in Chicago, under a practical cooperating agreement between the State University College of Medicine and the Department of Public Welfare by means of which all of the State's facilities for study and investigation into the leading incapacitating diseases are directed at the vital point of rehabilitation and of prevention. This cooperative plan between these two important functions is something new in the country and is attracting attention of all states. New hospitals and colonies have been opened, organized and filled to capacity. Occupational therapy has been established on a comprehensive basis to restore mental patients to clean, profitable existence, and social science has been organized to return mental patients to free life and to sustain them there. The ideal of State charitable service has been to furnish the mentally sick a hospital service comparable with that provided the physically sick in a private hospital of general admission; to transform these big institutions to the character of a simple community; to educate, train and correct the wayward child and to insure to the waif the chances and pleasures in life that are inseparable from the natural home. Outpatient mental clinics have been established at a number of points and have met with instant favor on the part of the public. A special surgical service has been organized to provide for every inmate requiring such attention. Better organization, training and supervision of the blind, both juvenile and adult, has been achieved. A comprehensive penal system has been inaugurated for the State. There has been rigid discrimination among prisoners with the definite purpose of aiding the large number who may be saved to society and to useful endeavor. Toward this end a progressive merit system has been instituted and developed. A modern prison, built on most approved lines, is in process of construction. The parole has been employed with such wisdom that its administration has received the praise of all interested authorities.

PUBLIC UTILITIES.

The Public Utilities Commission, now within the jurisdiction of the Department of Trade and Commerce, was established under an act of the General Assembly effective January 1, 1914. During its first four years it is estimated that, by reduction in rates made with its approval, it saved to the patrons of public utilities in this State, $5,825,000. This was accomplished in spite of the outbreak of the World War and the subsequent American participation. During practically the entire period of its existence the commission has been compelled to solve not only the usual problems which concern an enterprise newly created, but also extraordinary problems of an ever changing character. The effect of the war in its relation to public utilities was not seriously felt during the first few months that it raged, but soon the prices of materials increased, the price of coal advanced, the cost of the necessities of life increased, and correspondingly carried with it the price of labor, all of which vitally affected both construction and operation costs. The commission was called upon in many instances, particularly after the declaration of war by the United States, to increase the rates charged for the services rendered by the public utilities if they were to continue efficiently to function in the performance of their duties to the public. Contrary to all expectations the cessation of hostilities in November, 1918, did not retard the advance in prices, but they continued to increase until a very recent period. There are now many indications that the peak in prices has been reached and that in the absence of unusual disturbances they will gradually approach the level of prices obtaining prior to the war. Should this prediction prove to be correct we may reasonably expect that, so far as rates are concerned, the time of the commission will be as fully occupied in the near future in passing upon applications for the reduction of rates as in the past two years it has been in hearing applications for increases. Were the power to regulate rates by commission abandoned at this time, schedules would be left in effect for an indefinite period, which for the most part, were fixed at a time when the peak in prices of labor, materials and supplies entering into the cost of production was reached.

ILLINOIS AND THE WAR.

During the past four years there has been fought the great World War. The citizenship of Illinois may point with commendable pride to the record of our State in this war. Our total registration was 1,575,932; our total induction 188,010. The additional voluntary enlistments in the National Guard, Army, Navy and Marines were sufficient to raise the grand total of enlistment and inductions in this State to the number of 351,153. The fine achievement of the two thousand and fifty-five citizens functioning as board members under the Adjutant General in the operation of the Selective Service Act will be appreciated when it is considered that they were called from their business vocations to do work for which there was no precedent and which was begun without time for study and preparation; when their success in quickly familiarizing themselves with the technical details involved in the coordinate work necessary in the critical task confronting them is remembered; and when the unexpected length of their time of service, their faithfulness in the discharge of their duties, and the tremendous volume of work they accomplished are recognized.

With the call into Federal service of the National Guard of the State at the beginning of the war it became at once necessary to provide for a military establishment within the State to preserve order so essential to Illinois' great share in winning the war. This necessity met with the immediate response of patriotic citizens. Illinois was the first State in the Union to have an organized and equipped military force for home protection following our entry into the war. These organizations functioned in such manner throughout the war as to call forth the highest commendation and expression of appreciation. The efficiency of this force may be measured by the fact that it successfully met every call to active duty and its very presence during these troublous days made it possible for Illinois to conduct its affairs in an orderly fashion without having to call upon the Federal government for assistance as was the case in some of our sister states.

The public mind of the State was organized for every war need through the State Council of Defense which was established by an act of the General Assembly as a part of the national program for carrying on the war. This council was authorized

(1) To cooperate with and assist the Council of National Defense in the performance of all its duties, then existing or afterwards imposed.

(2) To cooperate with councils of defense of other states.

(3) To carry out within Illinois such plans of national defense as might be mutually agreed upon by the Council and the Council of National Defense.

(4) To recommend to the Governor and the General Assembly laws necessary to the common defense of the public welfare.

Through the various activities of this Council hundreds of thousands of our citizens were affected. The contributions to various war aid and relief organizations made by our people exceeded $45,000,000. The subscriptions to Government needs through the purchase of bonds and war savings stamps aggregated $1,650,000,000. The Council may be said to have set the pace for other state councils and for the Federal government itself in respect to the following:

(1) Declaration for Federal control of basic commodities, especially food, fuel and transportation.

(2) Intensive cultivation of patriotism by neighborhoods and communities as represented by the Council's Neighborhood Committee.

(3) Fostering the beginnings of the Four Minute Men.

(4) Development of a definite food production program for the entire State.

(5) The seed corn campaign which saved the Illinois corn crop of 1918 and helped other states.

(6) Definite promotion of, and cooperation with, the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve and formation of farm labor bureaus to insure both the planting and harvesting of the great war crop of 1918.

(7) Organized effort by states and lesser units to conserve money, materials and man power for the necessities of essential war industries.

(8) Providing machinery for supplying shorthanded Federal government departments with sorely needed civilian help, particularly the technically trained.

(9) Coordination of highway transport by motor truck with interurban electric lines.

(10) Definite utilization of the Fourth of July for patriotic and Americanization purposes.

(11) Coordination and cooperation—Complete team work—among all organizations doing any kind of legitimate war work in Illinois under either the Council or other recognized authority.

The several departments cooperated heartily in the support of the nation. The Department of Public Health rendered valuable aid in creating the medical personnel of exemption boards for the selective draft; in policing and assuming sanitary supervision of the zones surrounding the several camps and cantonments within the State; in securing examination, care and treatment for hundreds of returned tuberculous soldiers before any other relief agencies were ready to function; and in giving to the Federal service technicians capable and ready to assume responsible posts over seas. The Department of Registration and Education through its scientific surveys made thorough investigations of the mineral resources of Illinois as they related themselves to war activities, and a survey of the water supplies and the means of sewage disposal in the zones surrounding military camps. It cooperated with the Department of Agriculture in special care for the protection of the growing crops essential to the world's sustenance. It contributed several of its noted scientists to military and administrative service.

The materials for the history of the participation of Illinois are being collected through several channels. Part of the story has already been prepared and published. In the course of the next few years the collected facts will be properly interpreted by skilled writers so that we shall have for our posterity a record of loyalty and patriotism which shall add greatly to the fame of Illinois.

RE-ORGANIZATION OF NATIONAL GUARD.

At the present time the Adjutant General is engaged in the reorganization of the National Guard for Federal recognition. As was to be expected, following the close of the great war, this task has been a somewhat difficult one and the coordination of State and Federal forces presents problems of adjustment which require both tact and experience in handling. This organization work is now progressing in a very satisfactory manner and the consumation of the work as now planned will undoubtedly result in a military establishment superior to any we have had in the past.

The soldiers from Illinois in the Great War were found upon every battle-front of Europe. They greatly distinguished themselves and brought new luster to their State. Both officers and men are manifesting a genuine interest in the reorganization of the National Guard. The officers selected are principally from those who have proven themselves in the actual command of men in war. The result should be a better trained, a better disciplined, and a more effective force than we have ever had.

The fact that there is an efficient, well trained and well disciplined force of State troops in itself precludes the necessity of its frequent use in the preservation of order. These last years, as everyone knows, have been years of wide fluctuations in the wages of working men and of much unrest. During the war production was carried on at a feverish place and of necessity many men were used who would have been regarded undesirable employees in normal times. Notwithstanding this, during my term of office it has been found necessary to employ troops in labor disturbances but seldom and then for short periods only. This was due in part to the excellent work of the mediators acting under the direction of the Industrial Commission and to the practice of bringing representatives of the employees and employers into frequent personal contact. It was also due in a measure to the policy adopted in the beginning of the administration of close cooperation with the civil authorities of the State in the maintenance of order. At the first signs of disorder we put ourselves in communication with the civil authorities of the municipality and urged upon them that their real and lasting security depended upon themselves and their own efforts and not upon assistance rendered by soldiers. We induced them to organize themselves as deputy sheriffs, or otherwise, under the direction of their sheriff to preserve order within their own midst. We explained to them that it was practically within their own power to protect themselves against any ordinary danger which threatened. We pointed out that only in this way would the community gain confiidence in itself and thereby secure more effectually its own future. In instance after instance where municipalities thought at first they needed the presence of troops, they found that by prompt action themselves it was not difficult to maintain order, and they expressed satisfaction afterwards that we had pointed out the way by which they could care for themselves.

SELF-GOVERNMENT GUARANTY OF STABILITY.

Successful self-government in even the smallest political unit is the only guaranty of successful self-government in a great country such as ours. There are many evidences that this type of government is breaking down in America. More and more frequently, the village, the town, the city, finds that it cannot maintain order without outside help. This is one of the gravest symptoms of the times. Whenever a town permits the due and orderly processes of government to be interrupted by a mob, that town is no longer an asset, but becomes a liability to the republic. For, multiply that town by a sufficient number and a situation develops in which only the army can rule. No self-governing country was ever yet ruled successfully by force of arms. The primary duty of every political division, no matter how small, is to keep its own house in order. In these days, when disorder threatens, men are too prone to call for soldiers. Soldiers will always be needed and must be used, if they are the only means to maintain the law.

For, at whatever cost, the law must remain supreme. In every nation, there must be someone or something supreme, to whom or to which all must yield obedience. Whoever does violence to the law is laying profane hands upon the sovereignty of the people. Let it be remembered, however, that every time in any community outside force is employed, it is a confession of weakness in the foundations, in fact, of our institutions. The municipality must learn to govern itself when lawlessness appears. A nation is secure against foreign foes only when every able-bodied man within its borders is willing, if need be, to put on his country's uniform. A nation is secure against domestic enemies only when every citizen is willing, if need be, to become a peace officer of his community.

EXECUTIVE EXPENDITURES.

For a statement of expenditures made by me for this department from funds subject to my order, your attention is directed to the biennial report of the Auditor of Public Accounts. Vouchers for all such expenditures have been filed in the Auditor's office.

LEGISLATIVE COOPERATION

In my inaugural address, I invited the cooperation of the legislative branch of the government. I believed that no administration of public affairs could be successful except through the hearty cooperation of all constitutional branches of the government. How generously the General Assembly responded to that suggestion of united effort is indicated by an examination of the notable legislation of the past four years.

And so at the end of my term, I think I may say that there never has been more complete accord between the General Assembly and the Governor than has obtained during the last four years. We have worked together during that time in a spirit of comradeship, seeking, as I believe, only what was best for the public. I cannot leave office without expressing my heartfelt thanks to the General Assembly for its earnest, generous efforts to bring about that accord.

PRIDE IN STATE PERSONNEL.

My fellow officials and employees of the State have earned the gratitude of the people of Illinois for their faithful, devoted services during these years of stress. They have been subjected to the high cost of living in the same measure as those in private employment. However, their salaries have not increased at all or if increased, not in proportion to those in private life. Despite this, I think I may say that from the heads of departments down there never has been a period in our history in which more efficient, disinterested service has been rendered to the people than in this period just closed. To me personally it has been a source of great gratification and pride to have been permitted to be a co-laborer with this fine body of men and women. The spirit which has animated them has seemed to be that of earnest desire to be of the greatest possible service to the people of Illinois. It is very hard for me to bid them good-bye. But official association has ripened into friendship. And while official association is now being severed, I am happy in the thought that the friendship will remain.

CONCLUSION.

I am deeply grateful to the people of Illinois for the opportunity they have given me of serving this great State. I am grateful for the sympathy and confidence they have ever manifested toward me during these difficult years.

The record of my administration is now closed. It must await the test of time. The hurrying years will bring the ripe judgment of history. When that is rendered, I should indeed be glad if I might know that I had added something to the "wondrous story" of Illinois.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK O. LOWDEN, Governor

On motion of Mr. Shanahan, 10,000 copies of the Governor's Message were ordered printed, 5,000 copies for the use of the House and 5,000 copies for the use of the Senate.

At the hour of 2:47 o'clock p. m., Mr. Shanahan moved that the Joint Assembly do now rise.

And the motion prevailed.

The Senate thereupon returned to the Senate Chamber and resumed the consideration of business.

A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has adopted the following preamble and joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 2.

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That when the two Houses adjourn today they stand adjourned until Monday, January 10, 1921, at 11:00 o'clock a. m.

Adopted by the House January 5, 1921.

B. H. MCCANN, Clerk of the House.

On motion of Mr. Turnbaugh, the Senate concurred with the House of Representatives in the adoption of the foregoing resolution.

At 3:10 o'clock p. m., on motion of Mr. Barr, the Senate adjourned to the date named in the foregoing resolution.

MONDAY, JANUARY 10, 1921, 11:00 O'CLOCK A. M.

Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Hon. John G. Oglesby, Lieutenant Governor and President of the Senate, presiding.

Prayer by the Chaplain.

The President of the Senate announced that he had examined the Journal of Wednesday, January 5, 1921, and found no corrections to make, and unless some Senator had corrections to offer, the Journal would stand approved. No corrections being offered the Journal was ordered to stand approved.

Executive Communications.

The following communication was read and ordered to lie on the President's table:

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. President—I am directed by the Governor to lay before the Senate the following communication:

State of Illinois,
Executive Department.
Springfield, January 10, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

I am transmitting for the consideration of your Honorable Body copy of a communication from the Director of the Federal Board for Vocational Education under date of November 26, 1920, and also a copy of House Resolution No. 4438 of the 66th Congress, being "An Act to provide for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry or otherwise and their return to civil employment."

Because of the lack of a State appropriation which might be used to match an allotment of Federal funds for the year ending June 30, 1921, and because of the near approach of the session of the General Assembly at the date of the reception of the letter mentioned, it did not seem to me advisable to accept the provisions of this Act for Illinois under the alternative plan by which such executive action might be taken during the legislative recess.

Respectfully submitted,

Frank O. Lowden, Governor.

[Copy.]

FEDERAL BOARD FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATION.
(200 New Jersey Avenue, Northwest.)

Washington, November 26, 1920.

Honorable Frank O. Lowden, Governor, Springfield, Illinois.

My Dear Governor: I am calling your attention to the Act providing for the rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry, copy of which I enclose. You note it provides for cooperation between the Federal Government and the states in the retraining for suitable civil employment of persons who have been disabled in industry. The provisions can either be accepted by the Governor or Legislature. If accepted by the Governor the Legislature must ratify the Governor's action within sixty days after it convenes.

The point I am making with you is that unless the State of Illinois accepts the Act prior to the first of January and the certification is made to the Treasury Department to that effect, Federal appropriations for the year ending June 30, 1921, are not available. On the other hand, if you accept the provisions of the Act and the Legislature does not ratify your action within sixty days after it meets, you will have done your part and the responsibility for not ratifying it will rest upon the Legislature and not upon you.

I am sure that Mr. F. G. Blair, the executive officer of the State Board for Vocational Education, through which the Federal Government must work, or the Director of the State Board, will give you any information which you may desire, or I shall be very glad to furnish you with such information.

So far, twenty-six states have accepted the Act, six by action of the Legislature and twenty by action of the Governor. The Federal board is ready to furnish any information which you may desire and will, if you wish, have a representative call on you at your convenience for the purpose of giving you any further details which you may desire.

Very truly yours,

Enc. (Signed) UEL W. LAMKIN, Director.

[PUBLIC—No. 236—66TH CONGRESS.]
[H. R. 4438.]

AN ACT To provide for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry or otherwise and their return to civil employment.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That in order to provide for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry or in any legitimate occupation and their return to civil employment there is hereby appropriated for the use of the States, subject to the provisions of this Act, for the purpose of cooperating with them in the maintenance of vocational rehabilitation of such disabled persons, and in returning vocationally rehabilitated persons to civil employment for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, the sum of $750,000; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and thereafter for a period of two years, the sum of $1,000,000 annually. Said sums shall be allotted to the States in the proportion which their population bears to the total population in the United States, not including Territories, outlying possessions, and the District of Columbia, according to the last preceding United States census: Provided, that the allotment of funds to any State shall not be less than a minimum of $5,000 for any fiscal year. And there is hereby appropriated the following sums, or so much thereof as may be needed, which shall be used for the purpose of providing the minimum allotment to the States provided for in this section, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, the sum of $46,000; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and annually thereafter, the sum of $34,000.

All moneys expended under the provisions of this Act from appropriations provided in section 1 shall be upon the condition (1) that for each dollar of Federal money expended there shall be expended in the State under the supervision and control of the State board at least an equal amount for the same purpose: Provided, that no portion of the appropriation made by this Act shall be used by any institution for handicapped persons except for the special training of such individuals entitled to the benefits of this Act as shall be determined by the Federal board; (2) that the State board shall annually submit to the Federal board for approval plans showing (a) the kinds of vocational rehabilitation and schemes of placement for which it is proposed the appropriation shall be used; (b) the plan of administration and supervision; (c) courses of study; (d) methods of instruction; (e) qualification of teachers, supervisors, directors, and other necessary administrative officers or employees; (f) plans for the training of teachers, supervisors, and directors; (3) that the State board shall make an annual report to the Federal board on or before September 1 of each year on the work done in the State and on the receipts and expenditures of money under the provisions of this Act; (4) that no portion of any moneys appropriated by this Act for the benefit of the States shall be applied, directly or indirectly, to the purchase, preservation, erection, or repair of any building or buildings or equipment, or for the purchase or rental of any lands; (5) that all courses for vocational rehabilitation given under the supervision and control of the State board and all courses for vocational rehabilitation maintained shall be available, under such rules and regulations as the Federal board shall prescribe, to any civil employee of the United States disabled while in the performance of his duty.

SEC. 2. That for the purpose of this Act the term "persons disabled" shall be construed to mean any person who, by reason of a physical defect or infirmity, whether congenital or acquired by accident, injury, or disease, is, or may be expected to be, totally or partially incapacitated for remunerative occupation; the term "rehabilitation" shall be construed to mean the rendering of a person disabled fit to engage in a remunerative occupation.

SEC. 3. That in order to secure the benefits of the appropriations provided by section 1 any State shall, through the legislative authority thereof, (1) accept the provisions of this Act; (2) empower and direct the board designated or created as the State board for vocational education to cooperate in the administration of the provisions of the Vocational Education Act, approved February 23, 1917, to cooperate as herein provided with the Federal Board for Vocational Education in the administration of the provisions of this Act; (3) in those States where a State workmen's compensation board, or other State board, department, or agency exists, charged with the administration of the State workmen's compensation or liability laws, the Legislature shall provide that a plan of cooperation be formulated between such State board, or agency, and the State board charged with the administration of this Act, such plan to be effective when approved by the Governor of the State; (4) provide for the supervision and support of the courses of vocational rehabilitation to be provided by the State board in carrying out the provisions of this Act; (5) appoint as custodian for said appropriations its State Treasurer, who shall receive and provide for the proper custody and disbursement of all money paid to the State from said appropriations. In any State the Legislature of which does not meet in regular session between the date of the passage of this Act and December 31, 1920, if the Governor of that State shall accept the provisions of this Act, such State shall be entitled to the benefits of this Act until the Legislature of such State meets in due course and has been in session sixty days.

SEC. 4. That the Federal Board for Vocational Education shall have power to cooperate with State Boards in carrying out the purposes and provisions of this Act, and is hereby authorized to make and establish such rules and regulations as may be necessary or appropriate to carry into effect the provisions of this Act; to provide for the vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons and their return to civil employment and to cooperate, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act, with such public and private agencies as it may deem advisable. It shall be the duty of said board (1) to examine plans submitted by the State boards and approve the same if believed to be feasible and found to be in conformity with the provisions and purposes of this Act; (2) to ascertain annually whether the several States are using or are prepared to use the money received by them in accordance with the provisions of this Act; (3) to certify on or before the 1st day of January of each year to the Secretary of the Treasury each State which has accepted the provisions of this Act and complied therewith, together with the amount which each State is entitled to receive under the provisions of this Act; (4) to deduct from the next succeeding allotment to any State whenever any portion of the fund annually allotted has not been expended for the purpose provided for in this Act a sum equal to such unexpended portion; (5) to withhold the allotment of moneys to any State whenever it shall be determined that moneys allotted are not being expended for the purposes and conditions of this Act; (6) to requre the replacement by withholding subsequent allotments of any portion of the moneys received by the cutsodian of any State under this Act that by any action or contingency is diminished or lost: Provided, that if any allotment is withheld from any State, the State board of such State may appeal to the Congress of the United States, and if the Congress shall not, within one year from the time of said appeal, direct such sum to be paid, it shall be covered into the Treasury.

SEC. 5. That the Secretary of the Treasury, upon the certification of the Federal board as provided in this Act, shall pay quarterly to the custodian of each State appointed as herein provided the moneys to which it is entitled under the provisions of this Act. The money so received by the custodian for any State shall be paid out on the requisition of the State board as reimbursement for services already rendered or expenditures already incurred and approved by said State board. The Federal Board for Vocational Education shall make an annual report to the Congress on or before December 1 on the administration of this Act and shall include in such report the reports made by the State boards on the administration of this Act by each State and the expenditure of the money allotted to each State.

SEC. 6. That there is hereby appropriated to the Federal Board for Vocational Education the sum of $75,000 annually for a period of four years for the purpose of making studies, investigations, and reports regarding the vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons and their placements in suitable or gainful occupations, and for the administrative expenses of said board incident to performing the duties imposed by this Act, including salaries of such assistants, experts, clerks, and other employees, in the District of Columbia or elsewhere as the board may deem necessary, actual traveling and other necessary expenses incurred by the members of the board and by its employees, under its orders, including attendance at meetings of educational associations and other organizations, rent and equipment of offices in the District of Columbia and elsewhere, purchase of books of reference, law books, and periodicals, stationery, typewriters and exchange thereof, miscellaneous supplies, postage on foreign mail, printing and binding to be done at the Government Printing Office, and all other necessary expenses.

A full report of all expenses under this section, including names of all employees and salaries paid them, traveling expenses and other expenses incurred by each and every employee and by members of the board, shall be sumitted annually to Congress by the board.

No salaries shall be paid out of the fund provided in this section in excess of the following amounts: At the rate of $5,000 per annum, to not more than one person; at the rate of $4,000 per annum each, to not more than four persons; at the rate of $3,500 per annum each, to not more than five persons; and no other employee shall receive compensation at a rate in excess of $2,500 per annum: Provided, That no person receiving compensation at less than $3,500 per annum shall receive in excess of the amount of compensation paid in the regular departments of the Government for like or similar services.

SEC. 7. That the Federal Board for Vocational Education is hereby authorized and empowered to receive such gifts and donations from either public or private sources as may be offered unconditionally. All moneys received as gifts or donations shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and shall constitute a permanent fund, to be called the "Special fund for vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons," to be used under the direction of the said board to defray the expenses of providing and maintaining courses of vocational rehabilitation in special cases, including the payment of necessary expenses of persons undergoing training. A full report of all gifts and donations offered and accepted, together with the names of the donors and the respective amounts contributed by each, and all disbursements therefrom shall be submitted annually to Congress by said board: Provided, that no discrimination shall be made or permitted for or against any person or persons who are entitled to the benefits of this Act because of membership or non-membership in any industrial, fraternal, or private organization of any kind under a penalty of $200 for every violation thereof.

APPROVED, June 2, 1920.

The following communications were read, and on motion of Mr. Dailey, were ordered referred to the Executive Committee, when appointed:

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. President—I am directed by the Governor to lay before the Senate the following communication:

The President of the Senate presented the following communication, which was read and ordered spread upon the Journal:

To the Senate.

SENATORS: I beg to advise that of the appropriation made by the last General Assembly to the Lieutenant Governor for his office, the amount of $3,750 should be turned over by me to my successor, the Honorable Fred E. Sterling, Lieutenant Governor-elect, for the time from January 10, 1921, until June 30, 1921.

By the attached letter from the Auditor of Public Accounts you will see that I am turning over to Lieutenant Governor-elect Sterling, $5,101.96, and that this amount remains in the treasury at the end of my term subject to his order.

JOHN G. OGLESBY,
Lieutenant Governor and President of the Senate.

[Copy.]

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS,
SPRINGFIELD, January 6, 1921.

Hon. John G. Oglesby, Lieutenant Governor, Springfield, Illinois.

DEAR SIR: This is to advise you that there remains in the appropriation made to the office of the Lieutenant Governor by the Fifty-first General Assembly, for private secretary, and other employees, postage, expressage, etc., an available balance of $5,101.96, according to the books of this office as of January 6, 1921.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) ANDREW RUSSEL,
Auditor of Public Accounts.

Signed by
H. L. FREEMAN.

The President of the Senate presented the following communication, which was ordered spread upon the Journal:

To the Honorable Senate and the House of Representatives of the State of Illinois—Greetings:

The Commission for the Improvement and Repairs to the Capitol Buildind and Grounds, appointed by the Fifty-first General Assembly, submits the following report and recommendations for your approval·

Total appropriation to the Commission		$80,000.00
Of this amount there has been expended $23,015.73 for the following improvements:
Painting and decorating Senate Chamber	$6,867.00
Painting and decorating House of Representatives	6,930.00
Lighting fixtures in Senate Chamber	2,300.00
Lighting fixtures in House of Representatives	2,100.00
Wiring Senate Chamber	934.00
Wiring House of Representatives	945.15
Alterations to rostrums in Senate and House of Representatives	2,101.50
Miscellaneous	838.08
Balance unexpended		$56,984.27

The commission further reports that they are informed that the new Centennial Building will be ready for occupancy on or about August 1, 1921, in which event the space now occupied by the Illinois State Library, Illinois Historical Library and the Library Extension Commission will be available and the commission deems it advisable to allow the balance of the appropriation to lapse, and recommends that the unexpended balance be reappropriated to a commission to be appointed by the Fifty-second General Assembly, to be used in arranging as much of this space as is needed for lounging room, telephone room and rooms for the convenience of the members of the General Assembly.

Respectfully submitted,

LOUIS L. EMMERSON,
Secretary of State.
JOHN G. OGLESBY,
Lieutenant Governor.
DAVID E. SHANAHAN,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Ettelson offered the following resolution, and on his motion, the rules were suspended and the resolution taken up for immediate consideration and adoption:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 2.

Resolved, by the Senate of the Fifty-second General Assembly, the House of Representatives concurring herein, That when the two Houses adjourn today, they stand adjourned until ten o'clock next Tuesday morning, January 18, 1921.

MESSAGES FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has adopted the following joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 3.

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That the two Houses meet in Joint Session in the Hall of the House of Representatives, on Monday, January 10, 1921, at 12:00 o'clock Meridian, for the purpose of witnessing the inauguration of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and other State officers-elect of the State of Illinois.

Adopted by the House, January 10, 1921.

B. H. McCann, Clerk of the House.

On motion of Mr. Barr, the Senate concurred with the House of Representatives in the adoption of the foregoing resolution.

The President of the Senate announced the appointment of Miss Helen Hess, of Joliet, as temporary stenographer for the Senate.

A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred with the Senate in the adoption of the following joint resolution, to-wit:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 2.

Resolved, by the Senate of the Fifty-second General Assembly, the House of Representatives concurring herein, That when the two Houses adjourn today, they stand adjourned until ten o'clock next Tuesday morning, January 18, 1921.

Concurred in by the House January 10, 1921.

B. H. McCann, Clerk of the House.

At 12:00 o'clock m., the Senate, preceeded by the President, President pro tempore and Secretary, proceeded to the Hall of the House of Representatives for the purpose of meeting in Joint Session for the inauguration of the Governor and other State officers.

Joint Session.

At the hour of 12:00 o'clock Meridian, the Senate, preceded by its President, President pro tempore and Secretary, was announced by the Doorkeeper and took the seats assigned them in the Hall of the House of Representatives.

The two Houses being convened in Joint Session, the President of the Senate announced that a quorum of the Senate was present.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives announced that a quorum of the House was present.

It appearing that a quorum of the two Houses was present, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, as the presiding officer of the Joint Session announced that the Joint Assembly was duly convened for the purpose of witnessing the inauguration of Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and other State officers-elect of the State of Illinois.

Senator Essington offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Joint Session Resolution No. 1.

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed, three from the House, by the Speaker of the House, and two from the Senate by the President of the Senate, to wait upon the Justices of the Supreme Court and inform them that the presence of one of their number is desired in the House of Representatives for the purpose of administering the oath of office to the Governor and State officers-elect.

And the resolution was adopted.

The President of the Senate thereupon appointed as members of such committee on the part of the Senate, Messrs. Essington and Bardill.

The Speaker of the House appointed as members of such committee on the part of the House, Messrs. Mooneyham, Sonnemann and Arthur Roe.

Mr. Shanahan offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

JOINT SESSION RESOLUTION NO. 2.

Resolved, That a joint committee consisting of three members on the part of the House and two on the part of the Senate be appointed to wait on the Hon. Len Small, Governor-elect; the Hon. Fred E. Sterling, Lieutenant Governor-elect, and other State officers-elect and inform them of their election and invite them to meet the two Houses at 12:00 noon, on Monday, January 10, 1921, for the purpose of taking their oaths of office.

And the resolution was adopted.

The President of the Senate thereupon appointed as members of such committee on the part of the Senate, Messrs. Turnbaugh and Carlson.

The Speaker of the House appointed as members of such committee on the part of the House, Messrs. Shanahan, William Rowe and Morrasy.

The Doorkeeper announced the presence of Chief Justice James H. Cartwright of the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois and the Associate Justices who were admitted and assigned seats.

The Doorkeeper announced the presence at the door of the House of Representatives of the Joint Inaugural Committee, who were admitted and assigned seats.

The Doorkeeper announced the presence at the door of the House of Representatives of the ladies of the Joint Inaugural Committee, who were admitted and assigned seats.

The Doorkeeper announced the presence of the Governor, the Governor-elect; the Lieutenant Governor, the Lieutenant Governor-elect; the Secretary of State, the Secretary of State-elect; the Auditor, the Auditor-elect; the Treasurer, the Treasurer-elect; the Attorney General, the Attorney General-elect; and the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who were admitted and assigned seats.

Mr. Shanahan, from the Joint Committee on Notification of State Officers, reported that they had notified the State officers-elect and the retiring State officers, that the House and Senate were in Joint Session for the purpose of witnessing the inauguration of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and other State officers-elect, and that they were present and ready to take the oath of office.

Senator Essington, from the joint committee to wait on the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and request him to administer the oath of office to the State officers-elect, reported that Chief Justice Cartwright was present for that purpose, accompanied by the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois.

The Speaker of the House presented to the Joint Assembly, His Excellency, the retiring Governor, Frank O. Lowden, who spoke as follows:

GOVERNOR LOWDEN. Mr. Speaker, Governor-elect Small, and Members of the General Assembly: Just four years ago I made my first appearance before the Joint Assembly of the legislative branches of government of this State. At that time I asked for your cooperation. I pointed out that under our form of government, government would function successfully only when, as was intended by the fathers, there was the closest cooperation between the several branches of government. And now, at the end of that four years, I appear before you gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly to thank you for the generous manner in which during that time you have extended to me such cooperation.

They have been strenuous years. We were approaching the end of our first century as a State. I had been here but a few weeks when the war which was blazing upon the other side of the sea extended itself so as to involve our own people, and I appeared before you then and asked for your cooperation in the name of Illinois, that it might justify the heroic traditions of the first century of our Statehood which was then drawing to a close. Without divisions along party lines, with but one voice, you responded; and during the awful months that then ensued, the General Assembly of Illinois and its chief executive were in perfect accord and had but one aim, as I believe—the honor of the old State. For that cooperation, I thank you.

And while we in civil life could not know, perhaps, in all its intensity the meaning of the word "comradeship," which more than 350,000 of our gallant sons had learned in uniform, still we did come to know something of what that word meant; and today, gentlement of the Fifty-second General Assembly, as I leave you, I have in my heart that sense of comradeship with those of you who, with me, lived through those years.

Not only the members of the General Assembly have aroused that emotion within me, but the men and women engaged in the civil service of the State, from the heads of departments down, have also put me under everlasting obligation to them. Those of you who were not familiar at that time with the burdens of government, whether Federal or State or municipal, can hardly realize how difficult it was to meet the needs of government during those troublous times. The very best of our men and women were drafted into the government service in one form or another. There was hardly a department of government, State or municipal, which was not left shorthanded because of the exigencies of the war and the demands of the Federal government, and yet these men and women at home, in their civil positions, masured up fully to the duties of that solemn time. I want to thank them. I want to thank them with all my heart, that in the midst of discouragement, with their most skilled officials withdrawn from the service of the State. they still were able to carry on. Especially was that I have said true of the charitable and correctional institutions of the State. I have visited these institutions myself. I know the difficulties under which they labored. There were hospitals every member of whose staff, with the exception of the superintendent alone, were withdrawn from the State service to enter the service of the Federal government. It was difficult at any price to find trained men and women to take the places thus made vacant, and yet these splendid men and women did not for a moment lay down in their efforts to serve the State. In these institutions the watchword was not punishment, not simply restraint of the defectives of society, but to work out ways and methods by which they could be cured and returned to society, and by which their number could be made to decrease in the future. They found that lack of employment accentuated the condition of most, and so they developed the idea, which has been taken up all over the country, that the diseased mind is improved as much by congenial occupation as is the healthy, normal mind, and occupational therpy is now a subject of growing importance throughout the land. They established schools for the training of nurses even during these difficult times, and I want to say that they developed the idea that each of these institutions should be a community, not a place merely of restraint—a community in which the defectives should live as nearly a normal life as was possible for them. They have put the people of Illinois under obligations to them for all time, and I feel to this noble band of men and women, too, a sense of comradeship for what they did.

I am not going to make a speech to you, gentlemen, because I submitted my views to you fully the other day in accordance with the requirements of the Constitution. I am here simply to say a personal word or two, and then I shall be done, but I cannot leave without expressing also my gratitude to the people of Springfield and to the State of Illinois for their sympathy and support during these critical times. The burdens of office, as any one who has been in public office knows, are heavy enough at best, and you have lightened those burdens, you good people of Springfield, by the many little kindnesses you have shown my family and me. You have made us feel that we were among friends, and we leave you with a sense of leaving a home that has been very dear to us because of what you have done. And so, I want in the name of my family and myself, to thank the people of Springfield and the people of the State who have made it possible for us to have these emotions to sustain us in these difficult times.

It is not hard to lay down the burdens of office. I am glad to do that; but it is a little harder than I thought it was going to be to say good-bye to my friends of the General Assembly, my associates in the executive department of government, and the friends that have cheered and heartened me on my way. That is much harded that I thought it would be.

And now it gives me very great pleasure to perform the duty with which I am especially charged, and I bespeak for my successor the same courtesy from the General Assembly, the same friendship from the people of Illinois and Springfield, which I have had. Courtesy is not a word perhaps expressing one of the great basic virtues, but it is a word which make the great virtues possible, and that courtesy which so abundantly has been shown me I ask for my successor. I wish, and you all wish, a most successful administration, I know, for the gentleman who I am about to present, the Honorable Len Small, Governor of Illinois. (Prolonged rising applause.)

Preliminary to the administering of the oath of office to the Governor-elect, Bishop Archibald J. Carey, of Chicago, addressed the Chief Justice as follows:

DR. CAREY. Mr. Chief Justice, this beautiful vision of golden glorious sunlight is but prophetic, indeed, of the peace, prosperity and good will that will prevail throughout the State of Illinois during the term of Governorship of him whose inauguration we come to witness in this hour. With a firm and lasting faith in the sterling qualities of the Honorable Len Small, and an abiding confidence in his purpose to serve all the people, and with fervent prayer that Almighty God, who has guided him to this glorious hour, will continue to protect and preserve and keep him, I am requested by the A. M. E. Ministry of this State to present to your Honor, sir, this Holy Bible, upon which the Governor-elect has agreed to take his oath of office.

Thereafter, Chief Justice James H. Cartwright, administered the oath of office, provided by section 25 of article 5 of the Constitution of the State of Illinois, separately, to Len Small, Governor; Fred E. Sterling, Lieutenant Governor; Louis L. Emmerson, Secretary of State; Andrew Russel, Auditor of Public Accounts; Edward E. Miller, State Treasurer; and Edward J. Brundage, Attorney General.

Governor Small in delivering his inaugural address to the Joint Assembly, spoke as follows:

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly, Representing the People of the State of Illinois:

I am deeply sensible of the responsibility as well as the great honor which has come to me with the office of Governor. Realizing my own limitations and the magnitude of the task ahead, I appeal to all citizens of Illinois and all State and local officials for their support in fulfilling the trust our people have reposed in me.

The powers of our State government, like those of the national government, are separated into three branches—legislative, executive and judicial—neither one empowered to intrude upon the functions belonging to either of the others. This separation provides wisely for the stability of our Republic and should be repeatedly emphasized and inviolably maintained as a guarantee of responsible representative government.

I shall in no manner assume to exercise any of the duties devolving upon the legislative and judicial branches, and my official relations therewith shall be only such as the Constitution contemplates and the law prescribes. However, I earnestly solicit sincere and cordial cooperation among all branches and departments of our State and local governments in order that the people may be better served and protected; and I urge all officials and agencies to exchange advice and counsel for the common good.

In my candidacy for the office of Governor, I stood for principles which the people endorsed in those contests, and, as Governor, I shall stand for the self-same principles, the achievement of which, I believe, will insure to the people a determining voice in their own government.

Majority rule is the fundamental basis of American government. Obedience to the lawfully expressed will of the people is one of the great safeguards of our country, and makes for liberty, prosperity, peace and good order. Let us then recognize the supremacy of the people's mandate and facilitate the enactment of measures and the development of policies of which they have unquestionably voiced approval.

In political contests, principles and policies are at issue on which it is proposed the government shall be conducted, and, as a result of those contests, authority is obtained from the mass of the voters to carry out the policies believed to be right and rational.

As a member of the Committee on Resolutions of the Republican State Convention held in Springfield on May 10, 1920, I supported in committee and on the floor of the convention, and voted for, the minority report of that committee embodying certain principles affecting the liberties and rights of our people and the lives and well-being of every man, woman and child in our commonwealth. In the announcement of my candidacy for Governor, I reiterated my stand for those principles and appealed for popular support on the basis of my attitude. Now as Governor I again announce my fidelity to those principles and give notice that I shall rely upon them as a constant guide in determining administrative and political policies.

We are faced with important problems of state in Illinois as in the nation. It is a waste of valuable energy to spend time in regretting closed events. We need concern ourselves about past history only that we may learn lessons for the future.

RETRENCHMENT AND ECONOMY.

We should not forget that every dollar taken from the State Treasury comes from the pockets of the taxpayers, most of whom have to toil for a livelihood. These funds are trust funds and it is our duty as elected official to guard against waste and extravagance in the expenditure of the people's money. I trust the General Assembly will exercise care in making appropriations, and I belive you will. I, on my part, shall endeavor to see that every dollar appropriated will secure a dollar's worth of service. It will be the fixed policy of my administration to oppose the payment of any salary or expense account which has not been duly authorized by law.

REPEAL OF THE STATE PUBLIC UTILITIES ACT AND RESTORATION OF HOME RULE.

I pledgged the people of Illinois that I would do all in my power to secure the repeal of the State Public Utilities Act, thereby abolishing the State Public Utilities Commission, and that I would recommend the enactment, in its stead, of a law giving to all cities in Illinois the right of home rule in the regulations and control of their public utilities. I therefore urge the General Assembly to repeal the State Public Utilities law and thereby abolish the State Public Utilities Commission. I further urge the passage of a law giving to all cities in Illinois the right of home rule in the regulation and control of their public utilities.

In cities having an elected City Council or an elected commission exercising municipal functions wherein the regulation and control of public utilities was vested prior to the adoption of the State Public Utilities Act, the regulation and control of public utilities in such cities should, by a provision of law, revert to such bodies immediately upon the taking effect of the repeal of the State Public Utilities Act, and until such time as the people of such cities may by a referendum vote indicate their desire to submit the regulation and control of their public utilities to a newly created State body or agency as hereinafter proposed, or until they may decide upon some other method.

There should, no doubt, be some state body or agency exercising governmental authority, with powers and jurisdiction similar to the Railroad and Warehouse Commission which was supplanted by the present Public Utilities Commission. This may be necessary in cases where two or more communities are served by the same utility. The law should expressly prohibit such body or agency from setting aside, modifying, or in any manner impairing any contract heretofore or hereafter entered into between a public utility company and the corporate authorities or people of any municipality, unless mutually agreed to by the parties to such contracts and approved on a referendum vote by the people affected. Such law should also provide for allowing any municipality, through action of its corporate authorities, or by referendum vote of its citizens, to subject itself to or withdraw from the jurisdiction of such State body or agency, either permanently or for a definite period of time to be fixed by statute.

I earnestly urge that this subject receive the immediate attention of the General Assembly and that appropriate legislation be enacted, with the expressed will of the people uppermost in mind, and with a just regard for the rights of the public service companies, their actual investments, and the well-being of their employees concurrently in mind.

"THOMPSON TRACTION PLAN."

The people of the City of Chicago have repeatedly voted in favor of public ownership of the street car lines, but the desire of the people for a voice in the management and control of their local transportation has been thwarted.

The inadequate service under private ownership and operation, and the increase in rates authorized by the Public Utilities Commission in violation of the terms of the contract-ordinances providing for a 5 cent fare, intensified the dissatisfaction with private ownership and led to the appointment by the Mayor of Chicago of a "Commission on Local Transportation," authorized by an ordinance passed by the City Council at the request of the Mayor.

This Commission, after mature deliberation, recommends the enactment of a law authorizing the creation by vote of the people, of Local Transportation Districts under which the people shall own and operate local transportation systems through Trustees elected by the people residing in such districts.

Believing that the people should have the power to create such Transportation Districts if they so desire, I respectfully urge the General Assembly promptly to enact legislation to permit the citizens of Chicago and vicinity, or of any other contiguous territory in the State, if they so elect, to establish such Transportation Districts, and to provide for people's ownership and operation of local transportation systems.

HARD ROADS.

One of the pressing needs of the present day is to find means to bring our city and country populations into closer relationship to the end that the advantages enjoyed by one may be applied to the benefit of the other. The United States Census of 1920 reveals the fact that more than one-half the population of the entire country resides in incorporated cities and towns. These cities possess advantages in the way of water, light, heat and transportation services which are not generally furnished in the rural districts. Illinois cannot afford to have its rural population enjoy less of the comforts and conveniences of life than the rural population in sister states. The surest means of bringing city and country together is the only way, that is the highways which bind our towns and communities to each other.

The state-wide system of hard roads provided for under legislation passed in 1917 was approved by the people of Illinois on a referendum vote in November, 1918, by a majority of over two hundred thousand. This vote authorized the issuance of bonds to the amount of sixty million dollars for paying the cost of the system. The validity of this act has been upheld by the Supreme Court of Illinois. The forty-six routes proposed for the roads are described in the law and extend throughout the State of Illinois from boundary to boundary and provide for connections with each other.

In my opinion, the greatest economic good that can be accomplished for the country districts of our State is to push this road system to completion. Good roads will tend to level the inequalities, both fancied and real, between the country and the city. Good roads will help harmonize political or economic misunderstandings existing between the people of metropolitan centers and suburban and rural centers. Good roads will safeguard the producer and the consumer against extortionate transportation rates, and will insure the people of the cities and of the country districts an uninterrupted interchange of their products at all seasons of the year, regardless of congestion or other conditions prevailing on other means of transportation. Good roads will minimize the opportunities for monopolists to corner the city markets, especially on foodstuffs produced in nearby sections.

As these roads are extended throughout the State, grade crossings over railroads should be avoided as far as possible, and the General Assembly should provide for the protection of human life at the points where the highways cross the railroads. During the past year, the toll of life taken at these grade crossings averaged more than one per day, for our state, and to this list must be added the lesser casualties where many victims escaped death but were seriously injured.

These roads in order to be always available, at all seasons of the year, must be permanently maintained by the State in much the same manner that the steam railroads are kept up. For this reason I recommend that our State aid roads be subdivided into sections of reasonable lengths, each section to be in charge of an employee of the State, whose duty it would be to constantly keep his section in repair and in a passable condition.

Immediate construction of the hard road system approved by the people was one of my platform pledges and I shall exert every effort to push the work to early completion. Should it develop that additional legislation may be required on this subject, I shall immediately communicate with the General Assembly so there may be no unnecessary delay in the completion of this most important improvement.

ILLINOIS WATERWAY.

The construction of the Illinois Waterway will be continued without delay in accordance with the mandate of the people and the laws enacted by the General Assembly.

RECLAMATION PROJECTS.

I desire to call to the attention of the General Assembly the fact that there are in this State vast areas of rich lands along its water courses which are not under cultivation because they are subject to overflow. These should be reclaimed for cultivation, and I recommend legislation to encourage the reclamation of this valuable addition to our natural resources.

COOPERATIVE BUYING AND SELLING.

As a further means of aiding our agricultural resources, I favor the development of cooperative buying and selling in order to place at the disposal of the country districts just as effective organizations as are found in the cities and towns. Cooperative buying and selling, intelligently conducted and free from dishonest or grasping tendencies, will insure to the country producer a fair price for his labor and commodities, and to the city consumer the saving of the extortionate profits of corrupt combines, speculators and profiteers.

TAXATION.

A more even distribution of the burdens of state and municipal taxation should be attempted without delay. Rich tax-dodgers who conceal millions of dollars worth of property from state and local assessment officers should be forced to schedule, under oath, all their wealth and pay their just share of the expense of government. With an honest scheduling of property in Illinois, the tax rate for all purposes could be materially reduced and millions of dollars added to State and local revenues, thus relieving the burdens now borne by the taxpayers of moderate means.

I therefore recommend the amendment of our revenue laws so that rich tax-dodgers would be compelled to file honest returns, just as they are compelled under Federal laws to make true and accurate returns of their incomes, and I further recommend that the State inheritance tax be materially increased.

The State Tax Commission created by the General Assembly in 1919 possesses powers over the assessment of all real and personal property, railroad property, capital stock and franchises in this State superior to those delegated to any local assessors or boards of assessors or boards of review. It is the function of this commission to see that all assessments of property be made relatively just and equal.

I direct the Commission to avail itself of the ample powers granted it by the General Assembly for the purpose of bringing to light the extensive holdings now hidden from local authorities, but accessible to Federal agents for the purpose of relieving the injustices now prevalent in the assessment and collection of State and local taxes.

RE-DISTRICTING.

The re-districting of the State into Senatorial and Congressional districts on the basis of population as shown by the 1920 Federal Census is a matter requiring urgent attention. Such lines should be established with reference strictly to the equal representation of the people and their convenience in choosing representatives who reflect their will and without regard to partisan or factional considerations.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS.

The penal institutions of the State should be operated, first, to protect society against the depredations of the criminally inclined, and, secondly, to bring about, if possible, the reformation of those confined there. It was this humane idea that was responsible for the indeterminate sentence and the parole law, under which offenders committed to penal institutions might be released when, in the opinion of parole officials, there had been sufficient reformation of the prisoner so that it would be safe and advisable to allow him to make a new start in life under the watchful eye of parole officials with power to re-commit him in the event that the experiment failed.

While such an experiment might be justifiable in the case of the first offender, I do not believe habitual criminals should be released repeatedly to commit further crimes. It has been found in our populous centers that a great deal of the crime committed is by experienced and seasoned criminals who have been released under the provisions of the parole law again to prey upon the public.

I recommend a careful survey of this situation by the General Assembly with a view to denying to those convicted of previous delinquency the benefits of the parole law. The startling increase in robberies at the point of a revolver suggests the enactment of more drastic penalties for this form of crime, and I request the careful consideration of the General Assembly of this problem.

CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

The care of the wards of the State in our charitable institutions must be in the hands of managing officials of the highest standing, and they will be held to a strict accountability of their stewardship.

HOSPITALS FOR THE INSANE.

Cases have been brought to my attention where, I regret to say, helpless patients in our hospitals for the insane were subjected to cruel and brutal treatment by attendants. Coroners' inquests have disclosed that patients in our insane institutions have sustained, at the hands of other patients, serious injuries resulting in death. Such a condition is shocking and intolerable.

Patients are sent to these hospitals for the protection of the public and for their own protection because they are unable to care for themselves. They should be suitably clothed and supplied with an abundance of good, wholesome, properly prepared food, and given the best medical attention, and made as comfortable as their physical and mental conditions permit. Upon being committed to the institution, the State owes an obligation to the public and to the patients to see that patients shall not be allowed to roam at large, as has been a practice, exposing themselves to injury or to death and the public to possible violence. In cases where the condition of patients justifies such freedom, it should be only under strict observance.

Another practice which will be discontinued is that of placing young, inexperienced girls in charge of disturbed male patients, where the attendants are subjected to the indelicate language and acts of men who do not know what they are saying or doing.

I believe in reasonable physical exercise, light labor, athletic games and sports, as well as band concerts and other clean entertainments for the patients, in order to make their surroundings as pleasant as possible thereby assisting in removing from their minds their real or imaginary troubles.

I fully believe these suggestions if carried out will cause the patients of our State hospitals to respond more readily to medical treatment and hasten recovery where recovery is possible.

We should make it known that real service and merit, and careful, considerate treatment of the wards of the State will be rewarded. We now have many faithful men and women in the service who are conscientiously devoting their lives to this worthy calling. Those so engaged in the care of the inmates of the institutions should be paid a sufficient salary to justify them in making this work their business.

I shall devote my time and energy, to the best of my ability, to the service of the State, and I shall require all appointees or employees in places under my control to do the same. Every appointee and employee is expected to give his best and most efficient service to the State. No lazy, incompetent or brutal employee will be retained in the service under any pretense.

EDUCATION.

It was ordained in the first American charter for the government of the territory in which we live that schools and the means of education should forever be encouraged. This sentiment was echoed in our State Constitution, which declares that "The General Assembly shall provide a thorough and efficient system of free schools whereby all children of this State may receive a good common school education."

Our State has never failed in its duty in this regard, and it will not fail now. On account of the importance and bigness of this subject, I shall not attempt here a discussion in detail of particular changes, and shall reserve definite recommendations until the developments of the session, particularly with reference to the amendment of the revenue laws, shall show how far we can go in the adoption of further legislation required by our advancing civilization.

The position of the teacher in our social fabric is one that needs thorough readjustment. Underpay and ingratitude on the part of the public for the invaluable service rendered to the State by the teaching force employed in our public schools has been, too often, the common lot of these faithful servants engaged in the basis work of true Americanization. There should not be an underpaid school teacher in the State of Illinois.

Salaries and school equipment should be such that the very best and highest types of men and women are attracted to the profession of teaching.

The common schools, the normal schools and the State University are all seeking to enlarge their respective fields. If we are to extend their usefulness, we must be prepared to increase their appropriations. I say now, as I said before my election, that our educational institutions are the foundations of good government and of the well-being of our State. Their improvement should be constantly sought and their growth should be encouraged, for with them lies the future stability of our commonwealth.

The worthy additions requested could be granted without increasing the tax rate if the General Assembly gives favorable consideration to the recommendations made in that portion of my message devoted to the subject of taxation.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

The upbuilding of healthy citizens, the prolongation of life is one of the purposes of good government. The physical well-being of the mothers, fathers and children of our commonwealth is worthy of the highest consideration. Sound preventive measures and adequate relief provisions are the essentials for a healthy State.

Sanitation, good housing conditions, wholesale surroundings of employment, healthful recreation, pure water and milk, efficient food inspection, all make for clean, red blood coursing in the veins of our people, sound, vigorous bodies and clear, industrious minds.

I stand for a strict enforcement of the laws of Illinois directed toward the prevention and remedying of physical or mental ills which produce disease and epidemics and underlie insanity and crime.

The recent epidemic of influenza in our country has served to call the attention of our people to the need of greater health supervision. I recommend to the General Assembly that full time medical health officers be provided for each county in the State such as are now provided for in Chicago, Springfield, LaSalle, Bloomington and other cities. I further recommend that every city in Illinois have local health organizations qualified to cope with disease. These health organizations should have under their supervision trained visiting nurses, and doctors and nurses should be provided for the medical inspection of all our schools.

I am reliably informed that at least 20 per cent of the inmates confined in the insane asylums of the State are there as a result of paresis due to Venereal disease. Such contagion should be wiped out of Illinois and the United States, and more rigid provisions made for its prevention. Illinois should go further and abolish all places where such diseases have their inception and whence they are spread. This will be true economy for it is cheaper to prevent than to build and maintain institutions to care for the criminal and the infirm.

The registration of births is vital. We have the standard law. We should enforce it. It is essential to the legal and health interests of our new-born. It prevents much blindness, aids the feeding and mothering of babies, helps future citizenship and facilities such rights as are reserved in the inheritance of property, securing working age certificates, and travelling unmolested in foreign lands.

We are met with a woeful shortage of trained women to care for our sick, not only for times of epidemic, but normally. Illinois should train thousands of women as a health militia, preparing them to render first aid in their own homes and enabling them to care for their neighbors in times of sickness, the same as has been so successfully done in Chicago. Such training need in no way interfere with the hospital training schools for professional nurses. I recommend that the General Assembly study ways and means to provide proper care for our sick, especially the 90 per cent who can neither secure nor afford the services of professionally trained nurses.

STATE MILITIA.

I heartily favor the upbuilding of the Illinois State Militia and the National Guard and Naval Militia into voluntary organizations of the highest possible efficiency. I shall give my sincere support to all measures and policies, which seek to benefit in proper proportion the military forces of this State. I shall aid and encourage the officers and men of our militia organizations to attain proficiency in their avocations, and quarters and equipment in keeping with the importance and dignity of their generous service to the State.

FEDERAL RELATIONS.

The affairs of the State of Illinois are inseparably linked with the affairs of the nation, and we have a right to express ourselves upon national policies to which we may become perpetually bound. I feel that I would be remiss in my duty to the people of Illinois if I did not take this occasion to direct their attention to threatening policies confronting the country of which we form a part.

We have emerged from the actual conflict of a great world war. The strain and soreness of that conflict still bears heavily upon most of our people. On top of the grief and distress of our people over the shedding of American blood has come their resentment and anger toward the rich and powerful interests that in the nation's most sorrowful hours exacted merciless tolls of profit on the necessary and essential commodities for the sustenance of human life.

These interests that oppress the people never were and are not now partisan. They operate with equal facility in either the Republican or Democratic party. They are not American, though intensely patriotic in all outward manifestations. They are predatory in character and worldly in their aims and objects.

It is our duty to ourselves and to the people to investigate closely the interests back of every measure that comes up for consideration, and thereby prevent the forces of organized wealth and greed from continuing to rob the masses.

The so-called Covenant of the League of Nations advocated by President Wilson was submitted to a "solemn referendum" in accordance with his dictum in the recent election and as solemnly rejected by an overwhelming vote of the American people. Nevertheless we hear whisperings of a proposal for a League of Nations or Association of Nations for the pretended guarantee of world peace. If I interpret aright the sentiment of the people of Illinois, as well as other states, they are in no mood to have their sovereignty subjected to discussion by discredited old-world monarchies, or to pool their issues with countries where liberty and the right of the people to determine their own political systems is more restricted than in their own.

Under no circumstances should the American Congress forsake the policy laid down by George Washington, by entering into any League or Association of Nations which would involve this country in foreign entanglements or alliances, without first submitting the proposed covenant of the League or Association of Nations to a vote of the American people.

The Congress of the United States should again adopt for the approval of the incoming President a resolution declaring our country at peace with the world, that his proclamation may follow lawfully terminating the present war-time legislation may be summarily repealed and that American soldiers now in Europe and Asia in the theatre of foreign strife may be returned to our shores forthwith.

The soldiers, sailors and marines who responded to their country's military and naval needs, jeopardizing and sacrificing their lives, relinquishing home ties and foregoing their income-earning opportunities are entitled to every honor and consideration that may be bestowed. My platform favored the payment of a liberal bonus to those men and I urge upon our Senators and Representatives in Congress the consummation of plans that will bring this about.

And especially do I urge that immediate relief be provided for those who, because of injuries received in the service of their country, are suffering in body or mind, to the end that no American soldier shall ever become an object of charity.

Compulsory military service or conscription defies the opinion of a free people. It is the ancient instrument of kings and princes and of despotism and tyranny and inevitably induces war. I recommend to the General Assembly the presentation of a memorial to the Congress of the United States protesting against compulsory military service and conscription for foreign service.

The military policy of the United States directly concerns the people of Illinois. They must bear its burdens and share its benefits with the people of other states. "To insure domestic tranquility and provide for the common defense" are principles on which our system of government is founded. Our national army should be so organized, equipped and disciplined as to serve the fundamental principles of our government comprehensively and should extend no further, and thus help reduce present oppressive taxation.

The American people are now burdened with an amount and variety of Federal taxes, due to the war which is without precedent in the Nation, largely owing to the unparalleled waste and extravagance practiced by those entrusted with administering expenditures during the period of the war and subsequent thereto. To reduce this oppression and maintain the honor of the Nation's just obligations is one of the first problems that should engage the efforts of the new President and Congress.

I am pledged to the proposal of exempting from Federal taxation incomes of American citizens of less than $5,000 per annum. The United States government is now collecting in the State of Illinois more than the cost of administering the State and the counties and municipalities therein. This excess is entirely disproportionate to necessities.

I shall aim to execute the laws fairly and equitably toward all, and accord to the people of Illinois their inherent rights of free speech, free press and peaceable assembly as provided for in our Federal and State Constitutions. It has been well said that "justice is the end of all government" and justice reflects the greatest desire of the overwhelming majority of the masses of the people. I shall at all times and under all circumstances render undivided allegiance to the Constitutions of the United States and the State of Illinois, and hold myself in constant obedience to the laws of our State and country and to my oath of office.

On motion of Mr. Smejkal, 20,000 copies of Governor Small's inaugural address were ordered printed, 10,000 copies for the use of the House and 10,000 copies for the use of the Senate.

The Governor and State officers, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, the Joint Inaugural Committee and the ladies of the Joint Inaugural Committee having retired, Mr. Shanahan, at the hour of 1:15 o'clock p. m., moved that the Joint Assembly do now rise.

And the motion prevailed.

The incoming Lieutenant Governor and President of the Senate, Fred E. Sterling, assumed the President's chair.

Mr. Dailey offered the following resolution which, on his motion, by unanimous consent, was taken up for immediate consideration and unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 12.

Resolved, That the Senate of Illinois express its appreciation of the impartial, dignified, able and efficient administration of Lieutenant Governor Oglesby as President of the Senate. Upon his retirement from official position, confidently trusting that the future holds in reserve for him deservedly higher public honors, the Senate expresses to him its sincere thanks and obligations for uniform courtesies, considerate and helpful cooperation, and unfailing devotion to public duty. He has, in no wise, dimmed the luster of an honored and revered ancestral fame. He has been true to the finest and noblest of Illinois' political traditions. His record for austere integrity, sympathetic human relationship, moral courage and scrupulous official conduct, fully justifies the trust so freqently reposed in him by the electorate of Illinois.

As a testimonial of the unreserved esteem in which Lieutenant Governor Oglesby is held by the membership of this body, it is ordered that these resolutions be transcribed upon the records of the Senate, and an engrossed copy presented to him, with the assurance of long and grateful remembrance of him as a man of sterling character, and as an official of unblemished name.

Mr. Barr made the following statement: I move that we extend a very hearty welcome to our new presiding officer, his wife and family, and ask him in the next four years to be as considerate of us as possible.

Mr. Barr then put the foregoing motion made by him, and the same was unanimously adopted.

Lieutenant Governor Sterling then made the following remarks:

THE PRESIDENT. Senator Barr, and gentlemen of the Senate: I have no inaugural speech to make. I want to take this occasion, however, to thank you for the courtesy which you have already extended me. I want to beg your indulgence, as your presiding officer, because this is new work to me, but I want to work in hearty co-operation and harmony with this body, which is the greatest legislative body in this nation outside of the Senate of the United States. We are all here for a purpose, to try and serve the people of Illinois and to enact legislation which will be for their best interests. We have an unusual responsibility this year over on the Republican side because of the overwhelming majority, and I want to say that in my conduct as your presiding officer I shall endeavor to be guided by the rule of broadness rather than by any narrow partisan spirit. Our minority side is not large, but it takes up in dignity and respectability what it lacks in numbers. I hope we may have a pleasant session and serve the people of Illinois well; and I want to be your servant and obey your orders.

I thank you very much. (Applause.)

Mr. BARR. I apologize. I only made half a motion. I move that that welcome be extended to Mrs. Sterling as well as Lieutenant Governor Sterling. (Applause.)

THE PRESIDENT. I thank you for my family also. What is the further pleasure of the Senate?

At 1:40 o'clock p. m., on motion of Mr. Barr, the Senate adjourned, and the President of the Senate declared that the Senate stood adjourned until Tuesday, January 18, 1921, at 10:00 o'clock a. m., as provided for by the joint resolution heretofore adopted.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 18, 1921, 10:00 O'CLOCK A. M.

Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Hon. Fred E. Sterling, Lieutenant Governor and President of the Senate, presiding.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. Euclid B. Rogers, Springfield, Illinois.

The President of the Senate announced that the Journal of Monday, January 10, 1921, was not printed because of the long list of notaries contained therein.

The Secretary of the Senate then proceeded to read the Journal for that date, when on motion of Mr. Barr further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was ordered to stand approved.

At 10:05 o'clock a. m., on motion of Mr. Barr, the Senate took a recess until 2:00 o'clock p. m. today.

2:00 O'Clock P. M.

Senate reconvened.

The President of the Senate, upon the recommendation of the Executive Committee, appointed George McWilliams to be temporarily in charge of the Senate retiring room.

On motion of Mr. Buck the Senate unanimously concurred in the appointment of Mr. McWilliams.

Executive Message.

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. President—The Governor directs me to lay before the Senate the following communication:

State of Illinois,
Executive Department,
Springfield.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Illinois:

In accordance with the provisions of the Constitution and the laws of the State of Illinois, I have the honor hereby to nominate and appoint the following named persons to State positions:

George A. Barr, of Joliet, to be Director of Trade and Commerce.

Cornelius R. Miller, of Kankakee, to be Director of Public Works and Buildings.

Burns M. Davison, of Marshall, to be Director of Agriculture.

Chauncey H. Jenkins, of Springfield, to be Director of Public Welfare.

William H. H. Miller, of Champaign, to be Director of Registration and Education.

Arthur E. Inglesh, of Kankakee, to be Administrative Auditor in the Department of Finance.

And I respectfully ask your concurrence therein.

Respectfully submitted,

On motion of Mr. Dailey, the Senate went into Executive Session for the purpose of considering the foregoing message.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Dailey, the rules were suspended and the foregoing message taken up for consideration at once.

The question then being, "Does the Senate advise and consent to the nominations just made?" it was decided in the affirmative by the following vote: Yeas, 44; nays, none.

The following voted in the affirmative: Messrs.

Austin	Dailey	Gray	MacMurray	Spence
Bailey	Denvir	Hamilton	Meents	Sullivan
Barbour	Dunlap	Hanson	Mills	Swift
Bardill	Duvall	Herlihy	Pervier	Telford
Boehm	Essington	Hicks	Sadler	Turnbaugh

Carlson	Forrester	Jewell	Smith, O. W.	Wood
Carroll	Glackin	Kessinger	Sneed	Wright
Cornwell	Glenn	Lantz
Cuthbertson

Yeas—44.
Nays—0.

On motion of Mr. Dailey the Executive Session adjourned, and the Senate resumed the consideration of business.

A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has adopted the following joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 4.

Resolved, By the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That when the two Houses adjourn this week they stand adjourned until Tuesday, February 1, 1921, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

Adopted by the House, January 18, 1921.

B. H. MCCANN, Clerk of the House.

By unanimous consent, the foregoing resolution was taken up for consideration, and the question being, "Shall the Senate concur with the House of Representatives in the adoption of the resolution?" it was decided in the affirmative.

The President of the Senate, on the recommendation of the Press Correspondents, appointed the following as the standing committee on correspondents: J. D. Salkeld, Chairman, W. B. McCormick, H. J. Reifler.

Mr. Lantz, from the Salary Investigation Commission, presented the following report, which was ordered spread upon the Journal:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
SALARY INVESTIGATION COMMISSION,
SPRINGFIELD, January 18, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

Pursuant to the provision of "An Act to create a Salary Investigation Commission and make an appropriation therefor," approved January 21, 1919, the Salary Investigation Commission did, on June 30, 1920, present its report to the Governor. A copy of the report which has been submitted to the Governor is herewith transmitted to your Honorable Body.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD J. SMEJKAL, Chairman.
OMAR H. WRIGHT, Secretary.

Report of Salary Investigation Commission.

To His Excellency, Frank O. Lowden, Governor of the State of Illinois:

The Salary Investigation Commission begs leave to submit the following report:

By an Act passed by the Fifty-first General Assembly, a Salary Investigation Commission composed of thirteen members was created. Section 1 of this Act provides that the Commission shall be composed of three members of the House of Representatives, three members of the Senate, the Lieutenant Governor, the Secretary of State, the Auditor of Public Acounts, the Attorney General, the President of the University of Illinois, the Director of Finance, and one member of the Civil Service Commission. The duties of the Commission are set forth in Section 2 of the Act, which is as follows:

> The Salary Investigation Commission shall investigate and report to the Governor a plan for the standardization of salaries, wages, fees and other compensation for personal services of all employees of the State. Such commission shall, not later than the first day of July, A. D. 1920, make a report of its findings and conclusions to the Governor, and shall transmit a copy thereof to the Fifty-second General Assembly. The existence of the Salary Investigation Commission shall cease upon the convening of the next General Assembly of this State.

The sum of $15,000 was appropriated to defray the expenses of the Commission in the performance of its duties.

Senators Morton D. Hull, Simon E. Lantz and Al. F. Gorman and Representatives Edward J. Smejkal, Carl Mueller and Michael Fahy were appointed members of the Commission by the presiding officers of their respective houses of the General Assembly. Albert D. Early, President of the Civil Service Commission, was designated a member of the Commission by the Governor. The other members of the Commission are John G. Oglesby, Lieutenant Governor; Louis L. Emmerson, Secretary of State; Andrew Russel, Auditor of Public Accounts; Edward J. Brundage, Attorney General; David Kinley, President of the University of Illinois; and Omar H. Wright, Director of Finance. The Commission organized by electing Representative Edward J. Smejkal as Chairman and Omar H. Wright, Director of Finance, as Secretary.

Movement for Salary Standardization in United States and State Governments. In recent years there has been a strong movement toward the standardization of salaries for public employees. By an Act of March 1, 1919, Congress provided for the appointment of a Joint Commission on Reclassification of Salaries to investigate the compensation of government employees in the District of Columbia, other than those in the navy yard and the postal service. This commission in March, 1920, made a full report, setting forth the situation with respect to federal employes in the District of Columbia and recommending an elaborate and detailed plan of classification.

By an Act of February 28, 1919, Congress also provided for a joint commission "to investigate the salaries of postmasters and employees of the postal service with a view to the reclassification and readjustment of such salaries on an equitable basis." This commission made a preliminary report in May, 1920, and upon the basis of this report legislation was enacted readjusting postal salaries.

Reports upon the subject have been made in the states of New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts. The most detailed analysis of state employees is that found in the First Report of the Committee on Civil Service of the Senate of the State of New York (Albany, 1916). This report contains more than nine hundred pages and recommends a detailed classification of state employees, with standardized salaries for each class of employment.

A report presented to the New Jersey State Civil Service Commission in 1917 proposed a complete standardization of salaries and of employment in that state, and presented a detailed classification in several hundred pages.

In Massachusetts a special committee of the Executive Council on the standardization of salaries in the state service reported in 1918. This committee made recommendations, not only as to the state administrative service, but also regarding the salaries of judicial and county officers and employees. The Supervisor of Administration of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 1918 prepared a report on the standardization of salaries of the teachers in the normal schools of that state.

By legislation in 1919, the Indiana General Assembly authorized the appointment of a commission "to classify all state house employees whose salaries or wages are now fixed by law or by state officials and heads of departments of the state government, by fixing and standardizing maximum and minimum salaries and wages, for the purpose of making such salaries and wages uniform in the same class of employment, and so as to conform with the prevailing schedule of salaries and wages paid for similar services in private employment and service." No commission has yet been appointed in Indiana.

State Legislation for Standardization of Salaries. Legislation regarding salary standardization has been enacted in some states, and in several of these states authority is given to a state civil service commission to clasify positions and adjust salaries to the character of work done, though powers so conferred on civil service commissions are in some cases practically defeated by virtue of the fact that state appropriation acts specify the salaries to be paid to positions appropriated for. By the terms of the Illinois Civil Service Act, for example, the Commission appears to have somewhat wide power to standardize salaries, but it actually has little power in this respect.

Michigan, in 1917, passed an act for the grading of certain clerical positions, dividing such positions into six classes, and fixing in the act itself the compensation of those in each class.

Ohio, in 1917, by legislation set up the following groups in the state service: engineering, bookkeeper, clerk, stenographer, telephone operator, typist. Grades were established in each group, and within each grade advances of salary were permitted. Salaries were fixed by statute for each group and grade, and the rates of advance were also specified. A somewhat similar classification has been established in Nebraska.

New York legislation of 1901 classified the clerical and semi-clerical service of the state into ten grades, and prescribed a maximum salary for each grade.

Massachusetts, in 1914, by statute provided for the salaries of clerks and stenographers whose compensation was not already fixed by law. Stenographers and clerks were each divided into three grades. Salaries in grades 1 and 2 were fixed by the statute with annual increases in each grade through the action of the head of the department. For grade 3, both of stenographers and clerks, salaries were fixed "by a vote of the governor and council upon the recommendation of the head of the department." Legislation of 1918 provided that all appointive offices and positions except those in the judicial and legislative branches "shall be classified by the supervisor of administration, subject to the approval of the governor and council, in services, groups and grades according to the duties pertaining to each office or position." No salary of a classified position was to be increased by a department head unless a specific appropriation for the purpose has been granted. This act was amended in 1919 so that recommendations for increases "shall be submitted in the first instance to the supervisor of administration, and if approved by him shall take effect upon notice by the supervisor to the civil service commission and the auditor of the commonwealth." Recommendations for increase disapproved by the supervisor of administration go to the governor and council for final action. All increases are required to conform to the standard classifications set up under the terms of the law, and are not to be granted unless they can be met by appropriations made by law.

New Jersey, by legislation of 1914, authorized the State Civil Service Commission to suggest standards of salaries to heads of departments, and further provided: "Such standardization shall provide for increase of compensation from time to time, based upon length of service, meritorious action and efficiency, and shall also provide methods for promotion through the different grades of the service." The powers of the Commission were greatly enlarged in 1918 and extended to county and municipal civil service.

Standardization of Salaries of Municipal Employees. It may be worth while to review briefly the movement for the standardization of salaries paid to municipal employees. The City of Chicago took the lead in this matter, and the classification of employments worked out in that city, beginning in 1909, represents the first successful undertaking of this character by any governmental organization in the United States. Elaborate classifications of municipal employees of New York City began to be undertaken in 1912. A report on the standardization of salaries of the City of Milwaukee was made in 1913, and further reports were made in succeeding years which resulted in the official adoption of salary standards. Milwaukee County, in 1918, also adopted a salary standardization plan. Pittsburgh and St. Louis have adopted plans of salary standardization. Reports upon this subject were made for the cities of Cleveland and Akron, Ohio, in 1917, and Seattle, Washington, in 1918. Work in the same field had been done in Oakland, California, and Los Angeles County, California, and similar work is now under way in Philadelphia.

Canada. One of the most recent and most thorough classifications of governmental employees was that prepared for the government of Canada under the direction of the Canada Civil Service Commission. The report of the commission was published in 1919.

Expense of Investigations. In order to work out a satisfactory standardization of salaries for state employees it is, of course necessary to analyze the work performed by each employee of the state. Such a task must, therefore, be expensive, but when done, correct standards of salaries can be established and thereafter maintained without great expense. The Congressional Joint Commission on the reclassification of salaries dealt with about 100,000 employees all located in the District of Columbia. For the work of this commission $75,000 was appropriated, and the expense would have been much greater had the employments to be investigated not been located within a small territorial area. For the investigation of the New York Senate Committee on Civil Service $30,931.69 was expended, and a large part of the work was done without expense to the state by the New York Bureau of Municipal Research. Information has been received from Massachusetts that the investigation in that state with respect to the standardization of state employees cost $18,049.87, and the investigation of county employees $2,133.95.

Situation in Illinois. There is a great need for the standardization of salaries paid by the state government of Illinois. At present there is no assurance of equal pay for those performing the same duties. Original salaries for new positions, and advances and promotions after one is in the state service are not so adjusted as to treat all employees equally. Great variations exist in the salaries paid by different offices. One entering the state service has no assurance of treatment equal to that of others doing the same work, or of advances for faithful service. The state, as an employer, does not offer financial opportunities equal to those of private business, and cannot maintain the proper spirit among its employees unless they have the assurance of equal treatment and of advancement if their work is satisfactory. Salaries in the state service depend primarily upon detailed items in appropriation acts, and salaries from one state office to another now vary to a large extent according to the pressure brought by the head of an office for increases in appropriations.

No detailed information is now available regarding differences in rates of pay and of advancement in the several state offices, and no standardization of state salaries can be made without a thorough investigation. Salaries, so far as they are determined by statute (and except for the charitable and penal institutions and the University of Illinois, they are to a large extent so fixed), are fixed in the biennial appropriation acts. The House and Senate committees on appropriations cannot, in the time available to them, investigate the salaries paid to several thousand employees in order to equalize compensation, nor would it be possible for such committees, with varying membership each two years, to carry out a consistent policy of salary standardization.

Under the terms of the present statute the State Civil Service Commission has wide powers to standardize salaries; but these powers are practically meaningless, for salaries are now, in the main, fixed definitely by appropriation acts. Classifications have been worked out by the Commission, but are ineffective when conflicting with appropriation acts. In the Division of Foods and Dairies of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, certain automatic increases in salary for the second year of service are provided for in the appropriation act. Such a provision, however, merely emphasizes the fact that no regular provision for advances is made throughout the state service. Advances in salary are now made, of course, in many places throughout the state service, but no general plan exists for such advances.

The general (omnibus) appropriation act of 1919, in appropriating specific salaries for positions in the state service, uses in most cases the words "not to exceed the annual rates herein specified," and sought in this manner to confer a discretion upon the heads of offices to appoint or retain employees at salaries less than the amounts appropriated. Such a power has been used to some extent. Under it, salaries may be reduced but not increased. Of course, if such a power were exercised in making an original appointment at a rate lower than that fixed, it would be possible, under the statute, at some later time, to increase the compensation of such appointee up to the amount fixed by the appropriation act. But the power here under discussion is incapable of use so as to work out any standardization of salaries in the state service.

For a number of years appropriations for the charitable institutions have not itemized salaries and wages, and in 1919 the same plan was adopted for the penal institutions. The Department of Public Welfare has, therefore, a free hand to adjust salaries for such institutions, and has done so by General Order No. 222, effective July 1, 1919. For the charitable institutions such an adjustment was first made by General Order No. 40, issued by the State board of Administration in 1911 and superseded by General Order No. 133, issued in 1915. Under General Order No. 222, now in force as to charitable and penal institutions, maximum and minimum compensations are prescribed in most cases, with automatic increases. For the positions covered by this order a definite policy of standardized salaries is, therefore, in operation.

Lump sum appropriations for salaries and wages are, of course, sometimes included in the appropriations for other offices and institutions, and this has been the policy for some time with respect to the University of Illinois. With respect to unskilled labor, and particularly with respect to labor not permanently employed, lump sum appropriations are ordinarily made, and some power, therefore, exists to adjust compensation; but this power is not capable of being used to bring about a standardization of salaries and wages. Little has as yet been accomplished toward the proper classification of positions, or toward an equitable standardization of salaries for employees of the state. The problem of classification of state employees and standardization of state salaries may be said to involve the whole issue as to the policy to be pursued by the state as an employer.

The results to be anticipated from a standardization of salaries in the state employment are the following: (a) To equalize salaries in the several offices so that those performing similar duties shall receive similar payments, and so that an equitable system of advances may be provided. (b) To obtain a better standard for appropriations, so as to simplify the work of the General Assembly in making appropriations, and to permit the establishment of a better method of accounting control over appropriations made for salaries and wages. (c) To establish salary standards for appointments and advances in state positions, which can be used in the employment of persons by the state, whether such employment is obtained through the Civil Service Commission or otherwise.

An investigation to accomplish these purposes must: (a) Outline in detail the duties of each department or office of the state service. (b) Analyze the duties of each employee. (c) Present a reclassification of state positions based upon the character of the work actually performed, and work out standards of salaries for each class of positions.

Such an investigation is important, and its results can be employed to improve materially the efficiency of the state service. Reference has already been made to the expense of such a task for federal employees, and for the states of New York and Massachusetts. The State of Illinois has about seventy-five hundred employees, with an annual pay roll of about ten million dollars, and such employees do their work in widely separated parts of the state. This statement does not include those who are termed "officers," nor transient and part time labor.

Conclusion. The task of salary investigation when begun should be pushed to completion without delay. The commission has felt that the sum of $15,000 appropriated by the Act of 1919 is insufficient to conduct a thorough investigation as the basis for reporting "a plan for the standardization of salaries, wages, fees and other compensation for personal services of all employees of the state." Moreover, the wisdom of proceeding with an investigation of this character and magnitude during the present period of reconstruction and unsettled industrial conditions, may well be doubted. We have, therefore, thought it best not to use the appropriation of $15,000.00 made for this purpose, 1919, and $14,924.60 of this appropriation will lapse. The Commission recommends that the Fifty-second General Assembly appropriate $25,000 for the purpose of conducting an investigation, through a commission constituted in the same manner as that provided by the legislation of the Fifty-first General Assembly.

Executive Communications.

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. President—The Governor directs me to lay before the Senate the following communication:

State of Illinois,
Executive Department,
Springfield, February 1, 1921.

To the Honorable, the Senate:

In accordance with the provisions of an Act in relation to the civil administration of the State government, et cetera, approved March 7, 1917, I have the honor to nominate and appoint the following:

Dr. Isaac Donaldson Rawlings, of Chicago, to be Director of Public Health.

And I respectfully ask the concurrence of the Senate therein.

Respectfully submitted,

Len. Small, Governor.

Under the rules, the foregoing communication laid over.

The President of the Senate announced that he had examined the Journal of Tuesday, January 18, 1921, and found no corrections to make, and unless some Senator had corrections to offer, the Journal would stand approved. No corrections being offered, the Journal was ordered to stand approved.

Presentation of Resolutions.

Mr. Mills offered the following resolution, which was laid over, under the rules:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3.

Whereas, The most important problem of reconstruction is the individual readjustment in the lives of the men who willingly went forth heroically to serve our Nation and our Allies in the time when free institutions and the rights of freemen everywhere were threatened; and

Whereas, Adequate provision is not being made by the Federal Government for the proper care and medical treatment of wounded and disabled soldiers, sailors and marines who made tremendous sacrifices for our country; and

Whereas, There is a movement to secure national legislation providing more ample and more just provision for veterans of the late war; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a memorial be sent to Congress requesting that body to give immediate and favorable consideration to the following five bills:

1. Wason Bill (H. R. 13558) providing for the establishment of Fourteen Regional Offices of the War Risk Bureau and as many sub-offices as deemed necessary; authorizing the Post Office Department to collect premiums on Government insurance; and relieving from payment of premiums all disabled men in receipt of hospitalization after discharge from military service;

2. Stevenson Bill (H. R. 10835) providing for the retirement of disabled emergency or reserve corps officers on the same basis as that granted to officers of the Regular Army;

3. Hospitalization: France Bill (S. 4357) appropriating $29,530,000 for the building of new hospitals. Langley Bill (H. R. 14315) appropriating $10,000,000 for the building of new hospitals;

4. Consolidation (probably the Rogers Bill), providing the consolidation and co-ordination of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, the Rehabilitation Division of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, and the United States Public Health Service, to be placed under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior;

5. Adjusted Compensation Bill (H. R. 14157), The American Legion's Four-fold Optional Plan providing for land settlement aid, vocational training aid, farm or home aid, adjusted service certificates, and adjusted service aid; and, be it further

Resolved, The Secretary of State is hereby directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the United States Senate to the House of Representatives, and to the several members of both bodies representing the State of Illinois.

Mr. Schulze offered the following resolution, which was laid over, under the rules:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 4.

WHEREAS, The daily and nightly torture, imprisonment and murder of innocent citizens of the Republic of Ireland, constitutionally established by the votes of the Irish people, by a foreign army of occupation, and their burning of cities, towns, creameries, industries, homes and grain, and the general devastation and terrorism amounting to a war of extermination now carried on by an enemy having no constitutional or moral right in Ireland, have become an international scandal and danger; and

WHEREAS, On contemporary evidence, the Irish constituted one-half of Washington's patriot army, and men of the Irish race fought for America in all its wars; and

WHEREAS, America has always been a safe asylum for political refugees from oppressed countries, and Donal O'Callaghan, a distinguished citizen of the Irish Republic and duly elected Mayor of the important City of Cork, in Ireland, which the enemy forces have wrecked, is now a political refugee in America, and is threatened with deportation and its consequences by our administration; now

THEREFORE, We, the Senate and the House of Representatives of the State of Illinois, for the honor of America and the interests of freedom and humanity, do jointly resolve, that we hereby enter our solemn protest against such deportation, and urge that Mayor O'Callaghan be treated with the consideration due to a distinguished citizen of a friendly Republic; and further

Resolve, That copies of this Resolution be sent to His Excellency, the President of the United States, to the Honorable the Secretaries of State and Labor respectively, and to the members of the Committee on Foreign Relations in the United States Senate and of the Committee on Foreign Affairs in the national House of Representatives.

Introduction of Bills.

The following bills were introduced, each of which were read by title, ordered printed and, under the rules, were referred by the President of the Senate as follows:

By Mr. Cornwell, Senate Bill No. 1, a bill for "An Act to amend section four of an Act entitled, 'An Act concerning jurors, and to repeal certain Acts therein named,' approved and in force February 11, 1874."

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary, when formed.

By Mr. Denvir, Senate Bill No. 2, a bill for "An Act to provide a bonus to certain persons who served in the military or naval forces of the United States in the late war with Germany."

Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, when formed.

By Mr. Denvir, Senate Bill No. 3, a bill for "An Act in relation to athletic exhibitions."

Referred to the Committee on License and Miscellany, when formed.

By Mr. Austin, Senate Bill No. 4, a bill for "An Act to amend section 133 of an Act entitled 'An Act for the assessment of property and for the levy and collection of taxes,' approved March 30, 1872, in force July 1, 1872, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary, when formed.

By Mr. Sadler, Senate Bill No. 5, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 36 and 246 of division 1 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to criminal jurisprudence,' approved March 27, 1874, in force July 1, 1874, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Criminal Procedure, when formed.

By Mr. Sadler, Senate Bill No. 6, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 1 and 3 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to the sentence and commitment of persons convicted of crime or offense, and providing for a system of parole and to repeal certain Acts and parts of Acts therein named,' approved June 25, 1917, in force July 1, 1917, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Criminal Procedure, when formed.

By Mr. Sadler, Senate Bill No. 7, a bill for "An Act to amend section 2 of 'An Act providing for a system of probation, for the appointment and compensation of probation officers, and authorizing the suspension of final judgment and the imposition of sentence upon persons found guilty of certain defined crimes and offenses, and legalizing their ultimate discharge without punishment,' approved June 10, 1911, in force July 1, 1911, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Criminal Procedure, when formed.

By Mr. Glackin, Senate Bill No. 12, a bill for "An Act to amend section 5 of an Act entitled, 'An Act to enable cities and villages to establish and maintain public tuberculosis sanitariums,' approved March 7, 1908, in force July 1, 1908."

Referred to the Committee on Municipalities, when formed.

By Mr. Hicks, Senate Bill No. 13, a bill for "An Act to amend section 63 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to roads and bridges,' approved June 27, 1913, in force July 1, 1913, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Roads, Highways and Bridges, when formed.

By Mr. Jewell, Senate Bill No. 14, a bill for "An Act to amend section 36 of an Act entitled, 'An Act to revise the law in relation to the conservation of game, wild animals, wild fowls, birds, fish, mussels, frogs and turtles in the State of Illinois and to repeal all Acts in conflict therewith,' approved June 24, 1919, in force July 1, 1919."

Referred to the Committee on Fish and Game, when formed.

By Mr. Hanson, Senate Bill No. 15, a bill for "An Act to amend section 5 of 'An Act to regulate the State charitable institutions and the State Reform School, and to improve their organization and increase their efficiency," approved April 15, 1875, in force July 1, 1875, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Charitable, Penal and Reformatory Institutions, when formed.

By Mr. Barr, Senate Bill No. 16, a bill for "An Act to make an appropriation to the Secretary of State."

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations, when formed.

At 10:40 o'clock a. m., on motion of Mr. Barr, the Senate adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1921, 10:00 O'CLOCK A. M.

Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Hon. Fred E. Sterling, Lieutenant Governor and President of the Senate, presiding.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. S. H. Wirshing, Pastor of the Richard Street Methodist Church of Joliet, Illinois.

The President of the Senate announced that he had examined the Journal of Tuesday, February 1, 1921, and found no corrections to make. and unless some Senator had corrections to offer, the Journal would stand approved. No corrections being offered, the Journal was ordered to stand approved.

Presentation of Petitions.

Mr. Telford presented a petition from soldiers and sailors of U. S. P. H. S. Hospital No. 37, Waukesha, Wisconsin, urging the passage of a bill with a referendum granting a bonus to World War veterans, soldiers' widows and nurses of Illinois.

Which petition was referred by the President of the Senate to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Presentation of Resolutions.

Mr. Telford offered the following resolution, which was laid over, under the rules:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 5.

Whereas, For the past three years, the greater burden and hardships of the World War, both physical and financial, have been borne by persons of small incomes; and

Whereas, By reason of the present, inequitable provisions of the Federal Income Tax Law of the United States, the greater burdens of such taxation is placed upon and borne by persons of small incomes; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring herein, That we urge the Congress of the United States to immediately pass an amendment to the Federal Income Tax Law, exempting all personal incomes of Five Thousand Dollars and less from Federal Income Tax; and be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of State of the State of Illinois transmit a copy of this resolution to the United States Senate and National House of Representatives, assembled at Washington, D. C., and to members of these bodies, representing the State of Illinois.

Mr. Carroll offered the following resolution, which was laid over, under the rules:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 6.

Whereas, This Nation, governed by its traditional opposition to tyranny and despotism, and actuated by the highest motives in furthering the welfare of humanity, entered the great World War, and in furtherance of such traditions gave up its treasures in money and manhood without stint, and

WHEREAS, The great underlying purposes of this Nation in so entering the great war was to seek justice for the weak and oppressed peoples of the world and to effectuate the principle of justice which gives to those peoples the right to form a government of their own to regulate their own domestic and internal affairs and their relations to each other; and

WHEREAS, The American Government, through its people, has, in all its history, deplored and opposed usurpations of powers which have the direct object of the establishment of tyranny and despotism, over those peoples who are of themselves powerless to oppose such usurpation of powers; and

WHEREAS, The same nation which sought and attempted to tyrannize and establish a despotism over our own beloved country, by the exercise of its military and naval power, is now, and has, for the past seven centuries, by the unjust exercise of its military and civil power, cruelly used, usurped the powers properly vested in and belonging to the Irish people, and has established a tyrannical despotism to rule over said Irish people by the use of force so violent that it has become necessary for the Irish people to set up and maintain a government of their own in opposition to the despotism so established over them by the British government; and

WHEREAS, The people of this country read daily, with horror and disgust, of the brutal and indefensible massacre of peace-loving and saintly Irish priests, as well as Ireland's bravest and noblest citizens, by the British government, through its appointed military forces known as the murderous "Black and Tans," now forcibly and unjustly occupying the sacred soil of that ancient and historic land; and

WHEREAS, Ireland has always been America's best and warmest friend from the days of 1774, when on many bloody battlefields its sons bravely fought on American soil the European mercenaries and Indian savages sent over to this country by George III of England to suppress the patriotic efforts of George Washington, Samuel Adams, John Hancock, Patrick Henry, and innumerable other patriots, who, like the sons of Ireland of today, were struggling to be free; and

WHEREAS, The people of Ireland have committed no crime, other than that of seeking for their beloved country that form of national independence which the immortal Washington and his noble co-patriots sought to establish for their oppressed country in the memorable days of the American Revolution, be it therefore

Resolved, By the people of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That we sincerely sympathize with the Irish people in their heroic struggle for national independence, and condemn with all the force at our command the brutal and wanton murder of innocent Irish priests, sisters, and laymen by British soldiery, now unjustly occupying the sacred soil of Ireland; be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Secretary of State of the United States at Washington, D. C., coupled with the request that he at once recommend to Congress the passage of such necessary measures as will enable our American Nation to recognize the Republic of Ireland, now established by the will of eighty-five per cent of its brave and patriotic people, and thus show the civilized world that from our beloved America still radiates the joy and hope of all small nations struggling to be free.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. President—I am directed by the Governor to lay before the Senate the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SPRINGFIELD, February 1, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

Pursuant to the provisions of section 31, Article VI of the Constitution, Honorable James H. Cartwright, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, has submitted to me a report of a defect or omission in the laws, together with an appropriate form of bill to cure such defect or omission. A copy of the report of Judge Cartwright, and copy of the bill suggested by him is transmitted herewith.

Respectfully submitted,

LEN. SMALL, Governor.

A BILL FOR AN ACT CONCERNING FUTURE INTERESTS.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: That no future interest shall fail or be defeated by the determination of any precedent estate or interest prior to the happening of the event or contingency on which the future interest is limited to take effect.

MY DEAR SIR: In compliance with Section 31 Article VI of the Constitution requiring Judges of the Supreme Court to report in writing to the Governor such defects and omissions in the laws as they may find to exist, together with approriate forms of bills to cure such defects, I beg leave to call attention on behalf of the Judges of the Supreme Court, to a very serious defect in the laws of this State which has become a great evil of late years and results in the destruction of wills and the defeat of just and proper dispositions of property by testators. The defect arose out of the Common Law Rule established in feudal times in England concerning future interests, which required that any such interest should take effect in possession during the existence of the previous estate or immediately on its termination, so that if an individual had a life estate and it came to an end by forfeiture or in any other way before his death, a future estate to take effect at his death was lost. The reason for that rule of law was that under the feudal system, there must always be an occupant of the land to fulfill feudal duties to the Lord, to defend the estate and represent it so that other claimants might maintain their right. The only way to pass such an estate was by delivering possession and if the property became vacant, there was no one to perform military service and other duties to the Lord and the future interest was at an end. There never was the slightest reason for such a rule of law in this country where no feudal Lord has ever had any right to call upon occupants of land for feudal services and there ceased to be any reason for it long ago in England. The evil was cured and the rule abolished in the early years of the reign of Queen Victoria. (7 & 8 Vict. C. 76, sec. 8 & 8 & 9 Vict. C. 106). The rule has been abolished by statute in many states, but in this State the common law was adopted by statute and the courts are powerless to remedy the evil. The responsibility rests with the Legislature. The evil and wrong may be illustrated by many cases. Take for example, a case where a testator devises a life estate in land to his wife with remainder in fee simple to his son when he shall become 21 years of age. If the widow dies before the son becomes 21 years of age, the will is defeated and the estate devised to the son lost because the future interest did not vest immediately on the death of the widow. Such cases were not so frequent, but in Bond V. Moore, 236 Ill. 576, the Supreme Court was compelled to declare the law to be that heirs and a life tenant could destroy future contingent interests and that becoming generally understood, it has become a common practice. In every case such destruction defeats the will of the testator and almost invariably works an unjustifiable result and a great wrong. Cases come to the court continually where the court is powerless to afford any remedy. The creation of such future interests is generally wise and just and enables the testator to make suitable provision for the objects of his bounty and it is not a means nor used for the purpose of tying up estates. That is accomplished by creating trusts and it is done mainly in large estates employing capable lawyers who understand the method of doing that kind of work. It is strange that a rule of law which had its origin solely in feudal times in which the occupant owed duties to the Lord and which has long since been abolished in England and in many of the states should still prevail in this State. There is real and pressing need that the rule should be changed and I have the honor to submit herewith the form of a bill for that purpose.

With highest respect, I am, your obedient servant,

(Signed) JAMES H. CARTWRIGHT,
Chief Justice Supreme Court.

Honorable Len. Small, Governor.

The foregoing communication was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, when formed.

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. President—The Governor directs me to lay before the Senate the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SPRINGFIELD, February 2, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

In accordance with the provisions of an Act to create the Illinois Farm Commission, et cetera, approved June 28, 1919.

I respectfully transmit herewith for the consideration of your Honorable Body the report of the Illinois Farm Commission.

Respectfully submitted,

LEN. SMALL, Governor.

To His Excellency, Frank O. Lowden, Governor of Illinois.

SIR: The commission provided for by "An Act to create the Ilinois Farm Commission, to define its powers and duties, and to make an approrpiation therefor", to investigate conditions in Illinois regarding the operation and leasing of Illinois farm lands, the growth of farm tenancy in this State, the maintenance on the fertility of the land, and such other questions as may bear upon the problem of crop production and profitable agriculture, beg leave to submit to Your Excellency the following report, as required by law.

Tenant farming is more prevalent in the central and northern parts of the State than elsewhere in Illinois. The richer and more productive the soil, the higher the percentage of farms operated by tenants. Statistics of 1910 show as high as 66 per cent of the farms in the northern and central sections operated by tenants as compared with only about 30 per cent in southern Illinois.

Public hearings were advertised and held by the commission at the following cities: Champaign, Danville, Watseka, El Paso, Galesburg, Princeton and Woodstock. Few tenants living under unfavorable conditions appeared at these hearings. They would naturally refrain from coming before the commission and telling of the bad conditions under which they were living, as in many cases such action on their part would terminate their leases, yet there was a fairly representative attendance of landlords and tenants of the better class at each meeting. They gave an apparently fair report of the conditions under which the land is farmed by both land owners and tenants in each locality.

On February 23, 1920, a meeting was held at Champaign, attended by forty farmers. Most of the tenants who were heard had one-year leases, and the majority of them seemed to see no special advantage in long-term leases. This sentiment prevailed at other places. Most of the landlords and tenants took the ground, that where both parties were satisfied, a long term by the tenant naturally followed. On the other hand, if either party to a long-term lease became dissatisfied, it made a very unpleasant working condition between the two, which could not be terminated until the expiration of the lease.

Another idea brought out at all the hearings was that it was not safe for a tenant farmer with a limited amount of money to buy land at the present high prices. There were exceptions, some taking the position that a tenant stood as good a chance of becoming a land owner at present high prices of farm products (which was in February, 1920) as he did when land and products were cheaper.

At Champaign, Watseka, Danville and El Paso, grain farming predominates. A start had been made in the use of clover, limestone and phosphate. The landlord generally furnishes one-half the clover seed, all the limestone and phosphate, and the tenant hauls them to the farm and puts them on. This is being done, however, only to a limited extent on rented farms. In these localities land is generally leased for one-half of all grain delivered at market and from $6.00 to $10.00 per acre for pasture. Some owners charged the tenant the above rent and a bonus of from $1.00 to $2.00 per acre, and occasionally as high as $10.00 per acre, and some rented their land for two-fifths of the grain, but these terms were exceptions. Only a few rent on a cash basis. Generally speaking, very little is being done to maintain the soil, and in most cases the land is growing poorer, while tenancy is on the increase. According to the 1920 census, about 59 per cent of the farms in this section are operated by tenants, an increase of about 5 per cent in ten years. Land is selling at from $300.00 to $500.00 per acre.

Many of these farms are owned by absentee landlords who generally take little interest in maintaining their farms and in the community life. Where there is a large percentage of tenancy, it was learned, the land is not quite so productive, improvements are not so good, and there is less community spirit than is found where operation of farms by the owners is the rule.

On February 26 a meeting was held at Galesburg. Here we found a different system of farming. Most of the live stock in this State is fed between the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. A different system of leasing is followed, due to live stock farming. Here the landlord furnishes the land, one-half the live stock and one-half the seed, while the tenant furnishes work stock, labor, machinery, and one-half of live stock. Farm crops are fed to live stock and everything sold off of the farm is divided equally. The landlord maintains buildings and fences.

In this locality tenants have better farm improvements. One-year leases prevail, yet the tenants stay longer on the same farms than where grain farming is followed. Land is maintained better and is more productive because of the live stock farming. There are better churches, better schools, better community life, better satisfied tenants, and fewer absentee landlords. Most of those who expressed an opinion thought a man with $10,000 and his equipment to run a quarter section of land would have a hard time paying for a 160 acre farm at present prices. A few were of the opinion that he could do it as easily as twenty years ago, if the prices for farm products were maintained. Corn then was about $1.80 per bushel on the farm; it was about 50 cents per bushel on November 26, 1920.

At Princeton and elsewhere in that locality more live stock is raised than at Champaign, Watseka and El Paso, but less than at Galesburg. More land is rented for cash.

On February 28, 1920, the commission met at Woodstock. In this vicinity 45.9 per cent of the land is farmed by tenants. This is an increase of 3.6 per cent in ten years. Land is selling at from $150.00 to $300.00 per acre; dairy farming is followed for the most part. Not much phosphate is used. Land is rented on the partnership or cash rent basis. Cash rent is from $8.00 to $12.00 per acre. There is not much absentee landlordism. About 50 per cent of the farms are operated by the owners' sons. These young men said that if their fathers did not own the land they would go to the city, because they thought the opportunity to succeed there would be better than to start in as farm hands or tenant farmers in the hope of acquiring farms. Most of the land here was bought and sold by speculators. Some of the tenants declared that improvements, phosphate, etc., applied by the tenant, should be paid for by landlord if the tenant leaves the farm before reaping the benefit.

It would seem from the above investigation made by your Commission, that if we hope to maintain the fertility of our soil and our community life in the rural districts, to make farm life attractive enough to keep our best young people on the farms, to feed the present generation, and leave our soil so that it will feed future generations, it is necessary:

First, to discourage speculation in land, whereby land values are made higher than the producing power will justify. To accomplish this we would recommend a transfer tax of one per cent of selling price on all transfers made in less than one year after ownership is acquired, safeguarded with such provisions as will protect transfers other than speculative.

Second, with the large percentage of tenancy in this State, the tenant necessarily is an important factor in maintaining the soil, and he should be encouraged and protected in his efforts to do so. Therefore, your commission would recommend a "tenant's rights" law, properly safeguarding both the rights of the landlord and tenant, to encourage the tenant to build up the soil and the farm generally. This law should provide for reimbursement of the tenant, on the termination of his lease, for the improvements he puts on the land with the consent of the landlord. It should also protect the landlord against the unnecessary destruction of his property by a careless tenant. This would encourage both good landlords and good tenants.

Third, we recommend the Federal Farm Loan Bank as a sane plan to furnish long term credit on farm lands, and urge the enactment of necessary legislation to protect and promote second mortgage loans on farm lands.

Fourth, we recommend that an appropriation of $25,000 be made to the Farm Management Department of the University of Illinois, for the purpose of making a farm tenancy survey.

Mr. President—The Governor directs me to lay before the Senate the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SPRINGFIELD, February 2, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-Second General Assembly:

As provided in section 38 of the Civil Administrative Code, I respectfully transmit herewith the Second State Budget for the consideration of your Honorable Body.

This Budget was prepared by the Department of Finance previous to my inauguration, and is submitted without change.

It embraces estimates of revenues from taxation and from sources other than taxes, and appropriations for the respective departments, offices, institutions and other public purposes.

Respectfully submitted,

LEN. SMALL, Governor.

The foregoing communication was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, when formed.

Mr. Wood offered the following resolution, which was laid over, under the rules:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 7.

WHEREAS, Compulsory military service or conscription defies the opinion of a free people and is contrary to the fundamental principles of American liberty; and

WHEREAS, Compulsory military service is the ancient instrument of kings and princes and of despotism and tyranny; and

WHEREAS, The inevitable result of compulsory military service is war; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That the Fifty-second General Assembly of the State of Illinois protests to the Congress of the United States against compulsory military service and conscription for foreign service; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senators and Representatives in Congress from the State of Illinois be urged to endeavor by all legitimate means to discourage future compulsory military service; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this preamble and resolution be sent to the Secretary of State, to the President of the Senate of the United States, and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and to each of the United States Senators and Representatives in Congress from the State of Illinois.

Mr. Dailey offered the following resolution, and by unanimous consent, on his motion the rules were suspended and the resolution taken up for immediate consideration and adopted:

Consideration of Resolutions.

The following resolution, offered by Mr. Mills on February 1, 1921, was taken up for consideration and on his motion was adopted:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3.

Whereas, The most important problem of reconstruction is the individual readjustment in the lives of the men who willingly went forth heroically to serve our Nation and our Allies in the time when free institutions and the rights of freemen everywhere were threatened; and

Whereas, Adequate provision is not being made by the Federal Government for the proper care and medical treatment of wounded and disabled soldiers, sailors and marines who made tremendous sacrifices for our country; and

Whereas, There is a movement to secure national legislation providing more ample and more just provision for veterans of the late war; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a memorial be sent to Congress requesting that body to give immediate and favorable consideration to the following five bills:

1. Wason Bill (H. R. 13558) providing for the establishment of Fourteen Regional Offices of the War Risk Bureau and as many sub-offices as deemed necessary; authorizing the Post Office Department to collect premiums on Government insurance; and relieving from payment of premiums all disabled men in receipt of hospitalization after discharge from military service;

2. Stevenson Bill (H. R. 10835) providing for the retirement of disabled emergency or reserve corps officers on the same basis as that granted to officers of the Regular Army;

3. Hospitalization: France Bill (S. 4357) appropriating $29,530,000 for the building of new hospitals. Lagley Bill (H. R. 14315) appropriating $10,000,000 for the building of new hospitals;

4. Consolidation (probably the Rogers Bill), providing the consolidation and co-ordination of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, the Rehabilitation Division of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, and the United States Public Health Service, to be placed under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior;

5. Adjusted Compensation Bill (H. R. 14157). The American Legion's Four-fold Optional Plan providing for land settlement aid, vocational training aid, farm or home aid, adjusted service certificates, and adjusted service aid; and, be it further

Resolved, The Secretary of State is hereby directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the United States Senate to the House of Representatives, and to the several members of both bodies representing the State of Illinois.

The following resolution, offered by Mr. Schulze on February 1, 1921, was taken up for consideration; and on motion of Mr. Barr it was ordered that this resolution and all other resolutions on the calendar, except messages from the Governor, be referred to the Executive Committee.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 4.

WHEREAS, The daily and nightly torture, imprisonment and murder of innocent citizens of the Republic of Ireland, constitutionally established by the votes of the Irish people, by a foreign army of occupation, and their burning of cities, towns, creameries, industries, homes and grain, and the general devastation and terrorism amounting to a war of extermination now carried on by an enemy having no constitutional or moral right in Ireland, have become an international scandal and danger; and

WHEREAS, On contemporary evidence, the Irish constituted one-half of Washington's patriot army and men of the Irish race fought for America in all its wars; and

WHEREAS, America has always been a safe asylum for political refugees from oppressed countries, and Donal O'Callaghan, a distinguished citizen of the Irish Republic and duly elected Mayor of the important City of Cork, in Ireland, which the enemy forces have wrecked, is now a political refugee in America, and is threatened with deportation and its consequences by our administration; now

THEREFORE, We, the Senate and the House of Representatives of the State of Illinois, for the honor of America and the interests of freedom and humanity, do jointly resolve, that we hereby enter our solemn protest against such deportation, and urge that Mayor O'Callaghan be treated with the consideration due to a distinguished citizen of a friendly Republic; and further

Resolve, That copies of this Resolution be sent to His Excellency, the President of the United States, to the Honorable the Secretaries of State and Labor respectively, and to the members of the Committee on Foreign Relations in the United States Senate and of the Committe on Foreign Affairs in the national House of Representatives.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

At 10:00 o'clock a. m., on motion of Mr. Ettelson, the Senate went into Executive Session to consider the nomination of Dr. Isaac Donaldson Rawlings, of Chicago, to be Director of Public Health, made by the Governor to the Senate on February 1, 1921.

Mr. Ettelson moved that the Senate advise and consent to the nomination just made, and the question being: "Does the Senate advise and consent to the nomination just made?" it was decided in the affirmative by the following vote: Yeas, 49; nays, none.

The following voted in the affirmative: Messrs.

Presentation of Communications.

The President presented the following communication, which was read by the Secretary:

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.

President's Office.

URBANA, ILL., January 24, 1921.

To the President and Members of the Senate of the Fifty-second General Assembly of the State of Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: In accordance with a long established practice I write to invite the members of your Honorable Body to visit the University of Illinois. I am sure that I need not urge upon the attention of your Honorable Body the advantages of a personal inspection of this State institution. The demands of the people for its services have pressed upon its resources so greatly that it has grown far more rapdily than anyone had anticipated. A personal inspection and study on the ground will give a clearer and juster appreciation of the character, work, and needs of the University than any description could. For that reason I am sure the members of the Senate will regard such a trip as advantageous.

Moreover, it always encourages the members of the University staff in their work to know that your Honorable Body is sufficiently interested in the institution to visit it, and the multitude of students from all over the State also get an added interest in their University work.

While, of course, your Honorable Body, in consultation with members of the House, will yourselves determine what date will be most convenient for such a visit, I take the liberty of suggesting the sixteenth of February. It has been customary on these trips for the members to arrive about supper time and remain through the following day.

Awaiting your decision and instructions in the matter, I am,

Very respectfully yours,

(Signed) DAVID KINLEY, President.

On motion of Mr. Dailey, it was ordered that the invitation be accepted.

Presentation of Resolutions.

Mr. Wood offered the following resolution:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 17.

Resolved, That Edwin Sunderland be appointed Engrossing Clerk at a per diem of $8.00, to date from the day he begins work.

On motion of Mr. Barr, the rules were suspended by unanimous consent and the resolution taken up for immediate consideration and adopted.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

The following bills were introduced, each of which were read by title, ordered printed and, under the rules, were referred by the President of the Senate as follows:

By Mr. Barr, Senate Bill No. 33, a bill for "An Act making additional appropriations to the Department of Public Welfare for the State charitable, penal and reformatory institutions."

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

By Mr. Barr, Senate Bill No. 34, a bill for "An Act to make an appropriation to the Secretary of State."

By Mr. Cornwell, Senate Bill No. 35, a bill for "An Act concerning future interests."

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

By Mr. Dailey, Senate Bill No. 36, a bill for "An Act to amend section 1 of an Act entitled, 'An Act to provide for and fix the salary of the judges of the Supreme Court,' approved May 16, 1905, in force July 1, 1905."

Referred to the Committee on Fees and Salaries.

By Mr. Jewell, Senate Bill No. 37, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 1 and 7 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to the sentence and commitment of persons convicted of crime or offenses and providing for a system of parole and to repeal certain Acts and parts of Acts therein named,' approved June 25, 1917, in force July 1, 1917, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has adopted the following preamble and joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 7.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the state of Indiana has in its present session, by an Act, created a commission of three (3) for the investigation of the improvement of the Kankakee River, within the boundary lines of the State of Illinois, the appointment of which commission is to be made by the Governor of said state of Indiana; and

WHEREAS, Said commission so appointed by the state of Indiana, is to make investigation of the nature and character of the improvement needed in the Kankakee River, from the boundary lines dividing the state of Indiana and the State of Illinois, down the river into and through the State of Illinois, to a point below the city of Momence, which improvement is to be for the improvement of the sanitary and drainage conditions of the territory from the eastern boundary line of the State of Illinois, where same is traversed by the Kankakee River, to a point below the city of Momence; and

WHEREAS, It is provided by the Act of the Legislature of the state of Indiana, that said commission so appointed by the Governor, is to confer with a similar commission from the State of Illinois, in the event that the State of Illinois authorizes the appointment of such commission; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the Fifty-second General Assembly, the Senate concurring herein, That a joint commission of three members be appointed, two to be appointed from the House of Representatives by the Speaker thereof and the third from the Senate by the President, to confer with the commission selected and appointed by the Governor of the state of Indiana and to make an investigation of the conditions and proprosed improvement in the Kankakee River; that said commission report back to the Governor of the State of Illinois and to the General Assembly the result of its investigation and of its conference with the commission of the state of Indiana and that it make such recommendations to the Governor of the State of Illinois and to the General Assembly as it may deem necessary.

Adopted by the House, February 2, 1921.

B. H. MCCANN, Clerk of the House.

By unanimous consent, the foregoing resolution was taken up for consideration, and the question being, "Shall the Senate concur with the House of Representatives in the adoption of the resolution?" it was decided in the affirmative.

The Senate Press Committee presented the following communication, which was read by the Secretary:

Hon. Fred E. Sterling, Lieutenant Governor:

The press Committee of the legislative correspondents begs leave to submit the following set of rules for the government of the Press Galleries in the Senate for your approval, and attached thereto is a list of the duly accredited correspondents found entitled to the privileges of the Press Galleries under said rules as of date of January 5, 1921:

1. Persons desiring admission to the Press Galleries shall make application to the President of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and shall also state in writing for what paper or papers they are employed and shall also state that they are not in any sense the agents or representatives of persons or corporations having legislation before the General Assembly and will not become such while retaining their places in the Galleries. Visiting journalists who may be allowed temporary admission to the Galleries must conform to the restrictions of the same.

2. The applications required by the above rule shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the Press Committee of the Correspondents who shall see that the occupation of the Galleries is confined to bona fide telegraphic correspondents of reputable standing in their business and who represent daily newspapers; or who shall be bona fide representatives of the daily newspapers of Springfield, and not exceeding one seat shall be assigned to each paper; and it shall be the duty of the Press Committee at its discretion to report violations of the rules or of the privileges of the Galleries, to the President of the Senate or to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and pending action thereof the offending correspondents shall be suspended.

3. Persons employed in the Executive or Legislative Departments of the State Government, whose chief attention is not given to newspaper correspondence, shall not be entitled to admission to the Press Galleries.

4. The Galleries, subject to the approval of the President of the Senate and of the Speaker of the House, shall be under control of the Press Committee of Correspondents.

Respectfully submitted,

JOE D. SALKELD,
WM. B. MCCORMICK,
H. J. RIEFLER,
Press Committee of Correspondents.

On motion of Mr. Ettelson, the above communication was approved and the Secretary was ordered to incorporate it in the Journal.

A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has adopted the following joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

House Joint Resolution No. 8.

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That when the two Houses adjourn on Thursday, February 3d, they stand adjourned until Tuesday, February 8, 1921, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

Adopted by the House, February 3, 1921.

B. H. McCann, Clerk of the House.

A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred with the Senate in the adoption of the following preamble and point resolution, to-wit:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 3.

WHEREAS, The most important problem of reconstruction is the individual readjustment in the lives of the men who willingly went forth heroically to serve our Nation and our Allies in the time when free institutions and the rights of freemen everywhere were threatened; and

WHEREAS, Adequate provision is not being made by the Federal Government for the proper care and medical treatment of wounded and disabled soldiers, sailors and marines who made tremendous secrifices for our country; and

WHEREAS, There is a movement to secure national legislation providing more ample and more just provision for veterans of the late war; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a memorial be sent to Congress requesting that body to give immediate and favorable consideration to the following five bills:

1. Wason Bill (H. R. 13558), providing for the establishment of Fourteen Regional Offices of the War Risk Bureau and as many sub-offices as deemed necessary; authorizing the Post Office Department to collect premiums on Government insurance; and relieving from payment of premiums all disabled men in receipt of hospitalization after discharge from military service;

2. Stevenson Bill (H. R. 10835), providing for the retirement of disabled emergency or reserve corps officers on the same basis as that granted to officers of the Regular Army;

3. Hospitalization: France Bill (S. 4357), appropriating $29,530,000 for the building of new hospitals. Langley Bill (H. R. 14315), appropriating $10,000,000 for the building of new hospitals;

4. Consolidation (probably the Rogers Bill), providing the consolidation and co-ordination of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, the Rehabilitation Division of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, and the United States Public Health Service, to be placed under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior;

Presentation of Resolutions.

Mr. Sadler offered the following resolution, which, under the rules, was laid on the table for one day:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 8.

Resolved, By the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That there shall be submitted to the electors of this State for adoption or rejection at the next election of the members of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois in the manner provided by law, a proposition to amend Article IX of the Constitution of this State by adding thereto three additional sections to be known as sections 14, 15 and 16 of Article IX, as follows:

Article IX, Sec. 14. For the purposes (or any one or more of them) of acquiring, constructing, owning, leasing, maintaining, and operating such income-producing properties as it is by law authorized to own or operate (or to own and operate) for the supply of transportation, communication, light, heat, power, and water (or any of them) any city, village, or incorporated town may issue interest bearing bonds, in excess of any limitation of indebtedness otherwise prescribed in this Constitution, to an amount not at any time exceeding in the aggregate fifteen per centum on the full value of the taxable real property therein, to be ascertained by the last assessment for State and county purposes previous to the issuance of such bonds. Any city, village, or incorporated town issuing such bonds shall, before or at the time of doing so, provide for the collection of a direct annual tax sufficient to pay the interest thereon as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal thereof within thirty years from the date thereof.

Article IX, Sec. 15. Unless otherwise provided in the act of any city, village, or incorporated town, authorizing the issuance of any bonds for the purpose of financing any income-producing public utility, such bonds shall be held to be issued in excess of the limitation prescribed by section 12 of this Article. Each issue of bonds, or of other securities, by any city, village or incorporated town, for the aforesaid purpose, shall be payable in substantially equal annual installments of principal and interest combined, beginning not more than five years from the date hereof. No such bonds or other securities shall be issued until the proposition therefor shall have been consented to by a majority of the legal voters of such city, village, or incorporated town voting upon the question. Any city, village, or incorporated town owning or operating any income-producing public utility shall conform to all requirements with respect to the keeping of accounts and the audit thereof and to the making of reports that shall be prescribed by law with respect to such matters for any other persons or corporations owning or operating a like utility.

Article IX, Sec. 16. Any city, village or incorporated town issuing bonds in excess of the limitation of indebtedness prescribed by section 12 of this Article, for the purpose of financing any income-producing public utility, shall, not less than four months prior to the time when any tax for the payment and discharge of the principal of and interest on such bonds, or of the principal of and interest on any other indebtedness incurred for the purpose of financing the same utility, shall by law become collectible, deposit or cause to be deposited with the treasurer thereof, out of the gross earnings of the utility for the financing of which the indebtedness to be discharged by such tax was incurred, a sum equivalent in amount to such tax, the funds so deposited to be used solely for the purpose of paying and discharging such indebtedness, both as to principal and interest, as the same falls due. To the extent that funds to be used for the payment of any such indebtedness, as to either principal or interest, shall be deposited with the treasurer of any such city, village, or incorporated town prior to the collection of such tax, such tax shall not be collected, but no subsequent loss or misappropriation of the funds so deposited shall relieve such city, village or incorporated town of its liability to pay such indebtedness.

Any city, village, or incorporated town issuing bonds in excess of the limitation of indebtedness prescribed by section 12 of this Article, for the purpose of financing any income-producing public utility, shall thereafter (irresppective of the subsequent amortization of the debt evidenced by any bonds or other securities whatsoever, issued for the financing of such utility) establish and maintain such rates or charges for the service supplied as are necessary to provide sufficient revenue (in addition to amounts required for the payment of the principal of and interest on all outstanding bonded or other indebtedness incurred for the financing of such utility) to pay and discharge at least all costs and expenses involved in or incidental to the ownership, operation, and maintenance of such utility, including expenditures and reserves for repairs and renewals necessary to maintain the properties in first class condition in every respect at all times.

The provisions of this section and of sections 12, 14 and 15 of this Article shall be self-executing, but laws not in conflict may be passed to facilitate their operation. Any taxpayer of any city, village, or incorporated town owning or operating any such utility shall have the right to enforce all provisions of said sections by appropriate proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction, but the right of such taxpayer with respect to the enforcement thereof shall not be exclusive. It shall be the duty of courts of general jurisdiction to enforce all such provisions and for such purpose they shall have all necessary powers, including the power to control and regulate the service supplied by any such utility.

PRESENTATION OF RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Dailey offered the following resolution, which was laid over under the rules:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 9.

WHEREAS, It has been charged that there are combinations and agreements among builders, materialmen, laborers and others, which result in maintaining or raising the cost of constructing dwelling houses and other buildings; and

WHEREAS, There is now an acute housing shortage, which presents serious dangers to the health, safety, morals and welfare of the people of this State, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a joint committee of ten (10) shall be appointed, five (5) members thereof to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and five (5) members thereof to be appointed by the President of the Senate, upon the recommendation of the Executive Committee, to make a careful examination of combinations and agreements among builders, materialmen, laborers and others which may result in maintaining or raising the cost of constructing dwelling houses and other buildings.

The committee so authorized shall have full power to inquire whether combinations exist for establishing and maintaining prices of building materials; to ascertain the cost of producing such materials and the profits derived by the dealers therein; to investigate the compensation to labor in the production of building materials and in the construction of dwellings or other buildings, not with a view of diminishing wages, but for the purpose of ascertaining the cost of manufacturing building materials and of constructing dwellings or other buildings; to ascertain the dividends paid by corporations engaged in the manufacture or the sale of building materials or in work of building construction, and the profits derived by persons or business associations of any character engaged in said businesses; and to ascertain the bearing of transportation charges upon the present high cost of building. The specific enumeration of the powers of this committee shall in no way limit the full authority of the committee to investigate any and all matters entering into the cost of dwellings or other buildings.

Said committee shall report their conclusions, findings and recommendations as expeditiously as may be to the present General Assembly, and shall recommend such proposed legislation as may be deemed necessary arising out of the subject matter of this inquiry.

For the purpose of conducting such investigation, said committee is hereby authorized and empowered to subpoena witnesses under the signature of the chairman, to place under oath and examine such witnesses, and to issue subpoenas duces tecum for witness or witnesses, and for such books, documents, papers, memoranda, or things as such committee shall deem necessary for its information in carrying out the objects and purposes of this resolution.

Said committee is authorized to require any person or persons to cause to be submitted to said committee, or any person duly authorized to act for it, for inspection and examination, any books, papers, documents, or letters of any character, kind or description.

Such committee is authorized to employ such assistance as it may require, including the employment of clerical, statistical, technical, legal and accounting experts. Said committee and the members thereof shall be entitled to actual expenses incurred in the performance of the duties enjoined by this resolution.

Resolved, further, That the General Assembly proceed to make an appropriation for the necessary expenses for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this resolution, and that all vouchers for expenses of said committee and its members shall be approved by the chairman of the committee, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the President of the Senate.

Mr. MacMurray offered the following resolution which was laid over under the rules:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 19.

WHEREAS, The government of the City of Chicago has failed to pay operating expenses out of current revenues for the past two years, and is submitting an issue of bonds to the voters of the City of Chicago, for the purpose of raising money wherewith to pay off this deficit; and

WHEREAS, It is expected that the City of Chicago will be asking for further legislation from this General Assembly to meet its supposed further financial needs; and

WHEREAS, The question as to the adequacy of revenues for the City of Chicago involves not only the question of the amount and sources of present income, but also the question of the wise and prudent expenditure thereof, now, therefore, in anticipation of the revenue legislation which will be asked of the General Assembly in behalf of the City of Chicago and in behalf of other taxing bodies in the City of Chicago, and in order that the General Assembly may be properly informed as to the proper and legitimate revenue needs of such tax spending bodies, be it

Resolved, By the Senate of the State of Illinois, That there be constituted a committee of five senators, to be appointed by the President of the Senate, to inquire into and to ascertain the amount and source of the revenues of the City of Chicago and of other tax raising and tax spending bodies in the City of Chicago, and to examine in detail into the expenditures thereof, and to report the results of its investigation as soon as possible; and further be it

Resolved, That for the purposes of this inquiry the committee is authorized to subpoena witnesses and to compel the production of books, vouchers and other papers and documents necessary to this inquiry, and to administer oaths; and further be it

Resolved, That for the purposes of this investigation this committee shall have power to employ counsel and the necessary stenographic and technical assistants; and further be it

Resolved, That the expenses of this investigation shall be certified by the chairman of such committee and shall be payable out of any funds appropriated for the committee or contingent expenses, or both, of the Senate.

MESSAGES FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

A message from the House by Mr. McCann, Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred with the Senate in the adoption of the following joint resolution, to-wit:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 10.

Resolved, by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That when the two Houses adjourn on Wednesday, February 16, 1921, they stand adjourned until Wednesday, February 23, 1921, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

Concurred in by the House February 16, 1921.

B. H. MCCANN, Clerk of the House.

At the hour of 10:40 o'clock a. m., on motion of Mr. Barr, the Senate adjourned and the President of the Senate declared that the Senate stood adjourned until Wednesday, February 23, 1921, at 10 o'clock a. m.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1921, 10:00 O'CLOCK A. M.

Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Jewell, President pro tempore of the Senate, presiding.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. Norma C. Brown, Pastor of the Carlock Christian Church, Carlock, Illinois.

The President pro tempore of the Senate announced that he had examined the Journal of Wednesday, February 16, 1921, and found no corrections to make, and unless some Senator had corrections to offer, the Journal would stand approved. No corrections being offered, the Journal was ordered to stand approved.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The President pro tempore of the Senate presented the following telegrams:

"FAIRFIELD, ILL., February 22, 1921.

"Will not be able to attend session this week. Am in bed sick.

"CHARLES L. WOOD."

"CHICAGO, ILL., February 22, 1921.

"I am very sorry that I cannot attend this week's session of the Senate. I regret deeply being obliged to absent myself from the exercises in memory of our late colleague, Senator Curtis. We on the minority side feel the loss keenly of a very considerate and affable co-worker. We knew him only as a friend who was always willing to assist and counsel with the younger members. By his length of service and close application to his work he stood out as an authority on legislative affairs. The excellent condition of our State institutions is a monument to the untiring efforts of our late friend. His tireless effort to relieve suffering among State dependents was a manifestation of true charity, a virtue that is rewarded only before the Highest Judge. May I add these few remembrances to the expressions of today's services.

E. J. HUGHES."

Mr. Barr requested, and was granted, that the records show the absence of Lieutenant Governor Sterling was caused by sickness. The records were also to show the same cause for Mr. Carroll's absence.

Mr. Clark's absence has been caused by sickness in his family, in California, where he is now detained.

CONSIDERATION OF RESOLUTIONS.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Dailey, Senate Joint Resolution No. 9, reported today from the Committee on Judiciary, with the recommendation that it be adopted, was taken up for immediate consideration.

Pending discussion.

At 11:00 o'clock a. m., the President pro tempore of the Senate announced that the time had arrived for the Memorial Exercises in memory of the Honorable Edward C. Curtis of Grant Park, Illinois, former Senator from the Twentieth District.

At this point in the proceedings, the President pro tempore of the Senate called to the chair, to preside, Mr. Barr.

Mr. Barr presiding.

At 11:01 a. m., on invitation of the Senate to the House of Representatives, the members of the House of Representatives, preceded by their Speaker and the Clerk of the House, were announced by the Senate Messenger, and by direction of Mr. Barr, presiding, took the seats assigned them.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Meents offered the following resolution, and, on his motion, the rules were suspended and the resolution was taken up for consideration, and, on his motion, was unanimously adopted, by a rising vote:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 23.

Resolved, That the business of the Senate be now suspended, that opportunity may be given for tributes to the memory of Hon. Edward C. Curtis, late member of this Senate from the Twentieth Senatorial District.

Resolved, That as a particular mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, and in recognition of his distinguished public career, the Senate, at the conclusion of these exercises, shall stand adjourned.

Resolved, That the Secretary send a copy of these resolutions to the family of the deceased.

Whereupon the following named gentlemen paid tribute to the memory of former Senator Edward C. Curtis:

Senator Meents; His Excellency, the Governor, Mr. Small; Senators Jewell, Dunlap, Kessinger, Denvir, Spence and Dailey, and Representative David E. Shanahan.

ADDRESS OF HON. RICHARD R. MEENTS,

(Senator from the Twentieth District.)

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives, and Friends:

I consider it a sacred privilege and a distinct honor to be permitted, at this time, to pay my respects and tribute to the memory and character of one of the best friends I had in the State of Illinois. Although chosen by the people of the Twentieth Senatorial District to be his successor, I feel humble, inferior and illfitted to even follow in his footsteps, much more to attempt to fill the enviable position he held in the hearts and minds of you gentlemen many of whom have worked by his side for years as his colleague.

When Senator Edward C. Curtis departed this life at his home in Grant Park, Illinois, on the 8th day of March, 1920, in the prime of life, at the age of fifty-two years, there passed from the State of Illinois politics an honorable, upright man; a statesman of honor and distinction; and from the business world an alert, sensible, Christian gentleman.

The passing of a human soul may seem but a mere incident in the consummation of the great progress of life, and yet if we believe in the Holy Writ, we cannot be unmindful of the fact, that He who notes the sparrow's fall, must make more than ordinary notation in the records of time when death claims a virtuous and upright man.

Everyday brings new evidence of the truth of the message of that poem which was the favorite of Abraham Lincoln:

'Tis the twink of an eye, 'tis the draft of a breath,
From the blossom of youth to the paleness of death,
From the gilded salon to the bier and the shroud,
Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

The whole earth is a gigantic graveyard. We are constantly treading on the graves of the dead. On every hand we are reminded of the uncertainty of life and the certainty of death. The grass of the field roots, grows, dies, and from its grave grows other grass. The flowers along the roadside grow, bloom, and die; and from their graves grow other flowers more rare, more beautiful, more fragrant than ever before. The sturdy oak of the forest roots, grows, lifts its head toward heaven, brings forth leaves, fruit, and in time dies; and from its grave grow other oaks more hardy, more stalwart, more beautiful than ever before. Likewise man—he is born into the world, takes his little part in the great drama of life and passes out; and from his grave grow new thoughts, new inspirations, and a new world.

I have stood at the tomb of George Washington at Mount Vernon on the banks of the beautiful Potomac River with a feeling of sadness in my heart as I thought of the great statesman and gallant soldier buried there; but when there passed through my mind in panoramic succession the outstanding events in the life and character of that great man, sorrow was replaced by a feeling of appreciation and admiration. Then I was proud that he once lived and gave to the people of the Western Hemisphere the inspiration that founded this grand Republic, which we are today enjoying. I have stood at the tomb of the immortal Lincoln in this city when the same feeling of sadness and great regret came over me; but as I reviewed the events in the life and character of Abraham Lincoln that make him the most beloved person in American history, I was proud that he once lived and breathed into the slumbering conscience of this Nation, the potent thought that a nation could not survive half slave and half free. Again as I attended the funeral services of Senator Curtis on that dismal melancholy day in March, when the gloomy sky and the elements of nature seemed to vie with each other in voicing their disapproval of the passing of a good and great man, I thought I could see above it all the bright light of divine approval of the brilliant record made by this man in the Legislative Halls of the State, and of the example of honesty, virtue, and uprightness, which form a bright and shining page in the history of this Commonwealth.

HOME LIFE BEAUTIFUL.

His home life was beautiful beyond description; a family of two fine sons—Monroe twenty-one years of age, and Alonzo nineteen years of age, a loving wife, and a domestic love and affection, so pure, so devoted and stainless that poets might well find in it a theme worthy of songs. No night was too dark, no road too rough, nor distance too great for Senator Curtis to travel that he might reach that fireside that he loved more than life itself.

Few men in community life in any city the size of Grant Park, have exercised a greater influence for good or possessed the personal characteristic of a sturdy Christian character, of unselfishness and devotion to principle with calmness and courage, and left a record in business and political success without personal enmities, than did Senator Curtis. His charity was without display; his Christianity pure without pretention; his fidelity to principle steadfast; his modesty was reflected in charitable deeds known only to himself and the recipients of his favors. These characteristics endeared him to all who knew him. The little church around the corner was a sacred shrine to him. Its progress, its influence, its growth in the community were uppermost in his mind. The Sabbath Day was a day of rest and worship to him and his family. No services in that little church were ever missed by Senator Curtis unless he was away from town or confined to his home on account of illness.

A man possessing the qualities of character with which Senator Curtis was endowed, naturally seeks political activity. He had the rare power of making friends and keeping them. He earnestly believed that a man could have no nobler ambition than to serve his country and its institutions. These elements in his character drew him irresistibly into public life. He was persistent but not aggressive. As a leader he was modest and unassuming. As counselor and adviser his services were eagerly sought by those who recognized his wisdom in politics and in business. Many political and business tangles and possible unpleasantries were compromised and satisfactorily smoothed out by him with singular grace and charm.

He entered public life at the early age of twenty-six and was elected to the House in 1894 and served in the Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, Forty-first, Forty-second and Forty-third General Assemblies. He was chosen Speaker of the Fortieth General Assembly, the youngest man upon whom that honor was ever conferred. He was elected to the Senate in 1904 and served continuously in this body from that time until his death.

SAW STATE GROW.

Through these many years of public service he saw the great State of Illinois grow by leaps and bounds, until it occupied the enviable position of standing first in the Union in agriculture, second in wealth and third in population. Being ever alert to the best interest of the State and its people he urged that the Constitution of 1870 was inadequate and obsolete, and was not in step with the onward growth and development of a great State like Illinois; and as early as 1907 he introduced the first resolution in the Legislature to call a Constitutional Convention and continued to introduce the resolution in every succeeding General Assembly until 1919 when it was finally adopted and Senator Curtis' dreams of years were at last realized.

He became a candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention in 1919. The campaign for nomination and election will long be remembered by the people of the Twentieth Senatorial District. Never in the history of the State has there ever been made such a dastardly attempt, by demogogues, discredited politicians and yellow journalism to blacken and besmirch the character and life of a great and noble citizen as was made in these campaigns against Senator Curtis; but the people of the Twentieth Senatorial District who had stood by Mr. Curtis for twenty-four years and knew him better than any other man in the district, who believed and trusted in him, arose in all their majesty and power and smote his traducers a stinging rebuff that they will long remember, by electing him at each election by an overwhelming majority.

The indirect cause of his last illness may be attributed to the strain of these campaigns, and those guilty of conducting this pernicious work may have to answer for their malicious activities on the day of Judgment. Through it all, however, stood Senator Curtis like a lofty mountain peak that pierces the clouds and lifts its mighty head majestically above them to the heavens. Although hidden and obscure at times from the view of those in the valley—yet above the clouds and mists it stands in all its grandeur and beauty and magnificence, a mighty monarch, basking serenely and sublimely in everlasting sunshine.

Senator Curtis stands and always will stand as a bright star in the business and political firmament of Illinois, not because he was witty, or brilliant, or right, but with all his other good qualities and above them all, he was a good, honest man, and left behind him a character absolutely spotless; had he done one dishonest act it would have been as a blot upon a sheet of white paper.

In summary we might say with the Bard of Avon "the elements so mixed in him that Nature might stand up and say to all the world, this was a man."

Address by His Excellency, the Honorable Len. Small, Governor.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate and House:

It weighs heavily upon my heart to reflect upon the untimely death of Senator Edward C. Curtis. I speak of him as a lifelong acquaintance and my very dear friend for more than a quarter of a century. During all that time, though often tempted by power, he was unmoved; though importuned to betray his friends, he was ever faithful; though maligned by political foes, he was never resentful. "His life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him, that nature might stand up and say to all the world, This was a man."

Together with these excellencies of character, he possessed rare talent, ability, and energy. Endowed by nature with a keen and brilliant mind, he developed and improved his talents in such a manner that he may easily be rated as one of the most able public men of his time. In his consideration of public problems he was always conscientious, fair and impartial, unselfish and thorough. His guiding star was the welfare of the State and its people, and throughout his long, active, and energetic career he never lost sight of that great ideal. His conduct was profoundly influenced by his Christian faith and by his devout adherence to the moral teachings of his church. Few public men, since Lincoln, were more religious in their attitude toward public life.

For twenty-five years Edward C. Curtis, with marked distinction, served the people of his district and State as a member of the General Assembly. Early in his career his parliamentary skill was recognized by his colleagues in the House of Representatives, who, when he was only thirty-one years old, elected him Speaker of the House. Later, the people of his district elected him State Senator, in which honored position he served until his untimely death, sharing in no small degree the duties and responsibilities resting upon this branch of our State government.

But not you alone looked to him as friend and advisor. He enjoyed and merited the confidence of each succeeding Governor, who, regardless of party, implicitly relied upon his judgment and integrity. He did much to secure for Illinois efficient administration in all its departments; he dedicated to the business of the State an ability and energy which, if selfishly used, would have amassed for him a large private fortune.

His numerous activities in behalf of our people were generally crowned with success, because his great heart and kindly manner disarmed opposition and opened the hearts of men.

He was a faithful Christian gentleman, a staunch friend, attached to those who were with him, but never unkind to his adversaries. In all the years of our acquaintance I have never heard him speak a mean or an unkind word concerning anyone. Self-control, perseverance, and a willingness to toil were his in a large measure. The cleanliness of his private life and his ideal family life compelled respect and admiration.

When Edward C. Curtis was taken, the Republic lost a model citizen, and I lost my most intimate friend and advisor; and when our day and our age are fairly appraised by unbiased history, Edward C. Curtis will be counted among the illustrious men of his time in Illinois.

Address by the Honorable W. S. Jewell,

(Senator from the Forty-third District.)

Mr. President, Members of the General Assembly, and Fellow Citizens:

As we travel the short journey of life, we meet and associate with many. It is my belief that, to some extent, our lives are influenced and our destinies shaped by all with whom we come in contact and with whom we associate. Ordinarily this influence is but slight, and frequently the acquaintance is soon forgotten. Occasionally, however, there is a notable exception to the general rule, and we meet one who by reason of his traits of character and his personality, we are very greatly influenced, and we never forget.

Senator Edward C. Curtis belonged to this latter class. It was only my good fortune to know Senator Curtis about six short years. I became acquainted with him when I first became a member of this honorable body. But in these six short years, I learned to know him intimately and well.

During the time Senator Curtis was a member of this body, he was burdened with grave responsibilities. As Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, together with his divers other arduous duties, demands were made on his time and patience which were well calculated to test the patience of any man. He stood the test well. Sometimes we speak of one of whom we say, he will bear acquaintance. Senator Curtis would bear acquaintance. The longer you knew him and the more intimately you became acquainted with him, the more you appreciated his sterling qualities of mind and heart.

As I stand here today, I believe I can say truthfully that during all of his service here, under circumstances which as I have said, were well calculated to test his patience, I never knew of Senator Curtis doing a discourteous act. I never heard him direct to any person a harsh or unkind word. I never heard him utter a word of profanity. I never heard him say a word that carried with it a double meaning. I never heard him utter a word suggestive in character. I never heard him say a word that could not have been said with strictest propriety in the presence of any lady. The whole philosophy of his life might have been summed up in two short words, these, do right.

In conversations I had with Senator Curtis, and especially in one conversation with him that I think I shall not forget, I learned that he was a man who had high ambitions within the domain of politics. But Senator Curtis did not have ambition to hold office simply that he might hold office. With him the ambition to hold offices of public trust was that thereby he might have the opportunity for extended public service. I did not always agree with him in matters of public policy. We did not always vote together. Probably I was in the wrong. After all, Gentlemen of the General Assembly of Illinois, even the wisest of us, and even those of us of long experience in legislative matters, Oh, how pitifully weak, how impotent, how utterly helpless are we each and all, except wherein Almighty God gives us strength. With the light that Senator Curtis had, I believe he served the people well.

It was with both pain and surprise that I learned of the death of Senator Curtis. True, it is that I knew that he was not a man of especially robust health, or of particularly strong physique. And true it is that I knew of the dangerous character of the illness which quickly resulted in his death. But "Hope springs eternal in the human breast." I hoped and believed that he would recover. With me the wish was father of the thought.

Senator Curtis had not reached that age in life when we might have well expected his death. While he had passed the noon hour in his life's day and had reached an hour well along in the afternoon and where the shadows had begun to lengthen towards the east, still the sun was yet high, and the dusk of evening was not yet at hand, when, in the language of that matchless orator, Senator Curtis "growing weary for a moment, lay down by the wayside and using his burden for a pillow, fell into that dreamless sleep that kisses down his eyelids still." Death is a most unwelcome visitor that often intrudes upon us, apparently just at the most inopportune time, and often with no announcement of his coming. How true and how beautiful the words of him who said of death:

"Leaves have their time to fall
And wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars have their time to set,
But thou, thou hath all seasons for thine own, Ah, death."

Fellow citizens, there is a law of compensation. It is a law of nature, a wise decree of a most just and all wise God. Pursuant to that law, there is no stroke which fate may deal, no matter how apparently unfortunate or tragic, but what there is consolation and compensation.

And this is true even of death. In death we have consolation. We have the consolation which we find in the faith and in the belief which, whether we would or not, springs spontaneous in every human heart, the belief in the immortality of the soul. The belief that, after all, it is only the body that dies, that the real man lives on.

And then this further consolation in death. All of the storms of life have spent their fury and have passed. Whether won or whether lost, all of the battles of life have been fought. Hearts that have turned to dust no longer ache and never more are sad. There are no tears in eyes that are closed in death. The dead are at rest.

And then this further consolation in death. We not only believe in the immortality of the soul of man, but we realize that the good influence of every good act and of every noble life well lived, is everlasting. If you drop a tiny pebble within the ocean's depth, it sinks from sight and is seen no more; but at the place where the pebble sinks and produced by it, we see the little wave that circles on and back, until it, too, is lost to vision. But we are told that unseen to human eye and imperceptible, that little wave rolls on and back until all of the depth and width and breadth of the mighty ocean has been stirred, and that it continues to roll on and on until it finally strikes and breaks against the ocean's farthest shore. And so it is with every good act and with every good life. The actor will disappear. The man who lived the good life will pass on and perchance be forgotten. But the good influences of the good acts and of the good life will, like a mighty wave, roll on and on and on, forever and forevermore, until it, too, strikes and breaks against the farther shores of eternity.

And so it is with our dear departed brother. He has passed from us. In this life we shall not see him again. But the good that he wrought in the world survives, and long after the marble shaft erected at his grave shall have changed back to the dust from whence it came, the good influences of his life will stand as a substantial and imperishable monument to his memory, against which, all of the destructive elements of time will find themselves impotent and unable to destroy.

ADDRESS BY THE HONORABLE HENRY M. DUNLAP,

(Senator from the Twenty-fourth District.)

Mr. President, Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives, and Friends:

Edward C. Curtis was born in 1865 and in 1920, at the age of 55, in the midst of an active, useful life he passed to that great beyond about which we know so little and hope so much. Senator Curtis lived through one of the greatest epochs in history, many wonderful events occurred and equally wonderful discoveries were made that added to the wonders of living. The activities of our friend in honor of whom we are convened today were in the business and legislative world. The welfare of the State was ever in his mind. Interested in an improved fundamental law for the State he first introduced a resolution for a Constitutional Convention in 1907 and in each succeeding General Assembly until such a resolution was passed in 1919. Senator Curtis was elected a delegate to that convention and had entered with great interest upon the work of that body when he was suddenly called to his long home.

Senator Curtis began his legislative career as a member of the lower house in the session of 1895 and continued as a member of that body until 1904 when he was elected to the senate in which capacity he continued to represent his district until he became a member of the Constitutional Convention in 1920. The laws of Illinois for the past 26 years bear the impress of his untiring labor. Edward C. Curtis was a busy man. To him this tribute might well be offered:

"Here's to the man who plans things—
Builds things—makes things—
Who prates not of wonders of old,
Nor gloats upon ancestral gold,
But takes off his coat, and takes a hold
And does things."

I became well acquainted with Edward C. Curtis during his first session and we were associated intimately thereafter. His was a kindly disposition, always approachable, courteous to a degree seldom equalled in public or private life. Gentle of speech always, and courteous, it was impossible to get out of humor with him even tho he took opposite views. In my opinion, his most striking traits were a cheerful nature, a kindly heart and a tremendous energy to accomplish. He was a most likeable man in every way, whether as legislator, friend or business associate. He had an inspiration in a splendid wife and two fine sons. Many a man has attributed his success in large part to a devoted and capable wife. Senator Curtis had such an help-mate. To his family our heart goes out in sympathy. To them is left the memory of a life well spent in the service of his community and State.

We, his colleagues and friends, will deeply regret his absence from our counsels. Edgar E. Guest, in his lines on Eternal Friendship, expresses our feelings in this language:

"Who once has had a friend has found
The link 'twixt mortal and divine;
Though now he sleeps in hallowed ground,
He lives in memory's sacred shrine;
And there he freely moves about,
A spirit that has quit the clay,
And in the time of stress and doubt
Sustains his friends throughout the day.
* * * * * * *
Death does not end our friendships true;
We all are debtors to the dead;
There, wait on everything we do
The splendid souls who've gone ahead.
To them I hold that we are bound
By double pledges to be fine.
Who once has had a friend has found
The link 'twixt mortal and divine."

Address of Honorable David E. Shanahan,

(Representative from the Ninth District.)

Your Excellency, Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen:

We meet here today to honor and pay a last tribute to a dear friend and late colleague.

I knew Senator Curtis for more than twenty-five years, during which time he served as a member of the General Assembly of Illinois. Born within its borders, educated in the schools and colleges of the State, here he grew to manhood, and at an early age became actively interested in the political affairs of his home county and State. In 1894 the people of his district elected him as a member of the House of Representatives, and he served continuously in either branch of the General Assembly until his death in 1920. In 1897, in the Fortieth General Assembly, he was elected as Speaker of the House, being the youngest member elected to that important position. He served in the House of Representatives until 1904 when he was elected to the Senate, and served in the Senate from 1904 until the time of his death.

For many years he advocated the calling of a Constitutional Convention in this State, and introduced a resolution in the Senate in 1907 for that purpose. It received little support at that time, but at each succeeding session he introduced a similar resolution until at last he was successful in having the resolution passed by the Fiftieth General Assembly; and in the Fifty-first General Assembly he introduced a bill providing for the calling of the convention, and later was elected as a delegate to said convention from the Twentieth Senatorial District.

No man served the State with more fidelity and industry during his long service than did Senator Curtis. Early in his career he became interested in the Appropriation Committee and had the honor of serving as chairman of the Appropriation Committee in both the House and Senate. He was deeply interested in the various institutions, and was well versed in the financial affairs of the State.

Nature was very kind to him. He had rare and spendid qualities; blessed with a fine temperament, I never knew of a time when Senator Curtis was angry. He was a high-class business man, in addition to being a faithful public official. He was a kind and loving husband, a proud father and a public-spirited citizen of his community and this State. He was a strong and faithful friend and never wavered in his friendship.

In his death Illinois lost a sterling citizen, the General Assembly lost a fearless Senator. He is gone, but not forgotten, and as long as time exists the people of this State will remember Senator Curtis for what he was—a real man. God's will, not ours, be done.

Address by Honorable Harold C. Kessinger,

(Senator from the Fourteenth District.)

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate, Distinguished Guests and Friends:

As we meet here, this day, to do what someone, someday, must do for each and all of us, I am reminded of a parable.

Many workmen are busy in a great temple; the door opens; a messenger enters and signals one of the leaders, one of the busiest of all the workers; he departs with the silent messenger; the door closes; he is gone!

What is it?

Where has he gone?

What does it mean?

All the ages have asked these questions in this solemn hour.

For want of a better name, we call it "Death."

But to us of Christian faith, it means, not sadness, not a parting forever; a sorrow, of course, that we must wait awhile before we meet our loved ones, but a great joy in the faith, that we shall have and know again all, whom we have had and loved on this mortal earth.

The silent messenger came and summoned Edward C. Curtis, a leader, one of the busiest, most faithful, most energetic, most devoted workmen in our State of Illinois.

He was laboring, not in the Senate of our commonwealth, where for so many years he served honorably and well; but when the summons came, he was serving in the Constitutional Convention, which his efforts, and sacrifice, and persistence and indomitable will made possible.

NEW LIFE FOR STATE.

Edward C. Curtis died, in his effort, to give the basic law of Illinois new life.

I believe Senator Curtis would be alive today, and a member of this body, where we miss profoundly his genial, courteous, cheering, inspiring, helpful presence, had he not felt it his duty to serve as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention.

I know of nothing in all his legislative career, as a member of the House; as Speaker of the House of Representatives; as Senator, as advisor and close friend of Governor Small throughout his entire political activities—I know of nothing which better indicates the devotion to principle, the unconquerable spirit, the unflagging energy, the persistance to go on, when as Kipling says, there is nothing left, except the will, to say "go on"—I know of nothing in the entire record of his private works and public life, which indicates so well Senator Curtis' high regard of duty, than his work, in the Legislature, in behalf of a new Illinois Constitution.

Session after session, Senator Curtis introduced the resolution for the convention.

Several sessions it was killed in committees. Two sessions, it passed in the Senate but was defeated in the House.

And finally the resolution passed the Senate and the House, was voted on favorably by the people of Illinois, and the convention called.

WHOLE HEART IN WORK.

Among the delegates elected was Senator Curtis. From the very start he put his whole heart into the work. He saw the dangers ahead!

He saw the factions and the divisions coming!

He felt that the work of years might be in vain, and the old document, with its injustice, and obsolete provisions fastened again upon the people.

Senator Curtis hated injustice. He stood courageously against wrong! In him every good cause and every righteous movement had a true and never-failing friend.

And in the midst of his labors and his fears, with his resistence beaten down by a hard fight, and unremitting labors, the door opened, the silent messenger entered, our friend and colleague departed, the door closed and he is gone.

And we are here to pay, in the weak way, that human tongues can, what we feel of love and respect and admiration of this true friend, kind father, good husband, upright citizen, faithful public servant and Christian gentleman.

GONE—THAT IS ALL.

We will not say that he is dead, he is gone for a little while—that is all.

"There is no death, an angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread
And takes away our best loved ones
And then we call them dead.

"I cannot say, I will not say
That he is dead, he is just away;
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming; how very fair
It needs must be, since he is there.
Think of him still the same, I say:
He is not dead, he is just away."

Edward C. Curtis has joined that invisible choir, of immortal souls, who live again, in minds made better by their presence.

"We come from the chambers of silence,
The gift of the Gods is breath;
We go to the chambers of silence;
The gift of the Gods is death."

We call it death, but we know that it is a larger life, that our friend and brother, has gone to that mansion, that "House not made with hands eternal in the Heavens."

DAMON AND PHYTHIAS.

We cannot meet here today, and pay this tribute, and review the life of this great and good man, without thinking of another man, whose life and career has been inseparably connected with the life and work of Edward C. Curtis.

For a quarter of a century Senator Curtis and Governor Small were the "Damon and Phythias" of Illinois politics.

They were the truest and the closest of friends.

Living in the same county, associates in banking and farming activities, they worked without friction, or jealousy, and in the closest harmony for twenty-five years.

Edward C. Curtis was not an ambitious man. He wanted to serve, but had no political ambitions for himself.

He had just one great dream. He wanted to see Len Small, Governor of Illinois, and this ambition came from his devotion to the idea of service, which was the guiding star of his life.

Edward Curtis knew Len Small, knew his home life, his family, his saving common sense, and his wonderful, executive ability.

He knew that Len Small would make a great Governor, one true to the common people, a man who would stay on the job, a man of infinite patience and broad tolerance, a man who could take, unvexed and unannoyed, those unjust criticisms, to which, unfortunately, all public men are subjected.

When Governor Tanner was inaugurated, Edward C. Curtis and Len Small were in the audience, with a group of Kankakee County friends, and Senator Curtis said, "Len, we are going to make you Governor some day."

THE DAY CAME.

That day came! A kind Providence sent one of the fairest days of mild and beautiful winter to the State Capitol of Illinois. Thousands of people lined the streets of Lincoln's Springfield, to meet and greet their new Governor. The procession moved to the State House, and before a quiet, intensely interested audience, Len Small solemnly and forcefully delivered an inaugural address, that will go down among State papers, as a charter of human rights and humanitarian principles.

And there was just one thing to keep the day from being one of complete joy, to every friend of the Governor—and that was the absence of Senator Edward C. Curtis.

Governor Small felt this deeply, as did his family and friends, and every member of the Senate of Illinois, who had known and loved this man so well.

And somehow, that day I felt, as the Governor took his oath, and kissed the Holy Bible, that the spirit of Edward C. Curtis was near; that death lets fall but a thin curtain, and that our friend and colleague, and the Governor's true, intimate friend and associate of all the years, was not far from all of us.

In all the history of Illinois, I know of nothing as beautiful and inspiring; among all the turmoil and petty jealousies, and unfortunate misrepresentations in politics—I know of nothing so touching and wonderful as the lifelong friendship and comradeship and business partnership and political association of these two great men, Governor Small and the late Edward C. Curtis.

Edward Curtis is not dead.

No noble life, nobly consecrated to mankind can ever die.

Edward C. Curtis lives today, and his immortal spirit brings a message to you and to me, appealing to the angels of our better natures, that we take up his, and every good man's unfinished work, of striving for all that is best, and purest, and truest and noblest among men.

ADDRESS BY HONORABLE JOHN T. DENVIR,

(Senator from the Nineteenth District.)

Your Excellency, Mr. President, Gentlemen of the General Assembly, and Friends:

We are called upon today to say a few words in memory of our lately departed Senator and friend, Hon. Edward C. Curtis. As a member on the Democratic side of this Assembly, I am convinced that, were Senator Curtis able to observe us from the grave, he would feel a word of appreciation and respect from us, most fitting. We, on this side, whom he favored again, again and again, speak our admiration of him from the bottom of our hearts. In fact, it may be said that he showed more consideration for the members on the Democratic side than for members of the Senate on his own side. Quite naturally, we feel that it is our duty to express our sincerest love of that great gentleman who recently left us for the great unknown, there to await our arrival.

While attending the funeral at Grant Park, I had the honor of hearing one of the most distinguished Divines in the State of Illinois say a few words about our friend, the Senator, and after enumerating his many acts of kindness and charity and the many good and laudable things he had accomplished for the people of Kankakee County, and after relating how our departed friend had aided the little church and how insistent he was not to have his name mentioned in connection with his charitable acts, the noted Divine said that all things on this earth were transitory; he added that Thomas Jefferson, who was President of the United States when he wrote his own epitaph, did not write "Thomas Jefferson, President of the United States," but he wrote "Thomas Jefferson, Author of the Declaration of Independence and Founder of the University of Virginia"; and so likewise Senator Curtis, who was the author of a resolution calling for a Constitutional Convention, has placed his name in the archives of the State of Illinois and if he had done nothing other than that, his name will remain sacred and respected forever and a day, even after the walls of this Capitol building shall have crumbled to ruin and decayed into dust.

My friends, when the sun comes with the morning we know that it will sink at night; but when the flowers die in midsummer and the sun sinks at noon, it is indeed terrible. Our friend and the friend of the common people of the State of Illinois, Edward C. Curtis, sank to rest in the noon day of his life; he passed in the flower of his prime.

On thy cold gray stones, O sea!
And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me.

O well for the fisherman's boy,
That he shouts with his sister at play!
O well for the sailor lad,
That he sings in his boat on the bay!

And the stately ships go on
To their haven under the hill;
But oh for the touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still!

At the foot of thy crags, O sea!
But the tender grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me."

Oh for the touch of the vanished hand of Senator Curtis,
And the sound of his voice, which is still!

The record of Senator Curtis in the House and Senate and as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee in the Senate will not yield in splendor to the brightest chaplet that ever bloomed upon a warrior's brow. It will remain for all time, an imperishable monument to his greatness.

I thank you, Your Excellency, and Gentlemen of the Senate for this opportunity and courtesy in permitting me to add these few blossoms to the chaplet and memory of our dear friend, Hon. Edward C. Curtis.

ADDRESS BY HONORABLE W. A. SPENCE,

Mr. President and Members of the General Assembly:

It was not my pleasure to know Senator Curtis as long as the gentlemen who have spoken before me.

I had never met him until I came to the Senate two years ago. I knew him only as a member of the Senate and I shall speak of him as a Legislator and one of the makers of a great State.

I think of Illinois today as a monument to every man who at any time and in any way, has contributed to its development.

Illinois ranks today as one of the greatest among the states comprising our great nation. From an uncultivated and largely unknown expanse of territory, we have developed into a great commonwealth, in little more than a century. Beginning with a population of a few thousand pioneer settlers, we have developed a citizenship of 6,000,000 of people. In agricultural wealth and value of food products we lead all other states. Our mineral resources have been developed to the extent that today, Illinois, in coal, oil and other minerals, is doing her full share to warm and light the world, to drive car and turn the wheels of industry. For travel and the distribution of the products of the mill, the mine, and the farm, a great system of transportation has been so developed as to touch every community; and the sound of the locomotive is heard in almost every town and village in the State.

With good transportation facilities, an abundance of coal for motive power, and with unlimited supplies of raw materials from farms and forests, manufacturers came here to locate their plants, and in manufacture Illinois ranks among the first states. The products of our mills find a market in every corner of the world.

The child of the pioneer and early settler had a very poor chance to obtain an education. His lessons were mostly learned from the book of nature. From no provision for public education at the beginning, we have developed a system which provides education at public expense for every child in the State. A system employing 30,000 teachers, giving instruction to 1,000,000 children. A system by which we are spending $60,000,000 or more annually, for general elementary education.

Freedom of worship has been a guarantee of every constitution of our State. With this guarantee of freedom of conscience, disciples of every Christian faith sought to establish churches in Illinois. Church schools and colleges were established. Godly men were educated and trained for the ministry and that ministry has always been a great moral force in our State.

As a result of education and the influence of Christianity, the State has been brought to recognize its duty to the poor and unfortunate. In caring for its dependent ones no state in the Union surpasses our Illinois. To care for the insane, the blind, the deaf, the feeble in mind and other dependents, we have made ample provisions. The maintenance of these institutions costs us millions of treasure every year, but Illinois would no more think of closing them and throwing the thousands of unfortunates in them again adrift on the tides of life, than we would think of closing our schools and churches.

In the statement of these facts, I do not expect to give you any information. They are but facts of common knowledge.

I have only sought by a brief statement to sketch a picture of our great State as it is today and to show the position she occupies in her setting in the family of states. The soul of every Illinoian is made to rejoice when the achievements of his State are recounted and her glorious history retold. And when we consider the part Illinois has had in making the Nation's history, the response is:

"Not without thy wondrous story,
Illinois, Illinois,
Can be writ the Nation's glory,
Illinois, Illinois.
On the record of the years
Abram Lincoln's name appears,
Grant and Logan and our tears,
Illinois, Illinois."

When we started as a State in 1818, we had a little more than the undeveloped resources of nature. The virgin soil of the prairie and wooded hills, the flowing rivers and their fertile valleys, the undeveloped mines of coal and fountains of oil were entirely the work of nature, and the gift of God. For centuries they remained undeveloped and unused.

The prairies and forests were only the hunting grounds and battlefields of an uncivilized race. With the passing of a few decades the wonderful transformation has been wrought.

The prairie grass has given place to fields of rustling corn and waving wheat. The forests have been cut away, streams bridged, cities built, schools established and a civilization which provides for every need of society, developed.

The Illinois of today is the creation of both God and man. It is God's gift plus man's development.

For twenty-five years Senator Curtis worked earnestly for this development, and no man during that time made richer contributions to Illinois' greatness than did he.

The men who made our first Constitution and framed our first laws did a great work. Among them were many great and good men who gave the very best that was in them to the work in hand.

They builded perhaps better than they knew. Probably none of them ever dreamed that such an empire as we are today would rise from the foundations they were laying.

They did their work, finished their tasks and went to their rewards. Others took up where they left off and carried on with equal courage and devotion. The first Constitution soon became inadequate and another was made. Its making brought out the ablest men of another generation and they were not found wanting when put to the test. Then soon came the great National crisis, the War of the Rebellion. That great struggle not only tested the strength of our State government, but the loyalty and patriotism of her citizens. The State government, in every department, stood firm and the patriotism of her sons was proven on every battlefield of the war.

The Ship of State needed a master hand at the helm—Illinois furnished the man. The army needed a master mind to direct it against the enemy. Again Illinois furnished the man, and

"On the record of the years,
Abram Lincoln's name appears,
Grant and Logan and our tears,
Illinois, Illinois."

Every generation has its outstanding men. They are always honored for the large work they do. We all delight to honor the men who wrought so well in the early years of our State. We delight to honor those who guided our State through the perils of the Civil War. But there are men in every generation who quietly take up where others leave off and faithfull carry on. Such a man was Senator Curtis.

As a member of the General Assembly for a quarter of a century, he gave to the State faithful service. The 51st General Assembly was the only one with which I served with him. I am sure my fellow Senators will not take issue with me if I say that in that session Senator Curtis worked harder than any of us. He was the busiest man in the Senate. I doubt if there ever sat in any session in either branch of the General Assembly a man who more full gave himself to the work of legislation than did Senator Curtis. Such service should not go unrewarded and such servants should not go unhonored.

His work may not be fully appreciated by the present or coming generations, but I am very sure that Illinois has been made greater and her people are happier because of his services.

I think there is very little doubt but that he sacrificed his life on the alter of public service. The strain of continuous work and heavy responsibilities took away his strength and sent him to an untimely grave. The chariots of heaven swung low and his spirit was caught away.

With the members of his family we sit in the vale of sorrow. To them and to us comes the hope and consolations of the Gospel. With the thought of death always comes that question asked of old: "If a man die, shall he live again?" From the questioner we have the answer: "For I know that my Redeemer liveth and that He shall stand at the latter day upon the earth." And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God, whom I shall see for myself and mine eyes shall behold and not another."

To me the scriptures teach a resurrection of the mortal body. The great Apostle said, "This mortal must put on immortality" then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, "Death is swallowed up in victory."

The star of hope that lights the gloom of the grave for me is, that some day I shall stand on the brink of the tomb and point with scorn to its empty vault and say, "Oh death where is thy sting? Oh grave where is thy victory?"

May the Father of all the faithful give us the great gift of faith. May He help us to believe in the best that we know and the best that our hearts have hoped for. May we never be utterly downcast when we look upon the ruins of our happiness or the failure of our strivings.

May he so teach us that by our failures we may learn how to outlast time, to rescue from decay and oblivion all that is best and lovliest and how to become true citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven that passeth not away.

"There is a life above the fret and fever,
There is a joy that springeth up forever,
There is a peace that floweth like a river?
For thee, my soul, for thee.

ADDRESS BY HONORABLE JOHN DAILEY,

(Senator from the Eighteenth District.)

Your Excellency, Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Gentlement of the General Assembly, and Friends:

These tributes of classic diction and exalted thought are not overdrawn protraitures of the character of him whose life and services we now commemorate. The fulness, propriety, and chastity of sentiments already expressed would incline me to refrain from further reflections and eulogy, were I not very deeply debtor to the memory of our departed friend. His uniform courtesies and consideration during many years of close and intimate association and mutual friendship urge me now to speak. Without personal vanity I feel he would have it so.

Memorials are loving tributes of the heart to virtues of friends that are no more. They speak of faith, of hope, and attributes of soul. They open to our vision vistas of immortal life. They are psychic transports to the soul's abode. They give sacred dignity of character to the dead. Sorrow itself is assuaged, for "Memory is the only friend that grief can call its own." Conscious of these sentiments, we dedicate this memorial hour to emotions most tender, thoughts most solemn, and purposes most holy.

Our lives are journeys, to us all too short, it seems, between birth's and death's unknown realms. Through birth's most wondrous gate, some unseen power has sent us hither on life's fateful mission. Even as we enter, we, children of destiny, are doomed at last to leave the way through death's mysterious gate. Between these portals of birth and death life's pathway lies. We pass each milestone only once. Our steps we cannot retrace. Our eyes look ever to the west. With burdens light or heavy on we toil. Joy and sorrow are alternating companions on the way. Sunshine's smiles or frowning storms attend us as we go. Psalms and rhapsodies, litanies and requiems are on our lips as towards the gate we move. Before its portals now sad memory leads me. I see the forms of all the consecrated dead as o'er the threshold now they pass—sainted mothers, revered fathers, and choicest friends of all the years.

"So come from every region, so enter side by side.
The strong and faint of spirit, the meek and men of pride,
Steps of earth's great and mighty between those pillars gray,
And prints of little feet mark the dust along the way.
And some approach the threshold whose looks are blank with fear,
And some whose temples brighten with joy in drawing near,
As if they saw dear faces and caught the gracious eye
Of him, the sinless Teacher, who came for us to die."

Is death's gateway at once life's exit and immortality's entrance? Does it lead direct to Eternity's frontier? Beyond its bounds is there another and endless life? From the time the first mother beheld the lifeless form of her first-born, this question has been asked in every age, in every time, by every race of men and women, cultured and untutored, civilized or barbarous. The very fact that this eternal question has been put in the minds and on the lips of men in all times, suggests Creator and created, finite and infinite, mortality and immortality. On the night before the battle of Thermopylae, brave Leonidas, knowing the certain doom of his small force, spoke with ineffable joy of the hereafter and promised to meet his valiant Greeks at banquet on the morrow in the halls of eternity. Socrates expressed ecstatic delight in the firm conviction that in the future life he would meet and converse with Homer and all choice spirits of classic Greece. Cicero, sobbing o'er the dead body of his daughter, Tullia, exclaimed "Is there no meeting place for the dead?" The troubled patriarch Job asked the question that long before and ever since his time has trembled on the lips of all mankind "If a man die, shall he live again?"

For Senator Curtis, Christianity's precepts were life's texts, illustrated in his business, in relationships with his fellowmen, in legislative halls, in the church, and in his home. His faith was real, simple, sublime. The Holy Word, to him, was prophecy, psalm and gospel. He dwelt at Sinai—there he beheld God's commands engraved on stone; and they, in turn, were engraved upon his tender heart. He dwelt at Nazareth—there he heard the sermon on the Mount—he treasured in his heart these sentiments divine: "Blessed are the poor in spirit"—"Blessed are they that mourn"—Blessed are the meek"—"Blessed are they who do hunger after righteousness"—"Blessed are the merciful"—"Blessed are the pure in heart"—"Blessed are the peacemakers." He dwelt at Patmos—there he heard the voice from heaven saying: "Behold the tabernacle of God is with men"—"There, too, he saw "The new Jerusalem coming down from God out of heaven." Upon faith's firm foundation was builded the fine moral structure of his noble life—the stately mansion of his lofty soul.

His deep religious nature and abiding faith were impressed upon me on an occasion, similar to this, when tributes were paid to a departed colleague. I made reference to those fine lines from Holland's "Bitter-Sweet":

"Therefore my reason yields her hand to faith,
And follows meekly where the angel leads."

Senator Curtis came to me after the memorial services. I can see him now. Tears were in his sympathetic eyes. With unaffected tenderness and quivering emotion he spoke of the beauty of the poem, of faith and God's promises.

The friendship of Damon and Pythias has been referred to today in terms of glowing beauty and elegance. Without intent of being censorious, I know that his inspirations did not come from the classic lands of Greece or Rome. They came from the sacred lands of Holy Writ. The men of scripture were his exemplars. His life was molded after the pattern of God-like men. He emulated the pure and holy friendship of David and Jonathan. Was not something of the benign smile of the Saviour upon the beloved John reflected in the life and character of our friend?

Even to the very end he held before his eyes the cross of faith and said the prayer, which loved ones taught his youthful lips to say: "Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name." For all such pure lives as his, divine approval is given: "Well done, good and faithful servant. Enter, thou, into the joy of thy Lord."

The good opinion of a man's neighbors is a certain measure of his worth and character. I shall never forget that bleak day in March when all that was mortal of Senator Curtis was consigned to Nature. The little town of Grant Park was filled with a vast concourse of sorrowful people. Friends of a lifetime came for miles from the surrounding country. Great men of his church and leaders in public life were there. Even the heavens put on habiliments of mourning. Silence reigned, grief filled all hearts. When a great prince of England died, we are told, little children cried in the streets. On that sad day, as our friend was lying in the cerements of death, great men, strong men, tender-hearted men, women and children, wept and prayed as they thought of their benefactor, friend and neighbor.

In listening to the graphic story of Illinois told by the last speaker, I was impressed that high-minded men and women make a State; that the real foundation of a State is the high character of its aggregate citizenship.

"States are not great,
Except as men make them."

Senator Curtis contributed in great measure to the character, dignity, honor and grandeur of Illinois. He had all the high qualities of mind and heart, which are necessary possessions of the ideal legislator. He was studious, persevering and thorough. He possessed sympathy, without which no legislator can approach the multiplying problems arising out of a complex social system like ours. He had, too, those indispensible, qualities of legislative fitness, imagination and vision, without being impractical or visionary. With all his broad and tender sympathies he was a Daniel, firm of purpose and conviction. He dared to battle against special privilege, injustice, passion, clamor and class consciousness. He had that fine discrimination between right and wrong, Nature's gift, essential alike to jurists and statesmen. His patience, his zeal for justice, his faith in right's ultimate triumph, made him a veritable crusader in any cause he championed. He was always deferential to his colleagues and considerate of their rights, judgments, and opinions. He was practical enough to know that compromise is the basis of political and legislative action and success. He gave way, he yielded, he compromised in all things but principle itself. These, with other high qualities and endowments, made him a conspicuous, vital and energizing factor in the legislative annals of Illinois for more than a quarter of a century. His ripe experience and splendid attainments, contributed very largely to those sane, humane, advanced and constructive policies, which in these later years have placed Illinois in the foremost position of the States of the Union.

The marked advance made by Illinois, through legislation in agricultural, commercial, educational, industrial, charitable and sociological matters, owes much to his thought, effort and genius. If every one helped by his public service were to pass before us, we would behold an army of men, women, and children from mine and factory, from business houses, from homes, from churches, from our institutions of learning and charity, owing to him gratitude's deep debt. These statutes of Illinois may seem dull, yet they are filled with the consecrated works of sincere men. Here we find embalmed devotion to humanity, sympathy for the weak, ceaseless effort for justice and constant striving for the highest good of the State. These statutes, as Milton said of good books, "are not absolutely dead things, but do contain a certain potency of life—as active as the souls whose progeny they are; they preserve—the purest efficacy and extraction of the living intellects that bred them." So, if these inanimate pages could tell us of the labors and thoughts of our friend, they would reveal a marvelous and matchless record of honor in the service of our State.

Senator Curtis was the essence of sincerity and the very soul of honor. His great heart was a treasure house, so filled with love, that no mean passion could find room for lodgment there. He was devoid of arrogance, vanity or malice. When men were unjust and unkind, he sought and found consolation in the assurance "Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely." What greater tribute can there be than the faithful testimony given by these friends today, that he never spoke ill of any one; that he never planted a thorn of bitterness in the heart of any one; that God's great gift of speech was always pure upon his lips? When motives were questioned, he defended; when slander assailed he championed. If charity's mantle were all too short, he spoke not at all. His was a soul of gentleness, purity and love. Yes, your Excellency, you know indeed the Shakespearean eulogy of which you spoke, well befits the merits of your friend and ours:

> "His life was gentle and the elements
> So mixed in him, that Nature might stand up
> And say to all the world—this was a man."

With great faith, with supreme moral courage, with sweet and patient resignation, he met the silent messenger, bearing God's summons. The parting was so privileged and so sacred I forbear to speak of its hallowed moments filled with sad yet sweet accents of expiring love. In the presence of those who loved, he gently fell asleep as a little child, tired from the day's work and play. Thus passed away one of earth's noblemen, the perfect citizen, the unfailing friend, the devoted father and the adored husband. To his family he has bequeathed a great inheritance—the wealth of an honored name—the riches of an unblemished memory. We, his colleagues and friends, will ever recount as the rarest possession of memory

> "The touch of a vanished hand, and
> The sound of a voice that is still."

Memory's seven-hued arch, with rays of purity, gentleness, friendship, faith, love, hope, and charity, now spans his gentle, noble life.

Tardy science seeks converse with the spirit land, but faith, of keener sense, with beatific vision, sees and has already seen the promised land, while hope, with listening ear, hears and, for ages past, has heard voices of the dear and loved ones dwelling there. I feel, I almost seem to know, in God's way, unrevealed to us, through the soul's exchange, our thoughts and words are known and heard by those beyond. If this be so, which I doubt not, farewell, kind heart, dear friend! Farewell, until you and we, and all "we loved long since and lost awhile" shall meet again.

At the hour of 12:55 o'clock p. m., in accordance with the provisions of the foregoing resolution, the Senate stood adjourned.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1921, 10:00 O'CLOCK A. M.

Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Jewell, President pro tempore of the Senate, presiding.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. Norma C. Brown, Pastor of the Carlock Christian Church, Carlock, Illinois.

Introduction of Bills.

The following bills were introduced, each of which were read by title, ordered printed, and under the rules, were referred by the President pro tempore of the Senate as follows:

By Mr. Barbour, Senate Bill No. 104, a bill for "An Act to provide for the appointment of county surveyors."

Referred to the Committee on Elections.

By Mr. Barr, Senate Bill No. 105, a bill for "An Act making an additional appropriation for completing and equipping the Centennial Memorial Building."

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

By Mr. Barr, Senate Bill No. 106, a bill for "An Act to amend 'An Act to establish a Joint Legislative Reference Bureau and to define the powers and duties thereof,' approved June 26, 1913, in force July 1, 1913."

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

By Mr. Barr, Senate Bill No. 107, a bill for "An Act making an appropriation to the Governor for the Executive Mansion and grounds."

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

By Mr. Glenn, Senate Bill No. 108, a bill for "An Act in relation to the acquisition of certain lands in Jackson County, Illinois, as and for a State park and making an appropriation necessary to carry into effect the provisions of said Act."

Referred to the Committee on Parks, Boulevards and Playgrounds.

By Mr. Jewell, Senate Bill No. 109, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 1, 3, 4 and 8 of 'An Act concerning bastardy,' approved April 3, 1872, in force July 1, 1872, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

By Mr. Kessinger, by request, Senate Bill No. 110, a bill for "An Act to amend section 115 of 'An Act to establish and maintain a system of free schools,' approved and in force June 12, 1909, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. MacMurray, Senate Bill No. 111, a bill for "An Act to amend section 9 of 'An Act to create sanitary districts and to remove obstructions in the DesPlaines and Illinois Rivers,' approved May 29, 1889, in force July 1, 1889, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Elections.

By Mr. MacMurray, Senate Bill No. 112, a bill for "An Act to amend section 13 of 'An Act to provide for the creation and management of forest preserve districts and repealing certain Acts therein named,' approved June 27, 1913, in force July 1, 1913, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Elections.

By Mr. Mills, Senate Bill No. 113, a bill for "An Act to create the Fulton-Schuyler Park Commission and to authorize it to establish a State park and preserve."

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

By Mr. Mills, Senate Bill No. 114, a bill for "An Act to amend section 6 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to marriages,' approved February 27, 1874, in force July 1, 1874, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

By Mr. Pervier, Senate Bill No. 115, a bill for "An Act to amend section 153 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to roads and bridges,' approved June 27, 1913, in force July 1, 1913, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Roads, Highways and Bridges.

By Mr. Roos, Senate Bill No. 116, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 81 and 117 of 'An Act to establish and maintain a system of free schools,' approved and in force June 12, 1909, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. Roos, Senate Bill No. 117, a bill for "An Act to amend section 36 of 'An Act concerning fees and salaries, and to classify the several counties of this State with reference thereto,' approved March 29, 1872, in force July 1, 1872, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Fees and Salaries.

By Mr. Schulze, Senate Bill No. 118, a bill for "An Act authorizing the Director of Public Works and Buildings to negotiate for the purchase of a building, or the acquiring of a site and construction of a building for the several units of the State departments in the city of Chicago, Cook County, Illinois, and making an appropriation therefor."

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

By Mr. O. W. Smith, Senate Bill No. 119, a bill for "An Act amending 'An Act in regard to guardians and wards.' "

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

By Mr. O. W. Smith, Senate Bill No. 120, a bill for "An Act amending 'An Act to revise the law in relation to amendments and jeofails.' "

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

By Mr. VanLent, Senate Bill No. 121, a bill for "An Act making an appropriation to the Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind, Chicago, for fire protection and apparatus."

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. President—The Governor directs me to lay before the Senate the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SPRINGFIELD, February 24, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the consideration of your honorable body, a report by the Illinois Housing and Building Commission, appointed by my immediate predecessor in the office of Governor, the Honorable Frank O. Lowden, pursuant to an Act approved on June 28, 1919. The commission has conducted hearings and made an exhaustive study of the housing situation in Illinois, and they submit with their report certain recommendations as to legislation upon the subject of their inquiry which I think deserve the earnest and thoughtful consideration of the General Assembly. The Commission will submit at a later date, in compliance with the provisions of the aforesaid Act, the draft of a bill for a State Building Code.

Respectfully submitted,

LEN. SMALL, Governor.

To his Excellency, the Honorable Len. Small, Governor of the State of Illinois:

The Illinois Housing and Building Commission, authorized by an Act of the Fifty-first General Assembly, begs leave to submit the following report for the consideration of Your Excellency and for transmission to the two Houses of the General Assembly:

I.

GENERAL STATEMENT.

The Illinois Housing and Building Commission was authorized by legislation of the Fifty-first General Assembly (Laws 1919, page 591), the Act providing that "it shall be the duty of the commission to prepare and draft a State Housing Code, a State Building Code, and a Zoning Bill for the State of Illinois for presentation to the Fifty-second General Assembly." The commission as appointed by Governor Frank O. Lowden is composed of the following members:

Senator HAROLD C. KESSINGER, Chairman;
Senator WILLETT H. CORNWELL,
Hon. GOTTHARD A. DAHLBERG,
Hon. HORACE W. MCDAVID,
Mr. CHARLES H. HAMMOND,
Mr. ROBERT KNIGHT,
Mr. THOMAS A. COLLINS.

The commission selected Walter F. Dodd as secretary. Sixteen meetings of the commission were held between the dates, September 30 and January 5, 1920. Meetings averaging one a week were held between January 5 and the date of this report. A number of special conferences composed of several of the members of the commission and the secretary, were held, the special conferences more than equalling the number of regular meetings.

Public hearings upon the housing shortage were held in the City Hall of Chicago on December 16 and December 17. Public hearings upon the proposed housing bill were held, one at the City Hall on December 6, and a second at the office of the Department of Public Works and Buildings in Chicago on December 30. A hearing upon the proposed zoning legislation was held on January 7, 1920.

In connection with the housing shortage, Mr. Carl H. Zeiss, of the Chicago Bar, served as an advisor to the commission. In connection with zoning, Mr. Henry P. Chandler, counsel of the Chicago Plan Commission, acted as an advisor to the commission, and Mr. Edward M. Bassett of New York was called into consultation. In connection with zoning the commission desires also to express its indebtedness to Mr. William M. Lawton, Mr. John L. Vette, and Mr. Eugene H. Dupee.

II.

SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS.

A a result of its investigations the commission makes the following recommendations:

(a) It recommends the passage of a bill for an Act in relation to housing, the text of which is made a part of this report and will be found in Appendix I.

(b) The commission recommends the enactment of a revision of the Zoning Act of 1919. The text of this proposal is made a part of this report as Appendix II.

(c) The commission recommends the passage of a joint resolution providing for an Investigating Committee to inquire into combinations or agreements which restrict building construction. The text of such a proposal joint resolution together with a bill to appropriate for the expense of the investigation, will be found in Appendix III.

(d) The commission recommends the passage of an Act permitting the establishment of rental commissions by cities. The text of such a proposed Act will be found in Appendix IV.

(e) The commission recommends the enactment of the following bills with respect to relationships between landlord and tenant; amendment of sections 2 and 6 of the Landlord and Tenant Act; so as to do away with the double penalty for holding over, and to require sixty (60) days notice in place of thirty (30) days notice to terminate tenancies by the month; amendment of the Forcible Entry and Detainer Act so as to prevent waiver of jury trial in such cases, and so as to authorize the court to grant a stay of execution not exceeding six (6) months; amendment to section 60 of the Practice Act so as to avoid waiver of jury trial in cases relating to residence property. The text of such proposals will be found in Appendix V.

(f) The commission recommends that this State use its influence in favor of the enactment of the so-called Calder-Nolan Bill by Congress providing for a home loan banking system, based primarily upon building and loan associations but also permitting other institutions to re-discount their home mortgages under Federal supervision.

(g) The commission is not yet ready to report a proposed Building Code, but expects to report a bill for this purpose later.

III.

Housing Standards.

The proposed Housing Bill, which will be found in Appendix I, was based upon a careful investigation of housing legisaltion in other states, and seeks to embody standards which are thought desirable as minimum standards for the State of Illinois. There has been much discussion in the commission with reference to: (a) The communities to which a proposed Housing Bill should apply, and (b) the method of enforcing such proposed legislation. The commission has thought it best at the present time to limit the application of such a bill (except as to certain water and sewer provisions) to cities, villages and incorporated towns of 5,000 inhabitants or over. It has also felt that it would be wise to maintain a division between local building and health departments in the enforcement of such proposed legislation.

In the preparation of this bill the commission has sought suggestions from every possible source. The bill before being presented in its present form was printed in tentative form and sent out widely for criticism. The criticisms received upon the tentative draft have been considered in detail by the commission, and public hearings were held after full criticisms had been presented in writing. The bill as submitted represents, therefore, a careful investigation of the problem, and a careful weighing of criticisms presented upon an earlier draft.

The commission recognizes that it is undesirable at the present time to increase the cost of building unnecessarily, and has sought in its recommendations to do nothing which will hinder the construction of dwellings to meet the present serious housing shortage. On the other hand, the commission has thought that it is highly undesirable at the present time to reduce the standards of housing. At a time such as this arguments will always be heard for a reduction of standards of housing, but the health and safety of the community make it essential that desirable standards should be maintained. Arguments of expediency based upon an emergency situation would lead to a permanent lowering of standards as to housing conditions. It must be remembered that the life of a dwelling may extend for fifty years, and that lowered standards if now permitted may therefore fix the housing condition of part of our population for half a century.

IV.

Building Code.

Under the Act creating it, the commission was instructed to prepare and present a Building Code. The commission after a good deal of discussion of this matter has decided that there is little possibility of presenting a satisfactory Building Code, without going fully into all the details of building construction; and that more time is required for the preparation and submission of a bill upon this subject. A commission was authorized in this State in 1911 to "revise and codify the buildings laws of the State of Illinois." This commission reported in 1914 an elaborate "Proposed Building Law for the State of Illinois." This proposed Building Law was well drawn, and contains much that is now useful, although it was, perhaps, somewhat too detailed. The General Assembly did not enact this proposal into law. The present commission has been unwilling to recommend the enactment of the bill drawn by the previous commission, and must have further time for the preparation of a proposed substitute.

V.

Zoning.

The commission presents herewith an Appendix II, the draft of a proposed revision of the Zoning Act passed by the Illinois General Assembly in 1919 (Laws, 1919, page 262). The Act of 1919 is in many respects unworkable. The chief defects found in practice to exist with respect to the Act of 1919 are the following:

(a) The Act permits only cities and villages to enact zoning ordinances, and does not include incorporated towns.

(b) The Act proceeds upon the assumption that piece-meal zoning is to be permitted, rather than upon the assumption that a zoning ordinance should cover the whole city, village or incorporated town.

(c) In practice the requirements as to notice in connection with public hearings upon proposed ordinances constitute the most serious defects in the Act of 1919. The requirements as to notice proceed upon the assumption that a notice must contain a specific description of each piece of property included in a zoning plan, and that a mailed notice must go to each property owner. Zoning ordinances for a city are likely to be matters of general knowledge; and zoning as it has been upheld by the courts of other states, is based upon the police power for the welfare of the community rather than upon the notion of taking the property of individuals. A published or posted notice of hearings is, it is thought, an ample safeguard for the individual property holder. Such a provision does not place a proposed zoning plan under such handicaps that it would be substantially impossible to enact a zoning ordinance in a large community.

(d) The Zoning Act of 1919 permits a group of people to take themselves out from a general zoning plan by protest. Such withdrawal of particular groups by protest is thought to raise serious constitutional objections to the Act of 1919. It is also thought practically to destroy any uniform plan of zoning in the interests of the entire community.

(e) The Act of 1919 does not provide for a continuous administration of a zoning ordinance after it is once adopted. The bill as here presented specifically provides that the officer by whom a zoning ordinance is to be enforced shall be designated by ordinance and also provides for a board of appeals which shall have certain continuing authority with respect to the zoning ordinance and its amendment.

A preliminary draft of the Zoning Bill was printed so as to indicate all changes made in the legislation of 1919, and was widely distributed for criticism. A public hearing upon this bill was held in Chicago on January 7, 1921. The present bill was then drawn.

(f) The Act of 1919 requires the recording of every ordinance passed thereunder. The recording of the Evanston zoning ordinance is estimated to cost twenty-one hundred dollars ($2,100). The expense of recording a zoning ordinance for the city of Chicago would be so great as to be unduly burdensome, without any compensating advantage.

The commission desires to emphasize the fact that zoning plans are not intended merely for the protection of residential districts, but that any zoning legislation and ordinances thereunder should be devised with equal reference to the protection and development of the manufacturing and commercial interests of the community. The commission feels that there is need for cooperation among adjacent communities in connection with zoning, and a need also for some State advisory body which might prevent local conflicts and aid in the working out of more satisfactory local zoning plans.

The commission also feels that it is desirable to emphasize the need for more careful city planning than has existed in the past. City planning has to do largley with matters covered by zoning and housing legislation, but it has many broader aspects, and the time has come when legislation may well be enacted to encourage cities in preparing and carrying out adequate and comprehensive city plans for developing themselves over long periods of time. Much in this respect has already been accomplished by the Chicago Plan Commission, and by the city planning commissions organized in a number of the smaller cities of the State. However, these steps have been taken under the general powers of cities, without any specific encouragement from legislation. Although the commission feels that the time has come for legislation authorizing cities to establish city planning commissions, this body was not authorized to propose any such legislation, and has not done so.

The commission also feels that there is need for what may be termed State planning; that is, for a State organization which will plan the systems for State roads, State parks, etc., with reference to the plans to be worked out by particular communities as to their own city plans. The commission also feels that it is desirable that the State should have some official body which could not only work out plans with reference to the arrangement of State roads, State parks, etc., but which could advise with cities as to general city planning and which could aid adjacent communities in the working out of their local plans without conflict. The Forest Preserve Act has taken a distinct step in the direction of broader planning of parks for territory outside of the limits of cities, but what has been done so far by legislation in encouraging local parks, forest preserves, etc., is somewhat haphazard, without any State direction, advice or supervision.

VI.

Housing Shortages.

Although the investigation of the present housing shortage and the consequent effect upon the relations of landlords and tenants was not one of the specific duties of the commission, nevertheless, this problem has been carefully investigated by the commission, because of its pressing nature and because of its close relationship to the duties of the commission.

The commission finds that owing to the practical cessation of building of dwelling premises during and since the war, coupled with the increase in population and demand, there exists today a serious housing shortage in the City of Chicago, and in other cities of the State. As one result of this shortage there has been great overcrowding in living quarters. This has been detrimental to the health, morals and general welfare of the public.

The Chicago Housing Association has for the City of Chicago sought by private endeavor to meet to some extent the present housing shortage, upon a purely business basis, and has among its directors: Benjamin J. Rosenthal, J. Ogden Armour, Col. Abel Davis, D. F. Kelly, H. H. Merrick, Harry A. Wheeler, and William Wrigley, Jr. Mr. Rosenthal, who is one of the best informed men upon the housing situation in Chicago, appeared before the Illinois Housing and Building Commission on December 16 and said:

"In my opinion 500,000 human beings in the City of Chicago are miserably housed, almost living in the slums. Now then, when I say 'living in the slums' I mean they are living without the ordinary comforts of a house. You asked a question of Dr. Taylor, do they sleep in rooms with no light and no windows, and if they are sleeping where there is no air? Hundreds of them are sleeping where there is no light and no air, hundreds of them. You asked a question of Dr. Taylor about outside toilets. Thousands of them go outside as much as 75 feet to go to the toilet. Their homes in many cases are in a terrible condition. These outside toilets in the winter are in a frightful condition, almost impossible to use them. I don't know what they do during that period.

"They are sleeping in the City of Chicago today as many as five in one bed. And when I make statements to you gentlemen I want you to know that I am able to give you the names and places at all times in the City of Chicago. * * *

"I have only had that reported, I have not seen it; it is said that they sleep as many as twelve in one room. I have not seen that, I have seen eight, but only know it is reported that there are twelve. Last week I was around on the West Side and came across one case where there were eight in a room, six children, a father and mother, eating, sleeping, dressing, washing and cooking, everything in a single room. * * *

"The authorities are helpless, for this reason, if they throw these people out, where are they going to go? If you will go to Dr. Barr he will take you to a shack, for it is nothing more than a shack, where there are forty apartments, and three-fifths of those people are tubercular, as proven by an examination of the health authorities. They won't take them out, and you know why. If they take them out, others will come in there, and they become tubercular, so the T. B. situation is very serious, and you don't know unless you have made a study of T. B. in some way or read what has been written on this subject, what the real condition is. It is claimed that T. B. is developed in the child—that 90 per cent have T. B. germs in childhood, they throw them off if housed properly, but in these conditions most of them become victims of T. B.

"There is another condition that I want to make clear to you. You talk of health. It is not health alone that is impaired, but morals. You cannot conceive the moral situation in the City of Chicago. We have instances where boys and girls and sleeping in the same bed night after night, boys 9, 10, and 11 years and girls 10 and 11 years old. We have cases where children are born of the relationship of brother and sister."

Another result has been great hardship upon the house or apartment renting public at large, because of actual or threatened evictions and of great increases in rent. The commission finds that increases in rent have been in many instances justifiable, because of the increased cost of operation. On the other hand, the supply of houses and apartments is so limited that the tenant is almost at the mercy of the landlord in the matter of rental. Although only a small percentage of the present houses and apartments have been built during the present period of high construction cost, the tendency is for landlords to base their rental on the abnormal present day replacement value of their premises. The result of this has been that leases and rental agreements that are unjust, unreasonable and oppressive both as to amount of rental and as to other conditions, have in many cases been imposed upon tenants. Threat of eviction has served as a club for the landlord. In many instances flat buildings have been sold at a high price, and the purchaser has proceeded to oust the tenants who would not accede to his rental terms. The tenants in most cases have no other place to go, so that the landlord has had a practical monopoly and has been able to force his terms upon the tenant.

What has just been said should not be construed into a condemnation of landlords as a class. Before the present housing shortage, owners of houses had for some years been making little on their investments, and with increased cost of building during recent years, and increased cost of operation, substantial increases in rental have in many cases been reasonable, although a hardship on tenants. But in any class, some will take full and unfair advantage of a situation, and this has been true of the landlord class during the past few years. Restrictive legislation of an emergency character may be necessary to protect the honest and fair landlord from unfair competitors in the landlord group.

The commission sees no prospect of definite relief in the housing shortage through building for from three to five years. The commission has investigated what other countries and other states in this country have done in this situation, which is general.

I. Government Construction.

Great Britain under its Housing and Town Planning Act of 1919 (9 and 10 Geo. V. Ch. 35) has set out to build 500,000 small houses. Local authorities raise the money and dispense it, but the national government guarantees them against the greater portion of the annual loss. No effort is being made to rent the houses for a rent sufficient to bring a fair return on the investment, and the government faces an annual loss which has been estimated at 100 million dollars a year for sixty years. This plan practically makes the public as a whole pay in part for the dwellings of that part of the public which occupies these houses. A full review of the English legislation will be found in a recent report by Lawrence Veiller on How England is meeting the Housing Shortage (National Housing Association, 1920.)

Other European countries likewise are building homes for their people.

A general view of foreign housing activity and legislation will be found in a brief of the Attorney General of the State of New York in the case of Guttag v. Shatzkin, in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Some of the statements in this report regarding foreign legislation are taken from this brief.

Massachusetts. Article 47 of the Constitutional Amendments of Massachusetts provides that in a time of emergency the providing of shelter is a public function. Chapter 554, General Acts of 1920, of Massachusetts, authorizes a city or town in which the mayor or a majority of the board of select men proclaims that a public emergency exists, to acquire real property and provide shelter for the inhabitants. It also authorizes cities or towns to borrow for that purpose. This law was passed May 28, 1920, and will be in effect only until February 1, 1922.

In connection with government construction, reference should be made to the house construction activities of the United States government during the period of the war. This work of construction was, of course, undertaken during an emergency in order to house those engaged in the production of necessary war supplies. For the purpose of this report the important activities of the United States government in this connection are merely referred to, but not here discussed.

II. State or Local Advancing of Funds.

Canada has a plan whereby the Dominion government lends from a $25,000,000 fund to the provinces according to population. The provinces permit the money to be administered through municipal housing commissions. A number of the provinces have also passed laws providing for the loaning of money to home builders. Ontario, for instance, has "The Municipal Housing Act" under which the municipalities issue debentures guaranteed by the province. The maximum loan is $5,100. Soldiers and widows or widowed mothers of soldiers are given a preference in the matter of loans. Under the Canadian system the houses are expected to be paid for by the purchasers. Several thousand houses have been erected under these plans. A brief statement of Canadian experience will be found in Alfred Buckley, Government Housing in Canada, National Municipal Review, August, 1920.

Wisconsin. Chapter 402, Laws of 1919, provides for the formation of housing corporations authorized to acquire and subdivide land and to erect houses costing not over $5,000. Preferred stock and common stock are issued. The investor buys the preferred stock, which pays 5 per cent. The lessee pays on his subscription and pays rent. Profits go to pay off preferred stock. The members never acquire ownership of an individual home. If a lessee wants to leave, the corporation must buy his stock for what he has paid up. Any city or county is authorized to subscribe for preferred stock of any such corporation operating within its limits. Milwaukee has advanced money under this law.

Cooperative housing associations similar to the Wisconsin housing corporation exist in Pennsylvania, Canada, England, Belgium and Germany.

North Dakota. Under authority of a constitutional amendment, Chapter 150, Laws of 1919, approved February 25th, 1919, it is provided that the State of North Dakota shall engage in the enterprise of providing homes for residents of the state, and to that end there is established The Home Building Association of North Dakota, which is administered by the Industrial Commission.

Prospective home builders deposit money with the association and receive interest not to exceed 6 per cent. When the home builder has 20 per cent, the state through the association advances 80 per cent of the building cost and builds the home. It can acquire property by purchase or eminent domain. The rate of interest on the loan is fixed by the Industrial Commission but must not exceed 6 per cent. The Act providing for "homes" and "farm homes," the former being in or near a city, the latter including barn, outbuildings and land. $5,000 is the limit on "homes" and $10,000 on "farm homes."

South Dakota. A special session of the legislature held in June, 1920, provided by joint resolution for the submission at the next general election of an amendment to Article XIII of the Constitution of South Dakota whereby "the state may establish and maintain a system of credits for assisting in the building of homes by the people of the state and therefor may loan money and extend credit to the people of the state upon real estate security, * * * " (See Chapter 35 of Laws passed at the 1st and 2nd special sessions of the Sixteenth Legislature of the State of South Dakota). This constitutional amendment was approved by the voters in November, 1920, but no law has yet been passed in pursuance of it.

A full review of governmental activity in this field before the war will be found in: United States Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Bulletin No. 158. Government Aid to Home Owning and Housing of Working People in Foreign Countries (Washington, 1915). Reviews of what has been made in this and other countries to aid home owning in cities and in the country (independently of the present emergency) will be found in the Illinois Constitutional Convention Bulletins, Nos. 13 and 14 (Springfield, 1919).

III. Tax Exemptions and Similar Measures.

(a) New York. Chapter 949, of the Laws of 1920, authorizes a county, or a city, village or school district to exempt from taxation for local purposes, until January 1, 1932, new buildings therein, planned for dwelling purposes, if commenced before April 1, 1922, and completed within two years.

Chapter 946, Laws of 1920, makes the bonds of the land bank of the State of New York legal investment for the sinking fund and trust funds of the State of New York.

New York also has excluded new buildings from the operation of the new rent laws.

(b) New Jersey. Chapter 355, Laws of 1920, exempts new improvements for dwelling purposes from all taxation for five years from October 1, 1920, if erected prior to October 1, 1922.

(c) Exemption from Federal income tax of income from real estate mortgage loans has been proposed in a bill by Senator Calder of New York. There is also the "Calder-Nolan" Federal Building Loan Bank Bill which provides for a system of Federal building loan banks by districts, in which the local building and loan associations may become members. The members may deposit their real estate mortgages with the district bank (no mortgage to exceed $10,000) and obtain a loan up to the amount of 80 per cent of the mortgage securities so deposited. The district bank would issue 4½ per cent debentures which are to be exempt from all taxation. The practical result of the law would be to make more elastic the lending power of building and loan associations.

IV. Regulation of Rentals.

(a) Rental commissions.

District of Columbia. Ball Rent Law, Act of October 22, 1919, 41 Statutes at Large 298, Federal Statutes Annotated, 1919 Supplement. This Act provides for a commission with power to regulate the rental and the matter of service in connection with the letting of dwelling premises, business property and hotels. It also provides that a tenant may not be evicted so long as he pays the rent fixed by the commission unless the owner himself or a bona fide purchaser from the owner wishes to occupy the premises.

The Act was held unconstitutional in a rather unsatisfactory decision (in which two justices concurred and one dissented) by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. Hirsch v. Block, 267 Fed. 614, 48 Wash. L. Rep. 378. A writ of certiorari to review this case was denied by the Supreme Court of the United States in Block v. Hirsch, 41 Sup. Ct. Rep. 13, but the issue of constitutionality is expected to be decided on its merits by the United States Supreme Court early in 1921.

Wisconsin. Chapter 16, Laws, Special Session, 1920, effective June 9, 1920, gives to the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin the power to fix reasonable rents in any city in any county having a population of two hundred and fifty thousand or over. Under its terms the Act is only applicable to Milwaukee County. Those administering this legislation feel that it has worked out advantageously in that county, and an effort may be made in 1921 to have the law extended to all cities of the state.

New South Wales. Legislation of 1915 created a "Fair Rents Court," and gave it authority to determine rentals. An interesting review of the experience of New South Wales will be found in an article by H. V. Evatt, A Fair Rent Experiment in New South Wales, Journal of Comparative Legislation and International Law, January, 1920.

South Africa. By legislation of 1920 rent boards were created with similar powers to those in New South Wales.

Discussions of the constitutional aspects of rent regulation by commissions will be found by Henry H. Classie, The Regulation of Rents, 7 Virginia Law Review, 30 (October, 1920); John H. Wigmore, A Constitutional Way to Reach the Housing Profiteer, Illinois Law Review, January, 1921; 91 Central Law Journal, 459 (Dec. 24, 1920). For a review of legislation during the war reference should be made to Edward L. Schaub, Regulation of Rentals During the War Period, 28 Journal of Political Economy, 1 (January, 1920).

(b) By restriction on eviction.

District of Columbia. The Saulsbury Resolution, 40 Stat. at Large, 593, passed May 31, 1918, prohibited eviction so long as the tenant paid the rent and behaved himself, unless the premises were required by the landlord or a bona fide purchaser for occupation while in Government employ. Held unconstitutional by District of Columbia Court of Appeals, in Willson v. McDonnell, 265 Fed. 432.

New York. Chapter 137, Laws of 1920, as amended by Chapter 948, authorized a stay of a warrant in summary dispossess proceedings for not over twelve months in the discretion of the court. As amended the law applies only to Buffalo and Rochester. This law does not apply to new buildings and expires November 1, 1922.

Chapters 942 and 947, Laws of 1920, provide that there shall be no summary dispossession (942) or eviction (943) where the tenant holds over after the expiration of his term unless the landlord proves him to be objectionable, or the landlord wants to occupy the premises himself, or wants to build a new building for dwelling purposes, plans for which have already been filed and approved, or (under Chapter 942) sells the building to a tenants' cooperative owning corporation. These laws do not apply to new buildings, and they expire November 1, 1922.

Chapter 945, Laws of 1920, makes it a defense to a proceeding to dispossess for non-payment of rent, that the rent is unjust and unreasonable and the agreement is oppressive. If this defense is interposed the landlord must within five days file a bill of particulars showing full facts with regard to his investment and operating costs from which the court may determine the reasonableness of the rent. The law does not apply to new buildings and expires November 1, 1922.

The following decisions relate to this legislation:

Kuenzli v. Stone, 112 Misc. 125. Decision by Appellate term of the Second Department. Opinion by Mr. Justice Kelby concurred in by Justices Clark and Cropsey unholding the constitutionality of Chapter 137 as a valid exercise of police power.

H. D. H. Realty Corporation v. Murphy, N. Y. Law Journal, October 16, 1920. Mr. Justice Mullan in the Supreme Court held that Chapter 942 did not apply to a case where a final order had been entered but had been stayed under Chapter 137; that this was not a pending proceeding. This opinion has been upheld by the opinion of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the First Department rendered December 24, 1920 (N. Y. Law Journal, December 29, 1920) but the court entered judgment contrary to its opinion in deference to the prior contrary decision of the Second Department in People ex rel. Rayland Realty Co. v. Fagan (N. Y. Law J., Dec. 20, 1920).

People ex rel. Wasserman v. Fagan, N. Y. Law Journal, October 18, 1920. Mr. Justice Faber held not only that Chapter 942 applied to a case where a final order had been entered and stayed, but also that the law is constitutional.

The constitutionality of Chapter 942 has been definitely upheld in several quite recent cases of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. People ex rel. Brixton Operating Corporation v. LaFetra, decided December 24, 1920 (N. Y. Law Journal, January 3, 1921), People ex rel. Durham Realty Corporation v. LaFetra, decided December 24, 1920 (N. Y. Law Journal, January 3, 1921), People ex rel. 1 H. D. H. Realty Corporation v. Murphy, decided December 24, 1920 (N. Y. Law Journal, December 29, 1920).

Guttag v. Shatzkin, N. Y. Law Journal, October 20, 1920. Mr. Justice Finch upheld the constitutionality of Chapter 947. His decision, however, has been recently reversed by the Appellate Division with one dissent. (New York Law Journal, Dec. 27, 1920).

Heyman v. Osterweis, N. Y. Law Journal, November 3, 1920. Mr. Justice Hotchkiss held Chapter 947 unconstitutional. The case was decided without brief or argument. The defendant's attorney was relying on the decision in Guttag v. Shatzkin, a decision in the same judicial department. The court refused an adjournment in order to permit the defendant properly to argue the case, and the defendant settled the case. The court suggested that even assuming that the business of leasing is charged with a public interest and is therefore subject to the police power, nevertheless the Act is void because it prevents the landlord from discontinuing the business of renting and thus ending the power to regulate him. The court did not discuss the bearing on the question of the fact that the legislation is to be in effect only until November 1, 1922.

Brandt and Co. v. Weil, New York Law Journal, November 1, 1920. Mr. Justice Mullan expressed the opinion that Chapter 947 was unconstitutional.

Massachusetts. Chapter 577, General Act of 1920, permits the court in summary proceedings for possession where the tenancy has terminated without fault of the tenant, to grant a stay where the tenant shows that he cannot find suitable premises elsewhere, the stay to be for not to exceed six months in the discretion of the court. Pending the stay the tenant must deposit in court the reasonable rental determined by the court. This Act expires February 1, 1922.

New Jersey. Jersey City passed so-called "rent ordinances" which provided that the landlord must notify the city as well as the tenant in case of proceedings to evict, whereupon the city was authorized to use its funds to defend the tenant against the landlord. These ordinances were held void by the Supreme Court of New Jersey in the case of Charles Stell v. The Mayor and Aldermen of Jersey City, 111 Atl. 274.

Wisconsin. At the special session of 1920 (Chap. 28) a law was passed, applicable only to Milwaukee County, which provides that: "In any action of unlawful detainer where a judgment of restitution has been rendered in favor of the plaintiff, the court or judge thereof may stay restitution for such period as the court or judge in his discretion may deem necessary to accomplish justice." The court has authority to determine the rental to be paid during the continuance of the stay.

Baltimore. Under constitutional power of municipal home rule, the City of Baltimore by ordinance of October 17, 1919, gave discretion to the court to refuse to grant a warrant of ejectment in certain cases for the dispossession of tenants if the court is of the opinion that such attempted ejectment "is solely for the purpose of profiteering or speculation." Prior to the enactment of this ordinance, the City Collector of Baltimore had given a written opinion that an ordinance of this character would be valid. The text of this opinion may be found in 50 Chicago Legal News, 411 (July 25, 1918).

Great Britain. English legislation of 1915 (5 and 6 Geo. V., Chap. 97), restricts the increase of rent of small dwelling houses, and prevents eviction unless the tenant misbehaves, or the premises are required for the use of the landlord, or there is other ground satisfactory to the court. This legislation was extended in 1919 (9 Geo. V., Chap 7), and was amended later in 1919 (9 and 10 Geo. V., Chap. 90).

New English legislation was enacted in 1920 (10 and 11 Geo. V., Chap. 17), which to some extent relaxes the prohibitions of previous laws and permits gradual increases of rent during a three year period. An outline of this legislation will be found in the report by Lawrence Veiller on How England is Meeting the Housing Shortage. An interesting review and criticism of English rental legislation will be found in 55 Law Journal 444 (London, December 4, 1920). The case of Nevile v. Hardy, 37 Law Times Reports, 129 (December 10, 1920), indicates that under the legislation of 1920, the presumptions are strongly against the landlord in eviction cases.

New Zealand. Similar legislation was enacted in New Zealand in 1918 (10 Geo. V., No. 32).

Spain. By royal decree in 1920, leases were extended without alternation of rent except in accordance with rates of increase permitted by the decree.

(c) By defenses to action for rent.

New York. Chapter 944, Laws of 1920, makes it a defense to an action for rent, that the rent is unjust and unreasonable and the agreement under which it is sought to be recovered is unreasonable. Where it appears that the rent has been increased over the rent as it existed one year priod to the time of the agreement under which the rent is sought to be recovered, such agreement shall be presumptively unjust, unreasonable and oppressive. The landlord is required to file a bill of particulars as to his investment, cost of operation, etc., the same as under Chapter 945. Chapter 944 is an amendment Chapter 136 of the regular 1920 Session Laws, which made a 25 per cent increase presumptively unreasonable, but which was found to be generally misunderstood. This Act does not apply to new buildings and is to be in effect only until November 1, 1921.

The following are some of the decisions that have been rendered as to Chapter 944:

Seventy-eighth Street and Broadway Co. v. Rosenbaum, 111 Misc. 577. Constitutionality upheld by Mr. Justice Spiegelberg. Held not retrospective.

Paterno Investing Corporation v. Katz, 112 Misc. 242. Opinion by Mr. Justice Lehman to same effect as Seventy-eighth and Broadway case. Decision affirmed without opinion by Appellate Division.

Edgar A. Levy Leasing Co., Inc. v. Siegel, decided December 24, 1920. (N. Y. Law Journal, December 30, 1920). Decision by Appellate Division of the Supreme Court upholding the constitutionality of Chapter 944.

Massachusetts. Chapter 578, General Acts of 1920, is similar to Chapter 136, New York, Laws of 1920, before it was amended by Chapter 944. It provides that unjust, unreasonable and oppressive agreements for rent shall be unenforceable and makes a 25 per cent increase presumptively unreasonable. The law is to be in force only until February 1, 1922.

(d) By anti-profiteering legislation.

Maine. Chapter 256, Laws 1919, provides that: "Whoever demands or collects an unreasonable or unjust rent or charge, taking into consideration the actual market value of the property at the time, with a fair return thereon, or imposes an unreasonable or unjust term or condition, for the occupancy of any building or any part thereof, rented or hired for dwelling purposes, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

V. Readjustment of Other Landlord and Tenant Laws.

(a) Length of notice to quit.

Massachusetts. Chapter 257, General Acts of 1919, as amended by Chapter 538, General Acts of 1920, provides 30 days notice in case of tenancy at will.

New Jersey. Chapter 340, Laws of 1920, provided for three months notice to terminate a tenancy from month to month or where no term is agreed upon, or where the tenant holds over with the landlord's consent. It also prohibited termination of a tenancy between October 1 and May 1. This Act was held unconstitutional in Zweig v. Tiffany, 111 Atlantic 263, on grounds having to do with the scope of the District Court Act to which it was an amendment. Thereupon Chapter 357, Laws of 1920, was passed, which is similar to that part of Chapter 340 requiring three months notice to terminate, and cures the defect in the earlier Act.

Wisconsin. By Act of the special session of 1920 (Chap. 15), two months notice in writing is required for termination by the landlord of a tenancy at will or by sufferance.

(b) Appeals in ouster proceedings.

New York. Chapter 943, Laws of 1920, makes provision for stay of issuance and execution of warrant for possession pending appeal.

(c) Repeal of penalty for holding over.

New York. Chapter 138, Laws of 1920, does away with penalty for holding over.

(d) Legislation relating to heat, power and other service called for by lease.

New York. Chapter 951, Laws of 1920, makes it a misdemeanor for a lessor, tenant, manager, superintendent or janitor of any building to fail intenitonally or willfully to furnish hot or cold water, heat, light, power, elevator service, telephone or any other service or facility, if called for by the lease.

Massachusetts. Chapter 555, General Acts of 1920, is similar to the New York Law as provided in Chapter 951, New York Laws of 1920.

(e) Legislation relating to the rental of houses to families with children.

New Jersey. Chapter 193, Laws of 1920, penalizes refusal to rent or lease to any person because the family of such person includes children under fourteen years of age, and into any agreement in a lease rendering such lease null and void upon the birth of any child.

Illinois. Since 1909 Illinois has had legislation similar to Chapter 193 of New Jersey Laws of 1920. (Hurd, Revised Statutes, 1919, Chap. 80, Sec. 38).

VI. Iinvestigation of Cost of Building.

New York, in 1919, constituted what is known as the Lockwood Investigating Committee, which has been effectively investigating combinations to maintain high cost of building.

A brief summary of legislation, proposed as well as enacted by state legislatures in this country will be found in an article by S. Edward Hanne-stad, State Legislatures and the Rent Problem, 9 National Municipal Review, 702 (November, 1920).

As will be readily seen from any examination of the legislation outlined above, the problem has been attacked from two general standpoints: (1) to alleviate the hardships and remove the evils growing out of the housing shortage; (2) to remove the housing shortage.

In England emergency legislation to meet the temporary situation has been combined with a program of governmental house building. In Massachusetts and Wisconsin, emergency legislation for the protection of tenants has been combined with state or municipal aid in the construction of houses, and (in Massachusetts) provision for local furnishing of shelter in time of emergency. New York and New Jersey combine rental legislation with tax exemptions for the encouragement of new building, and New York at the same time is conducting an investigation for the purpose of removing combinations and agreements which hinder building or make it more expensive. North and South Dakota are proceeding upon the plan of state aid in the construction of houses.

The Calder Committee of the United States Senate, on Reconstruction and Reproduction, has studied the situation from the standpoint of the entire country and has, among other things, recommended legislation which may through a Federal home loan bank, with securities free from Federal taxation, better finance the construction of houses. For the District of Columbia the Saulsbury resolution restricted evictions, and was superseded by the Ball law, which established a commission for the regulation of rentals and also restricted evictions. Both the Saulsbury resolution and the Ball law have been held unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; though the constitutionality of the Ball law will not be settled until final action by the United States Supreme Court. There are now before Congress proposed bills for the District of Columbia which would stay evictions for a period of six months and would modify the law as to forcible entry and detainer. For the District of Columbia, the Federal legislation has been purely for the protection of tenants, rather than for the encouragement of building. Proposed legislation for tax exemptions in Pennsylvania, on the other hand, emphasizes the encouragement of building.

The rental legislation has attracted the greatest attention, and discussion of this legislation will be found by Harold D. Aron, The New York Landlord and Tenant Laws of 1920, 6 Cornell Law Quarterly 1 (November, 1920); J. R. Davies, New Landlord and Tenant Laws, 43 Bench and Bar 156 (November, 1920); E. J. Lauer, Rights of Landlord and Tenant as Affected by Recent Legislation in the State of New York, 43 Bench and Bar 103 March, 1920). See also 53 Chicago Legal News 26 (August 19, 1920).

The most important judicial determinations under the New York rent laws are the unanimous decisions of December 24, 1920, by the Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court in the First Department. The New York Law Journal of December 29, 1920, sums up these decisions as follows:

> "The substance of the holdings is that the state legislature had the right to withdraw, by repealing or suspending, the remedy by summary proceedings, in whole or in part, so long as it left the landlords an adequate remedy for the recovery of the possession of their real property, and the landlords have been left with an adequate remedy, since the statute enacted at the same extraordinary session of the legislature (Laws of 1920, Chapter 947) which attempts to take away the remedy by common law ejectment, is void and unconstitutional. See opinion in Guttag v. Shatzkin." (N. Y. Law Journal, December 28, 1920.)

The result of the decisions of December 24, 1920, is that Chapters 942 and 944 are valid and Chapter 947 invalid. The final decision of the New York Court of Appeals upon the validity of these laws will be awaited with interest.

In the case of Marcus Brown Holding Co. v. Feldman decided December 15, 1920, by the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York (reported in N. Y. Law Journal, December 20, 1920), Chief Justice Hough speaking for himself and two other judges expressed the view that the New York laws are constitutional. The court emphasized the emergency character of the legislation and said:

"Should it be shown hereafter that the reason for the laws had in fact passed, questions may arise, not now before us and as to which we do not wish to seem to foreclose discussion."

Though the so-called "rent laws" and other landlord and tenant legislation are of necessity emergency measures, your commission feels that the prospect of sufficient building in the near future is so small that some such measures are essential in order to alleviate the conditions under which the public is now laboring, and which will in all probability continue to exist for several years. The commission has set forth in Appendixes IV and V the text of measures of this character that it recommends.

Although emergency measures may accomplish something to relieve the present situation, permanent relief can be obtained only by building homes. Under present constitutional provisions in Illinois, it is impossible to exempt new buildings or real estate mortgages from State or local taxation; and it is also impossible to authorize State or local advancement of funds for building. It is recommended that constitutional changes be proposed and adopted which will permit legislative action in both of these matters.

A proposed Federal measure, the so-called "Calder-Nolen" Bill, to provide a Federal building loan bank, the commission believes should be enacted into law. In case a Federal building loan bank is established, the commission recommends that the General Assembly pass an Act enabling building and loan associations of Illinois to become members of the Federal organization.

Your commission is strongly of the opinion that the present high cost of building is due in large part to unlawful combinations and agreements which artificially maintain prices and restrict output. The commission recommends the creation of a joint legislative committee with full power to investigate combinations and restrictive agreements, which affect the building of houses. The text of a proposed joint resolution for this purpose will be found in Appendix III together with a bill to appropriate for the expense of the investigation. In making this recommendation the commission has before it the case of Greenfield v. Russel, 292 Ill. 392 (1920), holding invalid a joint resolution of the Fifty-first General Assembly for the investigation of Zion City. This case is inapplicable to the joint resolution here proposed, however, for the object sought as the result of the proposed investigation here recommended in the enactment of legislation to meet a present and continuing evil.

APPENDIX I.

A BILL

For an Act in Relation to Housing.

ARTICLE I.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: All of the provisions of this Act shall apply to every city, village or incorporated town which now or hereafter has a population of five thousand or more inhabitants, as determined by the last preceding Federal census.

The provisions of this Act prescribing requirements where there is a public water supply and a public sewer system, or either, shall apply to all cities, villages and incorporated towns now or hereafter having a public water supply and a public sewer system, or either, as the case may be. By public water supply and public sewer system shall be understood all water or sewer systems available for use by the public, irrespective of whether such system or any part thereof were constructed or operated as a private enterprise.

The word "city" when used in this Act shall be construed to include villages and incorporated towns.

SEC. 2. RELATION TO CITY ORDINANCES.] This Act establishes minimum standards and nothing herein shall interfere with higher standards or additional requirements now or hereafter prescribed by any city ordinance, nor shall anything in this Act conflict with power now or hereafter granted to cities to prescribe such standards or additional requirements. Where no specific standards are established by this Act, such standards may be established by city ordinance, but this Act is to be construed as fully enforcible in the cities to which it applies, if no city ordinances are adopted.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.] (1) A "dwelling" is any house or building or portion thereof which is occupied in whole or in part as a home, residence or sleeping place of one or more human beings, either permanently or transiently.

(2) Dwellings are divided into the following classes: (a) "Private dwellings," (b) "Two-family dwellings," (c) "Multiple dwellings."

(a) A private dwelling is a dwelling occupied by but one family.

(b) A two-family dwelling is a dwelling occupied by but two families.

(c) A multiple dwelling is a dwelling occupied otherwise than as a private dwelling or two-family dwelling.

(3) Multiple dwellings are divided into two classes:

Class A. Multiple dwellings of Class A are dwellings which are occupied more or less permanently for residence purposes by several families, and in which the rooms are occupied in apartments, suites or groups. This class includes tenement houses, flats, apartment houses, apartment hotels, bachelor apartments, studio apartments, duplex apartments, kitchenette apartments, and all other dwellings similarly occupied, whether specifically enumerated herein or not.

Class B. Multiple dwellings of Class B are dwellings which are occupied as a rule transiently, as the more or less temporary abiding places of individuals who are lodged with or without meals, and in which, as a rule, each room is treated as an independent unit. This class includes hotels, lodging houses, boarding houses, furnished room houses, lodgings, club houses, and all other dwellings similarly occupied, whether specifically enumerated herein or not.

(4) In cases of mixed occupancy, where a building is occupied in part as a dwelling, the part so occupied shall be deemed a dwelling for the purposes of this Act. A two-family dwelling which contains a store or other business space shall be considered a multiple dwelling; and shall comply with the requirements for multiple dwellings.

(5) An apartment is a room or a suite or group of two or more rooms occupied or intended or designed to be occupied by one family. One person living alone or two or more persons living together in the same apartment shall be considered a family for the purposes of this Act.

(6) A habitable room is a room in which any person or persons usually sleep or eat or carry on their usual domestic or social vocations or avocations. Laundries, bath rooms, water closet compartments, serving and storage pantries, closets, boiler and machinery rooms, cellars, corridors and similar spaces shall not be deemed to be habitable rooms.

(7) A "yard" is an open unoccupied space on the same lot with a dwelling, separating every part of such dwelling from the lot line. A yard between the rear line of the dwelling and the rear line of the lot is a "rear yard." A yard between the front line of the dwelling and the front line of the lot is a "front yard." A yard between the side line of the dwelling and the side line of the lot which extends from the front lint or front yard to the rear line of the lot or to the rear yard is a "side yard."

(8) A "court" is an open unoccupied space, other than a yard, on the same lot with the dwelling. A court not extending to the street or front or rear is an inner court. A court extending to the street or front or rear yard is an outer court.

(9) A "lot" is a parcel of land of sufficient area to contain a dwelling placed or proposed to be placed thereon and to comply with all the requirements of this Act, without reference to adjoining lots or land. A "corner lot" is a lot situated at the junction of two streets, or of a street and an alley at least sixteen feet wide. However, if such an alley be less than sixteen feet wide and the lot for dwelling purposes is estimated on a line sixteen feet distant from the opposite side of the alley, such a lot may be considered a corner lot. No portion of the width of a lot more than fifty feet from such junction shall be regarded as a part of a corner lot. A lot other than a corner lot is an "interior lot."

(10) The word alley, wherever used in this Act, is employed to designate a public alley.

(11) The front of a lot is that boundary line which borders on the street. In the case of a corner lot with streets on two sides, the owner may elect by statement on his plans either street boundary line as the front. The rear of a lot is the side opposite the front. In the case of a triangular lot the rear is the boundary line not bordering on a street.

(12) A "public hall" is a hall, corridor or passage-way not within the exclusive control of one family.

(13) A "stair hall" is a public hall and includes the stairs, stair landings and those portions of the dwelling through which it is necessary to pass in going between the entrance floor and the highest floor of the dwelling.

(14) A basement is a story partly but not more than one-half below the level of the adjoining ground or the level of the inside sidewalk grade of the street nearest the dwelling. If the floor of such basement is less than two feet below such level, or if the ceiling of such basement is more than seven feet six inches above sill level such story shall be classed as the first story of the dwelling in which it occurs. A cellar is a story more than one-half below the level of the adjoining ground or the level of the inside sidewalk grade of the street nearest the dwelling. A cellar shall not be classed as the first story of the dwelling in which it occurs. If a story in any part falls within the definition of basement or cellar it shall as to that part be regarded as a basement or cellar.

(15) An attic containing habitable rooms shall in all cases be counted as a story.

(16) The height of a dwelling is the perpendicular distance measured in a straight line from the inside sidewalk grade of the street in front of the dwelling to the highest point of the roof beams in the case of flat roofs, and to the average height of the gable in the case of pitched roofs, the measurements in all cases to be taken through the center of the front of the house. Where a dwelling is situated on a terrace above the inside sidewalk grade its height shall be measured from the level of the adjoining ground.

(7) The inside sidewalk grade is the level of the established grade of the inner edge of the public sidewalk as computed at the lot line in front of the dwelling measured at the center of such front. Where no such grade has been established, the city engineer or other officer performing such functions shall establish an inside sidewalk grade or its equivalent for the purposes of this Act.

(18) Outside stairways, fire escapes, fire towers, porches, platforms, balconies, chimneys and other projections shall be considered as part of the dwelling, and not as part of the yards, courts or unoccupied area. This provision shall not apply to unenclosed outside porches not exceeding one story in height which does not extend into the front or rear yard a greater distance than twelve feet from the front or rear wall of the dwelling; nor shall it apply to an unenclosed outside porch not exceeding one story in height which does not extend into the side yard a greater distance than six feet from the side wall of the dwelling, but there may not be more than one porch extending into the side yard; and no porches shall encroach upon the minimum widths or areas prescribed by this Act for side yards or courts. Cornices which project into an outer court or into a side yard for a distance of more than eighteen inches shall be considered a part of the dwelling. Any cornice which projects into an inner court shall be considered a part of the dwelling.

(19) Whenever the words "dwelling," "two-family dwelling," "multiple dwelling," "building," "lot," "court," "yard," or other similar terms are used in this Act they shall be construed as if followed by the words "and all parts thereof."

SEC. 4. CONVERSION OF OTHER BUILDINGS INTO DWELLINGS.] A building not a dwelling, if subsequently converted or altered into a dwelling shall comply with all the provisions of this Act relative to new dwellings.

SEC. 5. ALTERATION OF DWELLINGS.] A dwelling of one class shall in its alteration or conversion to another class comply with all of the provisions of this Act relative to such class. No new dwelling shall at any time be altered so as to violate any provision of this Act. No existing dwelling shall at any time be altered so as to violate the provisions of this Act applicable to such dwelling.

SEC. 6. DWELLINGS DAMAGED.] If a dwelling is hereafter damaged by fire or other cause, including ordinary wear, so that at any time its value be less than one-half its original value, such dwelling shall not be repaired or rebuilt without complying with the provisions of this Act applicable to new dwellings. If damaged so that its value remains one-half or more than one-half of its original value, the dwelling may be rebuilt if complying with standards equal to those existing prior to the passage of this Act, but no dwelling shall be repaired or rebuilt if it cannot be restored to a sanitary or safe condition.

SEC. 7. TIME FOR COMPLIANCE.] All requirements made by this Act as to new dwellings shall be observed in the construction of dwellings begun after the date when this Act comes into effect in any city, irrespective of whether permits therefore were issued prior to such date. All structural changes and all connections with public water supply and public sewer systems required by this Act to be made in existing dwellings shall be made within one year after this Act takes effect in any city, unless earlier action is required by municipal ordinance. However, this section shall not be construed as in any manner protecting or legalizing dwellings erected in violation of city ordinances or of law, or which may be dangerous to public health or safety.

ARTICLE II.

LIGHT AND VENTILATION.

SEC. 8. HEIGHT.] No new dwelling shall exceed a height of one and one-half times the width of the widest street upon which it abuts, nor in any case shall it exceed eighty feet in height. Such width of street shall be measured from building line to opposite building line. If no official building line exists on the opposite side of the street, the width of the street shall be counted as twice the distance from the front wall of the dwelling to the center of the street. The provisions of this section shall not apply to multiple dwellings of Class B which have more than one hundred sleeping rooms, a public dining room for the accommodation of at least one hundred guests, and a general kitchen.

No existing dwelling shall be increased in height so as to exceed the height specified above.

SEC. 9. PERCENTAGE OF LOT OCCUPIED.] No new dwelling shall alone or with other buildings now or hereafter upon the lot occupy more than the following proportions of the lot:

Not more than eighty-five per cent of the area of a corner lot may be occupied, unless such corner lot is bounded on at least three sides by streets or alleys, in which case ninety per cent of the area may be occupied. Upon other lots not more than seventy-five per cent of the area may be occupied.

In the case of a lot triangular or irregular in shape bounded on two or more sides by a street and having a number of lineal feet street frontage exceeding one-twentieth of the number of square feet in the area of such lot, it shall not be necessary to comply with the conditions of this section as to the percentage of lot which may be occupied.

No existing dwelling shall hereafter be enlarged or its lot be in any manner diminished so that a larger proportion of the lot is occupied than that specified in this section.

SEC 10. REAR YARDS.] At the rear of every new dwelling there shall be a rear yard extending across the entire width of the lot. Such yard shall be at every point open and unobstructed from the ground to the sky, except as permitted by paragraph 18 of section 3. Every part of such yard shall be directly accessible from every other part.

A rear yard shall have an area of at least eight per cent of the superficial area of the lot on corner lots, and an area of at least ten per cent of the superficial area of the lot on all other lots. Every rear yard shall be increased one per cent of the superficial area of the lot for every story above three stories in height of the dwelling situated thereon.

However, where the rear of a lot abuts upon an alley at least ten feet wide the requirements specified above shall not apply, but the yard shall be of such a size that the rear line of the dwelling shall not be less than sixteen feet from the opposite side of such alley. Except as specified with respect to lots abutting upon an alley no rear yard shall be less than ten feet in depth.

This section shall not apply to multiple dwellings of Class B in which there are more than one hundred sleeping rooms, a public dining room for the accommodation of at least one hundred guests and a general kitchen.

SEC. 11. SIDE YARDS.] All side yards shall conform to the standards specified in section 12 for outer courts, and yards so left to the side of the dwelling shall be regarded as a compliance with the provisions of section 12 regarding courts.

SEC. 12. COURTS.] Inner courts of all new dwellings shall have a minimum width at every point and minimum areas as follows:

	Least width in feet.	Least area in sq. ft.
1 story	6	100
2 stories	6	120
3 stories	8	160
4 stories	8	160
5 stories	12	260
6 stories	16	400
7 stories	20	625
8 stories or more	24	840

Outer courts of all new dwellings shall have minimum widths at every point equal to one-half the minimum widths required for inner courts. If windows open on opposite sides of an outer court, the minimum width of such a court shall conform to that prescribed for inner courts. The minimum widths prescribed for outer courts or side yards are to be provided on the same lot irrespective of the presence of or dimensions of courts or side yards on adjoining premises.

Where an outer court exceeds thirty feet in length, the court shall be made at least one foot wider for each ten feet or fraction thereof over thirty feet, or the portion of the court beyond thirty feet shall be set back one foot for each additional ten feet or fraction thereof in length.

The width of all courts adjoining the lot line shall be measured to the lot line.

For a lot twenty-five feet or less in width an outer court three feet six inches in width may be accepted for a dwelling of not more than three stories, in place of the requirement specified in the above table.

No inner court shall be less in size in any part than the minimum sizes prescribed in this section.

All courts hereafter constructed in existing dwellings shall comply with the requirements of this section.

SEC 13. COURT OPEN AT TOP.] No court in a new dwelling and no court hereafter constructed in an existing dwelling shall be covered in any manner, and every such court shall at every point be open and unobstructed from the ground to the sky. However, where a lower floor or floors of a multiple dwelling are used entirely for purposes other than habitation, courts may start below the sill of the window of the first floor occupied as a dwelling, but where such lower floor or floors are used in part for purposes of habitation, the requirement that courts extend to the ground shall apply to the part or parts so used.

SEC. 14. AIR INTAKES.] In all new dwellings every inner court shall be provided with one or more horizontal air intakes at the bottom. One such intake shall always communicate directly with the street or front yard or with a side yard, rear yard or outer court, and shall consist of a passageway not less than three feet wide and seven feet high, which shall be left open or be provided with an open gate at each end. However, in the case of courts which by the terms of section 13 are not required to descend to the ground, such passageway shall be at the level of the bottom of the court.

The provisions of this section shall apply to courts hereafter constructed in existing dwellings.

SEC 15. ANGLES IN COURTS.] Corners in courts may be cut off, but the running length of the wall across the angle of such corners shall not exceed seven feet.

SEC 16. DWELLINGS TO FRONT ON STREET.] No dwelling shall hereafter be erected or moved to the rear of any lot so that a building intervenes between it and the street, and no building shall hereafter be erected or moved on any lot in front of a dwelling. No building to the rear of a lot where another building intervenes between it and the street shall hereafter be converted into a dwelling.

However, a private garage or private stable may be built at the rear of a lot on which there is a dwelling other than a multiple dwelling at the front. Such garage or stable shall not exceed two stories in height, and may have habitable rooms for the use of not more than one family. If occupied, the garage or stable in addition to complying with the provisions of this Act with respect to dwellings, shall have an entrance from outside of the building to such habitable rooms without passing through the part used as a garage or stable. A garage may be attached as an extension to the dwelling if it does not violate any provisions of this Act, and if it is separated from the dwelling by a wall of fire-proof material.

SEC. 17. BUILDINGS ON THE SAME LOT WITH A DWELLING.] If a building not a dwelling is placed upon the same lot and at the side of a dwelling, it shall be so placed as not to conflict with any of the requirements of this Act as to dwellings.

If a building not a dwelling is placed to the rear of a dwelling upon the same lot, the minimum distance between such buildings shall be at least ten feet, if neither building exceeds the height of one story; and five additional feet for every story more than one in the height of the highest building on such lot. However, a one-story building without a basement, no part of which is used as a dwelling, may be placed on the rear of a lot containing a dwelling if a minimum distance of ten feet is maintained between every point of such building and the dwelling. The space between a dwelling and a building upon the same lot shall be measured from the rear wall of the dwelling to the nearest wall of the building at the rear of the lot.

Where a building other than a dwelling is erected upon the same lot as a dwelling, the rear line of such building shall not approach nearer than ten feet to the rear line of the lot, unless the rear of the lot upon which it stands abuts upon an alley, in which case the rear line of such building shall not be less than sixteen feet from the opposite side of such alley.

SEC. 18. YARDS OF EXISTING DWELLINGS.] No existing dwelling shall hereafter be enlarged or its lot diminished in size so that the percentage of lot occupied, rear yard, side yard, courts or distance between buildings shall be below the minimum requirements prescribed by sections 9, 10, 11, 12 and 17 of this Act, or below the minimum requirements prescribed by law or ordinance when this Act takes effect.

SEC. 19. WINDOWS.] In every new dwelling each habitable room shall have a window or windows with a total glass area equal to a least one-tenth of its floor area. Such window or windows shall be so placed as properly to light all portions of the room, and shall open directly upon a street or alley, or upon a court yard of the dimensions specified in this Act and located on the same lot. No window so required shall have a glass area of less than ten square feet. Each window shall have its top not less than seven feet above the floor and shall be so constructed that at least its upper half may be opened its full width.

SEC. 20. SIZE OF ROOMS.] In every new dwelling all habitable rooms other than kitchens shall have a floor area of at least eighty square feet, and in each apartment there shall be at least one room containing not less than one hundred and twenty square feet of floor area. Kitchens shall have a floor area of at least sixty square feet. No habitable room shall be less than seven feet wide in its least horizontal dimension.

SEC. 21. HEIGHT OF ROOMS.] Each habitable room in any new dwelling shall in every part be not less than eight feet six inches high from the finished floor to the finished ceiling. However, an attic room need be eight feet six inches high in but one-half of its area if there are not less than seven hundred and fifty cubic feet of air space therein.

SEC. 22. ALCOVES.] No part of any habitable room shall be enclosed or subdivided at any time, wholly or in part, by a curtain, portieres, fixed or movable partition or other contrivance or device, unless each part of the room so enclosed or subdivided shall contain a separate window and have a floor area of not less than eighty square feet, as herein required for habitable rooms. The terms of this section shall apply to any future enclosing or subdividing of an existing room in a dwelling.

SEC. 23. PRIVACY.] In every new dwelling access to every living room and to at least one water closet compartment shall be had without passing through a bedroom, and access to at least one water closet compartment shall be had from every bedroom without passing through another bedroom, except where every bedroom has a water closet directly adjoining it for use therewith.

SEC. 24. ROOMS IN EXISTING DWELLINGS.] No existing room in any dwelling shall hereafter be occupied as a habitable room unless it contains a window or windows having a glass area not less than one-twelfth of the floor area of the room, which window or windows shall open directly upon a street or alley, or upon a yard or court having a superficial area of not less than twenty-five square feet and a minimum width of not less than two feet six inches; or unless such room adjoins another room in the same apartment which has such window or windows opening upon a street or alley, or upon a yard or court as specified above, between which two adjoining rooms there shall be an alcove opening equal in extent to at least twenty per cent of the entire wall surface of such room. Nor shall such room be occupied unless the dwelling of which it is a part conforms to the requirements of sections 9 and 17 as to percentage of lot area to be covered and as to distance between buildings. Nothing in this section shall be construed as in conflict with section 32 regarding the occupancy of basements in existing dwellings.

SEC. 25. ROOMS ADDED TO AN EXISTING DWELLING.] Any additional room or hall that is hereafter constructed or created in an existing dwelling may be of the same height of ceiling as the other rooms or hall of the same story of the dwelling, but shall comply in all other respects with the provisions of this Act applicable to new dwellings.

SEC. 26. LIGHTNING AND VENTILATION OF WATER CLOSET COMPARTMENTS IN BATH ROOMS.] In new dwellings every water close compartment and bath room shall have at least one window opening directly upon a street or alley, or upon a yard or court of the dimensions specified in sections 10, 11 and 12 and located on the same lot. The aggregate glass area of a window or windows for each water closet compartment or bath room shall be not less than six square feet, and no window shall have a glass area of less than three square feet. Every such window shall be so constructed that at least its upper half may be opened its full width.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to multiple dwellings of Class B that have a system of mechanical ventilation so constructed as entirely to change the air in every bath room, toilet room or water closet compartment every seven minutes; nor shall they apply to general toilet rooms constructed in accordance with the requirements of section 41.

SEC. 27. LIGHTING AND VENTILATION OF PUBLIC STAIRS AND STAIR HALLS.] In every new dwelling every public hall (including stair halls) shall have at each story at least one window with a glass area equal to twelve square feet, opening directly upon a street or alley, or upon a yard or court of the dimensions specified in sections 10, 11 and 12, and located on the same lot. Such window shall be so placed that light may pass directly to the opposite end of the hall. Any part of a public hall which is off-set or recessed or shut off from any other part of such hall shall be deemed a separate hall within the meaning of this section, and shall be separately lighted and ventilated. A sash door, opening, or similar open spaces opening directly upon a street or alley or upon a yard or court of the specified dimensions, shall be deemed the equivalent of a window for the purposes of this section, if it has the minimum amount of glass area prescribed for windows by this section.

In place of the window requirements specified above for each story, a dwelling not more than three stories high may have a ventilating skylight, glazed wired glass or protected by a wired guard above the glass together with and above and unobstructed vertical well hole of not less than twenty square feet in area; and in dwellings more than three stories high the three highest stories may be lighted by a skylight of the same character.

This section shall not apply to multiple dwellings of Class B if the public halls are adequately lighted by artificial light, and adequately ventilated by a system of mechanical ventilation.

SEC. 28. LIGHTING OF PUBLIC HALLS.] The owner of every multiple dwelling shall cause a light to be kept burning in the public halls near the stairs upon the entrance floor and upon all floors above the entrance floor every night from sunset to sunrise. Such light shall be equivalent to one-half watt for each square foot of floor area. Any part of a public hall which is offset or recessed or shut off from any other part of such hall shall be separately lighted.

ARTICLE III.

SANITATION.

SEC. 29. CELLAR ROOMS.] No room in any cellar shall be constructed or occupied as a habitable room.

SEC. 30. BASEMENT ROOMS.] No room in the basement of a new dwelling shall be occupied as a habitable room, except that one apartment not exceeding six rooms may be occupied in the basement of a multiple dwelling having more than four apartments, if the rooms in such apartment conform to the requirements of this Act as to habitable rooms.

SEC. 31. CONSTRUCTION OF CELLARS AND BASEMENT.] Every new dwelling which does not have a basement or cellar shall have a clear space of at least three feet in height under the entire first story, such space to be in all cases enclosed, and provided with ample ventilation, and properly drained. The basement, cellar, or other lowest floor, and the walls below the ground level of dwellings shall be so constructed and drained as to prevent the entrance of dampness or water. No wooden floors shall be permitted in any cellar or basement, but a wood-wearing surface may be laid on a concrete floor not less than four inches in thickness. All cellars and basements in new dwellings shall have a window or windows with a total glass area equal to a least one-tenth of the floor area. The floor of the cellar, basement, or other lowest floor of every existing dwelling shall be kept free from dampness.

The cellar or basement ceiling of every existing or new dwelling shall have the space over the furnace or heating plant plastered, and such plastering shall extend two feet in every direction beyond the area occupied by the furnace or heating plant. No wooden lath shall be used in connection with such plastering.

SEC. 32. OCCUPANCY OF BASEMENT IN EXISTING DWELLINGS.] No room in the basement of an existing dwelling shall hereafter be occupied as a habitable room unless: (1) Such room shall be at least seven feet six inches high in every part from the floor to the ceiling, and shall have a floor area of at least eighty square feet. (2) The ceiling of such room shall be in every part at least four feet above the surface of the ground adjoining such rooms. (3) Water closet facilities shall be available to the occupant of each room. (4) Such room shall have a window or windows with a total glass area equal to at least one-tenth of its floor area. Such window or windows shall open directly upon a street or alley, or upon a yard or court having a superficial area of not less than twenty-five square feet and a minimum width of not less than two feet six inches. If the ceiling of any such room is less than eight feet six inches in the clear, the window area of such room shall be at least fifteen per cent of the floor area. (5) The basement shall be so constructed that the entrance of dampness or water is prevented, and if there is a cellar below the basement, such cellar shall be so constructed that the entrance of dampness or water is prevented.

All rooms in basements of existing dwellings which are now occupied as habitable rooms may continue to be so occupied upon complying with the terms of this section. Basements in existing dwellings having no rooms occupied as habitable rooms shall comply with all of the provisions of this Act as to habitable rooms in new dwellings, if rooms therein are to be so occupied, and occupancy of such rooms shall be limited in the manner prescribed by section 30.

SEC. 33. COURTS, AREAS AND YARDS, GRADING AND DRAINAGE OF.] In every existing or new dwelling the bottom of every shaft, court and yard shall be so drained and paved or graded that all watter shall flow freely into a sewer or street.

SEC. 34. DWELLINGS TO BE IN GOOD REPAIR—ROOFS.] Every dwelling shall be kept in good repair. The roof shall be kept so as not to leak, and all running water shall be drained from the roof in such a manner as not to cause dampness in the walls or ceilings of such dwelling or adjacent buildings.

SEC. 35. PUBLIC WATER SUPPLY.] In any city where there is a public water supply, no new multiple dwelling shall be erected without connection therewith. Every new dwelling other than a multiple dwelling shall be connected with such public water supply if a public water main is within a distance of one hundred feet of any outside line of the lot on which the dwelling is to be erected. Every multiple dwelling now in existence shall connect with the public water supply when a public water main is or hereafter comes within a distance of one hundred feet of any outside line of the lot on which the dwelling stands. All new multiple dwellings in a city where a public water supply does not exist shall connect with a public water supply when a public water main becomes available within a distance of one hundred feet of any outside line of the lot on which such dwelling stands.

SEC. 36. WATER SUPPLY IN DWELLINGS.] Where a connection is now or hereafter required with the public water supply, under the terms of section 35, there shall be provided and maintained in every dwelling at least one sink or washbowl with a quantity of running water sufficient to provide eighty gallons a day to each occupant, and this requirement shall be exclusive of any sink provided in the cellar of such dwelling. In new two-family dwellings and new multiple dwellings of Class A there shall be a sink or washbowl in each apartment, with the supply of a quantity of running water sufficient to provide eighty gallons a day to each occcupant.

In existing two-family dwellings and existing multiple dwellings of Class A there shall be at least one such sink or washbowl on each floor accessible to each apartment without passing through another apartment, with a quantity of running water sufficient to provide eighty gallons a day to each occupant. In all multiple dwellings of Class B there shall be one such sink or washbowl for every fifteen occupants, or fraction thereof.

SEC. 37. WATER SUPPLY WHERE NO PUBLIC WATER SYSTEM IS AVAILABLE.] Where there is no public water supply with which connection is required by the terms of section 35, there shall be provided for all existing or new dwellings one or more adequate cisterns or wells with a pump.

SEC. 38. PUBLIC SEWER SYSTEM.] In any city where there is a public sewer system, no multiple dwelling of over three apartments shall be erected without connection therewith. Every other new dwelling shall be connected with such public sewer system if a public sewer is within a distance of one hundred feet of any outside line of the lot on which the dwelling is to be erected. Every multiple dwelling of over three apartments now in existence shall connect with the public sewer system if a public sewer is or hereafter comes within one hundred feet of any outside line of the lot on which such dwelling has been erected. All new multiple buildings erected in a city where a public sewer system does not exist shall connect with a public sewer system when a public sewer becomes available within a distance of one hundred feet of any outside line of the lot on which such dwelling stands.

SEC. 39. REQUIREMENTS WHERE THERE IS NO PUBLIC SEWER SYSTEM.] Where there is neither a public water supply nor a public sewer system, or where there is a public water supply but no public sewer system, the plumbing for dwellings may be connected with a septic tank or other adequate and sanitary means of sewage disposal. Every existing multiple dwelling of more than three departments and every new multiple dwelling shall have a septic tank or other adequate and sanitary means of sewage disposal, if not required to be connected with a public sewer system. No cesspool or privy vault shall be permitted in connection with any multiple dwelling.

SEC. 40. CATCH BASINS.] Where because of a lack of a public water supply or of a public sewer system, sinks with running water are not provided inside a dwelling, one or more catch basins or some other adequate and sanitary device for the disposal of waste water shall be provided in the yard or court, a point of easy access to the occupants of such dwelling, and the top of which shall be level with the surface of the yard or court.

SEC. 41. WATER CLOSETS IN NEW DWELLINGS WHERE THERE ARE A PUBLIC WATER SUPPLY AND A PUBLIC SEWER SYSTEM.] Every new dwelling required by section 35 and 38 to be connected with a public water supply and a public sewer system shall have at least one water closet, which may be in a bath room. Each water closet shall be placed in a compartment completely separated from every other water closet. Such compartment shall not be less than three feet wide, and shall be enclosed with partitions which shall extend to the ceiling and shall be non-absorbent. In new two-family and multiple dwellings the floor of every water closet compartment shall be constructed of a non-absorbent material other than metal, of sufficient thickness to make the floor waterproof, and shall have a cove base at least one inch high.

In new two-family dwellings and multiple dwellings of Class A, there shall be a separate water closet located within each apartment. In new multiple dwellings of Class B there shall be provided at least one water closet for every fifteen occupants or fraction thereof.

Every water closet compartment hereafter placed in any dwelling shall be provided with proper means of artificially lighting the same at night.

Nothing in this Act shall be construed to prohibit a general toilet room containing several water closet compartments separated from each other by dwarf partitions, if such toilet room is adequately lighted and ventilated to the outer air or if it has adequate artificial light and a system of mechanical ventilation so constructed as to change the air every seven minutes. Such water closets, however, shall supplement the water closet accommodations required by other provisions of this section. A general toilet room containing several water closets may be constructed or maintained in a cellar or basement if such water closets supplement those required by this Act, and if they have natural or artificial light and ventilation as prescribed in this section.

SEC. 42. WATER CLOSETS CONSTRUCTED WHEN NO PUBLIC WATER SUPPLY AND SEWER SYSTEM WERE AVAILABLE.] Within a period of not more than twelve months after connections with a public water supply and a public sewer system are required under the terms of section 35 and 38, every dwelling not theretofore connected with such water supply and sewer system shall be equipped with water closets, which in new dwellings shall comply with all of the requirements of this Act. Whenever connections with a public water supply and a public sewer system is required by this Act, all privy vaults, cesspools, or other similar recepatcles used to receive fecal matter, urine or sewage, shall be removed and the place where they were located shall be properly filled in and disinfected.

SEC. 43. WATER CLOSETS IN EXISTING DWELLINGS.] In every existing dwelling required by this Act to be connected with a public water supply and a public sewer system at least one water closet shall be provided for every apartment, except that in multiple dwellings of Class B there shall be provided at least one water closet for every fifteen occupants or fraction thereof. Every water closet compartment and water closet hereafter placed in a dwelling, shall comply with all requirements of this Act as to water closet compartments and water closets in new dwellings, except: (1) that in the case of a new water closet compartment installed on the top floor of an existing dwelling, a ventilating skylight open to the sky may be used in place of the window or windows required by section 26 of this Act; and (2) compartments in existing dwellings may contain a window or windows of not less than four square feet in area opening directly upon a street or alley, or upon a yard, court or vent shaft of the minimum size prescribed by building regulations in existence at the time when the dwelling was erected.

SEC. 44. OUTSIDE WATER CLOSETS.] Outside water closets shall not be installed for new dwellings which are required by this Act to have connections with a public water supply and a public sewer system.

SEC. 45. WATER CLOSET FIXTURES.] In new dwellings no water closet fixtures shall be enclosed. In all existing dwellings the woodwork enclosing all water closets shall be removed from the front of said closets, and the space underneath the seat shall be left open. Pan, plunger, and long hopper closets shall not be installed nor shall such fixtures be used for purposes of replacement in new or existing dwellings.

The floor and other surface beneath and around the water closets of all dwellings shall be kept in good order and repair.

SEC. 46. PLUMBING.] In every new dwelling no plumbing fixtures shall be enclosed, but the space underneath shall be left entirely open. All plumbing work shall be so installed that there shall be no leakage. All fixtures shall be trapped and traps shall be vented or shall be non-syphonable. Wooden sinks and wooden wash trays shall not be installed. In all new multiple dwellings where plumbing or other pipes pass through floors or partitions, the openings around such pipes shall be sealed or made tight with incombustible materials.

SEC. 47. WALL PAPER.] No wall paper shall be placed upon the walls or ceilings of any dwelling until all old wall paper shall have been removed therefrom, and such walls and ceilings thoroughly cleansed.

SEC. 48. PROHIBITED USES OF DWELLINGS.] No horse, mule, cow, calf, swine, sheep, goat, chickens, geese or ducks shall be kept in any dwelling, nor shall any such animal be kept on the same lot or premises with a dwelling except under such conditions as may be prescribed by municipal ordinance. No such animal except a horse shall, under any circumstances, be kept on the same lot or premises with a multiple dwelling.

No dwelling or the lot or premises thereof shall be used for the storage or handling of junk or as a place for the storage, keeping or handling of any articles dangerous to life or health.

SEC. 49. BUSINESSES IN DWELLINGS.] No transom, window or door shall open into a public hall from any part of a multiple dwelling where paint, oil, drugs or spirituous liquors are stored or kept for the purpose of sale or otherwise. This provision shall not apply to self-closing doors of incombustible material provided in hotels.

Nothing in this Act shall be construed to conflict with "An Act to regulate the manufacture of clothing, wearing apparel and other articles in this State, and to provide for the appointment of State inspectors to enforce the same and to make an appropriation therefor," in force July 1, 1893, as amended.

SEC. 50. MEANS OF CLEANING SHAFTS AND COURTS.] At the bottom of every court or shaft in any dwelling there shall be a door or other opening which provides sufficient access for the cleansing of such court or shaft.

SEC. 51. RECEPTACLES FOR GARBAGE, ASHES AND RUBBISH.] Water-tight non-absorbent receptacles with covers shall be provided and maintained in connection with every dwelling for garbage, ashes, rubbish, refuse and other waste matter, which receptacles shall be thoroughly cleansed at least once each week. No garbage or ash chutes or bins shall be constructed, maintained or used except garbage chutes connected with garbage incinerators.

SEC. 52. QUANTITY OF AIR FOR EACH PERSON.] No room in any dwelling shall be so occupied that there will be less than four hundred cubic feet of air for each person over twelve years of age nor less than two hundred cubic feet of air for each person under twelve years of age, living or sleeping in such room. However, nothing in this Act shall be construed to conflict with "An Act to amend an Act entitled, 'An Act to create and establish a board of health in the State of Illinois,' approved May 28, 1877, in force July 1, 1877, by adding thereto four new sections to be numbered 15, 16, 17 and 18," approved and in force April 21, 1899, as amended.

SEC. 53. CLEANLINESS OF DWELLING.] Every dwelling shall be kept clean and free from any accumulation of dirt, filth, rubbish, garbage, waste paper, ashes, snow, ice, or other matter in or on the same, or in the yards, courts, passages, areas or alleys connected with or belonging thereto.

The owner or occupant of any dwelling shall thoroughly cleanse all the rooms, passages, stairs, floors, windows, doors, walls, ceilings, privies, cesspools, septic tanks, cellars, roofs and drains of the dwelling of which he is the owner or occupant, and shall keep all parts of such dwelling in a cleanly condition at all times. It shall be the duty of each occupant to keep the portion of the dwelling occupied by him and over which he has control in a cleanly condition at all times.

SEC. 54. JANITORS.] Any city shall have authority by ordinance to require that there be a janitor, housekeeper or other representative of the owner residing in multiple dwellings in which the owner does not reside, and to specify the types of multiple dwellings to which such requirement shall apply.

SEC. 55. HEATING.] Where a lease or contract expressly or impliedly provides for the furnishing of heat and hot water, or either, by the landlord, failure to comply reasonably with such conditions of the lease or contract shall be deemed a violation of this Act.

SEC. 56. SCREENS.] Every dwelling shall be provided with screens for at least one window in each habitable room and for the door opening onto the place where garbage receptacles are kept. The screens shall be such as adequately to cover the part or parts of such window which may be opened, and such door.

ARTICLE IV.

FIRE PROTECTION.

SEC. 57. CONSTRUCTION OF HOUSES ABOVE THREE STORIES.] Every new multiple dwelling more than five stories high shall be of fire proof construction. Every new multiple dwelling more than three stories high but not more than five stories high shall be of slow burning or fire proof construction. Where slow burning construction is used, the cellar and basement construction, including the floor construction of the first story above the cellar or basement, shall be of fire proof construction.

No existing multiple dwelling shall hereafter be altered so as to exceed three stories in height without conforming with the requirements of this section.

SEC. 58. WHAT CONSTITUTES FIRE PROOF AND SLOW BURNING CONSTRUCTION.] The term "fire proof construction" shall apply to all dwellings in which all exterior walls and all interior bearing and division walls are of masonry, and in which all parts that carry weights or resist stress, and all stairways and all interior partitions are made of incombustible material; and in which all metalic structural members are protected against the effects of fire by coverings of a fire proof material, and in which all interior stair, elevator and other vertical shafts are enclosed by walls or partitions of fire proof material; and in which all openings from the interior of the building into such vertical shafts are provided with fire proof doors. All windows in the enclosures of stairs, shafts and elevators which open into an inner court shall have metal frames and sashes and be glazed with wired glass.

The term "slow burning construction" shall apply to all dwellings (1) in which the walls are of masonry; and (2) in which the structural members which carry the loads and stress coming upon the floors and roofs are made wholly or in part of combustible material, but throughout which structural metallic members if used are covered in the manner required for fire proof construction. In slow burning construction all stairways shall be of incombustible material; the underside of the wood joists and rafters shall be protected by a covering of not less than three-fourths of an inch of plaster on metal lath, and a layer of mortar or of incombustible material at least one and one-half inches thick shall be applied on all floor and roof surfaces above the wood joists or rafters. All interior stair, elevator and other vertical shafts shall be enclosed by walls or partitions of fire proof material; all other partitions shall be of incombustible material.

The term "fire proof material" is used to designate materials which are entirely incombustible and slow heat conductors. The following shall be considered fire proof materials: burned brick, tiles of burned clay, cement, concrete, terra cotta.

The following shall be considered "incombustible materials"; fire resisting glass or metal not less than one-quarter inch in thickness, plastering on metal lath and metal studding, plaster blocks, stone, granite, marble, cinder concrete, gypsum block, and metal lath with Portland cement plaster on incombustible supports. The materials specified above as fire proof materials may in all cases be used where incombustible materials are specified in this Act.

In the construction of partitions not required to be of fire proof material, frames, casings, doors, sash and the rough carpenter work required for the proper fastening of such frames, casings, doors or sash may be of wood; and ordinary glass may be used in doors and windows of such partitions. Treads of stairs may be of wood not less than one and three-eighths inches thick and all handrails may be of hardwood.

The term "masonry" is used to designate stone, and brick or concrete moulded into solid form or mass.

The materials specified in this section shall be deemed standard for the purposes of this Act, but their enumeration shall not be construed as exclusive. In every case where it is proposed to use a material not specified in this section, such material shall meet the requirements of this Act, and shall be adapted to the same uses as the materials above enumerated. Cities are hereby empowered to cause proper tests to be made or to investigate tests which may have been made in order to determine whether a proposed substitute material complies with the requirements of this Act, and is adapted to the same uses as the materials above enumerated. Cities shall have the power by ordinances to specify any other materials than those enumerated which possess the qualifications required by this Act, but such materials shall not be specified until after tests have been made which determine that they meet the requirements of this Act and are properly adapted to the same uses as the materials enumerated herein.

SEC. 59. PARTITIONS BETWEEN APARTMENTS.] In new multiple dwellings there shall be a wall of masonry extending from the ground to the underside of the roof boards separating each apartment from every other apartment, and around each court. A wall between apartments and extending from the main stair hall to the outer wall of the building may be offset at the second story floor line to some point nearer the center of the building, or of the group of apartments, in order to admit of an even distribution of space in the rooms adjacent to such wall, if such wall is supported at the second story floor line on fire proofed steel or iron beams which extend from the wall surrounding the main stair hall to the outer wall of the building. In case there is a store or stores in the first story of a new multiple dwelling, a masonry dividing wall between apartments may begin at the second story floor line, if such dividing wall is supported on fire proofed steel or iron beams carried by steel or iron columns or masonry, and if the floor of the first story used for purposes of habitation is of fire proof or slow burning construction.

In new multiple dwellings three stories or less in height, two separate thicknesses of metal lath and fire resisting plaster may be used in place of the fire proofing provided above.

SEC. 60. STAIRWAYS AND WAYS OF EGRESS.] Every dwelling shall have two ways of egress.

Every existing and every new multiple dwelling two stories or more in height shall have at least two flights of stairs, which shall extend from the entrance floor to the highest floor of the dwelling. Such stairs shall be as far apart as practicable. One of the stairways so required shall be an interior stairway. Two stairways opening off of the same public hall shall not be regarded as a compliance with the requirements of two flights of stairs, unless such public hall and the stairways and the halls and corridors connecting such stairways with apartments shall be built of fire proof material. The stairs and the public halls in every multiple dwelling shall be at least three feet wide in the clear, and every apartment shall be directly accssible to both such flights of stairs without going through any other apartment.

Every new multiple dwelling not over three stories high containing over eighty rooms, exclusive of bath rooms, shall have an additional flight of stairs for every additional eighty rooms or fraction thereof, but if such dwelling contains not more than one hundred and twenty rooms exclusive of bath rooms, all its stairs and public halls may be made at least one-half wider than is provided above, instead of providing an additional stairway.

New multiple dwellings over three stories high containing over one hundred and twenty rooms, exclusive of bath rooms, shall have one additional flight of stairs for every additional one hundred and twenty rooms or fraction thereof, but if such dwelling contains not more than one hundred and eighty rooms, exclusive of bath rooms, all its stairs and public halls may be made at least one-half wider than provided above, in place of having the additional stairs.

No public hall or stairs in existing multiple dwellings shall be reduced to less than the minimum width prescribed by this section.

SEC. 61. CONSTRUCTION OF STAIRS.] Every flight of stairs required in an existing or new multiple dwelling shall have an entrance on the entrance floor from a street or alley or from a yard or court which opens into a street or alley. All stairs in new multiple dwellings shall have risers not more than seven and three-fourths inches high, and treads not less than nine and one-half inches wide, exclusive of nosings, except in winding stairs where all treads at a point eighteen inches from the strings on the well side shall be at least nine and one-half inches wide exclusive of nosings. All enclosed stairs in every multiple dwelling shall have at least one handrail and when the width of such stairs is greater than three feet six inches such stairs shall have a handrail on each side thereof. All open stairs shall be provided with suitable and substantial handrails on each side.

SEC. 62. STAIRWAYS, STAIRHALLS AND STAIR ENCLOSURES.] In all new multiple dwellings more than three stories high stair enclosures shall be built of fireproof material; and stairways, and all halls and corridors connecting apartments with stairways shall be of incombustible material, with such exceptions as are indicated in section 58. If there are more than two apartments on any floor above the entrance floor opening into the same hall or corridor, stairways shall be enclosed and the doors opening from such hall or corridor shall be of incombustible material (where not required to be of fireproof material), and self-closing.

In every new multiple dwelling not more than three stories high, stair halls for interior stairways shall be enclosed on all sides with masonry walls or with walls of fireproof material. This requirement shall not apply to multiple dwellings which are not more than three stories high and have only one apartment on each floor.

The requirements of this section shall apply to the construction extending upward to the under side of roof boards of multiple dwellings.

SEC. 63. ENTRANCE HALLS TO MULTIPLE DWELLINGS—EGRESS FROM HOTELS.] Every entrance hall in a new multiple dwelling shall be at least three feet six inches wide in the clear, and shall comply with all of the conditions of the preceding section as to the construction of stair halls. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to conflict with the provisions of "An Act to regulate the means of egress from public buildings," in force July 1, 1874, as amended.

SEC. 64. DUMB WAITERS AND ELEVATORS.] In new multiple dwellings all dumb waiters, elevators, chutes, and other inside vertical openings between stories, shall comply with the requirements specified by sections 58 and 62 as to stair enclosures, and shall have doors of incombustible material. In the case of dumb waiters such doors shall be self-closing. No elevator shall be permitted in the wellhole of stairs, but every elevator shall be completely separated from stairs by walls such as those required for stair enclosures. The same requirements shall apply to dumb waiters and elevators hereafter constructed in existing dwellings.

SEC. 65. CELLAR STAIRS.] In new dwellings which exceed three stories in height all inside stairs communicating between the cellar or basement and the floor next above shall be enclosed with masonry walls not less than eight inches thick, with self-closing incombustible doors at the bottom.

SEC. 66. CLOSET UNDER FIRST STORY STAIRS.] In new multiple dwellings no closet shall be constructed under any staircase leading from the entrance story to the upper stories, but such space shall be left entirely open and kept clear and free from incumbrance.

SEC. 67. CELLAR AND BASEMENT ENTRANCES.] In every new multiple dwelling there shall be an entrance to the cellar or basement or other lowest story from the outside of said dwelling.

SEC. 68. FIRE-ESCAPES.] Every existing or new multiple dwelling four stories or more in height shall be provided with a fire-escape or fire-escapes. Each separate apartment shall have direct access to at least one fire-escape without passing through any other apartment; but this requirement shall not apply to apartments in existing dwellings where such apartments have direct access without passing through any other apartment to at least two separate flights of stairs leading to the ground, one of which is placed in front and one in the read of such dwelling. Every court in which there is a fire-escape shall have direct and unobstructed access along the surface of the ground to a street or alley opening into a street or alley without entering into or passing through or over any building unless by a four foot wide fireproof passage on the court or ground level.

Nothing in this Act shall be construed to repeal "An Act relating to fire-escapes," in force July 1, 1919; nor "An Act relating to fire-escapes in hotels, inns, and public lodging houses, and providing that such building shall be equipped with appliances for the safety of guests in case of fire, and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions thereof, and repealing all Acts or parts of Acts in conflict therewith," in force July 1, 1913, as amended.

The owner of every multiple dwelling on which fire-escapes are now placed or hereafter may be erected shall keep them in good order and repair, and to prevent rust shall have them properly painted with two coats of paint. No person shall at any time place any incumbrance before or upon any fire-escape.

SEC. 69. BULKHEADS, SCUTTLES AND PENTHOUSES.] Unless the pitch of the roof exceeds one inch rise in four inches run, there shall be in the roof of every existing or new multiple dwelling which exceeds one story in height at least one bulkhead, scuttle or penthouse, fireproof or covered with fireproof material. The roof opening shall not be less than two feet by two feet. All bulkheads, scuttles or penthouses shall be kept free from incumbrances and ready for use at all times.

SEC. 70. WOODEN MULTIPLE DWELLINGS.] In every new wooden multiple dwelling each apartment shall be separated from every adjoining apartment by a wall of masonry or concrete, or by a self-supporting partition not less than four inches thick of tile or of reinforced concrete or of metal studding and metal lath plastered with fire resisting plaster. Where two apartments above the first floor have a stairway or stairways in common, the enclosing walls around such stairway shall be of fireproof construction or of masonry. No wooden multiple dwelling shall hereafter be erected exceeding two stories in height or with more than two apartments above the first story. In every new wooden multiple dwelling fire stops of incombustible material shall be placed in all studded walls at each floor level and at the junction of the rafters with the walls, and in all stud partitions which are directly above a similar partition in another story, and in all other enclosed vertical openings between stories in the construction of the dwelling. Such fire stops shall extend four inches above the floor levels and be securely supported in position and shall completely fill the spaces and openings at these points. Fire stops of incombustible material not less than four inches thick shall be placed between all joints in every such dwelling. Such fire stops shall extend the full height of the joists and shall be spaced at least every twenty-five feet in the direction of the length of the joint. No wooden building not now used as a multiple dwelling shall hereafter be altered into a multiple dwelling exceeding two stories in height or with more than two apartments above the first floor. No existing wooden multiple dwelling shall hereafter be so altered or have its occupancy so changed as to have more than two apartments on any floor above the first floor.

A building having the exterior walls or portions thereof of wood, or with wooden frame work veneered with brick, stone, terra cotta or concrete; or covered with plaster, stucco or sheet metal, shall be classed as a wood building.

SEC 71. COMBUSTIBLE MATERIALS AND DANGEROUS BUSINESSES.] No dwelling nor the lot upon which it is situated, shall be used as a place of storage, keeping or handling combustible articles except under such conditions as may be prescribed by ordinance or by the State Fire Marshal. No multiple dwelling nor the lot upon which it is situated shall be used as a place for the storage, keeping or handling of grain, hay, straw, excelsior, cotton, paper, paper stock, feathers or rags. No public bakery and no place of business in which fat is boiled shall be maintained in any multiple dwelling.

ARTICLE V.

ENFORCEMENT PROVISIONS.

SEC. 72. WHO SHALL ADMINISTER THIS ACT.] In a city which has a building department and has no health department all the provisions of this Act shall be enforced by the building department. In a city which has a health department and has no building department all of the provisions of this Act shall be enforced by the health department.

It is the purpose of this Act that all requirements thereof as to plumbing, drainage and mechanical ventilation (where mechanical ventilation is permitted as an alternative), and all requirements with regard to sanitary conditions of occupation of dwellings shall be enforced by the health department where there is such a department; and that all other requirements as to dwellings shall be enforced by the building department where there is such a department.

Where a city has both a building department and a health department, the enforcement of sections 24, 28, 30, 32 to 42 inclusive, 44 to 50 inclusive, and 52 to 56 inclusive, is committed to the health department. The enforcement of the following sections is committed in part to the health department: Sections 22 and 23, so far as they concern conditions of occupation after construction; sections 26 and 27, so far as they have to do with mechanical ventilation; and sections 29, 43 and 51, so far as they have to do with other than structural matters. All other requirements of this Act shall be enforced by the building department.

All municipal ordinances setting higher standards or making additional requirements shall be enforced by the respective departments to which the particular matter belongs under the distribution of authority indicated in this section.

The term health department is employed to refer to such a department or to a health officer, under whatever name such department or officer may be designated; and the term building department is employed to refer to such a department or to a building officer, under whatever name such department or officer may be designated. Where functions in this Act are specified as belonging either to the health department or the building department, such functions may be exercised by either one or the other of such departments if only one exists in any city.

Every officer or employe of the health department or building department, duly authorized by municipal ordinance or by the head of such department, is empowered to perform the duties and exercise the powers specified in this Act as belonging to such department.

The methods of enforcement of the terms of this Act provided herein are methods to be employed by every department so far as its powers extend under this Act, and such methods shall also be available to departments or bureaus now or hereafter established by municipal ordinance for the purpose of fire prevention or for otherwise safeguarding conditions in dwellings. The methods herein prescribed are also available for the enforcement of all higher standards or additional requirements prescribed by municipal ordinance.

Nothing in this Act shall interfere with ordinances now in force or hereafter passed conferring power upon a city fire department or any bureau thereof to enforce the provisions of this Act or of ordinances for the prevention of fire in buildings after construction; or to interfere with the enforcement, through such organization as the city may set up, of laws or ordinances regarding boiler inspection, the abatement of smoke, the storage of explosives, or other matters not covered by the terms of this Act.

Nothing in this Act shall be construed to repeal "An Act to amend an Act entitled, 'An Act to create and establish a board of health in the State of Illinois,' in force July 1, 1877, by adding thereto four new sections to be numbered 15, 16, 17 and 18," approved and in force April 21, 1899, as amended.

Nothing in this Act shall be construed to interfere with the powers of the State Fire Marshal under "An Act creating the office of State Fire Marshal, prescribing his duties and providing for his compensation and for the maintenance of his office," in force July 1, 1909, as amended; or with the powers of the State Department of Labor, under "An Act to regulate the manufacture of clothing, wearing apparel and other articles in this State, and to provide for the appointment of State inspectors to enforce the same, and to make an appropriation therefor," in force July 1, 1893, as amended, and other laws committed to the Department of Labor for enforcement.

SEC. 73. PERMITS.] A permit shall be obtained from the building department where there is one, or from the health department where there is no building department, before proceeding with the erection, alteration or removal of any dwelling; or the alteration or conversion of a building for use as a dwelling; or the erection or alteration of any building on the same lot with a dwelling, or the removal of any building to or from such a lot.

An application in writing for such permit shall be submitted, with plans and specifications; and with a plat of the lot, giving the legal description thereof, and showing the location, grade and dimensions of the same, the position to be occupied by the proposed building or by the building to be altered or removed, and the position of other buildings that may be on the lot. Such application shall give in full the name and residence, by street and number, of the owner or owners of such building or dwelling and of the lot, and the purposes for which such building or dwelling will be used. Such application shall state that the plans, specifications and plats contain a correct description of such dwelling, building, lot and proposed work. The application may be made by the owner or by any person who proposes to make the erection, alteration, conversion or removal, or by the agent of the owner. If such erection, alteration, conversion or removal is proposed to be made by any other person than the owner of the land in fee, such application shall contain the full name and residence, by street, and number of every person interested in such building either as owner, lessee or in any representative capacity.

It shall be unlawful for any architect or other person permitted under the laws of this State to make plans, to prepare or submit for approval any final plans or specifications which do not comply with the requirements of this Act, and with higher standards or additional requirements imposed by ordinances in force. It shall be the duty of the department receiving the application for permit to require that all plans submitted to it for approval shall be accompanied by a certificate of the architect or other person preparing such plans, that the plans submitted comply with the requirements of this Act, and with higher standards or additional requirements imposed by ordinances in force.

If the application together with the plans, specifications and plats submitted therewith comply with all the requirements of this Act and with all ordinances in force setting higher standards or making additional requirements, a permit shall be issued, but no permit shall be issued by the building department unless the plans and specifications are approved by the health department (where there is such a department) as to compliance with this Act and with ordinances in force as to matters committed to the health department by section 72. True copies of the application, plans, specifications and plats shall be retained on file in the office of the building department for a period of six months after the issuance by such department of a certificate of compliance provided for by section 74.

Changes in plans and specifications if not in violation of this Act or of ordinances in force, may be made with the approval of the department issuing the permit, but no changes shall be made as to matters committed to the health department for enforcement without the approval of that department. Records of changes which may be approved shall be kept by the department issuing permits. It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in erecting, altering, converting or removing any dwelling to make any departure from the plans and specifications submitted in the application for permit, without first obtaining the approval of such changes. Any such departure from the plans and specifications submitted with the application for permit shall operate to annul the permit and render it void. In case any work is done under a permit contrary to the plans and specifications submitted with the application for such permit, the building department shall have power to stop such work at once and the health department shall have the same power where the departure from plans and specifications relates to matters committed to the health department for enforcement; such work shall not be resumed until changes in such plans and specifications have been approved in compliance with the terms of this Act, or until satisfactory assurance has been given that the work will be done in accordance with the plans and specifications originally submitted.

If, after a permit is granted, the operations called for by such permit shall not be begun within six months after the date thereof, or if such operations are completed within a reasonable time, then such permit shall be revoked, and no operations thereunder shall be begun or completed until a new permit shall be taken out, or the previous permit reinstated or extended.

The head of the building department or of the health department where there is no building department shall have power after notice and opportunity for hearing for just cause to revoke or cancel any permit in case of failure or neglect to comply with any of the provisions of this Act or of ordinances in force, or in case of any false statement or representation made in the application for such permit, or in the plans, specifications or plats filed therewith.

Nothing in this Act shall be construed as in any manner affecting municipal ordinances now in force or hereafter passed regulating the departments of city government to which plans shall be submitted before a permit is issued, the form of application and of plans, specifications and plats, the requirement of duplicate copies thereof, the requirement that plans, specifications and plats be submitted to more than one department, or other matters of administration not in conflict with the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 74. CERTIFICATE OF COMPLIANCE.] No building hereafter constructed as or altered or converted into multiple dwelling, no addition hereafter made to a multiple dwelling, and no multiple dwelling which has been moved, shall be occupied in whole or in part for human habitation until the issuance of a certificate by the health department that said building conforms to the requirements of this Act and of ordinances in force relative to plumbing, drainage and mechanical ventilation applicable to said building; nor until the issuance by the building department of a certificate that the building conforms to the requirements of this Act and to ordinances in force relative to plumbing, drainage and mechanical ventilation applicable to said building; nor until the issuance by the building department of a certificate that the building conforms to the requirements of this Act and to ordinances in force regarding height, percentage of lot occupied, size and width of yards and courts, number and width of stairways, fire escapes, and means of egress. Within five days from the date of application for any certificate, such certificate shall be issued, or the officer concerned shall state in writing his reasons for the refusal of the certificate.

A certificate may be issued in the case of a new multiple dwelling comprising more than three apartments so as to allow occupation of any section of the dwelling extending from cellar to roof in advance of the completion of other portions of the building.

No certificate shall be issued except after the inspection of the dwelling to which such certificate relates.

If any building hereafter constructed as or altered or constructed into a multiple dwelling, any addition hereafter made to a multiple dwelling, or any multiple dwelling moved from one location to another, is occupied in whole or in part for human habitation in violation of this section, no rent shall be recoverable by the owner or lessee of such premises during such unlawful occupation, and no action or special proceeding shall be maintainable for the non-payment of rent.

SEC. 75. NUISANCE.] A dwelling house or any part thereof which is in an insanitary condition by reason of the basement or cellar being damp or wet or of the floor of such basement or cellar being covered or partly covered with stagnant water, or of the presence of harmful gases, or of any portion thereof being infected with disease or being unfit for human habitation, or which by reason of any other insanitary condition, endangers the public health, or which is so unsafe as to endanger life, limb or property, is hereby declared to constitute a public nuisance, punishable by the same penalties as are prescribed for the violation of the terms of this Act. Such public nuisance may also be proceeded against in any manner now or hereafter provided by statute, and through such remedies as may exist at law or in equity.

SEC. 76. ALTERATION OR DEMOLITION OF DWELLINGS.] It shall be the duty of every owner or occupant of a dwelling to keep it in a clean and safe condition.

When a dwelling is in such a condition as to be imminently unsafe and dangerous, the building department may order either that the dwelling be put in a safe condition, if this is possible, or that it at once be vacated for purposes of habitation, or both; or if it cannot be put in a safe condition for residence purposes, that the building be demolished or be no longer used for purposes of habitation. Where the unsafe condition can be remedied, the building department shall give notice in writing of changes, alterations or repairs to be made, in order to make such dwelling safe, in accordance with the requirements of this Act or of ordinances in force. The notice shall state the nature of the work required to be done, and shall specify the time within which it shall be completed. Notice shall be served in the manner prescribed by section 77 of this Act, except that action within twenty-four hours may be required. Notice of the condemnation of a dwelling shall in all cases be affixed in a conspicuous place upon the dwelling condemned. If at the expiration of the time specified in such notice for the completion of the work required in order to render the dwelling safe, such notice has not been complied with, the building department shall forthwith require that the dwelling be no longer used for purpose of habitation, or proceed to tear down such parts of the dwelling as shall be so unsafe as imminently to endanger life or property, or the whole thereof should this be necessary. The expense of tearing down such dwelling or any part thereof shall be charged to the person owning such dwelling or part thereof, and the cost of doing such work shall be recovered in appropriate legal proceedings prosecuted by the law department of the city.

When a dwelling is in such an insanitary condition as imminently to endanger the public health or the health of occupants, the health department may order either that it be put in a sanitary condition, if this is possible, or that it at once be vacated for purposes of habitation, or both; or if it cannot be put in a sanitary condition for residence purposes, that the building be demolished or be no longer used for purposes of habitation. Where the insanitary condition can be remedied, the health department shall give notice in writing of changes, alterations or repairs to be made in order to make such a dwelling sanitary, in accordance with the requirements of this Act or of ordinances in force. The notice shall state the nature of the work required to be done, and shall specify the time within which it shall be completed. Notice shall be served in the manner prescribed by section 77 of this Act, except that action within twenty-four hours may be required. Notice of the condemnation of a dwelling shall in all cases be affixed in a conspicuous place upon the dwelling condemned. If at the expiration of the time specified in such notice for the completion of the work required in order to render the dwelling sanitary such notice has not been complied with, the health department shall forthwith require that the dwelling be no longer used for purposes of habitation, or proceed to tear down such parts of the dwelling as shall be so unsanitary as imminently to endanger the health of the public or of the occupants of the dwelling, or the whole thereof, should this be necessary. The expense of tearing down such dwelling or any part thereof shall be charged to the person owning such dwelling or part thereof, and the cost of doing such work shall be recovered in appropriate legal proceedings, prosecuted by the law department of the city.

Nothing in this section or section 75 shall be construed to interfere with powers under laws or ordinances now in force or hereafter enacted for the purpose of dealing with dwellings which may be either wholly or partly in an unsafe or insanitary condition. The powers conferred by this section upon building and health departments may be exercised by either departments as specified by section 72.

SEC. 77. SERVICE OF NOTICE.] Every notice required by this Act, except as otherwise expressly provided by section 76, shall be served five days before the time required for doing the thing to which the notice relates. Notice shall be served upon the owners and the occupants of every dwelling; but the posting of a copy of the notice or order in a conspicuous place upon the dwelling and the mailing of a copy thereof to the last known address of the owner or owners, if owner is known, shall be considered sufficient compliance with this requirement.

SEC. 78. INSPECTION OF DWELLINGS.] In order to enforce compliance with the terms of this Act, the building department and the health department shall cause an annual inspection to be made of all multiple dwellings over three stories in height, and shall have full authority to make inspections of all other dwellings. Each department authorized to make inspections under this Act shall preserve for one year a complete record of all such inspections.

SEC. 79. RIGHT OF ENTRY.] The building department, the health department and all officers and employes thereof shall have authority to enter, examine and survey all dwellings, and all structures upon the same lots with dwellings. The owner or his agent and the occupant of every dwelling, and every person having the care and management thereof, shall at all reasonable times give free access to such dwellings and premises when required by such officers or persons.

The owner of a dwelling and his agents or employes shall have access to such dwelling at all reasonable times for the purpose of complying with or causing compliance with the provisions of this Act or any order issued thereunder; or if such access is denied the duty of complying shall devolve upon the occupant.

SEC. 80. PENALTIES.] Every person violating or failing to comply or obstructing compliance with any of the provisions of this Act is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $200 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Each day's violation shall be regarded as a separate offense, and conviction for one such offense shall not constitute a bar to further prosecution and conviction for other offenses.

SEC. 81. REPEAL.] "An Act for the regulation and inspection of tenement and lodging houses or other places of habitation," approved and in force May 30, 1881, is hereby repealed.

APPENDIX II.

A BILL

For an Act to confer certain additional powers upon city councils in cities and presidents and boards of trustees in villages and incorporated towns concerning buildings and structures, the intensity of use of lot areas, the classification of trades, industries, buildings, and structures, with respect to the location and regulation, the creation of districts of different classes, and the establishment of regulations and restrictions applicable thereto.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: In addition to existing powers, and to the end that adequate light, pure air and safety from fire and other dangers may be secured, that the taxable value of land and buildings throughout the city, village or incorporated town, may be conserved, that congestion in the public streets may be lessened or avoided, and that the public health, safety, comfort, morals and welfare may otherwise be promoted, the city council in each city, and the president and board of trustees in each village and incorporated town shall have the following powers:

To regulate and limit the height and bulk of buildings hereafter to be erected; to regulate and limit the intensity of the use of lot areas, and to regulate and determine the area of open spaces, within and surrounding such buildings; to classify, regulate and restrict the location of trades and industries and the location of buildings designed for specified industrial business, residential and other uses; to divide the entire city, village or incorporated town into districts of such number, shape, area and of such different classes (according to use of land and buildings, height and bulk of buildings, intensity of the use of lot areas, area of open spaces, or other classification) as may be deemed best suited to carry out the purposes of this Act; to fix standards to which buildings or structures shall conform therein; to prohibit uses, buildings or structures incompatible with the character of such districts respectively; and to prevent the alteration or remodeling of existing buildings or structures in such a way as to avoid the restrictions and limitations lawfully imposed hereunder. In all ordinances passed under the authority of this Act, due allowance shall be made for existing conditions, the conservation of property values, the direction of building development to the best advantage of the entire city, village or incorporated town, and the uses to which property is devoted at the time of the enactment of any such ordinance. The powers by this Act given shall not be exercised so as to deprive the owner of any existing property of its use for the purpose to which it is then lawfully devoted.

SEC. 2. The city council in cities and the president and board of trustees in villages and incorporated towns, which desire to exercise the powers conferred by this Act, shall provide for a zoning commission to recommend the boundaries of districts and appropriate regulations to be enforced therein, such commission to be appointed by the mayor or president of the board of trustees, subject to confirmation by the council or board of trustees. Such commission shall prepare a tentative report and a proposed zoning ordinance for the entire city, village or incorporated town. After the preparation of such tentative report and ordinance, the commission shall hold a hearing thereon and shall afford persons interested an opportunity to be heard. Notice of such hearing shall be published at least fifteen (15) days in advance thereof in a newspaper of general circulation in such city, village or incorporated town; or, if there is no such newspaper, such notice shall be posted at least fifteen (15) days in advance thereof in four conspicuous places within the city, village or incorporated town. Such notice shall state the time and place of the hearing and that copies of the proposed ordinance will be furnished on request. Such hearing may be adjourned from time to time.

Within thirty (30) days after the final adjournment of such hearing the commission shall make a final report and submit a proposed ordinance for the entire city, village or incorporated town to the city council or board of trustees, as the case may be. The city council or board of trustees may enact the ordinance with or without change, or may refer it back to the commission for further consideration. The zoning commission shall cease to exist upon the adoption of a zoning ordinance for the entire city, village or incorporated town.

SEC. 3. All ordinances passed under the terms of this Act shall be enforced by such officer of the city, village or incorporated town as may be designated by ordinance. Each city, village or incorporated town exercising the powers conferred by this Act shall provide by ordinance for the creation of a board of appeals of not less than three members nor more than five members. Such board of appeals shall have power: (a) Upon application to review the actions of the enforcing officer of the city, village or incorporated town in order to determine whether they are in accordance with the terms of ordinances enacted under the terms of this Act; (b) to recommend to the city council or board of trustees such ordinances or amendments as it may deem necessary or desirable, including power in specific cases of particular hardship to recommend variations of the original ordinance or amendments thereto. Variations from or amendments to ordinances enacted under the terms of this Act shall in all cases be made by ordinance.

SEC. 4. The regulations and the districts created under the authority of this Act may be varied or amended from time to time by ordinance after the ordinance establishing same has gone into effect, but no such variations or amendments shall be made without a hearing before the board of appeals, provided for above. Such board shall give notice and proceed in the same manner as is provided by section 2 with respect to the zoning commission. Upon its report the city council or board of trustees may adopt the proposed variation or amendment, with or without change, or may refer it back to the board for further consideration. Any proposed variation or amendment which fails to receive the approval of the board of appeals shall not be passed except by the favorable vote of two-thirds of all of the members of the city council in cities or of the members of the board of trustees in villages or incorporated towns. In cases of written protest against any proposed variation or amendment, signed by the owners of twenty per cent of the frontage proposed to be altered, or by the owners of twenty per cent of the frontage immediately adjoining or across an alley therefrom, or by the owners of twenty per cent of the frontage directly opposite the frontage, proposed to be altered as to such regulations or district, filed with the said board of appeals, or with the city council or board of trustees, such variation or amendment shall not be passed except by the favorable vote of two-thirds of all of the members of the city council in cities or of the members of the board of trustees in villages or incorporated towns.

SEC. 5. "An Act to confer certain additional powers upon city councils in cities and presidents and boards of trustees in villages concerning buildings, the intensity of use of lot areas, the classification of buildings, trades and industries with respect to location and regulation, the creation of residential, industrial, commercial and other districts, and the exclusion from and regulation within such districts of classes of buildings, trades and industries," approved June 28, 1919, in force July 1, 1919, is repealed. This repeal shall in no way affect the validity of steps taken or acts done under the Act so repealed. No acts done in compliance or supposed or attempted compliance with the Act so repealed shall be rendered void or of no effect because of omissions, defects or irregularities, if such acts are in compliance with the requirements of this Act.

APPENDIX III.

WHEREAS, It has been charged that there are combinations and agreements among builders, materialmen, laborers and others, which result in maintaining or raising the cost of constructing dwelling houses and other buildings; and,

WHEREAS, There is now an acute housing shortage, which presents serious dangers to the health, safety, morals and welfare of the people of this State; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a joint committee of ten (10) shall be appointed, five (5) members thereof to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and five (5) members thereof to be appointed by the President of the Senate, upon the recommendation of the Executive Committee, to make a careful examination of combinations and agreements among builders, materialmen, laborers and others which may result in maintaining or raising the cost of constructing dwelling houses and other buildings.

The committee so authorized shall have full power to inquire whether combinations exist for establishing and maintaining prices of building materials; to ascertain the cost of producing such materials and the profits derived by the dealers therein; to investigate the compensation to labor in the production of building materials and in the construction of dwellings or other buildings, not with a view of diminishing wages, but for the purpose of ascertaining the cost of manufacturing building materials and of constructing dwellings or other buildings; to ascertain the dividends paid by corporations engaged in the manufacture or the sale of building materials or in work of building construction, and the profits derived by persons or business associations of any character engaged in said business; and to ascertain the bearing of transportation charges upon the present high cost of building. The specific enumeration of the powers of this committee shall in no way limit the full authority of the committee to investigate any and all matters entering into the cost of dwellings or other buildings.

Said committee shall report their conclusions, findings and recommendations as expeditiously as may be to the present General Assembly; and shall recommend such proposed legislation as may be deemed necessary arising out of the subject matter of this inquiry.

For the purpose of conducting such investigation, said committee is hereby authorized and empowered to subpœna witnesses under the signature of the chairman, to place under oath and examine such witnesses, and to issue subpœnas duces tecum for witness or witnesses, and for such books, documents, papers, memoranda, or things as such committee shall deem necessary for its information in carrying out the objects and purposes of this resolution.

Said committee is authorized to require any person or persons to cause to be submitted to said committee, or any person duly authorized to act for it, for inspection and examination, any books, papers, documents, or letters of any character, kind or description.

Such committee is authorized to employ such assistance as it may require, including the employment of clerical, statistical, technical, legal and accounting experts. Said committee and the members thereof shall be entitled to actual expenss incurred in the performance of the duties enjoined by this resolution.

Resolved, further, That the General Assembly proceed to make an appropriation for the necessary expenses for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this resolution, and that all vonchers for expenses of said committee and its members shall be approved by the chairman of the committee, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the President of the Senate.

A BILL

For an Act to make an appropriation for the Joint Legislative Committee created pursuant to Senate Joint Resolution No. ——, Fifty-second General Assembly.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: There is hereby appropriated for the necessary expenses of the Joint Legislative Committee created pursuant to Senate Joint Resolution No. ——, Fifty-second General Assembly, for the carrying out of the provisions of that resolution, the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00).

SEC. 2. The Auditor of Public Accounts is authorized and directed to draw his warrants against the appropriation herein made, upon the presentation of vouchers approved by the chairman of the committee, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the President of the Senate, and the State Treasurer is authorized and directed to pay them out of any money remaining in the State Treasury, not otherwise appropriated.

SEC. 3. Because of an emergency, this Act shall take effect upon its passage.

APPENDIX IV.

A BILL

For an Act relating to rentals.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: For the purposes of this Act rental property is declared to be affected with a public interest. "Rental property" is employed in this Act to include all property rented or hired for residence purposes. All rents, charges, or other terms or conditions for use or occupancy of rental property and all services in connection therewith shall be reasonable and just, and every unreasonable or unjust rent, charge or other term or condition for use or occupancy of rental property or service in connection therewith is prohibited and declared unlawful.

SEC. 2. In addition to existing powers, and for the purpose of promoting the public health, comfort, welfare and morals, the City Council in each city, and the President and Board of Trustees in each village and incorporated town, shall have authority to establish a rental commission, such commission to be organized and appointed in such manner as may be determined by ordinance.

SEC. 3. Commissions established under this Act shall have authority to investigate whether the rent, charge, or other terms or conditions for use or occupancy of rental property or the service in connection therewith within such city, village or incorporated town are reasonable and just. Proceedings before such commission shall be begun by complaint, which may be made by the commission on its own motion, or by or on behalf of any landlord or tenant of rental property.

If upon investigation the commission finds that the rent, charge or other terms or conditions for use or occupancy of rental property, or service in connection therewith are unreasonable or unjust, it shall fix and order substituted therefor such rent, charge, terms, conditions, or service as shall be reasonable and just.

The commission shall have power to adopt reasonable rules relative to the exercise of its power.

SEC. 4. The commission may prescribe and promulgate standard forms of leases and other contracts for the use or occupancy of any rental property within such city, village or incorporated town, and may require their use by the owner thereof. Every such lease or contract entered into after the commission has prescribed and promulgated a form for the tenancy provided by such lease or contract shall be deemed to accord with such standard form; and any such lease or contract in any proceeding before the commission or in any court shall be interpreted, applied and enforced in the same manner as if it were in the form and contained the provisions of such standard form.

SEC. 5. All hearings conducted by the commission shall be open to the public. In the conduct of any investigation or hearing, the commission shall not be bound by technical rules of evidence, and no informality in the procedure before the commission shall invalidate any order made by the commission.

The commission and each commissioner shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations, issue subpœnas, compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of papers, books, accounts and documents.

The commission, each commissioner, and the employees of the commission shall have power to inspect all rental property in such city, village or incorporated town.

SEC. 6. No person shall be excused from testifying or from producing any papers, books, accounts or documents in any investigation or hearing ordered by the commission, when ordered to do so by the commission or any commissioner, upon the ground that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture. But no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, before the commission or any commissioner. Such immunity shall extend only to a natural person, who, in obedience to a subpœna, gives testimony under oath or produces evidence, documentary or otherwise, under oath. No person so testifying shall be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying.

SEC. 7. Any person who shall be served with a subpœna to appear and testify, or to produce books, papers, accounts or documents, issued by the commission or any commissioner, in the course of an investigation or hearing conducted under the provisions of this Act, and who shall refuse or neglect to do so, or to testify, or to produce books, papers, accounts and documents relevant to said investigation or hearing as commanded in such subpoena, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Any Circuit or Superior Court of this State, or any judge thereof, either in term time or vacation, upon application of the commission or any commissioner, may in his discretion compel the attendance of witnesses, the production of books, papers, accounts and documents, and the giving of testimony before the commission, or before any commissioner, by an attachment for contempt or otherwise, in the same manner as the production of evidence may be compelled before said court.

The commission or a commissioner may in any investigation or hearing before the commission cause depositions of witnesses residing within or without the State to be taken in the manner prescribed by law for a like deposition in civil actions in the courts of this State, and to that end may compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, books, accounts and documents.

SEC. 8. Upon the filing of any complaint, notice (together with a copy of the complaint) shall be served upon all persons or corporations complained of. The notice shall require that the complaint be satisfied and answered within a reasonable time to be specified by the commission, or shall fix a time and place where a hearing may be had upon such complaint. The time fixed for such hearing shall not be less than five days after the date of the service of such notice and complaint. Service of notice shall be made and summons shall be served in accordance with the provisions of "An Act in relation to practice and procedure in courts of record," approved June 3, 1907, and may be made personally or by mailing same in the United States mail in a sealed envelope, registered, with postage prepaid. Notice of the time and place of hearing shall be given to the person making the complaint, to the person or corporation complained of, and to such other persons as the commission shall deem necessary.

SEC. 9. At the time fixed for any hearing upon a complaint, the complainant and the persons or corporations complained of, and such persons or corporations as the commission may allow to intervene, shall be entitled to be heard, and to introduce evidence. The commission shall issue process to enforce the attendance of all necessary witnesses. After notice and an opportunity to be heard, the commission shall make and render findings concerning the said matter and facts inquired into and render its order based thereon. A copy of such order, certified to by the chairman of the commission, shall be served upon the person or corporation complained of or upon his agent, and such order shall be effective from the date of the filing of the complaint, except as otherwise provided therein, and shall continue in force either for a period which may be designated therein or until changed or abrogated by the commission.

A full and complete record shall be preserved of all proceedings had before the commission or any member thereof, on any formal hearing had, and all testimony shall be taken down by a stenographer appointed by the commission, and the parties shall be entitled to be heard in person or by attorney.

In case of an appeal from any order of the commission, a transcript of such testimony with all exhibits or copies thereof introduced and all information secured by the commission on its own initiative and considered by it in rendering its order, and of the record and proceedings in the case, shall constitute the record of the commission.

SEC. 10. Every order of the commission shall be served upon every person or corporation to be affected thereby, either by personal delivery of a certified copy thereof, or by mailing in the United States mail a certified copy thereof, in a sealed package with postage prepaid, to the person to be affected thereby, or in the case of a corporation to any officer or agent thereof upon whom a summons of a court of record may be served in an action at law. It shall be the duty of every person or corporation to notify the commission forthwith in writing, of the receipt of the certified copy of every order so served, and in the case of a corporation such notification must be signed and acknowledged by a person or officer duly authorized by the corporation to admit such service. Within a time specified in the order of the commission, every person and corporation upon whom it is served shall, if so required in the order, notify the commission in like manner whether the terms of the order are accepted and will be obeyed.

SEC. 11. The commission may at any time, upon notice and after opportunity to be heard, as provided in the case of complaints, rescind, alter or amend any order made by it. Any order rescinding, altering or amending a prior order shall, when served in the manner provided above, have the same effect as is herein provided for original orders. After any order has been made by the commission, any party to the action or proceeding, or any other party pecuniarily interested, may apply for a rehearing in respect to the matters determined in such proceeding and specified in the application for re-hearing, and the commission may grant and hold such re-hearing, if in its judgment sufficient reason therefor be made to appear. An application for re-hearing shall not excuse any person or corporation from complying with any order of the commission, except in such cases and upon such terms as the commission may by order direct.

SEC. 12. Within thirty days after the service of any order of the commission, made after a final hearing, any person or corporation affected by such order may appeal to the Circuit or Superior Court of the county in which the complaint arose, for the purpose of having the reasonableness or lawfulness of the order inquired into or determined. No new or additional evidence may be introduced in any proceeding upon appeal from an order of the commission, but the appeal shall be heard on the record of the commission as certified to. The findings and conclusions of the commission on questions of fact shall be held prima facie to be true and as found by the commission. If it appears that the commission failed to receive evidence properly proffered, on a hearing or on a re-hearing, the court shall remand the case to the commission with instructions to receive the evidence so proffered, and to enter a new order based upon the evidence theretofore taken, and such new evidence as it is directed to receive. When no appeal is taken from an order of the commission as herein provided, parties affected by such order shall be deemed to have waived the right to have the merits of the matter reviewed by the court.

Appeals from all orders and judgments of the Circuit or Superior Court, in reviewing orders of the commission, may be taken directly to the Supreme Court by either party to the proceeding, within sixty days after service of the copy of the order or judgment of such Circuit or Superior Court and shall be governed by rules applying to chancery cases appealed to the Supreme Court, except that the formal pleadings shall not be required. The pendency of the appeal to the Circuit or Superior Court or of an appeal therefrom to the Supreme Court shall not of itself stay or suspend the operation of the order of the commission, but during the pendency of such appeal, the Circuit or Superior Court or the Supreme Court, as the case may be, may in its discretion stay or suspend the operation of the commission's order in whole or in part.

In case any order of the commission is stayed or suspended, the order of the court shall not become effective until a suspending bond shall have been executed and filed with and approved by the commission (or approved on review by the court), the condition of the bond being that the party petitioning for review shall pay all damages caused by the delay in the enforcement of the order of the commission and all moneys which any person or corporation may be compelled to pay pending the review proceeding, in excess of those fixed by the order of the commission in case said order is sustained. The court in case it stays or suspends an order of the commission in any matter affecting rents or other charges may in its discretion order the payment into court, or into some bank or trust company paying interest on deposits of sums of money which may be collected from any corporation or person in excess of the sum, such corporation or person would have been compelled to pay if the order of the commission had not been stayed or suspended.

SEC. 13. In case any person or corporation shall do any act forbidden by this Act or by order of the commission, or shall omit to do any act required by this Act or by order of the commission, such person or corporation affected thereby for all loss, damage or injury caused thereby or resulting therefrom, and if the court shall find that the act or omission was willful, the court may, in addition to actual damages, award damages for the sake of example and by way of punishment. In any such suit, an order of the commission shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. An action to recover for such loss, damage or injury may be brought in any court of competent jurisdiction by any person or corporation. In every case of the recovery of damages by any person or corporation under the provisions of this section, the plaintiff shall be entitled to a reasonable attorney's fee to be fixed by the court, which fee shall be taxed and collected as part of the costs in the case.

SEC. 14. When the commission shall be of the opinion that any person or corporation is failing or omitting or about to fail or omit to do anything required of it by law, or by any order of the commission, or is doing or permitting or is about to do or permit anything in violation of law or of any order of the commission, it shall have authority to commence an action or proceeding in the Circuit or Superior Court or any other court of concurrent jurisdiction, in and for the county in which the case arose, in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, for the purpose of having such violations or threatened violations stopped and prevented, either by mandamus or injunction.

SEC. 15. Every person who individually or as an officer or agent of a corporation violates or fails to comply with any provisions of this Act or fails to comply with any order of the commission made under the authority of this Act,or who procures, aids or abets in the violation of this Act, or in any failure to obey any order thereunder, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000), or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 16. The remedies and penalties herein provided are cumulative, and suit for recovery of one penalty shall not be a bar to, or affect the recovery of any other penalty, or be a bar to any criminal prosecution. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to prevent prosecutions for the violation of section 1 of this Act, in cities, villages or incorporated towns which do not establish rental commissions.

SEC. 17. The city council in any city and the president and board of trustees in any village or incorporated town shall have power at any time to abolish a commission established under the powers conferred by this Act. The abolition of such commission shall terminate at once all powers of the commission and all orders rendered before its abolition.

SEC. 18. This Act is a temporary measure for the purpose of meeting a public emergency, and shall cease to be in effect on July 1, 1925.

APPENDIX V.

A BILL

For an Act to amend sections 2 and 6 of "An Act to revise the law in relation to landlord and tenant," approved May 1, 1873, in force July 1, 1873, as amended.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: Sections 2 and 6 of "An Act to revise the law in relation to landlord and tenant," approved May 1, 1873, in force July 1, 1873, are amended to read as follows:

SEC. 2. If any tenant or tenants for life, lives, or for a year, or any longer or shorter time, or any person or persons who are or shall come into possession of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, by, from or under, or by collusion with such tenant or tenants, shall wilfully hold over any lands, tenements or hereditaments, after the expiration of such term or terms, and after demand made, in writing, for the possession thereof, by his or their landlord or lessor, or the person to whom the remainder or reversion of such land, tenements or hereditaments shall belong, such person or persons so holding over, shall, for the time such landlord or rightful owner be so kept out of possession, pay to the person so kept out of possession, or his legal representatives, the rate of the yearly value of the lands, tenements or hereditaments so detained, together with any damages accruing to such landlord or rightful owner, to be recovered by action of debt or otherwise, in any court having cognizance of the same. No condition or provision of any lease or contract shall operate to increase the damages recoverable for holding over.

SEC. 6. In all cases of tenancy by the month, or for any other term less than one year, where the tenant holds over without special agreement, the landlord shall have the right to terminate the tenancy by sixty days notice, in writing, and to maintain an action for forcible detainer or ejectment.

A BILL

For an Act to amend sections 10 and 11 of "An Act in regard to forcible entry and detainer," approved and in force February 16, 1874, as amended, and to add section 17a thereto.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: Sections 10 and 11 of "An Act in regard to forcible entry and detainer," approved and in force February 16, 1874, are amended, and section 17a is added thereto, the amended and additional sections to read as follows:

SEC. 10. In trials under this Act before justices of the peace, either party may have the case tried by a jury if he shall so determine before the trial is entered upon, and will first advance the fees of the jurors. The number of the jurors shall be six, or any greater number not exceeding twelve, as either party may desire. In any case relating to premises used for residence purposes, either party may demand trial by a jury, notwithstanding any waiver of jury trial contained in any lease or contract.

SEC. 11. Trials under this Act in courts of record, shall be the same as in other cases at law in such courts: Provided, no special pleading shall be required, but the defendant may, under the plea of "not guilty" give in evidence any matter in defense of the action. In any case relating to premises used for residence purposes, either party may demand trial by a jury, notwithstanding any waiver of jury trial contained in any lease or contract.

SEC. 17a. In any case under paragraph 4 of section 2 of this Act, in which the plaintiff is entitled to judgment and execution for possession of property used for residence purposes, a stay of execution not exceeding six months may be granted in the discretion of the court upon the giving of bond by the defendant, the condition of the bond being that the defendant will pay all rents that shall become due during the period of the stay. No stay shall be granted unless the applicant therefor shall pay all rent then due and shall make a deposit in court of the entire amount, or such installments thereof from time to time as the court may direct, for occupation of the premises for the period of the stay, at the rate to which he was liable as rent for the month immediately prior to the expiration of his term or tenancy, plus such additional amount, if any, as the court may determine to be reasonable. The amount of such deposit shall be paid into court in such manner and in such installments as the court may direct, and amounts so deposited shall be paid to the plaintiff or his duly authorized agent in such manner as the court may order. No bond shall be required in case the applicant for stay shall pay all rent then due and shall make a deposit in court of the entire amount which may be determined by the court as the reasonable payment for the occupation of the premises for the whole period of such stay. This section shall cease to be in effect July 1, 1925.

A BILL

For an Act to amend section 60 of "An Act in relation to practice and procedure in courts of record," approved June 3, 1907, in force July 1, 1907, as amended.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: Section 60 of "An Act in relation to practice and procedure in courts of record," approved June 3, 1907, in force July 1, 1907, is amended to read:

SEC. 60. In all cases in any court of record in this State, if both parties shall agree, both matters of law and fact may be tried by the court. However, the court shall not proceed to trial without a jury by reason of a waiver of jury contained in any lease or contract with respect to the possession of any premises used for residence purposes.

The foregoing communication, under the rules, was laid over.

READING BILLS OF THE SENATE THE SECOND TIME.

Buck	Gray	Meents	Smith, O. W.	Wheeler
Carlson	Hanson	Mills	Spence	Wright
Cuthbertson	Hicks	Pervier	Swift	Yeas—31.
Dailey	Jewell			Nays—0.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Kessinger offered the following resolution, and on his motion the rules were suspended and it was referred to the Executive Committee:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 11.

Be it resolved by the Senate of the Fifty-second General Assembly, the House of Representatives concurring herein: That, pursuant to section 2 of Article XIV of the Constitution of the State of Illinois, it is proposed that section 1 of Article IX of the Constitution be amended to read as follows:

SECTION 1. The General Assembly shall have power by general law to classify property for the purpose of taxation. Taxes shall be levied and collected under general laws only, and shall be uniform upon all persons and property of the same class.

At 11:50 o'clock a. m., on motion of Mr. Barr, the Senate adjourned and the President pro tempore of the Senate announced that the Senate stood adjourned until Tuesday, March 1, 1921, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

TUESDAY, MARCH 1, 1921, 10:00 O'CLOCK A. M.

Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Spence, acting President pro tempore of the Senate, presiding.

The acting President pro tempore of the Senate announced that he had examined the Journal of Thursday, February 24, 1921, and found no corrections to make, and unless some Senator had corrections to offer, the Journal would stand approved. No corrections being offered, the Journal was ordered to stand approved.

INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Glackin offered the following Senate Joint Resolution, which under the rules was laid over:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 13.

WHEREAS, Many public improvements for which there is an imperative need have been postponed on account of the existence of a state of war; and

WHEREAS, The industrial life of the country depends on increased transportation facilities, and the progress and development of the country is retarded because of the inability of the railways to take care of the rapidly increasing commerce of the country; and

WHEREAS, One great barrier to the world's commerce was cut two generations ago at Suez; and another was severed a few years ago at Panana; and

WHEREAS, It is time to cut the third barrier, to make a practicable deep-water channel past the rapids which obstruct the St. Lawrence and the Falls which glorify the Niagara, and turn the Great Lakes into an arm of the sea; and

WHEREAS, By cutting this barrier away, the shore line of the whole continent will be remade, and the rich interior of this country will have an outlet to the open ocean; and every lake port will be an ocean port and a world port; and

WHEREAS, The accomplishment of this project would speed up shipments from the Middle West to Europe by taking the direct route down the St. Lawrence; would provide facilities for the movement of traffic, and would result in the increased volume of production because of the ability to market the produce of the country; and

WHEREAS, The State of Illinois would be greatly benefited by this great project, and the City of Chicago would be one of the greatest seaports of the world; and

WHEREAS, The cost of this project would be small in comparison with the great benefits to be derived by the United States; and the water power that will be developed will more than pay for the interest on the bonds to be issued for the work, and ultimately would pay for the cost of the entire improvement; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States be and they hereby are memorialized and respectfully but most urgently requested to take such action as will bring about the construction of a deep waterway to the sea by way of the St. Lawrence River, and the development of hydro-electric power in connection therewith; and

Resolved, That upon the passage of this resolution, certified copies thereof be forthwith forwarded by the Secretary of State of Illinois to the President of the United States, the presiding officers of both Houses of Congress, and members from Illinois of both branches of the Congress of the United States.

Mr. Barr offered the following resolution and by unanimous consent, on his motion, the rules were suspended and the resolution was taken up for immediate consideration, and adopted:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 24.

Resolved, That Senator Albert G. Clark be and he is hereby appointed member of the Committees on Appropriations, Canals and Waterways, Corporations and Industrial Affairs, Education, and Insurance.

Mr. Hanson offered the following resolution and by unanimous consent, on his motion, the rules were suspended and the resolution was taken up for immediate consideration, and adopted:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 25.

Resolved, That Nellie Normile be appointed Senate stenographer at a per diem of $5.00, to date from March 8, 1921.

On this resolution a call of the roll was had, resulting as follows: Yeas, 43; nays, none.

The following voted in the affirmative: Messrs.

Austin	Clark	Forrester	MacMurray	Sullivan
Bailey	Cornwell	Glackin	Meents	Telford
Barbour	Cuthbertson	Gray	Pervier	Turnbaugh
Bardill	Dailey	Hamilton	Roos	VanLent
Barr	Denvir	Hanson	Sadler	Wheeler
Boehm	Dunlap	Herlihy	Schulze	Wood
Broderick	Duvall	Hicks	Smith, N. E.	Wright
Buck	Essington	Jewell	Smith, O. W.	Yeas—43.
Carlson	Ettelson	Lantz	Spence	Nays—0.

Pending discussion on Senate Resolution No. 25 Mr. Barr moved that all Senate employees be directed to report to the Chairman of the Contingent Expense Committee each day the Senate is in session or be dismissed from service unless a satisfactory explanation be made.

Mr. Denvir offered the following resolution, which under the rules was laid over:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 14.

WHEREAS, The General Assembly of the State of Illinois, by an Act approved June 28, 1919, directed the Sanitary District of Chicago to construct bridges across its main channel at Cicero avenue, and at Seventy-second or Harlem avenue and Crawford avenue, and

WHEREAS, A great number of people are put to a great inconvenience by the failure of such Sanitary District to construct such bridges; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That the said Sanitary District of Chicago be, and it is hereby requested, to take immediate steps to build suitable bridges across its main channel at Cicero avenue and at Seventy-second or Harlem avenue and Crawford avenue, in order that a great multitude of people of this State be accommodated thereby.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 17.

WHEREAS, The United States Congress, by Act H. R. 17645, approved September 8, 1916, granted an appropriation for the National Memorial Reunion and Peace Jubilee of the Union and Confederate Civil War Veterans, held in Vicksburg National Military Park October, 1917, of which said appropriation an unexpected surplus remained, which was by Act H. R. 5227, approved July 11, 1919, reappropriated to be used in the erection of a Memorial Archway at the intersection of Clay street, extended, in the City of Vicksburg, within the bounds of Vicksburg National Military Park, in commemoration of the participators and defenders in the siege of Vicksburg fortifications, who sacrificed their lives there; and, especially, memorializing the remarkable success and sacred incidents of that Reunion and Peace Jubilee of October, 1917; and

WHEREAS, The said archway is now completed in imperishable granite on its chosen site, though without any knowledge of pre-arranged plans that, if carried out, will seriously militate against the sacred purposes of the Arch; the rich perspective of surrounding vistas emphasizes the simplicity with hallowed dignity of honor and patriotism sanctifies the purposes of the reunion of the Union and Confederate Civil War Veterans. To maintain this standard, no other monuments, statues or portrait tablets should be permitted within a certain radius that may in any way obstruct, or detract from the free and open perspective of this arch; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the State of Illinois, the Senate concurring herein, That the United States Secretary of War be and is hereby requested to grant no privileges to erect any monuments, statues or portrait tablets within a radius of two hundred feet of the National Memorial Arch now standing at the intersection of Clay street of the City of Vicksburg, Mississippi, within the boundary of the Vicksburg National Military Park.

Adopted by the House, February 24, 1921.

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 26.

WHEREAS, The Honorable A. W. Berggren, ex-State Senator of Illinois, departed this life February 22, 1921, at his home in the City of Galesburg,

Knox County, Illinois. At the outbreak of the Civil War he volunteered in the service of his country. Subsequent to the war he became, and for many years continued to be, one of the leading business men of his county. He held many positions of public trust, among them being the office of sheriff of Knok County for eight years, and State Senator from 1880 to 1888, having been chosen President pro tempore of the Senate at its session in 1887. In all positions of public trust, he served the people faithfully and well; and

WHEREAS, Having commenced life a poor boy, he was, to a great extent, the architect of his own fortune. He traveled extensively and became a man of exceptional learning and culture. He was a good citizen, an honest official and a Christian gentleman. He enjoyed the love and affection of his family and intimate friends, and the esteem and confidence of the people of his county, his district and his State. Having some years ago retired from active business and political life, he lived quietly with his family, among his friends, until past eighty years of age. He had reached late evening in his life's day, when, growing weary, he lay down, and like a child tired at play, very gently fell into that dreamless sleep that men call death; and,

WHEREAS, Of him it might be truthfully said, as it was said of another, that

"His life was gentle, and the elements
So mixed in him, that Nature might stand up,
And say to all the word, this was a man."

Be it therefore,

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, convened in the Fifty-second General Assembly, That the valuable services rendered by the Honorable A. W. Berggren to the people of the State of Illinois, be and the same are hereby recognized and acknowledged, and that the sympathy of the members of the Senate be and the same are hereby extended to the family and friends of the deceased.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Senate and that an engrossed copy thereof, signed by the President and attested by the Secretary, be forwarded to the family of the deceased, and that as a further testimonial of respect for his memory, the Senate do now stand adjourned.

At the hour of 7:40 o'clock p. m., in accordance with the foregoing resolution, the Senate adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 9, 1921, 10 O'CLOCK A. M.

Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Jewell, President pro tempore of the Senate, presiding.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. A. M. Wells, Pastor of the Grace M. E. church, Decatur, Illinois.

The President pro tempore of the Senate announced that he had examined the Journal of Tuesday, March 8, 1921, and found no corrections to make, and unless some Senator had corrections to offer, the Journal would stand approved. No corrections being offered, the Journal was ordered to stand approved.

Unfinished Business.

The pending question being "Shall the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of Mr. Gregory T. Van Meter, Chicago, to be Public Administrator of Cook County, vice Gordon A. Ramsay, removed for incompentency; postponed on motion of Senator Dailey on Tuesday, March 8, 1921.

At the hour of 10:10 o'clock a. m., on motion of Mr. Clark, the Senate went into Executive Session to further consider the above question.

Pending discussion, Mr. Wright moved the previous question. The motion prevailed, and the question being "Does the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of Mr. Gregory T. Van Meter, Chicago, to be Public Administrator of Cook county, vice Gordon A. Ramsay, Chicago, removed for incompentency?" it was decided in the affirmative by the following vote: Yeas, 27; nays, 7. Present and not voting 9.

The following voted in the affirmative: Messrs.

Mr. Denvir offered the following Senate Joint Resolution No. 15, which under the rules was laid over:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 15.

Whereas, There is a great shortage of dwelling houses thoughout the State of Illinois; and

Whereas, The fact that money is not being loaned for the purpose of enabling the people to construct dwelling houses, is one of the reasons for this great shortage of suitable dwelling houses; and

Whereas, Heretofore private banks have loaned much money for home-building purposes, and their abolition has deprived prospective home-builders of these opportunities of obtaining loans; and the State banks have not adequately taken the place of private banks in extending such credit; and

WHEREAS, Since there are 1402 State banks in Illinois, if each State bank in this State should make loans of money to enable the construction of ten dwelling houses, such action would provide funds for the erection of fourteen thousand and twenty houses, and thereby relieve the shortage of houses and reduce rents; now, therefore be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring herein, That the General Assembly of the State of Illinois urges that each State bank of this State make at least ten loans in the next thirty days for the purpose of supplying funds with which to build dwelling houses; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Auditor of Public Accounts be directed to send a copy of this resolution to each State bank within the State; and that he require each State bank to report, at the end of such thirty day period, the number of loans made by it for such purpose and the total amount of such loans; and that the Auditor be requested to report to the General Assembly, after the expiration of such thirty day period, a list of the banks so reporting, the number of such loans and the total amount thereof made by each, and a list of those banks not reporting.

Mr. Roos offered the following resolution and on his motion the rules were suspended and the resolution was taken up for immediate consideration and adopted:

Mr. N. E. Smith, from the Committee on Rules, offered the following resolution, which, under the rules, was laid over and ordered printed:

Senate Resolution No. 30.

Resolved, That the temporary rules of the Senate, adopted by Senate Resolution No. 7, be and are hereby adopted as the permanent rules of the Senate, amended as follows:

That in lieu of paragraphs 38, 43 and 48 of said temporary Senate Rules, the following paragraphs 38, 43 and 48 are substituted:

43. All bills, when introduced, shall be read by title only and referred by the presiding officer to the proper committee, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate. All bills favorably reported from committee, or so ordered by the Senate, shall stand in the order of first reading, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate, and shall be read a first time before being amended and may be amended in every particular on second reading.

It is hereby made the duty of any member introducing a bill proposing an amendment to any statute law of this State to underscore the word or words comprising the proposed amendment, and to indicate, by stars, parts omitted from statute, and no bill shall be printed until such word or words are underscored. All parts of bills which are underscored shall be printed in italics.

48. When a bill is introduced in the Senate, or received from the House, it shall be read at once, by title only, ordered printed and referred to the proper committee, which shall be determined by the President of the Senate, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate.

The Secretary of the Senate shall be the custodian of all bills introduced in the Senate, or reported from the House, which shall be kept in his office, and shall be withdrawn from his office only when required for printing or by the respective standing or special committees of the Senate, and upon the order of the chairman or acting chairman of such committee, and the clerk of such committee or person delivering such order at the Secretary's office shall subscribe his name upon the bill record before removing any such bill from the Secretary's office. No bills shall be withdrawn from the Secretary's office in any other manner.

No copies of original bills shall be made by any person, while in the hands of the printer or committee.

The foregoing provision shall not apply to printed copies of bills.

No Senate bill shall be introduced after May 2, 1921, except upon motion supported by a majority of the Senators present.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

38. That the permanent rules of the Senate shall have incorporated therein the standing committees, to conform in number, name and style as authorized by Senate Resolution No. 14.

Resolved, further, That the permanent rules of the Senate be compiled and printed in pamphlet form, for the use of the Senate, and that the same be incorporated in the hand-book to be issued by the Secretary.

Mr. Barr, from the Committee on Appropriations, to which was referred a bill, Senate Bill No. 58, for "An Act to authorize the construction of an equestrian monument to the memory of General Philip H. Sheridan, and to make an appropriation therefor."

Reported the same back with amendments thereto, and recommended that the amendments be adopted, and that the bill as amended do pass, and that it be ordered to a first reading.

Consideration of Resolutions.

On motion of Mr. Glackin, the following Senate Joint Resolution offered by him on March 8, 1921, was taken up for consideration:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 13.

Whereas, Many public improvements for which there is an imperative need have been postponed on account of the existence of a state of war; and

Whereas, The industrial life of the country depends on increased transportation facilities, and the progress and development of the country is retarded because of the inability of the railways to take care of the rapidly increasing commerce of the country; and

Whereas, One great barrier to the world's commerce was cut in two generations ago at Suez; and another was severed a few years ago at Panama; and

Whereas, It is time to cut the third barrier, to make a practicable deep-water channel past the rapids which obstruct the St. Lawrence and the Falls which glorify the Niagara, and turn the Great Lakes into an arm of the sea; and

Whereas, By cutting this barrier away, the shore line of the whole continent will be remade, and the rich interior of this country will have an outlet to the open ocean; and every lake port will be an ocean port and a world port; and

Whereas, The accomplishment of this project would speed up shipments from the Middle West to Europe by taking the direct route down the St. Lawrence; would provide facilities for the movement of traffic, and would result in the increased volume of production because of the ability to market the produce of the country; and

Whereas, The State of Illinois would be greatly benefited by this great project, and the City of Chicago would be one of the greatest seaports of the world; and that will be developed will more than pay for the interest on the bonds to be issued for the work, and ultimately would pay for the cost of the entire improvement; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States be and they hereby are memorialized and respectfully but most urgently requested to take such action as will bring about the construction of a deep waterway to the sea by way of the St. Lawrence River, and the development of hydro-electric power in connection therewith; and

Resolved, That upon the passage of this resolution, certified copies thereof be forthwith forwarded by the Secretary of State of Illinois to the President of the United States, the presiding officers of both Houses of Congress, and members from Illinois of both branches of the Congress of the United States.

The question being, "Shall the resolution be adopted?" it was decided in the affirmative.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The President of the Senate presented the following communication:

CHICAGO, ILL., 1921, March 15, P. M. 7:46.

To the Honorable, the President of the Senate, Illinois State Legislature, Springfield, Ill.:

We citizens of Chicago and voters in the Sixth Senatorial District, ten thousand in number, in mass meeting assembled this night of March fifteenth nineteen twenty one, do hereby petition you, our lawmakers, to support the Kessinger bill now pending before the Legislature of Illinois and enact it into law. Representing as we do more than one hunudred thousand citizens drawn from all walks of life, banded together for the defense of our homes from the onrushing wave of exorbitant rental which threatens to overwhelm the public and the Nation, we speak to you with the voice of the people. We represent no special interests, we desire no privileged protection, we plead no hereditary laws. Our appeal is the appeal of reason, of justice and humanity. We concede the necessity of building revival, but until that time comes we need the strong arm of the law to curb those who have seized upon the opportunity presented by their country's need to plunder their fellow men. We expect Illinois to do as well for her sons as New York did for hers, and in the name of conservative citizenship and the cause of liberty we ask you to place upon the statute books of Illinois the safeguard that will stand between those that wear the brand of mammon and their helpless victims. We are sending a delegation from our ranks to appear before you at Springfield and supplement this pleading.

Signed by the officers of the Chicago Tenants' Protective League and all its branches. J. M. WING.

Messages from the House of Representatives.

A message from the House by Mr. Smith, Assistant Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred with the Senate in the adoption of the following preamble and joint resolution, to-wit:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 9.

Whereas, It has been charged that there are combinations and agreements among builders, materialmen, laborers and others, which result in maintaining or raising the cost of constructing dwelling houses and other buildings; and

Whereas, There is now an acute housing shortage, which presents serious dangers to the health, safety, morals and welfare of the people of this State; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a joint committee of ten (10) shall be appointed, five (5) members thereof to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and five (5) members thereof to be appointed by the President of the Senate, upon the recommendation of the Executive Committee, to make a careful examination of combinations and agreements among builders, materialmen, laborers and others which may result in maintaining or raising the cost of constructing dwelling houses and other buildings.

The committee so authorized shall have full power to inquire whether combinations exist for establishing and maintaining prices of building materials; to ascertain the cost of producing such materials and the profits derived by the dealers therein; to investigate the compensation to labor in the production of building materials and in the construction of dwellings or other buildings, for the purpose of ascertaining the cost of manufacturing building materials and of constructing dwellings or other buildings; to ascertain the dividends paid by corporations engaged in the manufacture or the sale of building materials or in work of building construction, and the profits derived by persons or business associations of any character engaged in said businesses; and to ascertain the bearing of transportation charges upon the present high cost of building. The specific enumeration of the powers of this committee shall in no way limit the full authority of the committee to investigate any and all matters entering into the cost of dwellings or other buildings.

Said committee shall report their conclusions, findings and recommendations as expeditiously as may be to the present General Assembly; and shall recommend such proposed legislation as may be deemed necessary arising out of the subject matter of this inquiry.

For the purpose of conducting such investigation, said committee is hereby authorized and empowered to subpoena witnesses under the signature of the chairman, to place under oath and examine such witnesses, and to issue subpoenas duces tecum for witness or witnesses, and for such books, documents, papers, memoranda or things as such committee shall deem necessary for its information in carrying out the objects and purposes of this resolution.

Said committee is authorized to require any person or persons to cause to be submitted to said committee, or any person duly authorized to act for it, for inspection and examination, any books, papers, documents, or letters of any character, kind or description.

Such committee is authorized to employ such assistance as it may require, including the employment of clerical, statistical, technical, legal and accounting experts. Said committee and the members thereof shall be entitled to actual expenses incurred in the performance of the duties enjoined by this resolution.

Resolved, further, That the General Assembly proceed to make an appropriation for the necessary expenses for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this resolution, and that all vouchers for expenses of said committee and its members shall be approved by the chairman of the committee, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the President of the Senate.

Together with the following amendments, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

AMENDMENT No. 1.

Amend Senate Joint Resolution No. 9, as printed in the Senate, by inserting after the semi-colon after the word "businesses" in line 25 of said resolution, the following: "To ascertain the relation of the cost of building materials and labor to rents charged for dwellings and apartments."

AMENDMENT No. 2.

Amend Senate Joint Resolution No. 9, as printed in the House, by striking out all after the word "therein" in line 9 of the printed resolution, down to the word "and" in line 11 and inserting in lieu thereof, the following: "That a joint committee of twelve (12) shall be appointed, seven (7) members thereof to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives."

AMENDMENT No. 3.

Amend Senate Joint Resolution No. 9, as printed in the Senate, by striking out the period after the word "buildings" in line twenty-nine (29) and inserting a comma therefor, and adding after said comma the following, "or into maintaining high rents".

Concurred in by the House, as amended, March 15, 1921.

B. H. MCCANN, Clerk of the House.

The foregoing message from the House of Representatives was taken up for consideration, whereupon Mr. Dailey moved that the Senate concur with the House in the adoption of amendments 1, 2 and 3 to Senate Joint Resolution No. 9.

Pending discussion, Mr. Turnbaugh offered as a substitute for the foregoing motion, that the Senate non-concur in the adoption of the foregoing amendments 1, 2 and 3.

And the question being on the substitute to non-concur, it was decided in the affirmative.

It was ordered that the Secretary inform the House of Representatives thereof and ask that they recede from their amendments 1, 2 and 3 to Senate Joint Resolution No. 9.

Communications.

Mr. Telford presented the following editorial from the Chicago Daily Journal, and on his motion, by unanimous consent, the same was ordered incorporated in the Journal:

The Active Legion.

Anyone who leaves the activities of the American Legion out of account, these days, is getting a very imperfect impression of what is going on in this country.

The Legion is constantly striving to take care of and secure better treatment for ex-service men who are injured, sick or in financial straits. It is teaching patriotism and good citizenship. It is fighting anti-patriotic propaganda, and standing up staunchly for our former allies. It is making its influence felt in almost every corner of the land, and that influence, with the rarest of exceptions, is for good.

Which is a very cheering fact, especially, to older citizens, who cannot be in the thick of things much longer. Unless all precedents fail, the lads who held the line at Chateau Thierry, went through the Argonne and did the other great deeds of our short but glorious participation in the war will shape the policies of the United States for many a year to come. It is good to see them starting out with clear heads, righteous purposes and firm determination.

Under the rules, the bill was ordered to a first reading.

Mr. Sadler, from the Committee on Criminal Procedure, to which was referred a bill, Senate Bill No. 172, for "An Act to amend section 1 of 'An Act to define and punish conspiracies in the State of Illinois,' approved April 19, 1877, in force July 1, 1877, as amended."

Reported the same back with the recommendation that the bill do pass, and that it be ordered to a first reading.

Under the rules, the bill was ordered to a first reading.

Mr. Carlson, from the Committee on Revenue and Finance, to which was referred Senate Resolution No. 19, reported the same back with the recommendation that it do not pass, and moved that in deference to the request of Mr. Barr, who had communicated to the President of the Senate, that, inasmuch as he was confined in the Presbyterian Hospital in Chicago, action on Senate Joint Resolution No. 19 be postponed and that it be placed on the calendar in the order of Pending Questions.

Mr. MacMurray moved as a substitute for the foregoing motion that Senate Resolution No. 19 be made a special order for Tuesday, March 29, 1921, in the order of Consideration of Resolutions.

The question being on the adoption of the substitute, it was decided in the affirmative by a viva voce vote.

Introduction of Resolutions.

Mr. Wood offered the following resolution and, on his motion, the rules were suspended and the resolution was taken up for immediate consideration and adopted:

Senate Resolution No. 32.

Be it resolved by the Senate of the State of Illinois, That the Attorney General is requested to give his opinion on the right of persons, firms or corporations to operate motor vehicles along or upon the hard roads constructed in whole or in part by the State, for the transportation of persons or freight for hire indiscriminately accepting and discharging such persons as may offer themselves for transportation, or such freight as may be so offered.

Introduction of Bills.

The following bills were introduced, each of which were read by title, ordered printed, and under the rules, were referred by the President of the Senate as follows:

By Mr. Carlson, Senate Bill No. 221, a bill for "An Act to add section 35a to 'An Act for the assessment of property and providing the means therefor, and to repeal a certain Act therein named,' approved February 25, 1898, in force July 1, 1898, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on County and Township Organization.

By Mr. Dailey, Senate Bill No. 222, a bill for "An Act to amend sections one (1), three (3), five (5), seven (7), eight (8), twelve (12), fourteen (14), nineteen (19) and twenty-five (25) of an Act entitled, 'An Act to promote the general welfare of the people of this State by providing compensation for accidental injuries or death, suffered in the course of employment within this State; providing for the enforcement and administering thereof, and a penalty for its violation,' and repealing an Act entitled, 'An Act to promote the general welfare of the people of this State by providing compensation for accidental injuries or death suffered in the course of employment,' approved June 10th, 1911, in force May 1, 1912, as subsequently amended."

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

By Mr. Glackin, Senate Bill No. 223, a bill for "An Act in relation to the protection of maternity and infancy."

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

By Mr. Hanson, Senate Bill No. 224, a bill for "An Act to amend section 8 of 'An Act to authorize the organization and to regulate county, mutual, windstorm insurance companies,' approved July 4, 1889, in force July 1, 1889, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Insurance.

By Mr. Hanson, Senate Bill No. 225, a bill for "An Act to amend section 8 of 'An Act authorizing the organization and to regulate district, mutual, windstorm, cyclone or tornado insurance companies,' approved June 15, 1893, in force July 1, 1893, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Insurance.

By Mr. Hanson, Senate Bill No. 226, a bill for "An Act in relation to reinsurance by mutual insurance companies."

Referred to the Committee on Insurance.

By Mr. Hanson, Senate Bill No. 227, a bill for "An Act to amend section 8 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to township insurance companies,' approved March 24, 1874, in force July 1, 1874, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Insurance.

By Mr. Hanson, Senate Bill No. 228, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 8 and 10 of 'An Act to organize and regulate county fire insurance companies,' approved June 2, 1877, in force July 1, 1877, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Insurance.

By Mr. Kessinger, Senate Bill No. 229, a bill for "An Act to require the daily reading of a part or parts of the Constitution of the United States, or of this State, or of the Declaration of Independence, in certain grades of the schools of this State."

Referred to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. Spence, Senate Bill No. 230, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 6 and 7 of an Act entitled, 'An Act to provide for the certifiation of teachers,' approved June 28, 1913, in force July 1, 1913, as amended."

Referred to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. Wright, Senate Bill No. 231, a bill for "An Act changing the name of the Northern Illinois State Normal School."

Referred to the Committee on Education.

HOUSE BILLS REFERRED.

House Bill No. 105, a bill for "An Act making additional appropriations to the State Normal Schools."

Was taken up, read by title, ordered printed, and under the rules, was referred by the President of the Senate to the Committee on Appropriations.

House Bill No. 57, a bill for "An Act to add section 9a to the 'Motor Vehicle Law,' approved June 30, 1919, in force January 1, 1920."

Was taken up, read by title, ordered printed, and under the rules, was referred by the President of the Senate to the Committee on Roads, Highways and Bridges.

House Bill No. 154, a bill for "An Act to amend section 3 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to sureties,' approved February 27, 1874, in force July 1, 1874."

Was taken up, read by title, ordered printed, and under the rules, was referred by the President of the Senate to the Committee on Judiciary.

House Bill No. 278, a bill for "An Act to amend section 10 of an Act entitled, 'An Act in regard to evidence and depositions in civil cases,' approved March 29, 1872."

Was taken up, read by title, ordered printed, and under the rules, was referred by the President of the Senate to the Committee on Judiciary.

READING BILLS OF THE SENATE THE SECOND TIME.

On motion of Mr. Jewell, Senate Bill No. 109, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 1, 3, 4 and 8 of 'An Act concerning bastardy,' approved April 3, 1872, in force July 1, 1872, as amended."

Having been printed, was taken up and read at large a second time.

And the question being, "Shall the bill be transcribed, typed and printed for a third reading?" it was decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Jewell, Senate Bill No. 37, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 1 and 7 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to the sentence and commitment of persons convicted of crime or offenses and providing for a system of parole and to repeal certain Acts and parts of Acts therein named,' approved June 25, 1917, in force July 1, 1917, as amended."

Having been printed, was taken up and read at large a second time.

And the question being, "Shall the bill be transcribed, typed and printed for a third reading?" it was decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Lantz, Senate Bill No. 66, a bill for "An Act to provide for the construction of a brick-surfaced road adjacent to State property in Pontiac, Illinois, and making an appropriation therefor."

Having been printed, was taken up and read at large a second time.

Whereupon Mr. Lantz offered the following amendment and moved its adoption:

AMENDMENT No. 1.

Amend Senate Bill No. 66, by striking out in section 1, line 8 of the printed bill the words and figures "three thousand five hundred (3500)" and insert in lieu thereof the words and figures "three thousand five (3005)".

The question then being on the adoption of Amendment No. 1, it was decided in the affirmative by a viva voce vote:

And the question being, "Shall the bill be transcribed, typed and printed for a third reading, together with the foregoing amendment, as adopted?" it was decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Dailey, Senate Bill No. 36, a bill for "An Act to amend section 1 of an Act entitled, 'An Act to provide for and fix the salary of the Judges of the Supreme Court,' approved May 16, 1905, in force July 1, 1905."

Recalled from third to second reading on March 17, 1921, was taken up in the order of second reading, whereupon Mr. Dailey offered the following amendment:

AMENDMENT No. 1.

Amend Senate Bill No. 36, in section 1, line 4 of the printed bill, by striking out the figures "$15,000.00" and insert in lieu thereof the figures "$12,500.00".

The question then being on the adoption of Amendment No. 1, it was decided in the affirmative by a viva voce vote.

And the question being, "Shall the bill be transcribed, typed and printed for a third reading, together with the foregoing amendment, as adopted?" it was decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Sadler, Senate Bill No. 29, a bill for "An Act to amend section 14 of 'An Act to regulate the employment of convicts and prisoners in the penal and reformatory institutions of the State of Illinois, and providing for the disposition of the products of their skill and industry,' approved May 11, 1903, in force July 1, 1903, as amended."

Was recalled from the order of third reading to the order of second reading, for amendment.

Mr. Sadler offered the following amendment to the bill, which was ordered printed:

AMENDMENT No. 3.

Amend Senate Bill No. 29, as printed and amended, by striking out Amendment No. 1, as follows:

"Section 2. Because of an emergency, this Act shall take effect upon its passage."

On motion of Mr. Telford, Senate Bill No. 169, a bill for "An Act to prohibit the wearing or using of the insignia or badge or other emblem of the military order of the American Legion or of the Women's Auxiliary American Legion by any others than members of the orders."

Having been printed, was taken up and read at large a second time.

And the question being, "Shall the bill be transcribed, typed and printed for a third reading?" it was decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Barbour, Senate Bill No. 104, a bill for "An Act to provide for the appointment of county surveyors."

Having been printed, was taken up and read at large a second time.

And the question being, "Shall the bill be transcribed, typed and printed for a third reading?" it was decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Hanson, Senate Bill No. 15, a bill for "An Act to amend section 5 of 'An Act to regulate the State charitable institutions and the State reform school, and to improve their organization and increase their efficiency,' approved April 15, 1875, in force July 1, 1875, as amended."

Was recalled from the order of third reading to the order of second reading for amendment.

Mr. Hanson offered the following amendments to the bill, which were ordered printed:

AMENDMENT No. 1.

Amend printed Senate Bill No. 15, on page 3, in section 5, line 40, by striking out the figures "1921" and substituting in lieu thereof the figures "1925".

AMENDMENT No. 2.

Amend printed Senate Bill No. 15, on page 3, in section 5, line 41, by striking out the word "admited" and substituting in lieu thereof the word "admitted".

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. President—The Governor directs me to lay before the Senate the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.
SPRINGFIELD, March 22, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

In accordance with the provisions of an Act approved June 16, 1919, to provide for a veterinary college at the University of Illinois, I herewith transmit to your honorable body report and recommendation of the trustees of the University of Illinois upon the establishment at the University of a college of veterinary medicine and surgery.

Respectfully submitted,

LEN. SMALL, Governor.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS TO THE FIFTY-SECOND GENERAL ASSEMBLY, ON THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE AND SURGERY, IN ACCORDANCE WITH AN ACT PASSED BY THE FIFTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY, APPROVED JUNE 16, 1919.

Letter of Transmittal.

URBANA, ILLINOIS, March 3, 1921.

Honorable Len Small, Governor of Illinois, Springfield, Illinois:

Dear Sir. The Fifty-first General Assembly of the State of Illinois passed the following Act:

An Act to provide for a veterinary college at the University of Illinois.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: The trustees of the University of Illinois are authorized and directed to establish as a department of the University, a college of veterinary medicine and surgery.

Sec. 2. The veterinary college shall offer and give such courses of instruction as will, in the opinion of the trustees, best serve to educate and equip candidates for the practice of veterinary medicine and surgery.

Sec. 3. In pursuance of this authority and direction, the trustees are further directed to prepare and submit to the next General Assembly a plan for such a college, based upon study of similar colleges elsewhere and consultation with the livestock and veterinary interests of this State, together with budget estimates of the appropriation necessary to carry out the intent of this Act.

Approved June 16, 1919.

In accordance with the provisions of the above Act, the trustees of the University of Illinois have duly made inquiry into the whole matter and submit their report and recommendations thereon. In arriving at their conclusions the trustees benefited by the advice of a commission consisting of the following persons:

Honorable Charles Adkins, then Director of Agriculture.

Honorable J. G. Imboden, President State Live Stock Association.

Honorable F. Edson White, Vice President of Armour and Company.

Honorable Simon E. Lantz, State Senator.

Honorable R. E. Nesbitt, President Illinois State Veterinary Medical Association.

Dean Eugene Davenport of our College of Agriculture.

Professor H. W. Mumford of the Department of Animal Husbandry of the University.

These gentlemen formed a commission, of which the President of the Board of Trustees, Honorable Robert F. Carr, was chairman, and the President of the University also was a member. This commission had seven meetings and appointed a faculty sub-committee consisting of W. C. Coffey, Professor of Sheep Husbandry; H. P. Rusk, Professor of Beef Cattle Husbandry; Robert Graham, Professor of Animal Pathology; Professor E. J. Townsend of the College of Arts and Sciences, and the Supervising Architect of the University, Professor J. M. White. This sub-committee studied the subject in all its detail and reported to the general commission, which canvassed the information thus submitted and reached its own conclusions. Our report, based upon the report of the commission and committee thus described, is appended hereto and forwarded to you in triplicate for transmission to the Senate and House of Representatives.

Respectfully submitted,

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.
By ROBERT F. CARR, President.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS TO THE FIFTY-SECOND GENERAL ASSEMBLY, ON THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE AND SURGERY, IN ACCORDANCE WITH AN ACT PASSED BY THE FIFTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY, APPROVED JUNE 16, 1919.

The Board of Trustees of the University was directed by an Act* of the Fifty-first General Assembly to report plans and estimates for a College of Veterinary Medicine and Surgery with a view to determining what kind of an institution in this field would best serve the interests of the State, and what in general would be the organization and probable expense of establishment of such an institution.

A study of the whole field showed that there were four possible kinds of organization to choose from: One is an undergraduate teaching school of veterinary medicine and surgery, of which there are now several in existence; a second is a school of veterinary science for advanced students; a third is a division of animal pathology in the College of Agriculture or Experiment Station much expanded; a fourth is an institute of pathology for research into animal diseases, and especially the diseases communicable to men and animals.

(1) An undergraduate teaching school of veterinary medicine and surgery: This would be an ordinary school or college offering a professional course in veterinary medicine and surgery with a minimum of research and would cost approximately $150,000 per year to operate. In addition it would require certain buildings and provision would have to be made to meet the expense of that portion of the instruction of the course of study which would be given by other departments of the University. Such a school would correspond with the better existing colleges of the kind. At present prices of construction, adequate buildings, similar to those of existing institutions, would require approximately $1,000,000 as an initial outlay. Such a college would be expensive and would not meet the conditions which the various animal industry interests need, for reasons which will appear from a study of the figures in the appendix, especially those showing decreased attendance at similar established colleges. The Board of Trustees does not recommend the establishment of such a college.

(2) A graduate department or school of veterinary medicine and surgery: This organization would be a college, or school, or department, in the Graduate School or Agricultural Experiment Station, training advanced students in Agriculture for research in veterinary science. To provide a staff at least equal to any similar staff in the country would require, in the opinion of the Dean of the College of Agriculture, a staff of thirty-four people, with large facilities for investigation. The estimated cost of operation and maintenance would be about $250,000 per year, and the work would require a building somewhat larger than that required for a teaching college above described. The Board of Trustees does not recommend this plan.

(3) A department of animal pathology: A department of animal pathology could be developed in the existing College of Agriculture or the Agricultural Experiment Station for the sole purpose of investigating the causes and methods of control of animal diseases for a State wide service in the diagnosis of such cases as puzzle the local veterinarians, and for an extension service maintaining a close connection with the stock men on the one hand, and the practicing veterinarians on the other. A building for the housing of such a department would cost at least $100,000 as an initial outlay, and the operation would require on the basis of our present knowledge, from $75,000 to $100,000 a year. The Board of Trustees recommends this plan as a second choice.

(4) An institute of pathology: An institute of pathology would devote itself exclusively to investigation in the methods and means of control of communicable diseases, especially those common to animals and men, and probably plants. Such an institute would not provide undergraduates instruction, but would receive advanced gradute students, although its principal work would be investigation. It should contain departments of bacteriology, physiology, animal pathology, human pathology, plant pathology and possibly other departments. Such an institute would require a considerable staff and its cost of operation would doubtless run as high as between $100,000 and $125,000 for the biennium. The institute would also require a physical equipment, including a building, which would doubtless run to as large a sum. The Board of Trustees recommends the adoption of this plan as their first choice.

The organization of such an institute would include a staff, the head of which might be known as director, or by some other similar title, whose size would depend upon the extent of the work undertaken. To begin with it would be necessary to assign between $20,000 and $25,000 per year for salaries and wages, while for the extension and equipment of laboratories, office expenses, special apparatus, travel, and other expenses would be required from $25,000 to $30,000 more; that is, the first year of operation would require $50,000.

If such an institute were established at the University, buildings provided for the work in Agriculture could be utilized to a certain extent for the work of such an institution but at least one independent building would be required remote from any existing building. That would be an isolation building for diseased animals. This with its equipment would undoubtedly require at least $100,000. A somewhat similar building and equipment in a neighboring State cost $120,000.

The Board of Trustees recommends the adoption of this plan, but begs leave to point out that the necessary appropriation should be independent of that now requested for the University.

In support of the conclusions of this report an appendix is attached giving facts which bear on the inquiry and recommendations.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.
By ————————, President.

APPENDIX—FACTS BEARING ON THE INQUIRY AND RECOMMENDATION.

(1) Attendance at veterinary colleges.

The private veterinary colleges and schools of the country have, almost without exception, gone out of business within the past five years. There are a few excellent veterinary colleges connected with the larger institutions of learning, particularly in Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Michigan and Iowa. These colleges all give a four-year course leading to the degree of D. V. M. (Doctor of Veterinary Medicine), and some of them are equipped with excellent facilities for research. But the attendance at every one of them has been declining for some time and, in general, they are only about half filled. It was a realization of this situation that induced the authorities of the State of Wisconsin to abandon a plan which they had approved for the establishment of a veterinary college in connection with the State University.

The enrollment at Pennsylvania has dropped from 150 to 55 in the past four or five years. The attendance at other State veterinary institutions is only about half the number that could be readily accommodated. It is clear that there are now facilities enough in the country to take care of many more students than are attracted to this field. Therefore, if the University of Illinois were to establish a veterinary college of the ordinary type, it would have to be in all respects superior to any other school of its kind in the country. This would be a large and expensive undertaking. The cost of the physical plant alone may be appreciated when it is stated that the buildings and equipments of existing institutions like those in Iowa and Pennsylvania represent expenditures of half a million or more, which would now require approximately $1,000,000 to duplicate. The mere cost of a building such as was planned for the proposed veterinary college in the Union Stock Yards in 1908-9 would be approximately $600,000. The Board of Trustees is of the opinion that it would be very difficult to justify the necessary expenditure for the establishment of such a college of residence teaching alone.

Moreover, the field of study in the veterinary profession has shifted. The stress used to be laid on anatomy, materia medica, and therapeutics, where it is now laid on infectious diseases and methods of control of epidemics. All of this has vastly increased the cost of instruction in the veterinary courses and accounts in large measure for the failure of the private veterinary colleges. It also accounts for the fact that the best advices are that what is needed now is not so much a school for the turning out of more practitioners as it is better endowment and facilities for investigation.

(2) Non-resident teaching or veterinary extension.

This is obviously a field in which the University can render much service to the live stock industry. But its prosecution implies, of course, the cooperation of a research and diagnostic laboratory at the University. Indeed, the University is already doing a good deal of this work in the Division of Animal Husbandry of the College of Agriculture. The Division of Animal Pathology submits the following from its laboratory records as an example of the aid it is at present giving in this important field:

Specimens for diagnosis received January 1, 1920, to June 1, 1920:

Horses	13	or 1	per cent of total
Cattle	127	or 9.8	per cent of total
Hogs	1031	or 78.0	per cent of total
Sheep	31	or 2.4	per cent of total
Dogs	3
Poultry	61	or 4.6	per cent of total
Feed and miscellaneous material	36	or 2.7	per cent of total

Total number of specimens examined by the Veterinary Laboratory College of Agriculture, September 1, 1919, to September 1, 1920, 4,349.

Of these over 70 per cent were swine.

Number of specimens examined September 1, 1920, to February 14, 1921, 1595.

(3) Veterinary research.

The outstanding demand from veterinarians and live stock men upon the University is for information relative to the causes, prevention, and treatment of many poorly understood animal diseases. The importance of this phase of the subject cannot be over-estimated. The following table gives some idea of the loss due to the absence of proper preventive measures and this absence, in turn, is due, in the main, to lack of proper knowledge, which can be obtained ordinarily by further research:

Estimates on number and value of live stock in Illinois and on the number and value of animals lost through various diseases:

Kind of Livestock	Number Jan. 1, 1920	Value Jan. 1, 1920	Losses due to diseases for Year 1919-1920 Number	Value of animals lost from diseases Year 1919-1920
Swine	5,323,000	$109,121,500	335,349	$6,874,654
Cattle—
Dairy	1,060,000	101,760,000
Beef	1,290,000	70,434,000	54,050	4,205,090
Horses and Mules	1,462,000	137,428,000	29,811	2,802,234
Sheep	1,010,000	12,726,000	24,745	311,787
Poultry	20,753,308	20,573,308	3,112,995	3,112,995
Total losses			3,556,950	$17,306,760

Note: Losses not taken into consideration in the tabulation given above:

(a) Pigs, lambs, calves and colts that die at birth or a few weeks after.

(b) Losses due to condemnation of animals, carcasses or parts of carcasses at the slaughtering plants operating under government inspection.

Of course, no one can say that in any limited time a loss of this kind could be saved or prevented, but there is a high degree of probability that much of it could be prevented by early discoveries in a properly manned and equipped research veterinary laboratory. The practicing veterinarian of today is not always able with the facilities at hand to make prompt and accurate diagnosis of the first cases of communicable diseases that may develop in his neighborhood, and indeed, has not had the opportunity to be trained in the most troublesome diseases which now beset our animal population.

It is, therefore, our conviction that the primary need of the State in veterinary matters can be met only by the development of a strong research and diagnostic staff with adequate laboratories and facilities. The investigations of our Animal Pathology Division during the past year on the existance of botulism in domestic animals will compare favorably with any single accomplishment in the field of veterinary education in America. The result of these investigations, also, have an important relation to the control of the same disease in human beings. This fact is an indication of the value of cooperation between a corps of highly trained experts in the field of veterinary science and in public health. By such cooperation we believe that we shall make more progress than we shall make in any other way in the extinction of the communicable diseases that are common to man and beast. On the matter of research, Dean Stange of the Veterinary School of Iowa State College, at a conference last year at the University of Illinois, said, "The most urgent need from a professional, agricultural, and economic standpoint today is much more extensive and thorough research along further lines. Our practitioners are begging for information which is not now available. The stockman does not have great difficulty in securing a veterinarian, but too frequently the problem confronting the veterinarian cannot be solved with advantage to the client or to the best interest of the live stock industry simply because a solution does not yet lie within our power."

(3) Should a Division of Veterinary Medicine Be Located at Chicago?

Your committee appreciates the possible advantages in both teaching and research to be gained by a close affiliation of the Colleges of Medicine and Veterinary Medicine. We are also aware of opportunities for securing gross pathological specimens and for establishing close contact with the veterinary inspection service at the Union Stock Yards if a division of the Veterinary College were to be located in Chicago. In spite of these advantages, however, we believe that the College would better be a complete and compact unit in Urbana. A Chicago division would be expensive and it would present administrative difficulties, for it would be almost impossible to select a phase of the student's training that would be unrelated to and not dependent on the work of the departments located at the main seat of the College. It would also divide the student's time between Urbana and Chicago, the probable results of which would be greater cost to the student in securing his education, and fewer decisions to take the course in Veterinary Science because of additional cost and a break in the continuity of the student's life on the campus at Urbana.

Even though your committee views the establishment of a Division of the Veterinary College in Chicago as inadvisable, it nevertheless firmly believes that there should be close contact between the Veterinary College, on the one hand, and the Medical College and the Veterinary inspection service in the Stock Yards on the other. It is believed that this contact can best be established and maintained by the appointment of a joint committee on research.

Conclusions.

In view of all the above circumstances, the Board of Trustees recommends, as already indicated, the adoption of either the third or the fourth proposition in the report with the fourth as first choice. The third proposition, that for a veterinary research institute, comes nearest to meeting the immediate needs, not only from the agricultural standpoint, but from the veterinarian standpoint as well. But the fourth plan, a pathological institute for the study of animal and human diseases, is a much more far-reaching plan, with possibilities of much greater value and moment. The establishment of an institute whose primary object is the study of diseases common to animals and to men would undoubtedly be as serviceable to the animal industries and other agricultural interests of the State as the third plan. It would have the additional merit of entering upon a new field in which there is every reason to believe discoveries of great moment to the public health may be made. Such an institute would attract the attention of the country and the world in that it would be, perhaps, the first to give special study to that class of organisms which seek a host wherever it may be found, invading man, animals and possibly plants, as opportunity offers, giving rise not only to puzzling symptoms, but to a variety of diseases which we are not now prepared to study intelligently, much less to treat. Such an institution should be an association of departments, rather than a college, capable of studying microscopic organisms as such, whether bacterial or protozoan, with a view to determining their primary and secondary hosts and, therefore, the best methods of control. Such an organization should have the most intimate connection with kindred University departments, both in science, in agriculture, and in animal and human pathology. The most intimate connection of all should be established between the institute and the Department of Animal Pathology in the College of Agriculture.

On motion of Mr. Dunlap, the foregoing message from the Governor was referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

Introdution of Resolutions.

Mr. Buck offered the following resolution, which, under the rules, was ordered printed and laid over:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 17.

There are many different ideas in the several communities of the State in reference to road improvement and maintenance. These are influenced somewhat by the existing conditions in these communities. A uniform system of road work may not be worked out and agreed to by all concerned, but there may by some effort be established a system resting on the foundation of facts supported by experience and a degree of public approval, therefore—

Whereas, Road construction and maintenance and the cost of the same throughout the State is being carried on without uniformity and with a great diversity of results both as to dirt and hard surface roads; and

Whereas, These many different methods of treatment, all involving great expenditures of public money have resulted in a great divergence of opinion as to the best methods of construction and maintenance to be used; and

WHEREAS, Information as to the best methods and their cost would be of much value to this General Assembly to aid it in legislation for uniformity and economy on this subject at this session, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a joint committee of three from the Senate and three from the House be appointed to act in conjunction with the Department of Public Works and Buildings to confer with local and county highway officials, boards of supervisors throughout the State and by other proper methods investigate and report to the present General Assembly upon the following pressing propositions:

First—For the establishment of a permanent uniform and efficient system of road improvement and maintenance throughout the State.

Second—For the promotion of a County system of road improvement and maintenance throughout the State by extending dirt road improvement and the use of gravel or similar material where advisable.

Third—For the stablishment of the so-called Wisconsin patrol system.

Fourth—To investigate and report on the sentiment for and advisability of changing the construction to be used on bond issue roads (where practical) from cement or brick to some other construction.

Fifth—To make recommendations as to the best method of treatment of dirt roads with oil or other material and the subsequent proper care of such roads, and be it further

Resolved, That said Joint Committee shall report their conclusions, findings and recommendations as expeditiously as possible to the present General Assembly and that said committee shall be entitled to actual expenses incurred in the performance of the duties enjoined by these resolutions; and

Resolved, further, That the General Assembly make an appropriation in the sum of $2,500 for the payment of the same, and that all vouchers for expenses incurred shall be approved by the Chairman of the Committee, the Speaker of the House, and the President of the Senate.

Mr. Spence, acting for Mr. Barr, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, submitted the following list of sub-committees of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, for this session, and asked and obtained unanimous consent of the Senate for a leave-of-absence from the sessions of the Senate for all the members of said sub-committees while they are away on the work of said committees.

HOUSE BILLS REFERRED.

House Bill No. 131, a bill for "An Act to prevent derogatory statements affecting corporations doing a banking or trust business."

Was taken up, read by title, ordered printed, and, under the rules, was referred by the President of the Senate to the Committee on Banks, Building and Loan Associations.

READING BILLS OF THE SENATE THE SECOND TIME.

On motion of Mr. Austin, Senate Bill No. 170, a bill for "An Act to amend section 123 of an Act entitled, 'An Act to establish and maintain a system of free schoos,' approved and in force June 12, 1909."

Having been printed, was taken up and read at large a second time.

And the question being, "Shall the bill be transcribed, typed and printed for a third reading?" it was decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Jewell, Senate Bill No. 37, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 1 and 7 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to the sentences and commitment of persons convicted of crime or offenses and providing for a system of parole and to repeal certain Acts and parts of Acts therein named,' approved June 25, 1917, in force July 1, 1917, as amended."

Was recalled from the order of third reading, to the order of second reading for amendment.

Mr. Jewell offered the following amendments to the bill, which were adopted:

AMENDMENT No. 1.

Amend Senate Bill No. 37, by striking out all of lines 35, 36 and 37 of section 1 of the printed bill and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"Persons who have once been convicted of a felony and then shall be convicted of a subsequent felony shall not be eligible to parole. Whether or not such person has been convicted of such former felony is a matter to be determined by the Department of Public Welfare."

AMENDMENT No. 2.

Amend Senate Bill No. 37, in line 23 of said printed bill, section 7 thereof, by adding period (.) after the word "parole" and striking out of said line 23 the words "during that term."

And the question then being, "Shall the bill be ordered to a third reading and the amendments printed?" it was decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Kessinger, Senate Bill No. 85, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 10 and 11 of 'An Act in regard to forcible entry and detainer,' approved and in force February 16, 1874, as amended, and to add section 17a thereto."

Was taken up and read at large a second time, together with the following amendment thereto (which has been printed), reported from the Committee on Judiciary:

AMENDMENT No. 1.

Amend printed Senate Bill No. 85, by adding section 2, to read as follows:

"Section 2. WHEREAS, an emergency exists, this Act shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage and approval."

The question being, "Shall the report of, and the amendments reported from, said committee be adopted?" it was decided in the affirmative.

Mr. Kessinger, offered the following amendment to Senate Bill No. 85, which on his motion was adopted:

AMENDMENT No. 2.

Strike out all of section 17a, being lines 1 to 20, both inclusive, on page 2 of the printed bill, and substitute therefor the following:

"Sec. 17a. In any case under paragraph 4 of section 2 of this Act, in which the plaintiff is entitled to judgment and execution for possession of property used for residence purposes, within the corporate limits of cities, towns or villages, a stay of execution not exceeding six months from the expiration of the term or tenancy may upon application of the defendant be granted in the discretion of the court, upon the giving of such bond as may be approved by the court, the condition of the bond being that the defendant will pay all rents that shall become due during the period of the stay. No stay shall be granted unless the applicant therefor shall pay all rent then due and shall also pay all rent which may accrue until the end of the calendar month in which the stay is granted. The rent accruing thereafter shall be paid in such installments as shall be directed by the court at the time the stay is granted, each such installment to be payable on the first day of the period which it covers, so that all such rents shall be payable in advance. In case of ten days' default in the payment of any such installment the court on application of the plaintiff shall set aside the order staying the execution. The defendant shall be obligated to pay rent for the entire period of the stay granted unless the court shall on application of the plaintiff have set aside any such stay, in which case the defendant shall be liable only for the period up to the time when such stay is set aside.

The payments herein required shall be made to the plaintiff or his duly authorized agent, unless the court shall direct that they be paid into court, in which event the amounts so paid into court shall be paid to the plaintiff or his duly authorized agent in such manner as the court may order. No bond shall be required in case the applicant for the stay shall pay the rent then due and shall also pay the entire amount which may be determined by the court as reasonable rent for the whole period of such stay. The term rent, for the purposes of this section, shall be deemed to include all compensation for use and occupation, and the amount of such compensation shall be fixed at the rate for which the defendant was liable as rent for the month immediately prior to the expiration of his term or tenancy plus such additional amount, if any, as the court may determine to be reasonable. The court shall have authority upon application to the plaintiff after hearing to set aside any such stay of execution. This section shall cease to be in effect July 1, 1923."

On motion of Mr. Kessinger, the further consideration of the pending bill and amendments was postponed, the amendments ordered printed, and the bill to retain its place on the Calendar of Senate Bills on Second Reading.

On motion of Mr. Kessinger, Senate Bill No. 86, a bill for "An Act to amend sections 2 and 6 of 'An Act to revise the law in relation to landlord and tenant,' approved May 1, 1873, in force July 1, 1873, as amended."

Was taken up and read at large a second time, together with the following amendment thereto (which has been printed), reported from the Committee on Judiciary:

AMENDMENT No. 1.

Amend printed Senate Bill No. 86, by adding section 2, to read as follows:

"Section 2. WHEREAS, an emergency exists, this Act shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage and approval."

The question being, "Shall the report of, and the amendment reported from, said committee be adopted?" it was decided in the affirmative.

Mr. Kessinger offered the following amendment to Senate Bill No. 86, which on his motion was adopted:

AMENDMENT No. 2.

Amend printed Senate Bill No. 86, by striking out all after the letters "sentatives," in line 11, and all of lines 12, 13, 14, and 15, and by substituting therefor the following words: "at the rate of double the yearly value of the lands, tenements, or hereditaments so detained, to be recovered by action of debt or otherwise, in any court having cognizance of the same: Provided, that until July 1, 1923, no person shall recover for the detention of property used for residence purposes more than the rate of the yearly value of the lands, tenements or hereditaments so detained, together with any damages accruing to such landlord or rightful owner; and no condition or provision of any lease or contract shall operate to increase damages recoverable for so holding over."

On motion of Mr. Kessinger, the further consideration of the pending bill and amendments was postponed, the amendments ordered printed, and the bill to retain its place on the Calendar of Senate Bills on Second Reading.

On motion of Mr. Dailey, Senate Bill No. 251, a bill for "An Act to make an appropriation for the Joint Legislative Committee created pursuant to Senate Joint Resolution No. 9, Fifty-second General Assembly."

Having been printed, was taken up and read at large a second time.

Rockford, Illinois, March 29, 1921.

Hon. W. S. Jewell, President Pro. Tem, State Senate, Springfield, Illinois:

Am obliged to remain at home this week on account of the extraction of my upper teeth, which had become infected. Please have my unavoidable absence recorded in the Senate Journal.

Fred E. Sterling.

Chicago, Illinois, March 29, 1921.

Honorable Fred Sterling, Lieutenant Governor, Springfield, Illinois:

I will be absent from the Senate this week. Senator Hanson and I are visiting the charitable institutions in the northern part of the State. Should Senate Resolution No. 9, known as MacMurray Resolution, come up for consideration I would like to be recorded as voting aye. Should Senate Bill two five-one come up for consideration I would like to be recorded as voting no on this bill.

R. E. Duvall.

A message from the House by Mr. Smith, Assistant Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has adopted the following joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

House Joint Resolution No. 24.

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That the following be adopted as the Joint Rules of the House of Representatives and the Senate of the Fifty-second General Assembly of the State of Illinois:

joint rules.

1. When a message shall be sent from the Senate to the House of Representatives, it shall be announced at the door of the House by the Doorkeeper, and shall be respectfully communicated to the Chair by the person by whom it may be sent.

2. The same ceremony shall be observed when messages shall be sent from the House of Representatives to the Senate.

3. Messages shall be sent by such persons as a sense of propriety in each House may determine to be proper.

4. In every case of disagreement between the two Houses, if either House request a conference, and appoint a committee for that purpose, the other House shall appoint a committee to confer therewith upon the subject of their disagreement. Said committee shall meet at a convenient time to be agreed upon by their chairman, and, having conferred freely, each shall report to its respective House the result of their conference. In case of an agreement the report shall be first made, with the papers referred accompanying it, to the disagreeing House, and there acted upon; and such action shall be immediately reported by the Clerk to the other House, the papers referred accompanying the message. In case of disagreement, the papers shall remain with the House which referred them. The agreeing report of a conference committee shall be made, read and signed in duplicate by all members of the committee, or by a majority of those of each House, one of the duplicates being retained by the committee of each House. Should either House disagree to the report of the committee, such House shall appoint a second committee and request a second conference, which shall be acceded to by the other House before adhering. The motion for a committee of conference, and the report of such committee, shall be in order at any time. When both Houses shall have adhered to their disagreement, a bill or resolution is lost.

5. While bills are on their passage between the two Houses they shall be accompanied by a message signed by the Secretary or Clerk (as the case may be) respectively.

6. After a bill has passed both Houses, it shall be transcribed and typed before it is presented to the Governor.

7. When bills are transcribed and typed, they shall be examined by a joint committee, which shall consist of five members, two from the Senate and three from the House, to be appointed by the Senate and the Speaker of the House, respectively. The Clerk of the Committee on Enrolling, Transcribing and Typing of Bills of the respective Houses shall act as clerk of the committee whenever their services are required. Said committee shall carefully compare the transcribed and typed bills with the engrossed bills, so passed by both Houses, correct any errors which may be discovered in the enrolled bills, and make their report forthwith to their respective Houses; the Secretary or Clerk having previously certified on the margin of the roll in which House it originated.

8. After examination and report, each bill shall be signed in the respective Houses, by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and by the President of the Senate.

9. After a bill shall have been signed by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, it shall be presented by said Joint Committee to the Governor for his approval. The said committee shall report the day of presentation to the Governor to each House, which time shall be carefully entered on the Journals of each House.

10. All resolutions and memorials which are to be presented to the Governor shall be previously enrolled, examined, signed and presented to the Joint Committee, reported, and entry made thereof, as provided in case of bills.

11. When a bill or resolution which shall have passed one House is rejected in the other, information thereof shall be given to the House in which the same shall have passed.

12. When the consideration of any bill, memorial, or resolution, which has originated in one House shall be postponed in the other to a day so distant that it shall not be taken up again by the present session, the House in which such bill, memorial or resolution shall have originated shall be forthwith informed of such postponement.

13. When a bill, memorial or resolution which has passed one House is rejected in the other, it shall not again be introduced during the same session, except in the House so rejecting, and after three days' notice and leave of that House.

14. Each House shall transmit to the other all papers on which any bill or resolution shall be founded.

15. While the two Houses are acting together upon elections, or on any other matter, the Speaker shall preside, and all questions of order shall be decided by him, subject to an appeal to both Houses, as though but one body was in session. A call of members of either House may be had in joint meeting by order of the House in which the call is desired, and to constitute a quorum of the joint assembly, a majority of all the members elected to both Houses shall be present and voting.

16. Motions to postpone or adjourn shall be decided by a joint vote of both Houses, and yeas and nays upon such motions, if required shall be entered upon the Journals of both Houses.

17. Upon questions arising requiring the separate decision of either House, the Senate shall withdraw until the decision is made. Provided, that questions upon motions for a call of either House shall not come within the provisions of this rule.

18. Each House shall have the liberty of ordering the printing of bills, messages and reports without the consent of the other.

19. Whenever any message, bill, report or document shall be ordered to be printed by the Senate or House, for the use of both Houses, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Senate or Clerk of the House (as the case may be) immediately to report the fact of the passage of such order to the other branch of the General Assembly, together with the number so ordered to be printed in case the same shall exceed 300.

Adopted by the House March 24, 1921.

B. H. McCann, Clerk of the House.

The foregoing message from the House of Representatives, under the rules, was laid over.

A message from the House by Mr. Smith, Assistant Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred with the Senate in the adoption of the following preamble and joint resolution, to-wit:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 13.

Whereas, Many public improvements for which there is an imperative need have been postponed on account of the existence of a state of war; and

Whereas, The industrial life of the country depends on increased transportation facilities, and the progress and development of the country is retarded because of the inability of the railways to take care of the rapidly increasing commerce of the country; and

Whereas, One great barrier to the world's commerce was cut two generations ago at Suez; and another was severed a few years ago at Panama; and

Whereas, It is time to cut the third barrier, to make a practicable deep-water channel past the rapids which obstruct the St. Lawrence and the Falls which glorify the Niagara, and turn the Great Lakes into an arm of the sea; and

Whereas, By cutting this barrier away, the short line of the whole continent will be remade, and the rich interior of this country will have an outlet to the open ocean; and every lake port will be an ocean port and a world port; and

Whereas, The accomplishment of this project would speed up shipments from the Middle West to Europe by taking the direct route down the St. Lawrence; would provide facilities for the movement of traffic, and would result in the increased volume of production because of the ability to market the produce of the country; and

Whereas, The State of Illinois would be greatly benefited by this great project, and the City of Chicago would be one of the greatest seaports of the world; and

Whereas, The cost of this project would be small in comparison with the great benefits to be derived by the United States; and the water power that will be developed will more than pay for the interest on the bonds to be issued for the work; and ultimately would pay for the cost of the entire improvement; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States be and they hereby are memorialized and respectfully but most urgently requested to take such action as will bring about the construction of a deep waterway to the sea by way of the St. Lawrence River, and the development of hydro-electric power in connection therewith; and

That upon the passage of this resolution, certified copies thereof be forthwith forwarded by the Secretary of State of Illinois to the President of the United States, the presiding officers of both Houses of Congress, and members from Illinois of both branches of the Congress of the United States.

Together with the following amendments, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

AMENDMENT No. 1.

Amend printed Senate Joint Resolution No. 13, on page 2, lines 28 and 29 by striking the words "now, therefore, be it" and inserting the following: "and, WHEREAS, The lack of transportation is now limiting the production of the Mississippi Valley territory, and is also retarding the development of its unlimited resources; now, therefore be it."

AMENDMENT No. 2.

Amend printed Senate Joint Resolution No. 13, on page 2, by inserting between lines 35 and 36 the following:

"Resolved, That we urge upon Congress the immediate passage of legislation which will secure the prompt completion of approved projects for the improvement of the Illinois, Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, to the end that these great channels of commerce may be put into use as mediums of transportation, and thus relieve the serious congestion of freight traffic which now prevails, and which has become a menace to our future growth and prosperity; and that we urge a definite, comprehensive plan for the permanent improvement of our Mississippi Valley waterways be adopted, and that the work be carried on upon the plan of continuous work, to the end that they may be put into use as carriers of commerce in the shortest time possible; and"

Passed the House as amended, March 24, 1921.

B. H. MCCANN, Clerk of the House.

The foregoing message from the House of Representatives, under the rules, was laid over.

STATE OF ILLINOIS.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

SPRINGFIELD, March 29, 1921.

EDWARD J. BRUNDAGE,
Attorney General.
File No. 10783.
Public Utilities:
Roads and Bridges.

To the Honorable, the Senate:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a communication from the Secretary of the Senate, which states that on March 22, 1921, the Senate adopted the following resolution, to-wit:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 32.

"Be it resolved by the Senate of the State of Illinois, That the Attorney General is requested to give his opinion on the right of persons, firms or corporations to operate motor vehicles along or upon the hard roads constructed in whole or in part by the State for the transportation of persons or freight for hire, indiscriminately accepting and discharging such persons as may offer themselves for transportation, or such freight as may be so offered."

The roads mentioned in the resolution are public highways and are open for use by the entire public in any reasonable manner. Motor vehicles are reasonable means of using the public highways. Their owners are, however, subject to reasonable and proper regulations made in the exercise of the public police power of the State.

The limitations upon the right to use those roads are found in section 55 of article 4 of the Public Utilities Law, Hurd's Revised Statutes, 1919, page 2345, and in the case of hard-surfaced roads in section 12 of the Act approved June 22 1917, and in force July 1, 1917, Hurd's Revised Statutes, 1919, page 2650. Said section 55 of the Public Utilities Law contains the following provision:

> "No public utility not owning any city or village franchise nor engaged in performing any public service or in furnishing any product or commodity within this State at the time this Act goes into effect shall transact any business in this State until it shall have obtained a certificate from the commission that public convenience and necessity require the transaction of such business.
> "Whenever after a hearing the commission determines that any new construction or the transaction of any business by a public utility will promote the public convenience and is necessary thereto it shall have the power to issue certificates of public convenience and necessity."

Said section 12 of the Act concerning hard-surfaced roads provides:

> "No public utility company or person shall be granted any right, privilege or franchise in, on or along any such highway without the consent of said Department of Public Works and Buildings."

Section 33 of the Act in relation to roads and bridges, Hurd's Revised Statutes, 1919, page 2580, and section 11 of the Act concerning Federal aid roads, Hurd's Revised Statutes, 1919, page 2653, do not embrace motor vehicles within the scope of their provisions.

Section 28 of the Public Utilities Law provides:

> "No franchise, license, permit or right to own, operate, manage or control any public utility, except common carriers engaged in interstate commerce and except telegraph or telephone companies engaged in interstate commerce, shall be hereafter granted or transferred to any grantee or transferee other than a corporation duly incorporated under the laws of this State.
> "No public utility shall be in any manner exempt from the provisions of this Act because or by virtue of the fact that it may be or may have been incorporated or organized under the laws of another State, or of the United States or of a foreign country."

The corporations engaged in the business of a common carrier which are subject to the provisions of the Public Utilities Law and which are required to obtain a certificate of convenience and necessity before they may carry on their business within this State, are described by the Supreme Court in City of Chicago v. Mayer, 290 Ill. 142, 146, as follows:

> "Having these rules of construction in mind (the rules as to ascertaining the intention of the Legislature and avoiding constructions which will result in absurd consequences), it is obvious that the Legislature did not intend, when it defined 'common carrier,' that the term should be understood, under the Act, to include every person who carried or transferred baggage, or carried on any sort of express business, even though he used only one horse and an express wagon. It intended only to put within the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission, railroads, street railroads, express companies and all other companies organized for the purpose of carrying on a large and extensive business as a common carrier."

That a corporation which is carrying on the business of a common carrier by means of motor vehicles, and which is subject to the provisions of the Public Utilities Law, must obtain a certificate of convenience and necessity before beginning business is established in Public Utilities Commission v. Bartonville Bus Line, 290 Ill. 574, 576. The Supreme Court there said:

"When a public utility files with the commission a petition for such a certificate it is the plain duty of the commission to consider the petition on its merits, and if said petition is so supported by evidence as to enable the commission to find that the operation proposed will serve the public convenience and is necessary thereto, there is nothing the commission may lawfully do but grant the certificate."

Of course the granting of a certificate of convenience and necessity does not confer upon the grantee the right to a monopoly in the use of that portion of the road over which it is permitted to operate. The Public Utilities Commission does not have power to grant franchises. The jurisdiction of the commission is by the terms of the statute confined to the control and supervision of owners and operators of property devoted to public use, and to prosecutions of parties violating the orders of the commissions and provisions of the Public Utilities Act, in the name of the people. Public Utilities Commission ex rel. etc. v. Okaw Valley Mutual Telephone Association, 282 Ill. 336, 340.

Whether the commission having granted a certificate of convenience and necessity to one utility of the class under consideration is justified in granting a certificate or certificates of convenience and necessity to other companies operating over the route for which the first certificate has been granted, depends upon the facts in each particular case. As stated in the Bartonville Bus case, it is the duty of the commission to grant a certificate if the application is so supported by evidence as to enable the commission to find that the operation proposed will serve the public convenience and is necessary thereto. The Public Utilities Commission is given no arbitrary powers by statute, and its orders and decisions are subject to review and must be reasonable and lawful. (Public Utilities Commission v. Bartonville Bus Line, supra; Chicago Bus Company v. Chicago Stage Company, 287 Ill. 320; Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company, 287 Ill. 412.) The action of the commission, if it results in excluding all except the first grantee of a certificate of convenience and necessity from the use of the roads, must be sustained by considerations which relate solely to the convenience and necessity of the public. The statute does not confer upon the Public Utilities Commission power to create monopolies or to do that which will result in a monopoly, except as the public convenience and necessity may require. In Public Utilities Commission v. Romberg, 275 Ill. 434, 444, the Supreme Court said:

"The public policy of the State, as declared by section 22 of article 4 of the Constitution, is not opposed to the elimination of competition in all cases, but only applies where a monopoly in the sense in which that word was used in the common law, would be thereby created, viz., where competition is eliminated by conferring upon a specified person or corporation the right to exclude all others from engaging in the same business in the same field of operation, or by upholding the validity of contracts and agreements which place it within the power of certain individuals or corporations to control products and fixed prices, thereby resulting in injury to the public."

It will be seen, therefore, from the foregoing that the extent to which monopolies will result from grants of certificates of convenience and necessity by the Public Utilities Commission depends largely on the policy which is followed by that commission. While the commission does not possess arbitrary power, there is a wide latitude for the exercise of its discretion in making its finding and in arriving at its conclusions. Orders of the Public Utilities Commission can only be set aside if found to be in clear violation of a rule of law or against the manifest weight of the evidence.

Respectfully,

(Signed) EDWARD J. BRUNDAGE, Attorney General.

Messages from the House of Representatives.

A message from the House by Mr. Smith, Assistant Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has adopted the following joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

House Joint Resolution No. 27.

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein That when the two Houses adjourn today they stand adjourned until Tuesday, April 5, 1921, at 5:00 o'clock p. m.

Adopted by the House, March 31, 1921.

B. H. McCann, Clerk of the House.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Roos, the foregoing message from the House of Representatives was taken up for immediate consideration, and on his motion, the Senate concurred with the House of Representatives in the adoption of House Joint Resolution No. 25.

A message from the House by Mr. Smith, Assistant Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred with the Senate in the adoption of the following preamble and joint resolution, to-wit:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 17.

There are many different ideas in the several communities of the State in reference to road improvement and maintenance. These are influenced somewhat by the existing conditions in these communities. A uniform system of road work may not be worked out and agreed to by all concerned but there may by some effort be established a system resting on the foundation of facts supported by experience and a degree of public approval; therefore

WHEREAS, Road construction and maintenance and the cost of the same throughout the State is being carried on without uniformity and with great diversity of results both as to dirt and hard surface roads; and

WHEREAS, These many different methods of treatment, all involving great expenditures of public money, have resulted in a great divergence of opinion as to the best methods of construction and maintenance to be used; and

WHEREAS, Information as to the best methods and their cost would be of much value to this General Assembly to aid it in legislation for uniformity and economy on this subject at this session; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a Joint Committee of five from the Senate and five from the House be appointed to act in conjunction with the Department of Public Works and Buildings to confer with local and county highway officials, boards of supervisors throughout the State and by other proper methods investigate and report to the present General Assembly upon the following pressing proposition:

First—For the establishment of a permanent uniform and efficient system of road improvement and maintenance throughout the State.

Second—For the promotion of a county system of road improvement and maintenance throughout the State by extending dirt road improvement and the use of gravel or similar material where advisable.

Third—For the establishment of the so-called Wisconsin patrol system.

Fourth—To investigate and report on the sentiment for and advisability of changing the construction to be used on bond issue roads (where practical) from cement or brick to some other construction, and to investigate and report the present prices of cement, gravel, sand, crushed stone and brick as compared with prices of same material in 1917 when the Bond Act was passed and with prices of same material in 1918 when the Bond Act was voted upon.

Fifth—To make recommendations as to the best methods of treatment of dirt roads with oil or other material and the subsequent proper care of such roads; and, be it further

Resolved, That said Joint Committee shall report their conclusions, findings and recommendations as expeditiously as possible to the present General Assembly and that the said committee shall be entitled to actual expenses incurred in the performance of the duties enjoined by these resolutions; and

Resolved, further, That the General Assembly recommend an appropriation in the sum of $5,000 for the payment of the same, and that all vouchers for expenses incurred shall be approved by the chairman of the committee, the Speaker of the House, and the President of the Senate.

I am further directed to inform the Senate that the Speaker of the House has appointed as such committee on the part of the House, Messrs. Holaday, Tice, Volz, Arthur Roe and Boyle.

Action taken by the House, March 30, 1921.

Presentation of Resolutions.

Mr. Kessinger offered the following resolution, Senate Joint Resolution No. 19, which on his motion was referred to the Executive Committee:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 19.

Whereas, A number of states have passed laws directing that the names of members of the electoral college, in national elections, shall no longer be printed on the presidential ballots, and a number of other states, including the State of Illinois, now have such laws proposed and about to be adopted; and

Whereas, The election of the President and Vice-President of the United States by the indirect means of an electoral college is an antiquated relic of colonial political procedure, and has become a mere superfluous formality and a needless expense; and

Whereas, The system is wholly inconsistent with the trend of the times, is contrary to the best tenets of modern political science is not in keeping with the spirit of progress and improvement in the government of republics, and is entirely without economic or political justification; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the 52nd General Assembly of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a memorial be sent to the Congress of the United States, requesting and urging the United States Senate and House of Representatives to propose an amendment to the Federal Constitution, abolishing the electoral college and providing for the election of the President and Vice-President by direct vote of the people; and to submit the same to the several states for ratification; and, be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of State is directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the United States Senate and House of Representatives, and to the several members of both bodies representing the State of Illinois.

PRESENTATION OF RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Barr offered the following resolution, and on his motion the rules were suspended and the resolution was taken up for immediate consideration and adopted:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 20.

Resolved, by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That when the two Houses adjourn on Friday, April 8, 1921, they stand adjourned until Tuesday, April 12, 1921, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

Mr. Barr offered the following resolution which, under the rules, was referred by the President pro tempore of the Senate to the Committee on Agriculture and Live Stock:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 36.

WHEREAS, There has been a very considerable decline in the prices received by farmers and stock-raisers for farm products and live stock; and

WHEREAS, The cost to the producer for shipping and switching in connection with the marketing of live stock and farm products and for storage in grain elevators and stock yards has remained at a high level; and

WHEREAS, These charges in view of the low prices now received by the producer are so exorbitant, excessive and unreasonable as to deprive the producer of a fair margin of profit for his labor and for the capitol invested in the production of farm products and the raising of live stock; now therefore,

Be it resolved by the Senate of the Fifty-second General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That a committee of five members of the Senate be appointed to investigate the prices, terms and charges demanded and received for the shipping, switching and storage, caring for, feeding and selling of all kinds of farm products and live stock.

The committee hereby created shall report its conclusions and findings, as expeditiously as may be, to the present General Assembly, together with any recommendations as to the desirability or need for remedial legislation.

For the purpose of conducting such investigations, the committee is hereby empowered to subpoena witnesses under the signature of the chairman, place under oath and examine such witnesses, and to issue subpoenas for the production of such books, documents, papers, memoranda or matters as the committee deems necessary and pertinent in carrying out the objects and purposes of this resolution.

The committee and the members thereof shall be entitled to its and their actual expenses incurred in the performance of the duties enjoined by this resolution; these expenses to be paid from the sum appropriated to the Senate for committee expenses.

Mr. Hicks offered the following resolution and, on his motion, the rules were suspended and the resolution was taken up for immediate consideration and adopted:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 37.

Resolved, by the Senate, That all members of the Senate who so desire go on the road to trip to Rockford and Wisconsin Thursday, April 14, 1921, and that the necessary expenses incurred on said trip be paid from the Contingent Expense Fund of the Senate.

Mr. MacMurray offered the following resolution which, under the rules, was laid over and ordered printed:

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 38.

WHEREAS, There is now produced at the south end of Lake Michigan in Illinois and Indiana, something over six million tons of rolled steel products annually, being about twenty per cent of the entire production of the United States; and

WHEREAS, This location is near both to the large iron ore fields, and also to fuel and limestone, this steel is being produced as cheap as similar products are produced anywhere in the United States; and

WHEREAS, All rolled steel products are being sold at what is known as Pittsburgh base, that is, the price of rolled steel is made at Pittsburgh and the freight is added to the point of consumption no matter where the steel is produced, the freight rate between Pittsburgh and Chicago on this product being seven dollars and forty cents per ton, this amount is added to the price of steel made in Chicago over and above the price of same product at Pittsburgh; and

WHEREAS, The State of Illinois is a very large consumer of steel products in building, in bridges, in houses, in farm machinery and many other ways; and

WHEREAS, There is now pending a petition before the Federal Trades Commission at Washington asking that this unfair practice of charging the middle and western states a higher price for steel products than is charged in Pennsylvania or other eastern states;

Now, therefore, be it resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, That the facts and conditions respecting such trade practice warrant and require the issuance of a complaint by the Federal Trades Commission, and the Federal Trades Commission is hereby requested and urged to act upon such a complaint with as much expediency as is reasonably practicable, and upon final hearing thereon to grant to the public so descriminated against the utmost possible relief; and

Be it further resolved, A duly authenticated copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Federal Trades Commission at Washington, D. C.

Presentation of Resolutions.

Mr. Dailey offered the following resolution, which, under the rules, was laid over:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 21.

Whereas, The Fifty-first General Assembly of the State of Illinois by Senate Joint Resolution No. 31 called attention to the serious effects of the rapid depletion of the commercial forests of the United States and urged that the President and the Congress of the United States deal with the threatening situation without delay by formulating such a national program of forestry as will insure the future timber supplies required by the industries of this country;

Whereas, Acting under a resolution by the Senate of the United States and in harmony with the recommendation of the General Assembly of Illinois, the Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture has reported a situation regarding timber depletion more serious in character than was suspected; showing among other startling facts that the virgin forests of the United States have dwindled to one-sixth their original area, that the remaining reserve is being cut four times as fast as it is being increased by growth, that 61% of the present merchantable timber supply is west of the Great Plains and over 50% in the three Pacific Coast States. from which region high freight rates prevail to consuming centers in the middle west and east; that the per capita consumption of wood is 350 cubic feet per year and cannot be reduced without lowering our standards of living; that newspaper consumption was 3 pounds per capita in 1880 and 33 pounds in 1919 and that already we are dependent upon foreign sources for approximately two-thirds of the news print consumed, or its raw material; that the cause of the shortage of timber lies in the failure to renew the forests as timber lands are cut over, which course has resulted in the accumulation of some 81 million acres of devastated, idle land unfit for any other purpose than timber growing and 245 million acres producing only inferior second growth forest; and that the cutover waste land is increasing at approximately 3 million acres each year as a result of forest fires and improper methods of cutting;

WHEREAS, The United States Forest Service and various national organizations, cognizant of the necessity for prompt and effective action in meeting the situation have joined in the formulation of a National Forestry Program, which program is now pending before the Congress of the United States in a bill known as H. R. 15327 (Sixty-sixth Congress) which bill proposes to establish in the fundamental federal forestry policy those principles of federal and state cooperation which have been demonstrated to be wise and effective in agricultural education, in highway construction and in other activities, and to extend to the individual states financial and other assistance in the application of those principles;

Now, therefore, be it resolved, by the Senate of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein. It is the sense of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois that it is of the most urgent importance to the enire country and to each individual state which either produces or uses forest products to institute immediately strong and constructive measures to check the waste of forest resources and to insure the production of merchantable timber upon all potential forest land, but without impairing the great wood-using industries upon which the material prosperity of this country in large measure depends;

Resolved, That the General Assembly of the State of Illinois endorses the proposed federal forest policy embodied in H. R. 15327 (Sixty-sixth Congress) and that the representatives of this State in Congress be and hereby are requested to do all in their power to secure the passage of this legislation.

Messages from the House of Representatives.

A message from the House by Mr. Smith, Assistant Clerk:

Mr. President—I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has adopted the following preamble and joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the Senate, to-wit:

House Joint Resolution No. 30.

Whereas, Hon. Len Small, Governor of Illinois, in his inaugural message to the Fifty-second General Assembly, addressed himself to the question of the relations between the United States and the State of Illinois, as follows:

FEDERAL RELATIONS.

The affairs of the State of Illinois are inseparably linked with the affairs of the nation, and we have a right to express ourselves upon national policies to which we may become perpetually bound. I feel that I would be remiss in my duty to the people of Illinois, if I did not take this occasion to direct their attention to threatening policies confronting the country of which we form a part.

We have emerged from the actual conflict of a great world war. The strain and soreness of that conflict still bears heavily upon most of our people. On top of the grief and distress of our people over the shedding of American blood has come their resentment and anger toward the rich and powerful interests that, in the nation's most sorrowful hours, exacted merciless tolls of profit on the necessary and essential commodities for the sustenance of human life.

These interests that oppress the people never were, and are not now, partisan. They operate with equal facility in either the Republican or Democratic party. They are not American, though intensely patriotic in all outward manifestations. They are predatory in character, and wordly in their aims and objects.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

It is our duty to ourselves and to the people to investigate closely the interests back of every measure that comes up for consideration, and thereby prevent the forces of organized wealth and greed from continuing to rob the masses.

The so-called Covenant of the League of Nations advocated by President Wilson, was submitted to a "solemn referendum" in accordance with his dictum in the recent election, and as solemnly rejected by an overwhelming vote of the American people. Nevertheless we hear whisperings of a proposal for a League of Nations, or Association of Nations, for the pretended guarantee of world peace. If I interpret aright the sentiment of the people of Illinois, as well as other states, they are in no mood to have their sovereignty subjected to discussion by discredited old-world monarchies, or to pool their issues with countries where liberty, and the right of the people to determine their own political systems, is more restricted than in their own.

Under no circumstances should the American Congress forsake the policy laid down by George Washington, by entering into any League or Association of Nations, which would involve this country in foreign entanglements or alliances, without first submitting the proposed covenant of the League or Association of Nations to a vote of the American people.

The Congress of the United States should again adopt for the approval of the incoming President, a resolution declaring our country at peace with the world, that this proclamation may follow, lawfully terminating the present war, that obnoxious war-time legislation may be summarily repealed, and that American soldiers now in Europe and Asia in the theater of foreign strife, may be returned to our shores forthwith.

BONUS FOR SOLDIERS.

The soldiers, sailors and marines who responded to their country's military and naval needs, jeopardizing and sacrificing their lives, relinquishing home ties and foregoing their income-earning opportunities, are entitled to every honor and consideration that may be bestowed. My platform favored the payment of a liberal bonus to those men and I urge upon our Senators and Representatives in Congress the consummation of plans that will bring this about.

And especially do I urge that immediate relief be provided for those who, because of injuries received in the service of their country, are suffering in body or mind, to the end that no American soldier shall ever become an object of charity.

MILITARISM.

Compulsory military service, or conscription defies the opinion of a free people. It is the ancient instrument of kings and princes, and of depotism and tyranny, and inevitably induces war. I recommend to the General Assembly the presentation of a memorial to the Congress of the United States, protesting against compulsory military service and conscription for foreign service.

The military policy of the United States directly concerns the people of Illinois. They must bear its burdens and share its benefits with the people of other states. To insure domestic tranquility and provide for the common defense are principles on which our system of government is founded. Our national army should be so organized, equipped and disciplined, as to serve the fundamental principles of our government comprehensively, and should extend no further, and thus help reduce present oppressive taxation.

FEDERAL TAXES.

The American people are now burdened with an amount and variety of Federal taxes, due to the war which is without precendent in the nation, largely owing to the unparallelled waste and extravagance practiced by those entrusted with administering expenditures during the period of the war, and subsequent thereto. To reduce this oppression and maintain the honor of the nation's just obligations is one of the first problems that should engage the efforts of the new President and Congress.

I am pledged to the proposal of exempting from Federal taxation incomes of American citizens of less than $5,000 per annum. The United States Government is now collecting in the State of Illinois more than the cost of administering the State and the counties and municipalities therein. This excess is entirely disproportionate to necessities; and

WHEREAS, The views thus expressed by His Excellency, the Governor, in his inaugural message, represents the sentiments of a vast majority of the citizens of Illinois, and appeal to us, as the representatives of the people, as correct policies of government, the wisdom of which have been demonstrated in the past four years; therefore, be it,

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein. That we appeal to the President and the Congress of the United States to take prompt action to put in effect these principles of government, which are essential to the welfare of the people of Illinois and of the whole country; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this memorial be transmitted by the Secretary of State to the President of the United States, the President of the Senate of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and the members of the Congress of the United States.

Adopted by the House, April 12, 1921.

B. H. MCCANN, Clerk of the House.

The foregoing message from the House of Representatives under the rules was laid over.

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 40.

WHEREAS, By the Decree of Divine Providence, the hand of death has been laid upon, and has removed from our midst the Honorable John F. O'Malley, a member of the Senate of the Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth General Assemblies, representing the Thirteenth Senatorial District; and

WHEREAS, By his death our State has lost an honest and efficient public officer, the Senate one who made an honorable and useful member, his constituents one of the best, broadest, and most influential citizens, and his family one whose memory they, in common with ourselves and all who knew him, feel justly proud of; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate in the regular session assembled, that deeply deploring his untimely death, we unite with his family, constituents and friends, in their grief, feeling his death to be a personal loss to each one of us; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution of condolence and sympathy, properly engrossed, be transmitted by the Secretary of the Senate to the family of the deceased; be it further,

Resolved, That as a further mark of respect for the late Senator O'Malley, the Senate do now adjourn.

In accordance with the foregoing resolution at the hour of 1:20 o'clock p. m., the Senate adjourned.

THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1921, 10:00 O'CLOCK A. M.

Presentation of Resolutions.

Mr. Clark offered the following resolution which, under the rules, was laid over and ordered printed:

Senate Resolution No. 45.

Whereas, The destruction of the records of the County of Cook in the Great Chicago Fire resulted in practical monopoly of the business of making abstracts of title in that county for many years; and

Whereas, The County of Cook went to great expense at one time to prepare an additional set of books containing complete records, in order that such business should not be restricted and so that land owners would not be compelled to pay exorbitant fees for abstracts of title and guarantee policies; and

Whereas, Such expense and effort to create competition was wasted, owing to the merger of the two companies which had the two complete sets of books of record, and the business was again monopolized and has remained so up to the present time; and

Whereas, By the adoption of the Act of the General Assembly commonly known as the Torrens Act, a means was afforded the owners of land in that county to avoid the necessity of paying tribute to the monopoly thus created, the registration of land under said Act being the only method of escaping the large fees exacted for examinations of titles within that county; and

Whereas, The administration of the office of Registrar of Titles, under said Act has been made a political issue and there have arisen numerous bitter contests of a political nature which have put the whole system of land registration under which the titles of approximately one-fourth of all lands and lots in Cook County are now registered and conveyed in jeopardy; and

Whereas, Every effort to pass necessary legislation in regard to such system of land registration results in controversy, protest, charges and counter-charges and recrimination of a character that reflects no credit on the parties involved and tends to put the whole system into disrepute, besides creating apprehension on the part of Torrens title holders and bringing about a situation that is intolerable and should be remedied; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, That a committee of five be appointed by the Executive Committee of the Senate to make a full and complete investigation into the Torrens System of Land Registration, the manner of conducting the office of Registrar of Titles, the charges which have caused this controversy, the alleged abuses that have arisen, and the law relating to the whole subject matter; and, be it further

Resolved, That the said committee shall submit a report of its findings, together with such bills as it may deem necessary to amend the present laws relating to such system of land registration in order to make it complete and practicable and adequate for the purposes for which it was designed.

Reports from Standing Committees.

Mr. Hamilton, from the Committee on Enrolling, Transcribing and Typing Bills, reported that a bill of the following title has been correctly engrossed and is returned herewith:

Senate Bill No. 338.

A bill for "An Act making an appropriation to the Attorney General for attorneys and investigators to cooperate with the committee appointed pursuant to Senate Joint Resolution No. 9."

Mr. Bardill, from the Committee on Fish and Game, to which was referred a bill, Senate Bill No. 308, for "An Act to amend sections 13, 16, 17, 18, 24, 28, 36, 38, 39, 41, 43, 45, 46, 49, 50, 51, 60, 63 and 86 of an Act entitled, 'An Act to revise the law in relation to the conservation of game, wild animals, wild fowls, birds, fish, mussels, frogs and turtles in the State of Illinois and to repeal all Acts in conflict therewith,' approved June 24, 1919, in force July 1, A. D. 1919."

funds herein provided for. Such board shall be known as The Park Police Pension Board and shall be hereinafter referred to as "The Board."

The custodian of said fund shall be a person who shall be appointed annually by The Board from among the treasurers of the park boards included within this Act.

On or before November 30, 1921, three persons shall be appointed by said park boards as members of the Board as follows:

The Board of South Park Commissioners shall appoint a person to serve for a term of three years, the Board of West Chicago Park Commissioners shall appoint a person to serve for a period of two years, and the Board of Lincoln Park Commissioners shall appoint a person to serve for a period of one year. When any terms for which such an appointment shall have been made shall expire, the park board who appointed the person whose term has expired shall appoint a successor of such person for a term of three years.

On or before November 30, 1921, the aforesaid park boards shall arrange for and hold an election at which all policemen employed by said park boards shall be entitled to vote, and at which the ballot shall be of secret character, for the election of four members, three of whom shall be policemen of such park boards. At such election, one policeman employed by the Lincoln Park Commissioners shall be chosen for a term of three years and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified, one policeman who shall be employed by the South Park Commissioners shall be chosen for a term of two years and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified, one policeman who shall be employed by the West Chicago Park Commissioners shall be chosen for a period of one year and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified and one pensioner shall be elected for a period of four years and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified. Thereafter, the Board shall conduct elections annually under rules which shall be adopted by it for the election of successors to the members of the Board whose terms shall expire. Such successor any of the above shall hold office for a term of four years and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified.

Any person elected to succeed any one of the persons elected for the original terms of one, two and three years, or to succeed any successor of any such person shall be elected from the body of policemen of the same park board from which his predecessor was elected. Any person elected to succeed the pensioner elected for the original term of four years, or to succeed any successor of such pensioner shall be elected from the pensioners of any of the aforesaid park boards.

In the event that a vacancy shall occur owing to death, resignation, or other cause, in the membership of the Board, said vacancy shall be filled by appointment. If the vacant membership be of an appointive character the appointment shall be made by the park board which appointed the member whose office has so terminated, and if it be of elective character it shall be filled by appointment of the elective members of the Board. The person so appointed to elective membership shall serve until a policeman or pensioner who shall be elected for the unexpired portion of such term shall be chosen. Such election shall be held concurrently with and in the same manner as the next regular annual election.

Sec. 3. No member of said Board shall receive or have any right to receive any money or moneys, from the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for as salary for service performed as a member of said board but any policeman member shall have a right to and shall be reimbursed for any amount of salary which shall be withheld from such member by the park boards, because of attendance at any meeting of said Board of the performance of any other duty in connection with the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for.

Sec. 4. The said Board shall hold regular meetings in the months of March, June, September and December of each year and shall hold such other meetings as may be deemed necessary by such Board. A majority of the members of said Board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at any such meeting, provided, that no annuity or benefit shall be allowed or granted and no money shall be paid out of the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for unless the same shall be ordered by a vote of the majority of the members of said Board.

Sec. 5. As soon as possible after the first seven (7) members of the said Board shall have been elected as aforesaid, the said Board shall meet and from among its members, elect by a majority vote of the members who vote upon the question, a president and a recording secretary who shall serve as such president and recording secretary respectively until the successor of each such person shall be elected as stated hereinafter in this section.

At the regular meeting in March of the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, and at the regular meeting in March of each year thereafter, the said Board shall elect, by a majority vote of the members who vote upon the question, a president and a recording secretary from among its own members. Such recording secretary shall make a complete record of the proceedings of all meetings of said Board and shall perform such other duties as said Board shall direct.

Sec. 6. The Board shall have the power and it shall be the duty of said Board to:

(a) See that all amounts specified in this Act to be applied to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for, are collected and applied to such fund. It shall see that the various sums to be deducted from the salaries of the various policemen concerned are deducted and that such sums are paid into said fund, and that the various sums to be contributed by the park boards are so contributed and are received into said fund, and that any revenue in the form of interest upon moneys invested or upon moneys due to said fund is received and placed in said fund, and that all other moneys which should accrue to said fund are collected and paid into it.

(b) Notify on or before the first day in the month of December of the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, the park boards of the amounts or percentages of salary which shall be deducted from the salaries of all policemen employed by such park boards and paid into the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for, from and after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect.

(c) Notify such park boards concerning any amount or percentage of salary to be deducted whenever said Board shall deem notice concerning such matter necessary.

(d) Accept by gift, grant, bequest or otherwise any money or property of any kind and use the same for the purposes of the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for.

(e) Invest the moneys of said Annuity and Benefit Fund in interest bearing bonds of the United States, or of the State of Illinois, or of any county of the State of Illinois, or of any city, village, incorporated town or municipal corporation in said state. Any bond purchased by the said Board shall be registered in the name of the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for.

(f) Have an audit of the accounts of the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for made at least once each year, by a person or persons competent to perform such work.

(g) Consider and pass upon all applications for annuities and benefits, authorize the payment of any annuity or benefit, and suspend any such payment or payments in accord with the provisions of this Act.

(h) Require each policeman employed by such park boards, including in addition to all others, those on vacation and those on leave of absence— to file a statement or statements, in such form as the said Board shall direct, concerning all service (as defined in this Act) rendered by such policeman prior to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect; examine such statements and determine the various periods of such service rendered by such policemen, which determination shall be conclusive as to any period of such service unless said Board shall reconsider any case within one year from the date of such determination and shall change the determination of such case.

(i) Determine, from such information as shall be available to said Board, the period of service rendered prior to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, by any such policeman who shall fail to file such a statement, or whose statement such Board shall be unable to verify. Any such determination shall be conclusive as to any such period of service unless said Board shall reconsider any such case within one year from the date of such determination and shall change the determination in such case.

(j) Issue to each present employe (as hereinafter defined) as soon as possible and practicable after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, a certificate which shall show the entire period of service rendered by such present employe prior to such date and the amounts to the credit of such present employe as of such date, for Prior Service Annuity and Widows' Prior Service Annuity purposes.

(k) Submit a report in the month of March of each year to the park boards. Said report shall be made as of the close of business on the thirty-first day of December of the preceding year and shall contain a detailed statement of the affairs of the Annuity and Benefit Fund under the control of said Board. Such report shall show the income and disbursements of, and the assets and liabilities of each fund established and maintained, as hereinafter provided, within the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for, during the preceding year.

(l) Compel witnesses to attend and testify before it upon any matter concerning such Annuity and Benefit Fund and allow fees not in excess of three (3) dollars to any such witness for such attendance upon any one day. The president and other members of the said Board are empowered to administed caths to such witnesses.

(m) Appoint such legal, actuarial, medical, clerical or other employes as shall be necessary, and fix their compensation.

(n) Make rules and regulations necessary for the proper conduct of the affairs of such Annuity and Benefit Fund.

The custodian of the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for, shall furnish to the said Board a bond of such amount as the said Board may designate, which bond shall indemnify the said Board against any loss which may result from any action or failure to act on the part of such custodian or any of his agents. All fees and charges incidental to the procuring and giving of such bond shall be paid by said Board.

Sec. 7. No member of the Board, nor any person officially connected with said Board, either as an employe of said Board, or as legal advisor thereof, or as custodian of the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for, shall have any right to receive any commission on account of any investment made by said Board.

Sec. 8. It shall be the duty of the proper officers of such park boards to:

(a) Deduct all sums which this Act provides shall be deducted from the salaries of policemen, and pay such sums to the Board of the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for in such manner as said Board shall specify.

(b) On the first day of each month, notify the Board of the employment of any new policemen, and of all discharges, resignations and suspensions from the service, deaths, and changes in salary of policemen which shall have occurred during the preceding month, and state the dates upon which any such events shall have occurred.

(c) Procure for and transmit to the Board, in such form and at such time or times as shall be specified by said Board, all information requested by said Board concerning the service; age, salary, residence, marital condition, wife or widow, children, physical condition, mental condition, and death of any policeman employed by such park boards, in particular, information concerning service rendered by any such policeman prior to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect.

(d) Convey to the Board all information required by said Board concerning each newly appointed policeman immediately after the appointment of such policeman.

(e) Certify to the Board, as of some day in each year to be fixed by said Board, the name of each policeman to whom this Act applies.

(f) Keep such records concerning policeman as the Board may reasonably require and shall specify.

(g) All such duties shall be performed by said officers of such park boards without any cost to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for.

Sec. 9. Each of the said park boards shall annually levy a tax (in addition to the taxes now authorized by law) upon all taxable property embraced in the district governed by them respectively, at the rate on the dollar of such taxable property which when added to the amounts deducted from the salary or wages of policemen and applied to the fund created hereunder, shall be sufficient to provide for the purposes of this Act. Said taxes shall be levied and collected with and in like manner as the general taxes of such parks. Said taxes shall not be included in the aggregate of all taxes to be reduced under the provisions of an Act entitled, "An Act Concerning the Levy and Extension of Taxes," approved May 9, 1901, in force July 1, 1901, as subsequently amended. The amount of such annual tax to be levied by any such park board shall not exceed one-fourth (¼) of one mill on the dollar of the assessed valuation of all taxable property embraced within the Park District under the jurisdiction of such park boards.

The Board shall determine, in conformity with this Act, the amount necessary to be contributed by each park board and shall certify such amounts to each park board. The amount so certified shall be levied by such park board as provided in this section and the moneys accruing from such levy shall be paid to the custodian of the Board by any official or officials who shall receive said moneys as soon as they are collected. Each park board shall pay to the Board such proportionate part of the total amount certified to by said Board as being necessary for purposes of this Act as the aggregate of the salaries of the policemen of such park board, from whose salaries deductions were made for Age and Service Annuities, during the preceding fiscal year bears to the aggregate of such salaries during such fiscal year of all the policemen of all park boards, provided that in determining the amounts necessary to meet the requirements of Section 46 hereof, each park board shall contribute to the Board as the aggregate of the pensions allowed to retired policemen of each park board, their widows and children, during the preceding fiscal year bears to the aggregate of all such pensions during such fiscal year, allowed by all park boards.

Should any park board be without authority to levy taxes, then the corporate authorities of any such town (meaning the town supervisor, clerk or assessor thereof) shall perform the duties herein devolved upon the park boards.

Sec. 10. The following words and terms as used in this Act shall mean as follows, respectively:

"Policeman": Any person appointed and sworn or designated by law as a policeman of such park board and who has served, or is serving, or shall serve in the regularly constituted police department of such park boards as a policeman, or policewoman, or police patrol driver, or police operator, or police dog catcher, or police kennelman, and member of the police force of such police department.

"Future Entrant": Any policeman who shall be employed as a policeman of such park boards for the first time on or after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect.

"Present Employee": Any policeman who shall be in the employment of such park boards as a policeman thereof on the thirty-first day in the month of December of the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect.

"Active Policeman": Any policeman employed as a policeman by such park boards.

"Salary": Annual salary; provided, that two thousand six hundred dollars ($2,600.00) shall be the maximum amount of the annual salary of any policeman which shall be considered for any purpose under this Act. Any amount of annual salary in excess of said amount of two thousand six hunderd dollars ($2,600.00) which any policeman shall receive shall not be considered for any purpose under this Act.

"Disability": A condition of physical or mental incapacity on the part of a policeman to perform the duties of his position in the service.

"Discharge": Complete separation from the service.

"Assets": The total value of cash and other property held. Bonds shall be held at their book values.

Sec. 11. To provide the money necessary to defray the cost of administration of the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for, contributions to said Annuity and Benefit Fund shall be made by the policemen and by such park boards as follows:

From and after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, one-eighth (⅛) of one (1) per cent of each payment of the salary of each policeman from whose salary deductions are made for Age and Service Annuity purposes, as stated hereinafter, shall be deducted at the time that any payment of salary shall be payable to such policeman and shall be paid into such Annuity and Benefit Fund, and the park boards shall contribute any additional amount required to defray the cost of such administration.

Sec. 12. For all purposes of this Act it shall be assumed that the annual salary of any present employe has been of the same amount throughout the entire period of service rendered by such employee prior to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, that such salary shall be at five o'clock P. M. on the thirty-first day in the month of December of the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect.

Sec. 13. Annuity to be known as "Age and Service Annuity," shall be provided for future entrants and for present employes. Any such annuity shall consist of equal monthly payments for life. The first payment shall not become due and payable until after one month after the occurrence of the event upon which payment of such annuity shall depend.

Sec. 14. To provide Age and Service Annuities for future entrants, contributions to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for shall be made by each future entrant and by such park boards as follows:

From and after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, three and one-half (3½) per cent of each payment of the salary of each future entrant shall be deducted and contributed to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for. Such deductions shall be made at the times such payments of salary are payable and shall be continued while such future entrant shall be in the service until he shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years.

Concurrently with each such deduction from the salary of any future entrant, the park boards shall contribute a sum equal to eight and one-half (8½) per cent of each payment of the salary of such future entrant. In case it shall not be possible or practicable for the park boards to make any such contribution at the same time that any such deduction shall be made, the park boards shall make such contribution as soon as possible and practicable thereafter with interest thereon at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum to the time it shall be made, so that each such contribution shall equal exactly two and three-sevenths (2 3-7) times the value of each such corresponding deduction as such value shall be at the time such contribution shall be made.

Each such deduction from salary and corresponding contribution by the park boards shall be allocated to the amount of and credited to the future entrant for whose benefit it is made for Age and Service Annuity purposes. Each amount so credited to a future entrant shall be improved to the credit of such future entrant by interest at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum during all time thereafter that such future entrant shall be in the service, until such future entrant shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years. The sum thus accumulated shall be the amount which shall be used to provide Age and Service Annuity for such future entrant. Any interest or other accretion upon the accumulated sum to the credit of any such future entrant at the time such future entrant shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years, which may accrue thereafter, shall not be credited to any such future entrant for the purpose of increasing the amount of annuity to which such future entrant shall have a right.

Sec. 15. To provide Age and Service Annuities for present employes, contributions to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for shall be made by each present employe and by such park board as follows:

From and after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, three and one-half (3½) per cent of each payment of the salary of each present employe shall be deducted and contributed to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for. Such deductions shall be made at the times such payments of salary are payable and shall be continued while such present employe shall be in the service until the amount so deducted from the salary of such present employe together with the amount deducted from his salary or otherwise paid by him according to law, and applied to any Police Pension Fund in operation, by authority of law, in such park districts at the time this Act shall come in force and effect, with interest on both such amounts at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum, shall be equal to the sum which would have accumulated to the credit of such present employe for Age and Service Annuity purposes from sums deducted from his salary if deductions from his salary for such purposes at the rate herein stated had been made during the entire period of his service until his attainment of an age of fifty-seven (57) years, together with interest upon such sum at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum for the period of time subsequent to his attainment of an age of fifty-seven (57) years,

Concurrently with each such deduction from the salary of any present employe, the park boards shall contribute a sum equal to eight and one-half (8½) per cent of each payment of the salary of such present employe until such present employe shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years. In case it shall not be possible or practicable for the park boards to make any such contribution at the same time that any such deduction shall be made, the park boards shall make such contribution as soon as possible and practicable thereafter, with interest thereon at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum to the time it shall be made, so that each such contribution shall equal exactly two and three-sevenths (2 3-7) times the value of each such corresponding deduction as such value shall be at the time such contribution shall be made.

Each deduction from the salary of any present employe for Age and Service Annuity purposes, made prior to the date when the amount of Age and Service Annuity to which such present employe shall have a right shall be fixed as stated in section 25 of this Act and each corresponding contribution by the park boards for such annuity purposes shall be allocated to the account of and credited to the present employe for whose benefit it is made, and shall be improved to the credit of such present employe by intrest at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum during the time such present employe shall be in the service until the amount of such Age and Service Annuity shall be fixed. The sum thus accumulated shall be the amount which shall be used to provide Age and Service Annuity for such present employee. Any accretion, by way of interest or otherwisee, upon such sum or any deduction from the salary of such present employe made after the amount of such annuity shall be fixed shall not be credited to such present employe for the purpose of increasing the amount of annuity to which such present employe shall have a right.

Sec. 16. Annuity to be known as "Prior Service Annuity" shall be provided for present employes in addition to Age and Service Annuity. Any such annuity shall consist of equal monthly payments for life. The first payment shall not become due and payable until one month after the occurrence of the event upon which payment of such annuity shall depend.

Sec. 17. Prior Service Annuity, shall be provided for present employes from amounts to be ascertained by the Board and credited to such present employes as follows:

(a) As soon as possible, the Board shall ascertain the amounts which have been deducted from the salary of each present employe and applied to any Police Pension Fund in operation, by authority of law, in such park districts at the time this Act shall come in force and effect, and also all other amounts paid into such fund according to law by such present employe before the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect. Each such present employe shall be credited in his account in the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for with an amount equal to the aggregate of all such amounts deducted from his salary and otherwise paid by him, with interest on such amounts at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum from the dates when such amounts shall have been deducted, or paid, to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect.

(b) As soon as possible, the Board shall ascertain the term of service rendered prior to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect by each present employe, and each such present employe shall be credited to his account with an amount equal to eight and one-half (8½) per cent of his annual salary as it shall be on the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, for a period of time equal to that of such service rendered before the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, with interest thereon at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, upon the assumption that one-twelfth (1/12) of such eight and one-half (8½) per cent of such annual salary was due at the end of each month of such service.

(c) Each amount to the credit of any present employe for Prior Service Annuity purposes under the foregoing provisions of this section shall be improved to the credit of such present employe by interest at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum during the time thereafter that such present employe shall be in the service until the amount of annuity to which such present employe shall have a right shall be fixed as stated in section 25 of this Act.

Sec. 18. Annuity to be known as "Widows' Annuity," shall be provided for Widows of future entrants and of present employes. Any such annuity shall be a life annuity, and equal payments thereof shall be made monthly throughout the life of the annuitant from and after the date when the event upon which payment of such annuity shall depend shall occur. The first such payment shall not become due and payable until one month from and after such date.

Sec. 19. To provide Widow's Annuities for widows of future entrants, contributions to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for shall be made by each male future entrant and by such park boards as follows:

From and after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, one (1) per cent of each payment of the salary of each male future entrant less than fifty-seven (57) years of age shall be deducted and contributed to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for. Such deductions shall be made at the same time such payments of salary are payable and shall be continued during the service of such future entrant until he shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years.

Concurrently with each such deduction from the salary of any male future entrant, the park boards shall contribute a sum equal to two (2) per cent of each payment of the salary of such future entrant. In case it shall not be possible or practicable for the park boards to make any such contribution at the same time any such deduction shall be made, the park boards shall make such contribution as soon as possible and practicable thereafter with interest thereon at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum to the time it shall be made, so that each such contribution when made shall equal exactly twice the value of each such corresponding deduction as such value shall be at the time such contribution shall be made.

Each such deduction from salary and corresponding contribution by the park boards shall be allocated to the account of and credited to the future entrant for whose benefit it is made, for Widows' Annuity purposes. Each amount so credited shall be improved to the credit of such future entrant by interest at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum during all time thereafter that such future entrant shall be in the service, until he shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years. Any interest or other accretion upon the accumulated sum to the credit of any male future entrant at the time he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years, which shall accrue thereafter, shall not be credited to such male future entrant for the purpose of increasing the amount of annuity for the widow of such future entrant.

Sec. 20. To provide Widow's Annuities for widows of present employes, contributions to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for shall be made by each male present employe and by such park boards as follows:

From and after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, one (1) per cent of each payment of the salary of each male present employe less than fifty-seven (57) years of age shall be deducted and contributed to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for. Such deductions shall be made at the times such payments of salary are payable and shall be continued during the service of each such present employe until he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years.

Concurrently with each such deduction from the salary of a male present employe the park boards shall contribute a sum equal to two (2) per cent of each such payment of the salary of such present employe. In case it shall not be possible or practicable for the park boards to make any such contribution at the same time any such deduction shall be made, the park boards shall make such contribution as soon as possible and practicable thereafter, with interest thereon at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum to the time it shall be made, so that each such contribution when made shall equal exactly twice the value of each such corresponding deduction as such value shall be at the time such contribution shall be made.

Each such deduction from salary and corresponding contribution by the park boards shall be allocated to the account of and credited to the present employe for whose benefit it is made, for Widow's Annuity purposes. Each amount so credited shall be improved to the credit of such present employe by interest at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum during all times thereafter, that such present employe shall be in the service until he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years. Any interest or other accretion upon the accumulated sum to the credit of any male present employe at the time he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years, which shall accrue thereafter, shall not be credited to such male present employe for the purpose of increasing the amount of annuity for the widow of such present employe.

Sec. 21. Annuity, to be known as "Widow's Prior Service Annuity" shall be provided for the widow of each male present employe, in addition to Widow's Annuity. Any such annuity shall be a life annuity, and equal payments thereof shall be made monthly throughout the life of the annuitant from and after the date when the event upon which payment of such annuity shall depend shall occur. The first such payment shall not become due and payable until one month from and after such date.

Sec. 22. Widow's Prior Service Annuity shall be provided for the widows of male present employes from amounts to be ascertained by the Board and credited to such present employes as follows:

(a) Each married male present employe who shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) or more years prior to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, shall be credited in his account for Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes with an amount equal to three (3) per cent of his annual salary, as such salary shall be on such first day in the month of January of such year, for a period of time equal to the term of service rendered by such present employe before such present employe attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years, with interest thereon at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum to the time he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years, upon the assumption that one-twelfth (1/12) of such three (3) per cent of annual salary was due at the end of each month of such term of service.

(c) Each male present employe who shall not have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years before the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, shall be credited in his account for Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes with an amount equal to three (3) per cent of his annual salary, as such salary shall be on the first day in the month of January of such year, for a period of time equal to the term of service rendered by such present employe before such first day in the month of January of such year, with interest thereon at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum to such first day of the month of January of such year, upon the assumption that one-twelfth (1/12) of such three (3) per cent of annual salary was due at the end of each month of such service rendered prior to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect. Such amount, so credited, shall be improved to the credit of such present employe by interest at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum during the subsequent service of such present employee until he shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years.

Sec. 23. For the purpose of providing Prior Service Annuities, Widow's Prior Service Annuities, and the annuities, pensions and benefits described in section 47 of this Act, such park boards shall make contributions as provided in said section 47.

Sec. 24. (a) When any future entrant shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years while in the service, the amount of Age and Service Annuity to which such future entrant shall have a right at any time thereafter when he shall resign or be discharged from the service, and the amount of Widow's Annuity to which his wife shall have a right from and after the date of his death shall be fixed as of their respective ages at that time; provided, in case the wife of any such future entrant shall be older than five (5) years the junior of her husband, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

(b) No deduction from salary or contribution by the park boards for any annuity purposes for or on account of any such future entrant shall be made after the time when the amounts of the annuities to which such future entrant, and the wife of such future entrant shall have a right shall have been fixed, and no amount of annuity in excess of that fixed in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be granted to any such future entrant or the widow of such future entrant, and no service of such future entrant rendered after such time shall be considered for annuity purposes.

When any future entrant who shall have attained an age of fifty (50) or more but less than fifty-seven (57) years while in the service and who shall have served ten (10) or more years shall resign or be discharged from the service, the amount of Age and Service Annuity to which he shall have a right from and after the date of such resignation or discharge and the amount of Widow's Annuity to which his wife shall have a right from and after the date of his death shall be fixed, as of their respective ages, at that time; provided, that if such wife shall be older than five (5) years the junior of such future entrant, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

(d) When any future entrant who shall have resigned or been discharged from the service after such future entrant shall have been in the service for a period of ten (10) or more years and before he shall have attained an age of fifty (50) years shall attain an age of fifty (50) years while not in the service, the amount of Age and Service Annuity to which he shall have a right from and after the time when he shall have attained such age of fifty (50) years and shall have applied for annuity, and the amount of Widow's Annuity to which his wife shall have a right from and after the date of his death shall be fixed as of their respective ages at that time; provided, that if any such wife shall be older than five (5) years the junior of her husband, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be forty-five (45) years.

(e) No amount of annuity other than that fixed in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be granted to any future entrant described in paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section, or to the widow of such future entrant, unless such future entrant shall reenter the service before he shall attain an age of fifty-seven years, in which case the amounts of annuities to which such future entrant and his wife shall have a right shall again be fixed when such future entrant shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years, or at any time before such time when he shall again resign or be discharged from the service.

Sec. 25. (a) If any present employe shall have to his credit on the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, for Prior Service Annuity purposes, an amount at least sufficient to provide annuity for such present employe as of his age on such first day in the month of January of such year, equal in amount to that to which such present employe would have had a right if deductions from his salary and contributions by such park boards had been made in accordance with the provisions of section 15 of this Act during the entire period of the service of such present employe until his attainment of an age of fifty-seven (57) years, the amount of Prior Service Annuity to which such present employe shall have a right from and after the date when he shall resign or be discharged from the service shall be fixed on the first day in the month of January of the year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect as of his age at such time, and any such present employe shall not have any right to receive any Age and Service Annuity.

(b) When any present employe who shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) or more years while in the service shall have to his credit for Age and Service Annuity and Prior Service Annuity purposes an amount sufficient to provide annuity for such present employe as of his age at such time equal in amount to that to which such present employe would have had a right if deductions from his salary and conrtributions by the park boards had been made in accordance with the provisions of section 15 of this Act during the entire period of the service of such present employe until his attainment of an age of fifty-seven (57) years, the amount of Age and Service Annuity and the amount of Prior Service Annuity to which such present employe shall have a right at any time thereafter when he shall resign or be discharged from the service shall be fixed as of his age at such time.

(c) When any present employe who shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) or more years while in the service and who shall not have to his credit for Age and Service Annuity and Prior Service Annuity purposes the amount described in paragraph (b) of this section shall resign or be discharged from the service, the amount of Age and Service Annuity and the amount of Prior Service Annuity to which such present employe shall have a right from and after the date of such resignation or discharge shall be fixed as of his age at the time of such registration or discharge.

(d) The amount of annuity to which the wife of any present employe who shall have attained the age of fifty-seven (57) or more years on or before the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, shall have a right, from and after the date of the death of such present employe, shall be fixed on the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, as of the age of such wife at the time such present employe became fifty-seven (57) years of age; provided that if any such wife shall be older than five (5) years the junior of her husband, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

(e) The amount of annuity to which the wife of any present employe who shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years while in the service subsequent to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, shall have a right, from and after the date of the death of such present employe, shall be fixed when such present employe shall attain such age of fifty-seven (57) years. Any such annuity shall be computed as of the age of such wife on the date when such present employe shall become fifty-seven (57) years of age; provided, that if any such wife shall be older than five (5) years the junior of her husband, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

(f) When any present employee who shall have attained an age of fifty (50) or more but less than fifty-seven (57) years while in the service and who shall have served ten (10) or more years shall resign or be discharged from the service, the amount of Age and Service Annuity and the amount of Prior Service Annuity to which any such present employe shall have a right from and after the date of such resignation or discharge from the service, and the amount of Widow's Annuity and of Widow's Prior Service Annuity to which the wife of such present employe shall have a right from and after the date of his death shall be fixed as of their respective ages at the time of such resignation or discharge; provided, that if the wife of any such present employe shall be older than five (5) years the junior of her husband her age for annuity shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

(g) When any present employe who shall resign or be discharged from the service after such present employe shall have served for a period of ten (10) or more years, but before he shall have attained an age of fifty (50) years shall attain such age of fifty (50) years while out of the service, the amount of Age and Service Annuity and the amount of Prior Service Annuity to which he shall have a right from and after the time when he shall have attained such age of fifty (50) years and shall have applied for annuity, and the amount of Widow's Annuity and Widow's Prior Service Annuity to which his wife shall have a right from and after the date of his death, shall be fixed as of the respective ages of such present employe and his wife at the time such present employe shall become fifty (50) years of age; provided, that if any such wife shall be older than five (5) years the junior of her husband, her age for annuity uprposes shall be assumed to be forty-five (45) years.

(h) No amount of annuity in excess of that fixed in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be granted to any present employe described in paragraphs (f) and (g) of this section, or to the widow of any such present employe, unless such present employe shall re-enter the service before he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years, in which case the amount of annuity to which such present employe shall have a right shall be fixed when he shall have to his credit for Age and Service Annuity and Prior Service Annuity purposes the amount described in paragraph (b) of this section, or when he shall again resign or be discharged from the service, whichever event shall first occur, as of his age at the time the amount of such annuity shall be fixed, and the amount of annuity to which the wife of any such present employe shall have a right shall be fixed when he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years while in the service, or when he shall again resign or be discharged from the service, whichever event shall first occur, as of her age at the time such annuity shall be fixed, provided, that if any such wife shall be older than five (5) years the junior of her husband, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

Sec. 26. Any annuity fixed for or granted to any future entrant or present employe who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have attained an age of fifty (50) years, or the widow of any such future entrant or present employe, or the widow of any future entrant or present employe who shall die while in the service, shall be computed according to the American Experience Table of Mortality and interest at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum.

All sums to the credit of any future entrant or present employe for annuity purposes at the time he shall resign or be discharged from the service before he shall have attained an age of fifty (50) years shall be improved to the credit of such future entrant or present employe by interest at the rate of three and one-half (3½) per cent per annum thereafter, while such future entrant or present employe shall be out of the service and shall not have entered upon annuity, until he shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years. Any annuity fixed for or granted to any such future entrant or present employe who shall not have re-entered the service prior to the time such annuity shall be fixed or granted, or any annuity fixed for or granted to the widow of any such future entrant or present employe who shall die, shall be computed according to the American Experience Table of Mortality, and interest at the rate of three and one-half (3½) per cent per annum. The amount of Widow's Annuity or of Widow's Prior Service Annuity which shall be fixed for the wife of any policeman while such policeman shall be alive shall be that which can be provided by dividing the sum to the credit of such policeman for such annuity purposes on the date when the amount of such annuity shall be fixed, by the number representing the difference between the following amounts: the amount required to provide an annuity of one dollar ($1.00) a year for life for such wife beginning on the date when the annuity is fixed, and the amount required to provide an annuity of one dollar ($1.00) a year for such wife beginning on such date and payable throughout the life of her husband.

Sec. 27. (a) Any future entrant who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) or more years while in the service shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of such resignation or discharge, of such amount as can be provided from the entire sum accumulated to his credit for Age and Service Annuity purposes on the date when he shall have become fifty-seven (57) years of age.

(b) 1. Any future entrant who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have served ten (10) or more years and who at the time of such resignation or discharge shall be fifty (50) or more but less than fifty-seven (57) years of age shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of such resignation or discharge, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of such future entrant on the date of such resignation or discharge.

2. In the case of any such future entrant who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes from deductions from his salary and contributions by the park boards.

3. In the case of any such future entrant who shall have served ten (10) or more but less than twenty (20) years, the sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes from deductions from his salary, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1/10) of the sum accumulated for such annuity purposes from contributions by the park boards, for each year of service rendered by him after the first ten (10) years of his service.

4. Any such annuity shall be computed as of the age of the future entrant concerned on the date of his resignation or discharge from the service.

(c) 1. Any future entrant who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have served ten (10) or more years and who at the time of such resignation or discharge shall be less than fifty (50) years of age shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date when he shall attain an age of fifty (50) or more years while out of the service and shall apply for such annuity: Provided, that prior to his attainment of an age of fifty (50) years, such future entrant shall not have withdrawn nor applied for refund of the sum accumulated to his credit from deductions from his salary for Age and Service Annuity purposes and Widow's Annuity purposes. Any such annuity shall be of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of the future entrant concerned, on the date when he shall have become fifty (50) years of age.

2. In the case of any such future entrant who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes.

3. In the case of any such future entrant who shall have served ten (10) or more but less than twenty (20) years, the sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes from deductions from his salary, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1-10) of the sum accumulated for such annuity purposes from contributions by the park boards, for each year of service rendered by him after the first ten (10) years of his service.

4. Any such annuity shall be computed as though such future entrant were exactly fifty (50) years of age at the time such annuity shall be granted regardless of his real age at the time application for such annuity shall be made, and no such future entrant shall have any right to any annuity for or on account of any time which may intervene between the time when he shall attain an age of fifty (50) years and the time when he shall make application for annuity.

Sec. 28. (a) The widow of any future entrant who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) or more years and who shall enter upon annuity shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such future entrant, according to the provisions of Section 24 of this Act, concerning age, of such amount as can be provided from the entire sum accumulated to the credit of such future entrant for Widow's Annuity purposes at the time he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years.

(b) The widow of any future entrant who shall die while in the service after he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) or more years, shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such future entrant, according to the provisions of Section 24 of this Act concerning age, of such amount as can be provided from the entire sum accumulated to the credit of such future entrant for Widow's Annuity purposes on the date such future entrant attained an age of fify-seven (57) years.

(c) The widow of any future entrant who shall die while in the service before he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such future entrant, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the sums accumulated to the credit of such future entrant on the date of his death for Age and Service Annuity and Widow's Annuity purposes from deductions from his salary and from contributions by the park boards; provided, that no part of the sums accumulated from contributions by the park boards shall be used to provide annuity for such widow which shall exceed in amount that which such widow would have had a right to receive if her husband had lived and continued in the service upon salary at the rate of his final salary until he would have become fifty-seven (57) years of age, and an amount of Widow's Annuity were then fixed for such widow as of her age as it would be at such time, in accord with the provisions of Section 24 of this Act concerning the age of a wife. Any such annuity shall be computed as of the age of such widow on the date of the death of such future entrant; provided, that if she shall be older than five (5) years his junior, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

(d) 1. The widow of any future entrant who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have attained an age of fifty (50) or more but less than fifty-seven (57) years and after he shall have served ten (10) or more years and who shall enter upon annuity and who shall die while upon such annuity shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such future entrant, in accordance with the provisions of Section 24 of this Act concerning age, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of such future entrant on the date when the amounts of such annuity shall have been fixed as provided in said Section 24.

2. In the case of a widow of any such future entrant who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum accumulated for Widow's Annuity purposes.

3. In the case of a widow of any such future entrant who shall have served ten (10) or more but less than twenty (20) years, the sum accumulated for Widow's Annuity purposes from deductions from his salary and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1-10) of the sum accumulated for such annuity purposes from contributions by the park boards for each year of service rendered by such future entrant after the first ten (10) years of his service.

(e) 1. The widow of any future entrant who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have served ten (10) or more years and before he shall have attained an age of fifty (50) years and who shall not have withdrawn nor applied for refund of the sum accumulated to his credit from deductions from his salary for Age and Service Annuity and Widow's Annuity purposes and who shall die while out of the service after he shall have attained an age of fifty (50) or more years shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such future entrant, in accordance with the provisions of Section 24 of this Act concerning the age of a wife, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of such future entrant on the date when the amount of such annuity shall have been fixed as provided in said Section 24.

2. In the case of a widow of any such future entrant who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum accumulated for Widow's Annuity purposes.

3. In the case of a widow of any such future entrant who shall have served ten (10) or more but less than twenty (20) years, the sum accumulated for Widow's Annuity purposes from deductions from his salary, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1-10) of the sum accumulated for such annuity purposes from contributions by the park boards, for each year of service rendered by such future entrant after the first ten (10) years of his service.

(f) 1. The widow of any future entrant who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have served ten (10) or more years and before he shall have attained an age of fifty (50) years and who shall not have withdrawn nor applied for refund of the sum accumulated to his credit from deductions from his salary for Age and Service Annuity and Widow's Annuity purposes and who shall die, while not in the service, before he shall have attained the age of fifty (50) years shall have a right to receive annuity from and after the date of the death of such future entrant, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of such future entrant on the date of his death; provided, that no part of any such sum accumulated from contributions by the park boards shall be used to provide an annuity for any such widow which shall exceed in amount that which such widow would have had a right to receive if her husband had lived until he attained an age of fifty (50) years and had not re-entered the service, and an amount of Widow's Annuity were then fixed for such widow as of her age as it would be, in accordance with the provisions of section 24 of this Act concerning the age of a wife, when her husband would have attained such age of fifty (50) years.

2. In the case of a widow of any such future entrant who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum accumulated for both Age and Service Annuity and Widow's Annuity purposes.

3. In the case of a widow of any such future entrant who shall have served in ten (10) or more but less than twenty (20) years, the sum accumulated for both Age and Service Annuity and Widow's Annuity purposes from deductions from his salary, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1/10) of the sums accumulated for both such annuity purposes from contributions by the park boards, for each year of service rendered by such future entrant after the first ten (10) years of his service.

4. Any such annuity shall be computed as of the age of such widow at the time of the death of such future entrant; provided, that if she shall be older than five (5) years his junior, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

Sec. 29. (a) Any present employe, whose annuity shall have been fixed, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a) of Section 25 of this Act, on the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, who shall resign or be discharged from the service shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of such resignation or discharge, of such amount as can be provided from the sum to his credit for Prior Service Annuity purposes on the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect.

(b) Any present employe who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) or more years while in the service and after the amounts of Age and Service Annuity and of Prior Service Annuity for such present employe shall have been fixed in accordance with the provisions of Section 25 of this Act, shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of such resignation or discharge, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to his credit on the date when the amount of such annuity was fixed; the entire sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes, and the entire sum credited for Prior Service Annuity purposes.

(c) Any present employe who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) or more years while in the service and before the amounts of Age and Service Annuity and of Prior Service Annuity for such present employe shall have been fixed shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of such resignation or discharge, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to his credit on the date of such resignation or discharge; the entire sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes, and the entire sum credited for Prior Service Annuity purposes.

(d) 1. Any present employe who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have served ten (10) or more years and who at the time of such resignation or discharge shall be fifty (50) or more but less than fifty-seven (57) years of age shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of such resignation or discharge, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of such present employe on the date of such resignation or discharge.

2. In the case of any such present employe who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes and the entire sum credited for Prior Service Annuity purposes.

3. In the case of any such present employe who shall have served ten (10) or more but less than twenty (20) years, the sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes from deductions from his salary, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1/10) of the sum accumulated for such annuity purposes from contributions by the park boards, for each year of service rendered by him after the first ten (10) years of his service, and the sum credited for Prior Service Annuity purposes on account of amounts deducted from his salary or otherwise paid by him and applied to any Police Pension Fund in operation, by authority of law, in park districts, at the time this Act shall come in force and effect, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1/10) of the sum credits for Prior Service Annuity purposes, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (b) of Section 17 of this Act, for each year of service rendered by him after the first ten (10) years of his service.

(c) 1. Any present employe who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have served ten (10) or more years and who at the time of such resignation or discharge shall be less than fifty (50) years of age shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date when he shall attain an age of fifty (50) or more years while out of service and shall apply for such annuity: Provided, such present employe shall not have withdrawn nor applied for refund of that part of the sum to his credit from deductions from his salary for Age and Service Annuity and Widow's Annuity purposes to which he shall have a right of refund prior to his attainment of an age of fifty (50) years. Any such annuity shall be of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of such present employe on the date when he shall have become fifty (50) years of age.

2. In the case of any such present employe who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes, and the entire sum credited for Prior Service Annuity purposes.

3. In the case of any such present employe who shall have served ten (10) or more but less than twenty (20) years, the sum accumulated for Age and Service Annuity purposes from deductions from his salary, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1/10) of the sum accumulated for such annuity purposes from contributions by the park boards, for each year of service rendered by him after the first ten (10) years of his service, and the sum credited for Prior Service Annuity purposes on account of amounts deducted from his salary or otherwise paid by him and applied to any Police Pension Fund in operation, by authority of law, in such park districts, at the time this Act shall come in force and effect, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1/10) of the sum credited for Prior Service Annuity purposes in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (b) of Section 17 of this Act, for each year of service rendered by him after the first ten (10) years of his service.

4. Any such annuity shall be computed as though such present employe were exactly fifty (50) years of age at the time such annuity shall be granted, regardless of his real age at the time application for such annuity shall be made, and no such present employe shall have any right to any annuity for or on account of any time which may intervene between the time when he shall attain an age of fifty (50) years and the time when he shall make application for such annuity.

Sec. 30. (a) The widow of any present employe, the amount of whose annuity shall be fixed as provided in Section 25 of this Act, on the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such present employe, according to the provisions of said Section 25, concerning age, of such amount as can be provided from the sum to the credit of such present employe for Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes on the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect.

(b) The widow of any present employe who shall resign or be discharged from the service after he shall have become fifty-seven (57) or more years of age and who shall enter upon annuity shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such present employe, according to the provisions of Section 25 of this Act concerning age, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the sums to the benefit of such present employe for Widow's Annuity and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes at the time such present employe shall have become fifty-seven (57) years of age.

(c) The widow of any present employe who shall die while in the service after he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of death of such present employe according to the provisions of Section 25 of this Act concerning age, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the sums to the cerdit of such present employe for Widow's Annuity and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes at the time such present employe shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years.

(d) The widow of any present employe who shall die while in the service before he shall have become fifty-seven (57) years of age shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such present employe, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the several sums to the cerdit of such present employe on the date of his death for Age and Service Annuity, Widow's Annuity, Prior Service Annuity, and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes; but no part of such sums credited to such present employe which represent money contributed or to be contributed by such park boards shall be used to provide annuity for such widow in excess of that which she would have had a right to receive if such present employe had lived and remained in the service upon salary at the rate of his final salary until he became fifty-seven (57) years of age, and the amount of annuity for his wife were then fixed as provided in Section 25 of this Act. Any such annuity shall be computed as of the age of such widow on the date of the death of such present employe; provided, that if she shall be older than five (5) years his junior, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

(c) 1. The widow of any present employe who shall resign or be discharged from the service, after he shall have attained an age of fifty (50) or more, but less than fifty-seven (57) years and after he shall have served ten (10) years and who shall enter upon annuity and who shall die while upon such annuity shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such present employe, in accordance with the provisions of Section 25 of this Act concerning age, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of such present employe on the date when the amount of such annuity shall have been fixed as provided in said Section 25.

2. In the case of a widow of any such present employe who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum credited for Widow's Annuity and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes.

3. In the case of a widow of any such present employe who shall have served ten (10) or more but less than twenty (20) years, the entire sum credited for Widow's Annuity purposes on account of deductions from his salary, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1/10) of the entire sum credited for Widow's Annuity and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes on account of contributions made or to be made by the park boards, for each year of service rendered by such present employe after the first ten (10) years of his service.

(g) 1. The widow of any present employe who shall have served ten (10) or more years and who shall resign or be discharged from the service before he shall have become fifty (50) years of age and who shall not have withdrawn nor applied for refund of the sums to his credit from deductions from his salary for annuity purposes to which he shall have had a right of refund and who shall die while out of the service after he shall have become fifty (50) or more years of age, shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such present employe, in accordance with the provisions of Section 25 of this Act concerning the age of a wife, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of such present employe on the date when the amount of such annuity shall have been fixed as provided in Section 25.

2. In the case of a widow of any such present employe who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum credited for Widow's Annuity and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes.

3. In the case of a widow of any such present employe who shall have served ten (10) or more but less than twenty (20) years, the entire sum credited for Widow's Annuity purposes on account of deductions from the salary of such present employe and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1/10) of the entire sum credited for Widow's Annuity and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes which represents contributions made or to be made by the park boards.

(h) 1. The widow of any present employe who shall have served ten (10) or more years and who shall resign or be discharged from the service before he shall have become fifty (50) years of age and who shall not have withdrawn nor applied for refund of the sums to his credit for annuity purposes from deductions from his salary to which he shall have had a right of refund, and who shall die while out of the service before he shall become fifty (50) years of age shall have a right to receive annuity, from and after the date of the death of such present employe, of such amount as can be provided from the total amount of the following sums to the credit of such present employe on the date of his death, provided, that no part of any such sum which represents money contributed or to be contributed by the park boards shall be used to provide annuity for such widow in excess of that which she would have had a right to receive if such present employe had lived until he attained an age of fifty (50) years and had not re-entered the service and an amount of annuity were then fixed for such widow in accordance with the provisions of Section 25 of this Act concerning the age of a wife, as of her age as it would be when her husband would have attained an age of fifty (50) years.

2. In the case of a widow of any such present employe who shall have served twenty (20) or more years, the entire sum credited for Age and Service Annuity, Widow's Annuity, Prior Service Annuity, and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes.

3. In the case of a widow of any such present employe who shall have served ten (10) or more years but less than twenty (20) years the entire sum credited for Age and Service Annuity, Widow's Annuity, and Prior Service Annuity purposes on account of deductions from his salary, and the sum obtained by applying one-tenth (1/10) of the entire sum credited for Age and Service Annuity, Widow's Annuity, Prior Service Annuity, and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes on account of contributions made or to be made by the park boards, for each year of service rendered by such present employee after the first ten (10) years of his service.

4. Any such annuity shall be computed as of the age of such widow at the time of the death of such present employe, provided, that if she shall be older than five (5) years his junior, her age for annuity purposes shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his.

Sec. 31. In any case in which annuity provided in accordance with the provisions of the foregoing sections of this Act for the widow of any policeman whose death shall result from the performance of any act or acts of duty shall not be equal in amount to seventy-five (75) per cent of the salary of such policeman as such salary shall be at the time of the injury of such policeman, "Compensation Annuity" equal in amount to the difference between the amount of annuity provided for such widow in accordance with the provisions of foregoing sections of this Act and an amount equal to seventy-five (75) per cent of the salary, as aforesaid, of such policeman shall be provided for and paid to such widow until the time when such policeman if alive, would have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years. Thereafter, in the case of any such widow for whom the amount of annuity provided in accordance with the provisions of foregoing sections of this Act shall not be equal to the amount of annuity to which such widow would have had a right if such policeman had lived and continued in the service upon salary at the rate of his final salary until he would have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years, as of her age as it would be on the date when such policeman would have attained such age of fifty-seven (57) years, in accordance with the provisions of section 24 or section 25 of this Act, whichever such section shall apply to the case of the widow concerned. "Supplemental Annuity" equal in amount to the difference between the amount of annuity provided for such widow under the provisions of foregoing sections of this Act and the amount of annuity to which such widow would have had a right if such policeman had lived and continued in the service upon salary as stated in this section until he attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years shall be provided for and paid to such widow. To provide such Supplemental Annuity the park boards shall contribute to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for such equal sums annually, from and after the date of the death of such policeman, that when improved by interest at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum the accumulated amount resulting from such sums will be sufficient at the time payment of Compensation Annuity to such widow shall cease to provide Supplemental Annuity, as stated, for such widow throughout her life thereafter.

Sec. 32. (a) When any policeman who shall resign or be discharged from the service after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, shall re-enter the service before he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years, any annuity previously granted to such policeman and any annuity fixed for the wife of such policeman shall be cancelled. Such policeman shall be credited in his account for annuity purposes with sums sufficient to provide annuited equal in amounts to those cancelled for such policeman and the wife, for whom such annuity shall have been fixed, of such policeman as of their respective ages on the date of such policeman's reentrance into the service; provided, that the age of any such wife who shall be older than five (5) years the junior of her husband shall be assumed to be five (5) years less than his. Such sums shall be credited to such policeman to provide for annuities to be fixed and granted in the future. Deductions from the salary of any such policeman and contributions by the park boards for all purposes of this Act shall be made, as hereinbefore provided, from the time of such reentrance into the service, and when the proper time, as provided in the foregoing sections of this Act, shall have arrived, new annuities based upon the amount then to the credit of such policeman for annuity purposes and the entire term of such policeman's service shall be fixed for such policeman and for such wife of such policeman.

(b) When any such policeman shall reenter the service after he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) or more years, payments on account of any annuity previously granted to such policeman shall be suspended during the time thereafter that he shall be in the service, and when he shall again resign or be discharged therefrom, payments upon the annuity previously granted shall be resumed. If any such policeman shall die while in the service, his widow shall receive the amount of any annuity previously fixed for her.

(c) In the case of any policeman described in paragraph (a) of this section, whose wife, for whom annuity shall have been fixed prior to his reentrance into the service, shall have died before he shall have reentered the service, no part of any sum or sums to the credit of such policeman for Widow's Annuity or for Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes at the time annuity for such wife shall have been fixed shall be credited to such policeman at the time when he shall re-enter the service, and no part of any such sum or sums shall be used to provide annuity for any wife of such policeman who shall be such wife during all or any part of the period of time during which such policeman shall be in the service after he shall have reentered same.

Sec. 33. If any policeman who shall be a pensioner of any Police Pension Fund in operation, by authority of law, in such park district at the time this Act shall come in force and effect therein shall reenter the service on or after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect payment of the annuity or pension granted to such policeman from such Police Pension Fund shall be suspended while such policeman shall be in the service and shall be resumed when such policeman shall resign or be discharged from the service.

Sec. 34. A policeman who shall not be in the police service of such park boards on the thirty-first day in the month of December of the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, and who was in such police service prior to that date and who shall reenter the service after that date and before attainment of an age of fifty-seven (57) years shall not have any right to be credited with any sum or sums for Prior Service Annuity and Widow's Prior Service Annuity purposes on account of any service rendered prior to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, and such policeman shall not have any right to Prior Service Annuity, and the wife or widow of such policeman shall not have any right to Widow's Prior Service Annuity. However, the period of service rendered by any such policeman prior to the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, shall be included in computing the term of service of such policeman for Age and Service Annuity and Widow's annuity purposes.

Deductions from the salary of any policeman to whom this section shall apply and contributions by the park boards for the purpose of providing Age and Service Annuity for such policemen and Widow's Annuity for the wife of such policeman and accumulation of the sums deducted from the salary of such policeman and of the sums contributed by the park board for such annuity purposes shall be made as hereinbefore provided concerning future entrants and present employes until such policeman shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years.

Any policeman to whom this section shall apply shall have a right to receive Age and Service Annuity, from and after the date of his resignation or discharge from the service, as of his age on such date, of such amount as can be provided from the total sum to his credit for such annuity purposes on such date; provided, however, that in the case of any such policeman who shall be a pensioner of any Police Pension Fund in operation, by authority of law, in such park district at the time this Act shall have come in force and effect, no part of the sum to the credit of such policeman for Age and Service Annuity purposes which shall have resulted from contributions by the park boards shall be used to provide any amount of such annuity in excess of the difference between the amount of annuity to which such policeman would have had a right if deductions from his salary (which shall be assumed to have been the same throughout the entire period of service rendered by him prior to his re-entrance into the service as it shall be at the time he shall re-enter the service) and contributions by the park boards for such annuity purposes at the rate stated in Section 17 of this Act, concerning present employees had been made during the entire term of service rendered by such policeman prior to his attainment of an age of fifty-seven (57) years and the amount of the pension granted to such policeman from any such pension fund.

The amount of annuity to which the wife or widow of any policeman to whom this section shall apply shall have a right, from and after the date of the death of such policeman, shall be fixed and granted in accordance with the provisions of this Act relating to annuities for widows of future entrants.

Sec. 35. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this Act concerning the amount of annuity which any policeman or the widow of any policeman shall have a right to receive, no amount of annuity in excess of an amount equal to seventy-five (75) per cent of the highest salary considered for annuity purposes in accordance with the provisions of this Act which shall have been received by the policeman concerned shall be granted or paid to such policeman; and no amount of annuity in excess of an amount equal to seventy-five (75) per cent of the highest salary considered for annuity purposes in accordance with the provisions of this Act which shall have been received by the policeman concerned shall be granted or paid to the widow of any policeman whose death shall result from injury incurred in the performance of any act or acts of duty; and no amount of annuity in excess of an amount equal to sixty (60) per cent of the highest salary considered for annuity purposes in accordance with the provisions of this Act which shall have been received by the policeman concerned shall be granted or paid to the widow of any policeman whose death shall result from any cause other than injury incurred in the performance of an act or acts of duty.

If at the time the amount of annuity for any policeman shall be fixed, there shall be to the credit of such policeman, for the purpose of providing such annuity, an amount in excess of that necessary to provide an annuity equal to seventy-five (75) per cent of the highest salary (as hereinbefore stated in this section) of such policeman seven-seventeenth (7/17) of such excess amount shall be refunded and paid at that time to any such policeman who shall be a future entrant, and a part of such excess amount proportionately equal to that part of the entire amount to the credit of such present employee for such annuity purposes, which the sum that shall have resulted from deductions from his salary required by this Act bears to such entire amount shall be refunded and paid at that time to any such policeman who shall be a present employee.

If at the time the amount of annuity for the wife of any policeman shall be fixed there shall be to the credit of such policeman, for the purpose of providing annuity for such wife when she shall become a widow, an amount in excess of that necessary to provide an annuity equal to sixty (60) per cent of the highest salary (as hereinbefore stated in this section) of such policeman, one-third (⅓) of such excess amount shall be refunded and paid at that time to such policeman who shall be a future entrant; and a part of such excess amount proportionately equal to that part of the entire amount to the credit of such policeman for such annuity purposes which the sum that shall have resulted from deductions from his salary required by this Act bears to such entire amount shall be refunded and paid at that time to any such policeman who shall be a present employee.

If at the time of the death of any policeman whose death shall result from injury incurred in the performance of any act or acts of duty, there shall be to the credit of such policeman for the purpose of providing annuity for the widow of such policeman, an amount in excess of that necessary to provide an annuity equal to seventy-five (75) per cent of the highest salary (as hereinbefore stated in this section) of such policeman, one-third (⅓) of such excess amount shall be refunded and paid at that time to the widow of such policeman who shall have been a future entrant; and a part of such excess amount proportionately equal to that part of the entire amount to the credit of such policeman for such annuity purposes which the sum that shall have resulted from deductions from his salary required by this Act bears to such entire amount shall be refunded and paid at that time to the widow of such policeman who shall have been a present employee.

If at the time of the death of any policeman whose death resulted from any cause other than injury incurred in the performance of any act or acts of duty, there shall be to the credit of such policeman for the purpose of providing annuity for the widow of such policeman, an amount in excess of that necessary to provide an annuity equal to sixty (60) per cent of the highest salary (as hereinbefore stated in this section) of such policeman, one-third (⅓) of such excess amount shall be refunded and paid at that time to the widow of such policeman, who shall have been a future entrant; and a part of such excess amount proportionately equal to that part of the entire amount to the credit of such policeman for such annuity purposes which the sum that shall have resulted from deductions from his salary required by this Act bears to such entire amount shall be refunded and paid to the widow of such policeman who shall have been a present employee.

Sec. 36. The following described wives or widows of policemen shall not have any right to annuity from the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for:

(a) The wife or widow married subsequent to the date upon which this Act come in force and effect, of any policeman who shall die while in the service if such widow shall not have been married to such policeman before he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years.

(b) The wife or widow, married subsequent to the date upon which this Act shall come in force and effect, of any policeman who shall have resigned or been discharged from the service and who shall or shall not have entered upon annuity and who shall die while out of the service, if such widow shall not have been the wife of such policeman while he was in the service and before he attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years.

(c) The wife or widow of any policeman who shall have served ten (10) or more years and who shall die while out of the service, after he shall have resigned or been discharged from the service, who shall have withdrawn or applied for refund of the sums to his credit for annuity purposes to which he shall have or shall have had a right of refund as provided in Section 37 of this Act.

(d) The wife or widow of any policeman who shall die while out of the service after he shall have resigned or been discharged from the service before he shall have attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years and who shall not have served at least 10 years.

Sec. 37. (a). 1. Any future entrant or present employee, without regard to the period of time he shall have served, who shall resign or be discharged from the service after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, and before he shall become fifty (50) years of age, and any future entrant or present employee, who shall have served less than ten (10) years, who shall resign or be discharged from the service after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect, and before he shall have become fifty-seven (57) years of age, shall have a right to have refunded to him the entire amount which shall have accumulated to his credit for Age and Service Annuity and Widow's Annuity purposes on the date of such resignation or discharge from the service from amounts deducted from his salary in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

2. Any such future entrant or present employee shall retain such right to refund of such amounts when he shall apply for same, until the amount of annuity to which he shall have a right shall have been fixed as provided in Section 24 or in Section 25 of this Act, whichever such section shall apply to the case of the policeman concerned. Thereafter, no such right shall exist in the case of any such future entrant or present employee.

3. Any such future entrant or present employee who shall avail himself of such right and withdraw such amount so credited to him shall ipso facto surrender and forfeit all rights to any annuity or other benefit from the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for, for himself and for any other person or persons who might benefit through him because of service rendered by him prior to the time he shall make application for refund of the amounts hereinbefore stated. However, such future entrant or present employee shall retain the right to have any such period of service counted as service for the purpose of computing the term of his service in the event that such future entrant or present employee shall subsequently re-enter the service before he shall attain an age of fifty-seven (57) years and become a beneficiary of the Annuity and Benefit Fund provided for in this Act.

4. Any such future entrant or present employee who shall have served ten (10) or more years and who shall not withdraw the amounts aforesaid to which he shall have a right of refund shall have a right to annuity as hereinbefore stated in this Act.

5. Any such future entrant or present employee who shall have served less than ten (10) years and who shall not withdraw the amounts to which he shall have a right to refund, shall have a right to have all such amounts and all other amounts to his credit for annuity purposes on the date of his resignation or discharge from the service retained to his credit and improved by interest while he shall be out of the service at the rate of three and one-half (3½) per cent per annum and used for annuity purposes for his benefit and the benefit of any person who may have any right to annuity through him because of his service, according to the provisions of this Act in the event that he shall subsequently re-enter the service and complete the number of years of service necessary to attain a right to annuity; but such sums shall be improved by interest to his credit while he shall be out of the service only until he shall have become fifty-seven (57) years of age.

(b) When any male policeman shall become fifty-seven (57) years of age while in the service and shall not then be married, any sum accumulated from deductions from his salary for Widow's Annuity purposes shall then be refunded to him. Thereafter, in his case, no sums shall be deducted from his salary or contributed by the park boards for Widow's Annuity purposes.

(c) When any male policeman shall resign or be discharged from the service before he shall have become fifty-seven (57) years of age and shall enter upon annuity and shall not then be married, any sum accumulated from deductions from his salary for Widow's Annuity purposes shall then be refunded to him.

(d) Whenever any amounts shall be refunded, as hereinbefore stated in this section, the amounts to the credit of the policeman concerned in each such transaction for annuity purposes at the time any such refund shall be made, which shall have been accumulated from contributions by the park board, shall be transferred to the Prior Service Annuity Fund described in subdivision (f) of Section 50 of this Act for the purposes stated in paragraph (a) of Section 47 of this Act, until such time as the assets of such fund become equal to the liabilities thereof as stated in paragraph (b) of said Section 47. Thereafter, any such amounts shall become a credit to the park boards and, with interest thereon at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum, shall be used to reduce the amount which the park boards would otherwise pay during a succeeding year to the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for.

(e) In any case in which an amount equal to the total amount accumulated and credited to the account of a deceased policeman from sums deducted, after the first day in the month of January, of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect from the salary of such policeman for annuity purposes, shall not have been paid to such policeman, and in the case of a married male policeman to such policeman and the widow of such policeman both together, in form of annuity before the death of the last of such persons who shall die, an amount equal to the difference between such total amount resulting from sums deducted from his salary and the entire amount paid in form of annuity or annuities, without interest upon either such amount, shall be refunded and paid to the children of such policeman, in equal parts to each, unless such policeman shall direct in writing, sworn to before an officer authorized to administer oaths in this State, and filed with the Board before the death of such policeman, that any such amount shall be refunded and paid to any one or more of such children; and if there be no such children such amount shall be refunded and paid to the heirs of such policeman according to the law pertaining to estates of deceased persons; provided, if any child or children of such policeman shall be less than eighteen (18) years of age such part or all of any such amount as shall be equal to the sum necessary to pay annuities in accordance with the provisions of this Act to such child or children shall not be refunded as herein before stated to any child, or children, or heirs at law of such policeman but shall be transferred to the Child's Annuity Fund (hereinafter described) of the Annuity and Benefit Fund herein provided for and used therein for the purpose of paying annuities to children.

Sec. 38. No overtime or extra service shall be included in computing the term of service of any policeman and not more than one year or proper fractional part thereof of service shall be allowed for service rendered during any calendar year or part thereof.

Sec. 39. Annuity to be known as "Child's Annuity" shall be provided for children of policemen. Any such annuity shall be payable monthly from and after the date of the death of the policeman parent of any such child, until the annuitant shall attain an age of eighteen (18) years. The first payment of such annuity shall not become due and payable until one month from and after such date.

Sec. 40. Child's Annuity, as hereinafter provided, shall be granted and paid for the benefit of any child less than eighteen (18) years of age the issue of any following described policeman who shall die on or after the first day in the month of January of the first year after the year in which this Act shall come in force and effect; provided, such child shall have been born before such policeman attained an age of fifty-seven (57) years, and before he shall have resigned or been discharged from the service.

Any policeman whose death shall result from injury incurred in the performance of any act or acts of duty; any policeman who shall die while in the service from any cause; any policeman who shall resign or be discharged from the service subsequent to his attainment of an age of fifty (50) years and who shall have entered upon annuity or who shall be eligible for annuity; any present employee who shall have served twenty (20) or more years who shall die after he shall have resigned or been discharged from the service and shall have entered upon annuity; any present employee who shall have served twenty (20) or more years and who shall have resigned or been discharged from the service who shall die before he shall have entered upon annuity, provided, such present employee shall not have received nor applied for refund of the amount to which he shall have a right of refund in accordance with the provisions of Section 37 of this Act.
